NOTES TO DECISIONS

JUSTICES

The District Court and United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia are constitutional courts of the United States, ordained and established under article 3 of the Constitution; the judges of these courts hold their offices during good behavior, and their compensation can not, under the Constitution, be diminished during their continuance in office. O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740).

There shall be a clerk of said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, to be appointed by the court, who shall give bond, such as the court may determine to be satisfactory, for the faithful performance of his duties, and his duties shall be such as the court may from time to time prescribe. The said clerk of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall, with the approval of the court, appoint one assistant or deputy clerk, who may sign the name of the clerk to any official act required by law or by the practice of the court to be performed by the clerk, and may authenticate said signature by affixing the seal of the court thereto when the impress of the seal is necessary to its authentication. In such case the signature shall be—

_____, Clerk,
By _____, Assistant Clerk.

The court shall regulate from time to time the fees to be charged by the said clerk, which shall be accounted for at least once in each quarter and paid for each fiscal year into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia, and said clerk shall receive such allowance for necessary expenditures in the conduct of his office as the court may determine by special or general order in the premises, but not to exceed the sum of five hundred dollars in any one year, payable, as aforesaid, at the treasury of the United States. Said court may appoint a crier and a messenger, who shall perform such duties as may be assigned by that court. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 435, ch. 74, § 4; July 30, 1894, 28 Stat. 160, ch. 172, § 1; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 224; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 528, ch. 1329; Aug. 23, 1912, 37 Stat. 412, ch. 350; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1483, ch. 265; May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 645, ch. 659.)

AMENDMENTS

Section 224 of act of 1901 was amended by act of 1902 so as to add to the caption thereof the words "crier and messenger"; also by adding at the end of the section the following: "Said court may appoint a crier at a compensation not to exceed $75 a month and a messenger at a compensation not to exceed $60 a month, both payable at the Treasury of the United States, who shall perform such duties as may be assigned by that court."

The section as enacted contained a provision providing that the clerk should "receive as compensation for his services, in the discretion of the court, an annual salary not to exceed the sum of $3,000 payable monthly at the Treasury of the United States," preceding the provision concerning his bond.

It also contained a provision that the deputy clerk should "receive as compensation for his services, in the discretion of the court, an annual salary not to exceed the sum of $2,000 payable monthly at the Treasury of the United States."

The salaries of the clerk, deputy clerk, bailiffs, crier, and messenger are now fixed by the Classification Act of 1923 (U. S. C., title 5, § 673).

Act of Aug. 23, 1912, 37 Stat. 412, ch. 350, provided that "on and after July 1, 1912, the surplus fees collected by the clerk of the Supreme Court (District Court of the United States for) of the District of Columbia shall be deposited in the Treasury, one-half to the credit of the District of Columbia."

The act of Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7, provided in effect, that on and after July 1, 1921, all fees, fines, and other miscellaneous items were to be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District in proportion to fiscal-year appropriations.

Act of May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 654, ch. 659, provided: "In order to defray the expenses of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, any revenue (not including the proportionate share of the United States in any revenue arising as the result of the expenditure of appropriations made for the fiscal year 1924 and prior fiscal years) now required by law to be credited to the District of Columbia and the United States in the same proportion that each contributed to the activity or source from whence such revenue was derived shall be credited wholly to the District of Columbia, and, in addition, $9,000,000 is appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be advanced July 1, 1928, and all the remainder out of the combined revenues of the District of Columbia and such advances from the Federal Treasury as are authorized in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1923."

The above paragraph has appeared, at least in substance, at the beginning of each subsequent appropriation act including that of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, except that the last mentioned act leaves out the words "and such advances from the Federal Treasury as authorized in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1923."

CROSS REFERENCE

The Federal Government now makes a lump-sum appropriation for the District, § 47-134.

The said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall establish by rule of court such terms of the court in each year as to it may seem necessary: Provided, however, That there shall be at least three terms in each year; and it shall make such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper for the transaction of its business and the taking of appeals to said court. And said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have the power to prescribe what part or parts of the proceedings in the court below shall constitute the record on appeal, except as herein otherwise provided, and the forms of bills of exceptions, and to require that the original papers be sent to it instead of copies thereof, and generally to regulate all matters relating to appeals, whether in the court below or in said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. If any member of the court shall be absent on account of illness or other cause during the session thereof, or shall be disqualified from hearing and determining any particular cause by having been of counsel therein, or by having as justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia previously passed upon the merits thereof, or if for any reason whatever it shall be impracticable to obtain a full court of three justices, the member or members of the court who shall be present shall designate a justice or justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to temporarily fill the vacancy or vacancies so created, and the justice or justices so designated shall sit in said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and perform the duties of a member thereof while such vacancy or vacancies shall exist: Provided, That no justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall, while on the bench of said Court of Appeals, sit in review of any judgment, decree, or order which he shall have himself entered or made: Provided also, That if the parties to any cause shall so stipulate in writing, by their attorneys and solicitors, such cause may be heard and determined by two justices of the court without calling in any of the justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia: And provided also, That all motions to dismiss appeals and other motions may be heard by two justices in the event of the absence or disqualification of any one of the justices as aforesaid: And provided further, That if in any cause heard before two justices as aforesaid the court shall be divided in its opinion, then the judgment or decree of the lower court shall stand affirmed. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 435, ch. 74, § 6; July 30, 1894, 28 Stat. 161, ch. 172, § 2; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1225, ch. 854, § 225.)

The opinion of the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in every case shall be rendered in writing, and shall be filed in such case as a part of the record thereof, and the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is authorized to appoint a reporter, who shall serve during the pleasure of the court and whose duty shall be to report, edit, and publish, in form to be prescribed by the court, its opinions.

Said reporter shall furnish and deliver one copy of each volume of the reports of said opinions immediately after the issue thereof to each of the justices of the United States Court of Appeals, the District Court, and the judges of the police court of said District, and the copies so received by each of them shall, in case of his death, resignation, or removal from office, be delivered to his successor. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 10; July 30, 1894, 28 Stat. 162, ch. 172, § 3; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1226, ch. 854, § 229; July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265.)

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1902, provided as follows: "The permanent indefinite appropriation * * * to pay the reporter of the court of appeals for volumes of the reports of the opinions of said court, is hereby repealed. And the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall hereafter annually submit estimates for the amounts required to pay said reporter for volumes of the reports authorized to be furnished by him under said section two hundred and twenty-nine."

The 1901 act provided for a salary of $1,000 per annum. This is now governed by the Classification Act of 1923, March 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265.

The reports of the court shall not be sold for a price exceeding that approved by the court and for not more than $6.50 per volume. (Feb. 25, 1929, 45 Stat. 1287, ch. 314.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is repeated in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for 1933 (47 Stat. 368, ch. 308) and other appropriation acts down to and including the act of August 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1309, ch. 633, § 1. It seems to have been omitted from the act of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333.

The said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have power to issue all necessary and proper remedial prerogative writs in aid of its appellate jurisdiction. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 11; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 230.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes §§ 17-101 to 17-105.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

It is discretionary with the judge of the trial court to sign a proposed bill of exceptions and it will not be disturbed on appeal when there was no deliberate charge of fraudulent falsification. Clawans v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 58, 89 Fed. (2d) 802).

BOND

Although Appellate Court has power to issue all necessary and proper remedial prerogative writs in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, the court may not stay orders and decisions pending appeal without bond or other security. General Broadcasting System v. Bridgeport Broadcasting Station ((D. C.-Conn.), 53 Fed. (2d) 664).

Since the stay order was made without any security whatever, its issue was necessarily not in the exercise of any power inherent in the Court of Appeals in its judicial capacity. General Broadcasting System v. Bridgeport Broadcasting Station ((D. C.-Conn.), 53 Fed. (2d) 664).

MANDAMUS

Use of mandamus to compel approval of appeal bond. Mulvihill v. Clabaugh (21 App. D. C. 440).

Mandamus held proper remedy to require Board of Tax Appeals to take jurisdiction of appeal. United States ex rel. Dascomb v. Board of Tax Appeals (56 App. D. C. 392, 16 Fed. (2d) 337).

PROHIBITION

"The writ (of prohibition) can not issue unless it is clearly made to appear that the inferior court is about to exceed its jurisdiction." Nor can such writ serve the purpose of a writ of error or of certiorari. United States ex rel. Holmead v. Barnard (29 App. D. C. 431).

The marshal of the United States for the District of Columbia shall execute the orders and processes of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in the same manner as he executes those of the District Court of the United States for the District. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 231.)

Thirty per centum of the expenditures for the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia from all appropriations made for said court shall be reimbursed to the United States from any funds in the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 232; Apr. 27, 1938, 52 Stat. 265, ch. 180, § 1; June 29, 1939, 53 Stat. 903, ch. 248; May 14, 1940, 54 Stat. 181, ch. 189, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, title 20, § 670a of the 1929 code, which is set out as § 47-134 of this code, formed the basis for various sections of the code which provide for the 60 per cent payment by the District of certain expenses, was repealed by the act of May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8, adding title X to the act of Aug. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 673, ch. 690. This repealing act does not provide any substitute provision, and consequently the aforesaid sections are left without foundation in the statutes. The aforesaid 1922 act, page 671, contains a provision repealing all prior inconsistent acts, and, therefore, the prior acts which were the bases for these various sections no longer apply. If there is no division made in the specific appropriation it would seem that the District would pay all expenses, if any, over and above the lump-sum appropriation as apportioned to the various agencies.

Acts making appropriations for the Departments of State, Commerce, and Justice, and for the judiciary have, since act of Apr. 27, 1938, 52 Stat. 265, ch. 180, § 1, down to and including act of May 14, 1940, 54 Stat. 181, ch. 189, § 1, contained the provision set forth as the text for this section.

The deficiency appropriation act of June 25, 1938, 52 Stat. 1125, ch. 681, § 1 and other such acts including the Second Deficiency Appropriation Act of June 27, 1940, 54 Stat. 628, ch. 437, contained the following language: "The foregoing sums for the District of Columbia, unless otherwise therein specifically provided, shall be paid out of the revenues of the District of Columbia and the Treasury of the United States in the manner prescribed by the District of Columbia Appropriation Acts for the respective fiscal years for which such sums are provided."

The clerk of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall be the custodian of the Court of Appeals building, under the direction and supervision of the justices of said court. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 964, ch. 150; May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 671, ch. 659.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

For collation of acts of Congress relative to establishment of the courts of the District of Columbia, see Gassenheimer v. District of Columbia (6 App. D. C. 108).

CONSOLIDATION OF COURTS

What Congress intended was a merger of the Circuit Courts into the District Courts, and in transferring to the District Courts the business of the Circuit Courts, there was given to the District Courts all the machinery for disposing of its business which the Circuit Courts possessed, and a specific case must be treated precisely as it would have been treated had the trial taken place in the old Circuit Court under the practice which Congress had once approved for that court and which it has never disapproved. Nashville Interurban R. Co. v. Barnum ((C. C. A. 2), 212 Fed. 634).

LIABILITY OF JUDGES TO CIVIL ACTIONS

Judges of courts of superior or general jurisdiction are not liable to civil actions for their judicial acts, even when such acts are in excess of their jurisdiction, and are alleged to have been done maliciously or corruptly. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

The Chief Justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall be paid a salary of $10,500 per year, and each associate justice thereof the sum of $10,000 per year, payable in monthly instalments. (Dec. 13, 1926, 44 Stat. 919, ch. 6.)

Each justice, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take the oath prescribed to be taken by judges of the courts of the United States. (R. S., D. C., § 752.)

All official oaths required by law to be taken by officers of the United States, may, in the District, be administered and certified by any one of the justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (R. S., D. C., § 771.)

The said court shall possess the same powers and exercise the same jurisdiction as the District Courts of the United States, and shall be deemed a court of the United States. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 61; Mar. 3, 1911, 36 Stat. 1167, ch. 231, § 289.)

Said court in general term may appoint an auditor and also a crier and a messenger for each court in special term and all other officers of the court necessary for the due administration of justice, with the exception of all officers and employees in any manner connected with the probate term, and also United States commissioners; may hear charges of misconduct against any judge of the municipal court and remove him from office for cause shown; may admit persons to the bar of said court and censure, suspend, or expel them; and may pass all other orders not inconsistent with existing laws which may be necessary to the effective administration of justice in said court, but shall not hear any cause in general term: Provided, That the general term may assign more than one justice to a special term for the trial of a given case. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 65; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat.

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of February 24, 1933, 47 Stat. 904, ch. 119 (U. S. C., title 28, § 723a), provided:

"The Supreme Court of the United States shall have the power to prescribe, from time to time, rules of practice and procedure with respect to any or all proceedings after verdict in criminal cases in district courts of the United States, including the District Courts of Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone, and Virgin Islands, in the Supreme Courts of the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, in the United States Court for China, in the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals, and in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

"SEC. 2. The right of appeal shall continue in those cases in which appeals are now authorized by law, but the rules made as herein authorized may prescribe the times for and manner of taking appeals and of preparing records and bills of exceptions and the conditions on which super-sedeas or bail may be allowed.

"SEC. 3. The Supreme Court may fix the dates when such rules shall take effect and the extent to which they shall apply to proceedings then pending, and after they become effective all laws in conflict therewith shall be of no further force."

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1901 provided as follows: "The general term of said court shall be open at all times for the transaction of business; and said court, by orders passed in general term, may regulate the periods of holding the special terms, fix the number of said terms, and alter the same from time to time, as public convenience may require; may direct as many terms of any of the special terms to be held at the same time as the public business may make necessary; may assign the several justices, from time to time, to the respective special terms; may provide by rule of court for the transfer from time to time, as the occasion shall require, of a jury summoned to any one special term to any other special term having cognizance of jury trials, and for the filling of vacancies arising in such transferred jury; may establish rules of practice in special terms not inconsistent with the laws of the United States; may appoint a clerk, an auditor, a crier, and a messenger for each court in special term, and all other officers of court necessary for the due administration of justice, with the exception of all officers and employees in any manner connected with the probate term, and also United States commissioners; may hear charges of misconduct against any justice of the peace, and remove them from office for cause shown; may admit persons to the bar of said court and dismiss them from the same, and may pass all other orders not inconsistent with existing laws which may be necessary to the effective administration of justice in said court, but said court shall not hear any cause in general term."

Act of 1902 amended act of 1901 by inserting after the word "auditor" the words "and also," and by striking out the comma after the word "crier."

Act of 1920 amends prior section to read as above except that the provision as to appointment to fill a vacancy in the office of clerk was inserted by act of 1926.

COMPUTATION OF TIME

Rule 10, requiring that appeals be filed within 20 days after judgment, and Rule 36, providing that in computing time Sundays and legal holidays shall be excluded, are not superseded by Rule 6 (a), relating to "any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules, by order of court, or by any applicable statute," providing that Sundays and holidays are excluded only when the period of time prescribed is less than 7 days. *Atlantic Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. EQUITY RULES

Equity Rule 15 of the Supreme Court of the District provided, among other things, that "anyone claiming an interest in the litigation may at any time be permitted to assert his right by intervention." This rule, though somewhat broader than Equity Rule 37, was not in conflict therewith, and responded to the power of the Court to establish rules regulating pleading, practice, and procedure. *California Co-op. All causes in said court shall be heard and determined in special term. And the several terms are declared to be terms of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and the judgments, decrees, sentences, orders, proceedings,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL TO GENERAL TERM

Parties aggrieved by any order, judgment or decree made or pronounced at a special term could, if the same involve the merits of the action or proceeding, appeal therefrom to the general term. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Trustees of the Sixth Presbyterian Church (1 Otto (91 U. S.) 127, 23 L. Ed. 260.)

By mutual consent and arrangement between justices, causes may be certified by any justice holding a special term to any justice holding any other special term of said court for trial in the latter: Provided, That a criminal case can only be certified for trial from one criminal court to another criminal court. In the absence of any justice assigned to a special term, such special term may be presided over and its business conducted by any other justice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 67; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 556, ch. 153.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HABEAS CORPUS AD PROSEQUENDUM

Justices of United States District Court for the District of Columbia have the power to issue writs of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Downey v. United States (67 App. D. C. 192, 91 Fed. (2d) 223).

MANDAMUS

Under the code of the District of Columbia, as on general principle, mandamus is an extraordinary remedial process, which is awarded, not as a matter of right, but in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion. U. S. ex

rel. Stowell v. Deming (57 App. D. C. 223, 19 Fed. (2d) 697).

NE EXEAT

It was within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), in equity, to issue a writ of ne exeat to defendant in suit for limited divorce, and upon his departure from the District without payment of alimony as required, the court had jurisdiction to declare the bond forfeited and to direct the money to be paid into the registry of the court. Murphy v. Paris (57 App. D. C. 19, 16 Fed. (2d) 515).

POWER TO EMPLOY

Nature and function of writ discussed. Power to employ it inheres in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) as possessing a general common-law jurisdiction and supervisory control over inferior tribunals. Hartranft v. Mullenowney (247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, 38 Sup. Ct. 518).

TESTED BY CHIEF JUSTICE

Since the transfer of the Circuit Courts to the District courts, writs from them may be properly tested by the Chief Justice. Union Tool Co. v. Wilson (259 U. S. 107, 66 L. Ed. 848, 42 Sup. Ct. 427).

All common-law civil causes shall be tried and determined in the Circuit Court, except as herein provided. (Feb. 27, 1801, 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15; Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 69.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Circuit Courts of the United States were abolished as of January 1, 1912, and their powers and duties transferred to the District Courts (U. S. C., title 28, §§ 430, 430a).

However, the circuit court mentioned here is not the court that was abolished by the above-mentioned sections but as appears from § 11-313 is a special term of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, at which are tried common-law civil causes.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUIT COURT—HISTORICAL

The Organic Act of 1801 provided for the government of the District of Columbia, and erected a Circuit Court for the District, to which it transferred all the causes then pending in the court of hustings; and enacted, that the Circuit Court should hold four sessions a year, in Alexandria, viz, on the second Mondays of January, April and July, and the first Monday of October. Resler v. Shehee (1 Cranch. (5 U. S.) 110, 2 L. Ed. 51).

The Circuit Court had cognizance of all crimes and offences committed within said District, and of all cases in law and equity. Garnett v. United States (11 Wall. (78 U. S.) 256, 20 L. Ed. 79); Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

By reason of the adoption of the laws of Maryland for the government of this part of the District, the circuit court, under this act which defined its jurisdiction, could, as incident to its common-law powers, issue the writ to an executive officer of the United States, if at that time having general jurisdiction at common law, and being the highest court of original jurisdiction in the District. United States v. Schurz (12 Otto (102 U. S.) 378, 26 L. Ed. 167).

Under the Organic Act of 1801 equity jurisdiction was vested in the Circuit Court of the United States. Thaw v. Ritchie (136 U. S. 519, 34 L. Ed. 531, 10 Sup. Ct. 1037); In re Heath (144 U. S. 92, 36 L. Ed. 358, 12 Sup. Ct. 615).

Appellate jurisdiction, granted by § 8 of the Organic Act of 1801, was confined to civil cases. Sinclair v. District of Columbia (192 U. S. 16, 48 L. Ed. 322, 24 Sup. Ct. 212).

JURISDICTION

The Circuit Court had no other powers than those which had been given generally, to the Circuit Courts of the United States. Young v. Bank of Alexandria (5 Cranch (9 U. S.) 45, 3 L. Ed. 32); O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740); Munoz v. Porto Rico R. Light & Power Co. ((C. C. A. 1), 83 Fed. (2d) 262).

MANDAMUS

Circuit Court in the district was the highest court of original jurisdiction; and if the power to issue a mandamus directing Postmaster General to do a ministerial act, existed in any court, it was vested in that court. Kendall v. United States (37 U. S. 524, 9 L. Ed. 1180).

Power of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia to exercise jurisdiction to issue a writ of mandamus to a public officer to do an act required of him by law, resulted from the third section of the Act of 1801 (2 Stat. 103, ch. 15) which declared that the court and judges should have the power by law vested in Circuit Courts of United States. Kendall v. United States (37 U. S. 524, 9 L. Ed. 1181).

There is no authority for a review of an appealable judgment by a writ of mandamus. Ex parte Bradley (74 U. S. 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

MARYLAND LAWS APPLICABLE

Except as modified by statute, the practice of the courts of the District of Columbia is modeled upon that which obtained in the courts of Maryland at the time of the cession. (Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

This section and R. S., § 92 carry the Maryland laws to the District of Columbia and make them as applicable to the District as if such laws had been expressly enacted by congress. In re Wolf ((D. C.-Ark.), 27 Fed. 606).

When by this act Congress accepted the cession from Maryland and assumed jurisdiction over the ceded territory, it was specifically provided that the laws of Maryland as they then existed should continue in force. Harison v. Moyer ((D. C.-Ga.), 224 Fed. 224); Tyner v. United States (23 App. D. C. 324). See United States v. Watkins (Fed. Cas. 16649, 3 Cranch C. C. 441).

REVIEW

Any final judgment, order or decree wherein the matter exclusive of costs exceeded $100 was under § 8, subject to review in the United States Supreme Court, by writ of error or appeal. Nicholls v. Hodges (1 Pet. (26 U. S.) 562, 7 L. Ed. 263).

Section 8 of the Organic Act of 1801 authorized a writ of error to the Circuit Court in those cases only in which there had been a final judgment. Van Ness v. Van Ness (6 How. (47 U. S.) 62, 12 L. Ed. 344).

Issues of fact in civil causes may be tried and determined by the court without the intervention of a jury whenever the parties or their attorneys of record file with the clerk a stipulation in writing waiving a jury. The finding of the court upon the facts, which may be either general or special, shall have the same effect as the verdict of a jury. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 70.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1863 originally provided that "all issues of fact triable by a jury shall be tried before a single justice; when the trial is by jury, at a circuit court; and when the trial is without a jury, at a circuit court or special term."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that failure to file a written demand for a jury constitutes a waiver of trial by jury, see Rule 38 (d).

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure require the court to "find the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law thereon," see Rule 52 (a).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Sections which provide that the trial of issues of fact in the Circuit Courts shall be by jury unless the parties or their attorneys file with the clerk a stipulation in writing waiving a jury, in which case they may be tried and determined by the court, are not repealed by the Judicial Code and they are clearly applicable to the District courts. Lillie v. Dennert ((C. C. A. 6), 232 Fed. 104).

Unless the act charged be a crime, there is no possible ground for a contention that a jury trial is provided for by the Clayton Act. United States v. Taliaferro (290 Fed. 214).

APPEAL

Judgment in case tried by court without jury even though erroneous, should be upheld when there is neither bill of exceptions, nor motion for judgment. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181); International Finance Corp. v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (63 App. D. C. 325, 72 Fed. (2d) 376).

FINDINGS OF THE COURT

Court finding in favor of plaintiff, which finding was entered by the clerk, had the same effect as a verdict of the jury. Goode v. United States (44 App. D. C. 162); Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Assn. v. Case (68 App. D. C. 43, 93 Fed. (2d) 56).

FUNCTION OF JUDGE

In the trial of a cause by a court on a waiver of jury, the trial judge assumes, in addition to his judicial duties, the function of a jury, and passes on both the law and the facts. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181); Central of Georgia R. Co. v. W. Va. Pulp & Paper Co. (67 App. D. C. 309, 92 Fed. (2d) 292).

STIPULATION

The filing of a motion to quash service of process, and of affidavits in opposition to the motion, does not confer jurisdiction on the courts to determine the facts in issue without the filing of a written stipulation as required by this section. Fischer v. Munsey Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 212).

In such case an exception may be taken to any ruling of the court during the hearing and to such finding on the ground that the evidence was insufficient in law to justify it, and may be stated in a bill of exceptions as in case of a jury trial. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 71.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 11-317. Goode v. United States (44 App. D. C. 162).

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Exceptions, formal unnecessary in District Court of the United States for District of Columbia, see Rule 46.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section is intended to provide the requisites and manner of review in the appellate court. It insures re-examination of trial judge in every case in which an exception is taken and afterwards embraced in a bill of exceptions, and it further provides the mode of challenging the sufficiency of the evidence and obtaining a review if the decision is adverse. This benefit may be secured by motion for judgment and an exception to its refusal. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181).

EXCEPTIONS NOT TAKEN

An appeal without bill of exceptions can not be entertained even though there was presented an agreement as to the facts by the parties by their respective attorneys. Frizell v. Murphy (19 App. D. C. 440).

Judgment entered by court without jury should be affirmed when no exception was taken by appellant either during the progress of the trial or at its conclusion, nor was any motion made for judgment. International Finance Corp. v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (63 App. D. C. 325, 72 Fed. (2d) 376).

EXCEPTIONS TO RULINGS NOT MADE IN THE TRIAL

"We find nothing in the code, or in the rules of practice established under it to require an exception in order that an error apparent upon the record may be reviewed. Sections 71, 73 (§§ 11-318, 11-320) pertain to the taking of exceptions to rulings made during trial in the Supreme Court. There seems to be no section that in terms recognizes a right to take exceptions on rulings other than such as are made in the trial, unless this right follows from the adoption of the statute of Westminster as being among the 'British statutes in force in Maryland.'" Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

SUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE

Authority of Court of Appeals is limited on appeal to the inquiry as to whether or not there was some substantial evidence to support the finding of the trial court on the subject, and must be determined by not considering and weighing conflicting testimony. Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Assn. v. Case (68 App. D. C. 43, 93 Fed. (2d) 56).

In all cases called for trial in said court in which either party shall desire a struck jury the clerk shall prepare a list of twenty jurors from the jurors in attendance and furnish the same to each of the parties, and it shall be lawful for each party or his counsel to strike off four persons from said list, and the remaining persons shall thereupon be impaneled and sworn as the petit jury in said cause; and if either party or his counsel shall neglect or refuse to strike off from said list the number of persons hereby directed, the clerk may strike off such names, and the remaining twelve jurors shall be sworn and impaneled as aforesaid. Or, instead of the proceeding aforesaid, if it shall not be insisted upon by either party, it shall be lawful for either party to furnish to the clerk a list of the jurors, not exceeding four in number, whom he wishes to be omitted from the panel sworn in the cause, and the clerk in making up said panel shall omit the jurors objected to as aforesaid: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to take away the right of any person to challenge the array or polls of any panel returned: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to have all or any of the jurors examined on their voir dire before the list is prepared to determine their competency to sit in the particular case. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 72; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out at the end thereof the words "according to existing law" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to have all or any of the jurors examined on their voir dire before the list is prepared to determine their competency to sit in the particular case."

If, upon a trial of a cause before a jury, an exception be taken, it may be reduced to writing at the time, or it may be entered on the minutes of the justice and afterwards settled in such manner as may be provided by the rules of the court and stated in a bill of exceptions, with so much of the substance of the evidence as may be material to the questions to be raised, and such bill of exceptions need not be sealed, and shall be considered a part of the record in case of an appeal from the final judgment rendered in the case. This section shall apply to the municipal court as well as to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 73; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 4.)

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the word "a" before the word "manner."

The 1921 act added the provision of the last sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EXCEPTIONS, CORRECTIONS

"There is no power in this court, by certiorari or otherwise, to correct the imperfections or misstatements that are alleged to exist in the bill of exceptions taken and certified to this court." Kelly v. Moore (22 App. D. C. 1).

EXCEPTIONS NOT FILED

A motion to dismiss an appeal for failure to file a bill of exceptions will be denied where "the right of appeal is not dependent upon the appearance of a regular bill of exceptions in the transcript of the record." Raymond v. United States (26 App. D. C. 250).

In the absence of a bill of exceptions it will be presumed on appeal "that the proceedings had in the court below were in all respects regular." Raymond v. United States (26 App. D. C. 250).

EXCEPTIONS, WHEN ENTERTAINED

"Every reasonable presumption will be indulged in favor of the regularity of a bill of exceptions that the record will permit. But it seems to be the settled practice * * * not to entertain a bill of exceptions which clearly appears from the record to have been settled, etc., after the expiration of the term of the court or of any period beyond which it could not be legally postponed." Talty v. District of Columbia (20 App. D. C. 489).

EXCEPTIONS, WHEN NOT REQUIRED

"The purpose of a bill of exceptions * * * is to make that a matter of record which otherwise would not appear on the record. But when the questions raised already sufficiently appear from the pleadings and proceedings of record, no such bill of exceptions is necessary." Evans v. Humphreys (9 App. D. C. 392).

As to the consideration of stipulations of counsel in lieu of bill of exception, see Frizell v. Murphy (19 App. D. C. 440).

NECESSARY INCLUSIONS

"A general exception to a charge, which does not direct the attention of the court to the particular portions of it to which objection is made raises no question for review by an appellate court." Thomas v. Presbrey (5 App. D. C. 217).

On a plea of nul tiel record to a scire facias on judgment the record inspected is no part of the proceedings, and a bill of exceptions setting forth the record offered and the ruling thereon to which exception is taken is necessary on appeal. Lyon v. Ford (7 App. D. C. 314), citing Otterback v. Patch (5 App. D. C. 69).

"In order to warrant an Appellate Court in determining whether there was error in giving or refusing an instruction to return a verdict, the bill of exceptions must show that all of the evidence has been set forth." Rockwell v. Capital Trac. Co. (25 App. D. C. 98).

An objection not appearing in the bill of exceptions comes too late. Fields v. United States (27 App. D. C. 433, 446), dism. 205 U. S. 292, 51 L. Ed. 807, 27 Sup. Ct. 543).

PERMITTED EXCLUSIONS

A stipulation setting forth an agreed statement of facts on which the case is tried need not be included in a formal bill of exceptions. American Security & Trust Co. v. Walker (23 App. D. C. 583).

When one that is impleaded before any of the justices doth alledge an exception, praying that the justices will allow it, which if they will not allow, if he that alledged the exception, do write the same exception, and require that the justices will put to their seals for a witness, the justices shall so do; and if one will not, another of the company shall. (2) And if the King, upon complaint made of the justices, cause the record to come before him, and the same exception be not found in the roll, and the plaintiff shew the exception written, with the seal of a justice put to, the justice shall be commanded that he appear at a certain day, either to confess or deny his seal. (3) And if the justice can not deny his seal, they shall proceed to judgment according to the same exception, as it ought to be allowed or disallowed. (13 Edw. 1, ch. 31 (1285); Alex. Br. Stat. 126; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 442, § 5.)

(Except as otherwise provided in section 11-909), the trial of crimes and misdemeanors committed in the District of Columbia shall be in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia holding a special term as a criminal court, except such misdemeanors as are within the jurisdiction of the police court, as to which said court shall have concurrent jurisdiction with said police court. In all trials in said special term exceptions may be taken by the accused to the rulings of the presiding justice and presented in bills of exceptions in the same manner as in the trial of civil cases. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 83; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The Criminal Court is a special term of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia (see § 11-311) that hears criminal cases.

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment struck out at the end of this section the words "subject to provisions herein elsewhere contained." The 1906 act created the juvenile court, thus creating the exception noted at the first of this section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEALS

The Criminal Appeals Act does not impliedly repeal the appellate system created by the District of Columbia Code. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. Ct. 574).

The Criminal Appeals Act is inapplicable to criminal cases tried in the District Court of the District. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. Ct. 574).

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

A bill of exceptions which, under a local rule of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, was required to be filed within a specified time, can not after such time has expired be settled and signed nunc pro tunc by the District Court and made a part of the record, and the Court of Appeals may, on motion of appellee, or on its own motion, strike the same. Joerns v. Irvin (72 App. D. C. 170, 114 Fed. (2d) 458).

CONSPIRACY

Charge of conspiracy against United States is triable before Supreme Court (now District Court) of District sitting as a criminal court. Pitts v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 195, 50 Fed. (2d) 485).

HISTORICAL

Historical development of criminal court traced. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

Under the act of 1863, reorganizing the courts of the District, the Supreme Court (now District Court) not only possessed no jurisdiction in criminal cases, except in an appellate form, but established a separate and independent court, invested with all the criminal jurisdiction, to hear and punish crimes and offenses within the district. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

Under the act of March 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91, by which the courts of the District were reorganized, the criminal court still remained a separate and independent court, although held by a justice of the Supreme Court (now District Court) of the District created by the act, and the only jurisdiction of the Supreme Court (now District Court) in criminal cases was appellate. Cross v. United States (145 U. S. 571, 36 L. Ed. 821, 12 Sup. Ct. 842).

The clerk, marshal, and district attorney shall attend the criminal court and perform all the duties required of them by law in relation to the criminal business of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1220, ch. 854, § 185; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the following last sentence: "The clerk of the court in which any proceeding for divorce shall be instituted shall immediately notify the United States attorney of the institution of such proceeding, and it shall be the duty of said attorney to enter his appearance therein in order to prevent collusion and to protect public morals."

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall have and exercise the same powers and jurisdiction as the other District Courts of the United States, and such further special jurisdiction as may from time to time be conferred by Congress, and of all proceedings instituted in exercise of the right of eminent domain. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 84.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The District Court mentioned here is a special term of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia (see § 11-311) at which are heard cases other than common-law civil cases, equity cases, probate matters and criminal actions. See §§ 11-316, 11-322, 11-325, and 11-501.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The District Court and Court of Appeals of the District are constitutional courts of the United States, ordained and established under article 3 of the Constitution; the judges of these courts hold their offices during good behavior, and their compensation can not, under the Constitution, be diminished during their continuance in office. O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740).

POWER OF JUSTICES

By §§ 62, 84 of the 1901 Code (§§ 11-309, 11-324), justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia were vested with the power and jurisdiction of judges of the District Courts of the United States. Federal Trade Comm. v. Klesner (274 U. S. 145, 71 L. Ed. 972, 47 Sup. Ct. 557, rev'g 56 App. D. C. 3, 6 Fed. (2d) 701).

The equity court shall have jurisdiction of all causes heretofore cognizable in equity and of all petitions for divorce, except where the relief sought is hereby authorized to be given by the probate court only, and shall have the special powers herein provided. And the practice in said court shall be according to the established course of equity and procedure and the rules established by the said District Court of the United States for the District, not inconsistent with law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 85.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DIVORCE

Divorce proceeding is equitable in character. Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005).

EQUITY RULES

Equity Rule providing for the transfer of an action in law erroneously begun as a suit in equity cannot be invoked for the first time on appeal to the United States Supreme Court. Curriden v. Middleton (232 U. S. 633, 58 L. Ed. 765, 34 Sup. Ct. 458).

Provisions of the Judicial Code are superior to any rule of procedure inconsistent therewith formulated under authority of this section. Tuckerman v. Mearns (49 App. D. C. 153, 262 Fed. 607).

JURY TRIAL

When an issue was sent by a court of equity to be tried by a jury in a court of law, and exceptions were taken during the progress of the trial at law, these exceptions had to be brought before the court of equity and there decided, in order to give United States Supreme Court cognizance of them when the case was brought up for appeal. McLaughlin v. Bank of Potomac (7 How. (48 U. S.) 220, 12 L. Ed. 675).

LOST WILLS

The equity branch of the District Court is without jurisdiction to set up a lost will. Gracie v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

The said court may, for the purpose of executing a decree, or to compel obedience to the same, issue an attachment against the person of the defendant, and may order an immediate sequestration of his real and personal estate, or such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the decree, or may issue a fieri facias and attachment by way of execution against his lands, tenements, chattels, and credits, or other incorporeal property, to satisfy the decree; or the court may, by order and injunction, cause the possession of the estate and effects whereof the possession or a sale is decreed to be delivered to the complainant, or otherwise, according to the tenor and import of the decree and as the nature of the case may require; and in case of sequestration may order payment and satisfaction to be made out of the estate and effects so sequestered, according to the true intent and meaning of the decree; and in case any defendant shall be arrested and brought into court upon any process of contempt issued to compel the performance of any decree, the court may, upon motion, order such defendant to stand committed, or may order his estate and effects to be sequestered and payment made, as above directed, or possession of his estate and effects to be delivered by order and injunction as above directed, until such decree or order shall be fully performed and executed, according to the tenor and true meaning thereof, and the contempt cleared; but where the decree only directs the payment of money no defendant shall be imprisoned except in those cases especially provided for. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 113.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT

Order directing government employee, whose salary was not subject to attachment or garnishment, to pay over a certain amount of his salary each month to a receiver in satisfaction of a judgment was a violation of the provisions of this section forbidding imprisonment for debt, for necessarily it threatened defendant with punishment as for contempt of court if he failed to pay. McGrew v. McGrew (59 App. D. C. 230, 38 Fed. (2d) 541, cert. den. 281 U. S. 739, 74 L. Ed. 1153, 50 Sup. Ct. 349).

The provision that no defendant shall be imprisoned, where decree is for fine, is a limitation on the fundamental power of the court. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

All interlocutory orders may be enforced by such process as might be had upon a final judgment or decree to the like effect, and the payment of costs adjudged to any party may be enforced in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 114.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section provided that interlocutory orders might be enforced by the same process that might be had upon a final judgment or decree to the like effect, and payment of costs adjudged to any party might be enforced in like manner. Karrick v. Edes (57 App. D. C. 219, 19 Fed. (2d) 693).

An order or decree for the delivery of chattels may be enforced by the same writs as are used in the action of replevin at common law, as well as those heretofore used for its enforcement in equity practice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 115.)

The District Court building in the city of Washington shall be under the supervision and control of the Attorney General. (Mar. 3, 1875, 18 Stat. 374, ch. 130.)

On and after July 1, 1939, there shall be credited to the District of Columbia that proportion of the fees and fines collected by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, including fees and fines collected by the offices of the clerk of that court and of the United States marshal for the District of Columbia, as the amount paid by the District of Columbia toward salaries and expenses of such court and of the offices of the United States district attorney for the District of Columbia and of the United States marshal for the District of Columbia bears to the total amount of such salaries and expenses; and such proportion of the fees and fines, if any, collected by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, including fees and fines, if any, collected by the office of the clerk of that court, as the amount paid by the District of Columbia toward the salaries and expenses of such court bears to the total amount of such salaries and expenses. (July 26, 1939, 53 Stat. 1107, ch. 367, title III.)

Sixty per centum of the expenditures for the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia from all appropriations made for said court shall be reimbursed to the United States from any funds in the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 232; Apr. 27, 1938, 52 Stat. 265, ch. 180, § 1; June 29, 1939, 53 Stat. 903, ch. 248; May 14, 1940, 54 Stat. 181, ch. 189, § 1.)

(Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1218, ch. 854, § 174; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189-1436, ch. 854, was the last code of the District enacted as original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

It is not clear that the words "at such compensation as may be authorized by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in general term" (which follow the word "employees") are entirely superseded by the Classification Act (U. S. C., title 5, § 673).

The clerk shall have power to administer oaths in all cases and also to take the acknowledgment of deeds. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 178; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the ending which stated "and shall receive the same fees for the latter service as other officers authorized to take such acknowledgments."

The provisions of sections 557, 558, 560, 562, of title 28, United States Code shall be applicable to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, excepting that said clerk shall be appointed as heretofore by said court in general term. (Mar. 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1412, ch. 161.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of Mar. 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1412, ch. 161, § 1, insofar as applicable, reads: "Provided, That provisions of the act entitled 'An Act to fix the salaries of the clerks of the United States district courts and to provide for their office expenses, and for other purposes,' approved February 26, 1919, shall be applicable on and after July 1, 1921, to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, excepting that said clerk shall be appointed as heretofore by said Court in General Term, and to the clerks of the district courts of the United States for Hawaii and Porto Rico: Provided further, That no clerk or deputy clerk or assistant in the office of the clerk of a United States district court shall receive any compensation or emoluments through any office or position to which he may be appointed by the court, other than that received as such clerk, deputy clerk, or assistant, whether from the United States or from private litigants."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

An appeal lay to the United States Supreme Court from the judgment of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia affirming a judgment of the Orphan's Court of Alexandria County, dismissing a petition to revoke the probate of a will. Carter v. Cutting (8 Cranch (12 U. S.) 251, 3 L. Ed. 553); West v. Smith (8 How. (49 U. S.) 402, 12 L. Ed. 1130)).

The 1870 act (16 Stat. 160, ch. 141, § 4) abolished the orphans' court and invested the justice holding the special term of the Supreme Court for that purpose with the powers and jurisdiction then held and exercised by the former court, subject to the provisions giving an appeal to the general term from any order involving the merits, which is expressed in § 5, act of March 3, 1863. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

Supreme Court of the District, in special and general term respectively, has, by virtue of successive acts of Congress, the probate jurisdiction formerly exercised by the Orphans' Court and the Court of Chancery of the State of Maryland and by the Orphans' Court and Circuit Court of the United States for the District; with authority also, at a special term, to order any matter to be heard in the first instance at a general term. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

APPEAL TO GENERAL TERM

An appeal to the general term from the final order of probate made in the special term, which was not based upon a judicial determination of facts, but merely upon the finding of a jury of necessity, brought into review before the general term all the questions of law that are properly presented by the bill of exceptions taken at the trial. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

JURISDICTION

If probate court invested only with authority over wills and the settlement of estates should proceed to try parties for public offenses, jurisdiction over the subject of offenses being entirely wanting in the court, and this being known to the judge, his commission would afford no protection to him in the exercise of usurped authority. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

The question of the jurisdiction of the court below can be raised by either party or by the court on its own motion. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

ORDER AS FINAL JUDGMENT

An order at special term, admitting a will to probate and record, is a final judgment reviewable by the general term; and such review, in this case a proceeding involving the validity of a will, is a "case," the final judgment of which can be reviewed by the Supreme Court of the United States. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

A judgment admitting a will to probate may be reviewed by the United States Supreme Court. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

The said court shall hold weekly session on such days as it may appoint and on as many days as may be necessary for the dispatch of its business. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 118.)

In addition to the jurisdiction conferred in section 11-501, plenary jurisdiction is hereby given to the said court holding the said special term to hear and determine all questions relating to the execution and to the validity of any and all wills devising any real estate within the District of Columbia, and of any and all wills and testaments properly presented for probate therein, and to admit the same to probate and record in said special term; and neither the execution nor the validity of any such will or testament so admitted to probate and record shall be impeached or examined collaterally, but the same shall be in all respects and as to all persons res judicata, subject, nevertheless, to the provisions hereinafter contained. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 117.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"It is not the province of a probate court to become a court of construction; that function belongs to the ordinary courts of law or equity." Vestry v. Bostwick (8 App. D. C. 452). Compare McIntire v. McIntire (14 App. D. C. 337, aff'd 192 U. S. 116, 48 L. Ed. 369, 24 Sup. Ct. 196).

Jurisdiction and powers of probate court are substantially the same as those of its predecessor under the former laws. Richardson v. Daggett (24 App. D. C. 440). Cited Miniggio v. Hutchins (43 App. D. C. 117).

Although the probate court is one of limited jurisdiction, it has all the authority necessarily implied in the act of its creation. Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

Court, in its sound discretion, may remove collector. Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

The provisions of 1901 code, § 141 (§ 19-313) are permissive and not mandatory. Young v. Norris Peters Co. (27 App. D. C. 140).

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS ON APPEAL

"A proceeding in a probate court is not a proceeding in equity, and final orders therein are reviewable only in accordance with the practice at common law. * * * And the evidence in such cases must be brought up in bill of exceptions." Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

PROOF OF WILLS

Probate court has exclusive jurisdiction to take proof of wills and to admit the same to probate and record. Gracie v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE

Determination of title to real estate devised by will held to be within general jurisdiction of a court of equity. Beyer v. Le Fevre (186 U. S. 114, 46 L. Ed. 1080, 22 Sup. Ct. 765, rev'g 17 App. D. C. 238).

Prior to act of June 8, 1898 (30 Stat. 434) (§ 11-501), "the probate of a will was evidence of its validity only so far as it affected personal property. As showing the passage of title to real estate the instrument itself must have been produced, with the proof of subscribing witnesses." Young v. Norris Peters Co. (27 App. D. C. 140).

WILL LOST OR DESTROYED

The will must be shown to have been irretrievably lost or destroyed, and that it had been duly and properly executed and attested; and that its destruction, if in the lifetime of the testator, was wholly without his knowledge or consent, at the time, or his subsequent ratification. Fitzgerald v. Wynne (1 App. D. C. 107).

It shall have full power and authority to take the proof of wills of either personal or real estate and admit the same to probate and record, and for cause to revoke the probate thereof; to grant and, for any of the causes hereinafter mentioned, to revoke letters testamentary, letters of administration, letters ad colligendum, and letters of guardianship, and to appoint a successor in the place of anyone whose letters have been revoked; to hear, examine, and decree upon all accounts, claims, and demands existing between executors and administrators and legatees, or persons entitled to a distributive share of an intestate estate, or between wards and their guardians; to enforce the rendition of inventories and accounts by executors, administrators, collectors, guardians, and trustees required to account to said court; to enforce the distribution of estates by executors and administrators, and the payment or delivery by guardians of money or property belonging to their wards: Provided, That the jurisdiction of said probate court shall not be exclusive of the jurisdiction of the said equity court to entertain suits by legatees or next of kin against executors or administrators, or by wards against their guardians for an accounting; and, except in cases provided for in section 11-520, any settlement of accounts in said probate court shall only be prima facie evidence as to the correctness of said accounts in any such suits, or in suits by creditors against executors or administrators, or against heirs or devisees, to subject the real estate of decedents to the payments of their debts. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 119; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 525, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The Rules of Civil Procedure, by their own terms, do not apply to probate proceedings in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, but said court, under its rule-making power, has made the above-mentioned rules applicable to the trial of issues in probate proceedings. See Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by inserting after the word "guardians" the words "to enforce the rendition of inventories and accounts by executors, administrators, collectors, guardians, and trustees required to account to said court"; and by striking out the words "and concurrently with the equity court to direct the sale of real estate of decedents for the payment of their debts and the application of the proceeds thereof" which immediately preceded the proviso; also by changing the internal cross reference from § 144 of the Code of 1901 to § 145 (§ 11-520) thereof.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPOINTING NEW ADMINISTRATOR

"Once letters have been granted to a party upon a misstatement or misconception of the facts, the same may be revoked and the party really entitled thereto appointed." Emery v. Emery (45 App. D. C. 576).

Probate court has power, over objection of surviving administrator, to appoint an administrator to fill a vacancy caused by the death of one of two administrators. Dennis v. Hamilton (48 App. D. C. 160), distinguishing Williams v. Williams (24 App. D. C. 214).

CAVEAT

Upon reversal of judgment sustaining caveat, and its remand, the case is reinstated in the court below upon the issue as originally framed. If caveator insists on new trial, he is entitled to it. Until the case is disposed of, the probate court is without jurisdiction to probate the will. Hutchins v. Hutchins (49 App. D. C. 118, 261 Fed. 460).

Where will was admitted to probate July 5, 1938 and letters testamentary issued, a caveat filed June 30, 1939 will be dismissed insofar as it is a caveat to a will of personal property. Hengesbach v. Hengesbach (— App. D. C. —, 114 Fed. (2d) 845).

CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATE

"The probate court is without jurisdiction to compel an executor or administrator to pay a claim asserted against a decedent's estate." Miniggio v. Hutchins (43 App. D. C. 117). See Dante v. Miniggio (46 App. D. C. 162).

Claims of son in the amount of $318.30 as against sister involving rents from deceased father's property held not against an administratrix within meaning of this section, but were within jurisdiction of the municipal court. Shields v. Shields (69 App. D. C. 331, 101 Fed. (2d) 255).

CONTRACTS OF EXECUTORS

"In view of its supervisory power over their accounts a court of probate, of course, has a check upon the contracts of executors and administrators, and yet it has neither power to make contracts for them nor to direct or authorize them to make any." MacKie v. Howland (3 App. D. C. 461).

COSTS AND COUNSEL FEES

Counsel fee paid upon petition of certain legatees, said petition stating that counsel "had been managing their interests" and not reserving any right to have it finally charged against the estate, was properly charged against said legatees' interest. McIntire v. McIntire (14 App. D. C. 337, 20 App. D. C. 134, aff'd 192 U. S. 116, 48 L. Ed. 369, 24 Sup. Ct. 196).

An executor who has unsuccessfully defended a will may obtain counsel fees and costs incurred by him even though after term has expired at which judgment was rendered, for the costs and expenses chargeable in the probate court are costs of administration, payable out of the estate and is in control of the court during the whole period of administration. Tuohy v. Hanlon (18 App. D. C. 225).

In contest between next of kin of a testator and his legatees as to validity of will, the orphans' court has no power to allow counsel fees for defending the will so far as it will affect claims of creditors who have nothing to do with the contest. Hamilton v. Shillington (19 App. D. C. 268).

If upon the trial of the issues the executor sustains the validity of the will, or if he shows that he acted in good faith throughout, although the will may be overthrown for the want of testamentary capacity in the deceased, he may, in the discretion of the court, have an allowance for costs and counsel fees; but if will is not sustained, undue influence and bad faith decided against him, he should not be entitled to an allowance. Kengla v. Randall (22 App. D. C. 463).

There was no error in the allowance made for attorneys' fees to the administratrix. She was entitled to the services of an attorney in winding up the estate, and there is no evidence that the services were not worth the sum allowed, or that they were exclusively for the personal benefit of the administratrix. Howard v. Howard (38 App. D. C. 575).

Supreme Court, as a probate court, has power to grant an allowance to executors for counsel fees and costs from the estate, when they had unsuccessfully defended the validity of the will. Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 286).

DISTRIBUTION

The court has jurisdiction to order partial distribution. McLane v. Cropper (5 App. D. C. 276).

Probate Court has jurisdiction over residuum of estate of which testator died intestate. Sinnott v. Kenaday (12 App. D. C. 115). See also Sinnott v. Kenaday (14 App.

D. C. 1, rev'd on other grounds 179 U. S. 606, 45 L. Ed. 339, 21 Sup. Ct. 233).

NEW TRIAL

In granting a new trial, the court may limit the scope thereof. Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

The action of a trial court in granting or refusing a new trial is not reviewable unless there is a clear case of abuse of discretion. Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Although in Maryland before 1798, the orphans' court had no authority to order a sale of a ward's real estate, the orphans' court of the District of Columbia, with the approval of the Circuit Court of the United States of that District sitting in chancery, had such power. Thaw v. Ritchie (136 U. S. 519, 34 L. Ed. 531, 10 Sup. Ct. 1037).

Under this section, jurisdiction of the probate court over suits of creditors to subject real estate of decedents to payment of their debts was not exclusive of the jurisdiction of the equity court. West v. McLaughlin (57 App. D. C. 163, 18 Fed. (2d) 813).

TRIAL BY JURY

A proceeding for the probate of a will is not a suit in equity, but one in which the parties have the right to trial by jury. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

The probate court shall keep a seal for the said court, and for the office of register of wills; and the said seal shall be fixed to all certificates of the court, or of the register, and to every process and writ of every kind issued from the court. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 12; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Sections 11-505 to 11-512, are from the Maryland statutes indicated in the history line and are inserted on authority of § 11-501, which is § 116 of the 1901 Code.

The probate court shall, in all cases, have power to issue a summons for any person concerned in the affairs of a deceased person, or for any witness or other person whose appearance in the said court, for any purpose, shall be deemed necessary or proper, and the said summons shall be returnable, at the discretion of the court; and if it be necessary or proper to enforce the appearance of the party, the court, on the return of the "summoned," and failure to appear, may issue an attachment; and when the party shall appear, or be brought in thereon, may fine him or her, not exceeding $30; and if a witness before the court shall refuse to give evidence, the court may commit him or her to the custody of the marshal or coroner (if the case may require), there to remain until he give evidence, or be discharged according to law; or the court may attach and sequester the party's estate, or a part thereof, as directed by sections 11-508 to 11-512, inclusive. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

The marshal or coroner, (as the case may require,) shall serve any summons or process to him directed by the probate court and shall make return thereof according to its tenor, and on failure, he shall be liable to be proceeded against by attachment and fine as aforesaid, or otherwise, as any other person may be proceeded against. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 14; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Service of process, see Rule 4.

In any case where two summonses shall be regularly returned non est by the marshal and it shall be necessary to proceed further to compel the party's attendance, the court may order and issue an attachment against his or her lands, tenements, goods, and chattels, and on return of such attachment, to which a schedule of the property (if any) attached shall be annexed, the court, by order, or commission under seal, may authorize some person or persons to take into his care and custody the lands, tenements, goods and chattels, return in the schedule, or any part thereof, and receive the profits thereof, to be accounted for, until the party shall appear and obey the order of the court, or until further order, and the marshal or other officer, shall deliver the property accordingly, or be liable to be proceeded against as aforesaid; Provided, That the person or persons so authorized shall first give bond to the United States with such security, and in such penalty, as the court shall direct, to be recorded, sued, and to be on a footing with an administration bond, conditioned for rendering a true account of the said estate or property, and of the profits thereof, and to deliver the same according to the court's order, deducting such allowance for loss, and such commission, not exceeding 5 per cent. on the whole, as the court shall think proper to grant; and whenever the purpose for which the said property was sequestered shall have been answered, the court shall direct the said estate or property, and profits (deducting as aforesaid) to be restored to the party; and on the death of the party, the court shall order the same to be delivered to his or her heirs, devisees or legal representatives, as soon as the said purpose shall be answered, or immediately, on application, and satisfying the court of the party's right, in case the said purpose, after the death of the original party, can not be answered. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

Whenever either of the parties having a contest in the probate court shall require, the said court may direct a plenary proceeding, by bill or petition, to which there shall be an answer, on oath (or affirmation) and if the party refuse to answer on oath (or affirmation, as the case may require) to any matter alleged in the bill or petition, and proper for the court to decide upon, the said party may be attached, fined, and committed, or his property may be attached and sequestered as aforesaid. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 16; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

And on such plenary proceeding the probate court shall give judgment, or decree upon the bill and answer, or upon bill, answer, depositions, or finding of the jury; and in all cases of contest, the probate court may award costs to the party in their opinion entitled thereto, and may compel payment, by attachment of the body, and fine, or attachment and sequestration, as aforesaid, of the property. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 17; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 354, § 116.)

An appeal from the probate court shall not stay any proceedings therein which may with propriety be carried on before the appeal is decided, provided the said probate court can provide for conforming to the decision of the court above, whether the said decision may eventually be for or against the appellant. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 19; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 354, § 116.)

The said probate court shall not, under pretext of incidental power, or constructive authority, exercise any jurisdiction whatever not expressly given by this code; but every judgment, decree, decision, or order, of the said court, may be enforced by attachment and sequestration as aforesaid; and if the said judgment, decree, decision, or order, be for paying money, the property sequestered may, at the discretion of the court, be applied to the purpose for which such judgment, decree, decision, or order, was given. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 20; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 354, § 116.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION OF STATUTES

As the powers of the probate court are strictly limited, the statutes are equally applicable, at least so far as they are pertinent to the administration of all estates in the District, whether domiciliary or ancillary. Duehay v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co. (70 App. D. C. 245, 105 Fed. (2d) 768).

POWER TO REMOVE ADMINISTRATOR

Like its predecessor, the orphan's court of Maryland, the Probate Court is a court of special jurisdiction with limited powers, and consequently, unless power to remove an executor for a particular cause can be found in the statute, or by necessary inference therefrom, it does not exist. Hawley v. Hawley (72 App. D. C. 357, 114 Fed. (2d) 505).

The said court may, in its discretion, order an executor, administrator, collector, or guardian, whom it may have appointed, to bring into court or invest in securities, to be approved by the court, any money or funds received by such executor, administrator, collector, or guardian and if said party shall not, within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the court, comply with the order, his letters may be revoked. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1209, ch. 354, § 123.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMINGLING OF FUNDS BY EXECUTOR

Where money was deposited in bank by executor, mingled with his own and subject to his check at all times, it renders both him and his coexecutor, who acquiesced in this disposition, liable for legal interest on the fund during the whole time of his possession. Mades v. Miller (2 App. D. C. 455).

The court shall have power to order any executor, administrator, collector, guardian, or testamentary trustee, who appears to be in default in respect to the rendering of any inventory or account or the fulfillment of any duty in said court to be summoned to appear therein and fulfill his duty in the premises, on pain of revocation of his power to act; and on his appearing the court may pass such order as may be just; and upon his failure to appear, after having been duly summoned, may revoke his power to act and make such further order and other appointment as justice may require. In case the summons to appear is returned by the marshal "not to be found," an alias summons shall be mailed to the last-known post-office address of such fiduciary or served upon his attorney of record, if he be within the jurisdiction of the court; and on the failure of such fiduciary to appear, the court may revoke his power to act and make such further order and other appointment as justice may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 354, § 126; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 557, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment added the words "or testamentary trustee" in the first sentence; deleted the words "his letters testamentary or of administration or collection or of guardianship" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "his power to act" as such words appear for the first time in the first sentence; deleted the word "letters" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "power to act" the second time such words appear in the first sentence; and added the second sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REMOVAL OF ADMINISTRATOR

An executor or administrator can be removed only for legal causes specified in the statute, which confers power upon the probate court. Hawley v. Hawley (72 App. D. C. 357, 114 Fed. (2d) 505).

Whenever said court shall revoke letters testamentary or of administration or of collection or of guardianship, it shall be the duty of the party whose letters may be revoked to render forthwith an account of his administration or guardianship up to the period of the rendition of said account and to deliver and turn over to the person appointed in his place all the estate, money, and effects remaining in his hands that were received and held by him by virtue of his appointment so revoked; and all moneys in the hands of an executor, administrator, or collector realized by him by the sale of the specific property shall be considered unadministered assets and be turned over in like manner; and the court may compel the performance of said duty in the manner hereinafter mentioned, and may direct the bond of said executor, administrator, or collector whose letters may be revoked to be put in suit for the use of the new administrator or collector appointed in his place. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 854, § 127.)

The said court, in addition to the powers herein specially conferred, shall have power to enforce its judgments, orders, and decrees in like manner as orders and decrees may be enforced in the equity court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1211, ch. 854, § 129; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the word "hereinafter" where it appeared following the word "powers" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "herein."

The trial of other issues pending in said court than such as relate to the execution or validity of wills shall also be had in said court. For the trial of issues not relating to wills the justice holding said court shall have authority to fix the time of trial and determine the notice thereof to be given. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 142; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the following words: "and no person shall be required to serve as a juror more than twenty secular days in any one term in any one year, except in a trial pending and not determined when said twenty days expire."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OUSTING JURISDICTION

Administration proceedings for property within the District, in a court of the District having proper jurisdiction, need not be dismissed because one of the parties asks for letters of administration in another jurisdiction on the claim that deceased had been domiciled in such State. Overby v. Gordon (177 U. S. 214, 44 L. Ed. 741, 20 Sup. Ct. 603, aff'g 13 App. D. C. 392).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION

Court has discretionary power, notwithstanding this section, to award costs to the party in their opinion entitled thereto. Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 286). Followed in Manning v. Childress (48 App. D. C. 256).

§ 11-519 [18: 139]. Depositions—Exceptions—Granting new trial—Decree admitting will to probate—As evidence.

The said court shall have authority to issue commissions to take the testimony of nonresident witnesses, and such depositions, as well as depositions de bene esse, taken according to law, may be read at the trial of any issue in said court. On the trial of any such issue exceptions may be taken to the rulings of the court, and the said court may set aside the verdict and grant a new trial for the same causes and in the same manner as in case of a trial in the Circuit Court. Unless and until the same be reversed, any final order or decree admitting a will to probate shall be conclusive evidence of the validity of such will in any collateral proceeding in which such will may be brought into question, and a transcript of the record of such will, and of the decree admitting the same to probate, shall be sufficient proof thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 144; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

The police court of the District shall consist of four judges learned in the law, appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. No person shall be so appointed unless he has been an actual resident of the District for a period of at least five years immediately preceding his appointment and has been in the actual practice of law before the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for a period of five years prior to his original appointment. The term of office of each judge shall be six years, except that any judge in office at the expiration of the term for which he was appointed may continue in office until his successor takes office. Each judge shall be subject to removal by the President for cause. The salary of each judge shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923 (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 13). The judges shall hold separate sessions and may carry on the business of the court separately and simultaneously, but the holding of such sessions shall be so arranged that the court shall be open continuously from nine o'clock antemeridian until eleven o'clock postmeridian each day, Sundays excepted, for the trial of cases involving violations of traffic laws and regulations. The judges shall have power to make rules for the apportionment of business between them and the act of each judge respecting the business of the court shall be deemed and taken to be the act of the court. Each judge when appointed shall take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States.

(b) The commissioners shall provide for the use of the police court such quarters, furniture, books, stationery, and office equipment as may, in their opinion, be necessary for the efficient execution of the functions of the court, and as may be appropriated for by the Congress from time to time. (June

17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1196, ch. 854, § 42; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 522, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1119, ch. 443, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The Code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189-1436, ch. 854, was the last code actually enacted by Congress and it was original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

Provision was made in this section for the holding of police court sessions from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. each day in traffic cases. Limitations on appropriations have provided that no portion of the appropriations shall be expended "for the holding of court on any day after 6 o'clock postmeridian for the trial of cases involving violations of traffic laws and regulations." (See act of May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 669.)

The basic law is that set forth in this section.

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment added the provision for serving until the successors are appointed.

The 1925 amendment added the second sentence, the exception in the third sentence, the fourth and fifth sentences, that part of the sixth sentence following the word "but," and paragraph (b); and, deleted the word "two" in the first sentence and inserted in lieu thereof the word "four" and deleted the provision for the salaries of the judges of $3,000 each per year.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

Accused could, under 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133, be tried in the court of original jurisdiction, upon the issue of guilt or innocence; and by its judgment, unless he gave security for his appearance in another court, he could be deprived of his liberty. The police court was not, in such cases, an examining court merely, but a trial court. Callan v. Wilson (127 U. S. 540, 32 L. Ed. 223, 8 Sup. Ct. 1301).

While other courts of the United States could, under 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133, commit for an indefinite period a defendant in default of payment of a fine, the Police Court of the District was limited to one year. Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

INFERIOR COURT

Police court is an "inferior court" of "limited jurisdiction." Mullen v. Canfield (70 App. D. C. 168, 105 Fed. (2d) 47).

JURISDICTION

Constitution gives to inferior courts the capacity to take jurisdiction but it requires an act of Congress to confer it. Myers v. United States (272 U. S. 52, 71 L. Ed. 160, 47 Sup. Ct. 21).

The said court shall have original jurisdiction concurrently with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, except where otherwise expressly herein provided, of all crimes and offenses committed in the said District not capital or otherwise infamous and not punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, except libel, conspiracy, and violation of the post-office and pension laws of the United States; and also of all offenses against municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District of Columbia. The said court shall also have power to examine and commit or hold to bail, either for trial or further examination, in all cases, whether cognizable therein or in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1196, ch. 854, § 43.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTORNEYS

The police court has no power to admit attorneys nor suspend an attorney on charge of solicitation. Mullen v. Canfield (70 App. D. C. 168, 105 Fed. (2d) 47).

COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

The police court is not a "court of the United States" within the meaning of R. S., § 1042 of the United States. United States v. Mills (11 App. D. C. 500).

The police court is a "proper court of the United States" within the meaning of the Food and Drug Act (34 Stat. 768). Huyler's v. Houston (41 App. D. C. 452).

HOUSE BREAKING

Although the police court and the juvenile court of the District have no trial jurisdiction whatever of a charge of housebreaking, the police court has power to examine and commit or hold to bail for trial or further examination all persons, and the juvenile court all minors under 17 years of age, charged with such offense. Peak v. Reed (58 App. D. C. 44, 24 Fed. (2d) 619).

LIMITATION OF JURISDICTION

Police court may try criminal cases upon information but it has no jurisdiction of capital or otherwise infamous crimes and can not sentence to a penitentiary. It may direct that a convicted person sentenced to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months be confined in either the workhouse or jail, but it will not be presumed that appellant will be imprisoned at hard labor. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

Police court had no jurisdiction over crimes punishable by death or by imprisonment in the penitentiary. Peak v. Reed (58 App. D. C. 44, 24 Fed. (2d) 619).

Police court may, in default of payment of fine, commit to jail for period not exceeding one year. Palmer v. Lenovitz (35 App. D. C. 303); Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

SALE OF LIQUOR

Jurisdiction was exclusively in the police court, for the violation of act of Congress of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat. 563) which regulated the sale of liquors, and the then Supreme Court of the District of Columbia had no jurisdiction. Gassenheimer v. District of Columbia (6 App. D. C. 108).

Prosecution for first offense under National Prohibition Act may be in the police court by way of information. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

Except as provided in sections 11-906, 11-907, the police court of the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction in all cases arising under section 32-209, and the same witness fees shall be allowed in the prosecution of all cases of cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia as are allowed in other cases by law; but no officer or member of the Humane Society shall be entitled to any fee as a witness in any such case. (June 25, 1892, 27 Stat. 60, ch. 135, § 1.)

As enacted the police court was given jurisdiction in all cases arising under the act of Feb. 13, 1885, 23 Stat. 302, ch. 58, the pertinent section of which appears herein as § 32-209.

This jurisdiction given the police court was subject to appeal to the Supreme (now District) Court of the District, according to the provisions of § 4 of chapter 536, 26 Stat. 849, entitled "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia. This section, as amended by the act of March 2, 1897, 29 Stat. 607, ch. 360, § 1, has been superseded by § 17-103.

The jurisdiction given herein has probably been made subject to that of the juvenile court as defined in the act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, as amended by the act of July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 735, ch. 525, which is contained in this code as § 11-901 et seq., particularly § 11-907.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Although police court may try criminal cases on information, there is no presumption that it will sentence one to hard labor so as to deprive it of jurisdiction. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

One guilty of changing the name of a licensee appearing on a motor vehicle operator's permit, whereupon he was sentenced to pay a fine of $275, and in default to be committed to the Washington Asylum and Jail for 60 days; it was proper and within the jurisdiction of the court. Dorsey v. Peak (58 App. D. C. 54, 24 Fed. (2d) 892, 57 A. L. R. 865).

While other courts of the United States may commit for an indefinite period, a defendant in default of payment of a fine, the police court of the District is limited to one year. Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

A person charged with having committed the crime of conspiracy in the District of Columbia is entitled to a jury trial; and to accord the accused a right to be tried by jury in an appellate court, after he has been once fully tried, otherwise than by a jury, in the court of original jurisdiction and sentenced to pay a fine or be imprisoned, does not satisfy the requirements of the Constitution. Callan v. Wilson (127 U. S. 540, 32 L. Ed. 223, 8 Sup. Ct. 1301).

Constitutional requirement that trial of all crimes shall be by jury is to be interpreted in the light of the common law, according to which petty offenses might be proceeded against summarily before a magistrate sitting without a jury. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52, aff'g 59 App. D. C. 224, 38 Fed. (2d) 535).

CUMULATIVE SENTENCES

Section 934 of 1901 code (U. S. C., title 6, § 401), relative to cumulative sentences, does not apply to sentences imposed upon different informations, after separate convictions at different times. Nor does it apply to a sentence to pay a pecuniary fine, followed by imprisonment in default of payment, as provided in this section. Harris v. Lang (27 App. D. C. 84). See also Harris v. Nixon (27 App. D. C. 94, cert. den. 201 U. S. 645, 50 L. Ed. 903, 26 Sup. Ct. 761).

FINDINGS OF COURT

Under this section the finding and judgment entered by the police court were entitled to the same force and effect in all respects as if entered and pronounced upon the verdict of a jury. District of Columbia v. Kendall (57 App. D. C. 271, 20 Fed. (2d) 287).

MUNICIPAL ORDINANCE

One charged with the violation of a municipal ordinance, the maximum penalty for which is a fine not exceeding $40, is not entitled to a trial by jury. Bowles v. District of Columbia (22 App. D. C. 321).

NATIONAL PROHIBITION ACT

One convicted of violation of the National Prohibition Act, and sentenced to jail in default of fine is entitled to benefit of this section authorizing release of indigent prisoners. Green v. Peak (62 App. D. C. 176, 65 Fed. (2d) 809).

RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY

Congress in the exercise of its general and exclusive power of legislation over the District, could provide for the trial of civil causes of moderate amount by a justice of the peace, or, in his presence, by a jury of 12, or of any less number, and allowing either party an appeal. Capital Traction Co. v. Hof (174 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 873, 19 Sup. Ct. 580).

Where the accused would be entitled to a jury trial under the Constitution, trial shall be by jury unless waived, but petty offenses may be tried without jury. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52).

The right of trial by jury does not extend to every criminal proceeding. District of Columbia v. Clawans (300 U. S. 617, 81 L. Ed. 843, 57 Sup. Ct. 660, aff'g 66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

Constitutional provisions with relation to jury trial apply, first, in all cases, especially in all cases where as here there is no election of right and no appeal of right, in which the offense charged was an indictable offense under the common law, without regard to the measure of punishment; and, second, in all cases without regard to the nature of the offense, where the punishment which may be inflicted under the statute involves a sentence as severe as confinement in jail for 90 days. Clawans v. District of Columbia (66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

SOLICITING PROSTITUTION

Soliciting prostitution, punishable by jail sentence of 90 days, is a crime which is of right tried by a jury. Blackburn v. United States (66 App. D. C. 15, 84 Fed. (2d) 269).

Neither the nature of the offense of soliciting prostitution nor the amount of the punishment brought the prosecution within the limits of the constitutional guaranty of a jury trial. Bailey v. United States (69 App. D. C. 25, 98 Fed. (2d) 306).

VIOLATION OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

One charged with operating a motor vehicle in violation of statute not only recklessly but so as to endanger property and individuals, has a constitutional right to a jury trial. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52, aff'g 59 App. D. C. 224, 38 Fed. (2d) 535).

WAIVER

This section quoted as showing that trial by jury may be waived. Shick v. United States (195 U. S. 65, 49 L. Ed. 99, 24 Sup. Ct. 826).

§ 11-617 [18: 166]. Jury—Qualifications, compensation, tenure—Trial not concluded with term—Jury to hold over.

The jury for service in said court shall consist of twelve persons, who shall have the legal qualifications necessary for jurors in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall receive a like compensation for their services, and such jurors shall be drawn and selected under and in pursuance of the laws concerning the drawing and selection of jurors for service in said court, and shall serve for a like term as the petit jury in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. When at any term of said court it shall happen that in a pending trial no verdict shall be found, nor the jury otherwise discharged before the next succeeding term of the court, the court shall proceed with the trial by the same jury, as if said term had not commenced: Provided, That this section shall not be effective as to any panel or panels of jurors drawn under the existing law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 45; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 5; Aug. 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 681, ch. 604.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1901 act provided for a jury term of three successive monthly terms of the court, the terms to begin on the first Monday in January, April, July, and October, respectively.

The 1925 act changed the term to one jury term beginning on the first and third Mondays of each month.

The 1935 act changed the word "men" to "persons," made the jury term the same as the term of the petit jury of the District Court, and added the proviso.

Deficiencies in any panel of any jury may be filled according to the law applicable to jurors in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and for this purpose any judge of said police court shall possess all the powers of a judge of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and of said court sitting as a special term. No person shall be eligible for service on a jury in said police court for more than one jury term in any period of twelve consecutive months, but no verdict shall be set aside on such ground unless objection shall be made before the trial begins. Service on such jury shall not render any person exempt, ineligible, or disqualified for service as a juror in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, except during his term of actual service in said police court. The marshal of said District, by himself or deputy, shall have charge of said jury, and may appoint a deputy for that purpose. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 46.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

It is not clear that the words "who shall be paid three dollars a day while so employed" (which follow the word "purpose" in the last line in the statute) are entirely superseded by the Classification Act (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 13).

In all cases tried before said court the judgment of the court shall be final, except as provided in section 17-103. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 47.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 17-103 provides for appeals from police court.

The court shall have power to appoint a clerk, who shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court, and he shall give bond with surety and take the oath of office prescribed by law for clerks of the District Courts of the United States, and said clerk shall charge no fee for any service rendered by him. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 52.)

The said clerk may appoint six deputies, with the approval of the court, if the business of the court requires it. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 53; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

Section 53 of the 1901 Code provided that said clerk may appoint four deputies.

The act of March 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3, purported to amend section 42 of the 1901 code but (c) of said section 3 provided that "the judges of the police court are authorized to appoint not exceeding two additional deputy clerks, * * *. The salaries of such additional deputy clerks * * * shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923." (U. S. C., title 5, § 673.)

The said clerk and deputy clerks shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 54.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIMITATION OF POWER

No authority to issue a warrant of arrest was conferred upon the clerk and deputy clerk of the District of Columbia. The section merely provided that they should have power to administer oaths and affirmations. Zerega v. United States (59 App. D. C. 67, 32 Fed. (2d) 963).

The said court may appoint not exceeding five bailiffs. Said bailiffs may act as deputies to the marshal for service of process issued by the court. The said court may also appoint a doorkeeper, an engineer, and a janitor. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 55; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

Section 55 of the Code of 1901 fixed the number of bailiffs at three. The act of March 3, 1925, ch. 443, § 3 (c) provided for the appointment of two additional bailiffs, the salaries of the additional bailiffs to be paid in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, U. S. C., title 5, § 673.

The salaries of the judges, clerk, deputy clerks, bailiffs, deputy marshal, doorkeeper, engineer, and janitor of the said court shall be paid as other salaries of the District of Columbia, from appropriations made by Congress. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 56.)

All fines, penalties, costs, and forfeitures imposed or taxed by the police court shall be paid to the clerk of said court, either with or without process or on process ordered by the court. The clerk of the police court shall, on the first secular day of each week, deposit with the collector of taxes the total amount of all fines, penalties, costs and forfeitures collected by him during the week next preceding the date of such deposit, to be covered into the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. The said clerk shall render an itemized statement of each deposit aforesaid upon such forms and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the auditor of the District of Columbia. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 58; Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 718, ch. 433, § 12.)

AMENDMENT

The foregoing section as enacted, had following the words "District of Columbia" where they first appear, the words "subject to the requirements of the provision of the act of June 11, 1896 (29 Stat. 404, 405) to meet any deficiency in the police fund or the firemen's relief fund." This provision has been superseded by the act of Sept. 1, 1916, cited to the text.

The judges of the municipal court shall be five in number, and shall each be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of four years, and until his successor is duly appointed and qualified: Provided, That no person shall be appointed to said office unless he shall have been a bona fide citizen and resident of said District for the continuous period of at least five years immediately preceding his appointment, and shall either have been a judge of said court for at least one year, or shall have been engaged in the actual practice of law before the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years prior to his appointment. Each judge, when appointed, shall take an oath for the faithful and impartial performance of the duties of his office. The judges of said court shall not be required to give bond, but a bond shall be given by the clerk of said court, who shall receive and account for all fees as hereinafter provided. Said municipal court shall sit for the trial of causes in one building to be designated by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, to be rented by said District of Columbia. Any member of said court may try any case within its jurisdiction according to law, regardless of the place of residence of the defendant therein. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 13.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The municipal court was formerly the justice of the peace court. The act of February 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134, provided: "The inferior court known as 'justice of the peace', in the District of Columbia shall remain as now constituted, but shall hereafter be known as 'the municipal court of the District of Columbia'."

Furthermore, the acts of February 17, 1909 and March 3, 1921, cited in the history lines throughout this chapter are acts defining the jurisdiction, powers, and duties of the municipal court and they and the applicable provisions of the 1901 code were consolidated by the compilers of the 1929 code.

NOTARY FEES

The act of July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352, § 1, provides: "Hereafter justices of the peace (judges of the municipal court) in and for the District of Columbia who are also notaries public shall account for and pay over to the collector of taxes all fees earned as such notaries public, as they are required by law to do as to fees earned by them as justices of the peace (judges of the municipal court)."

The municipal court of the District of Columbia shall have exclusive jurisdiction in the following civil cases in which the claimed value of personal property or the debt or damages claimed, exclusive of interest and costs, does not exceed $1,000, namely, in all civil cases in which the amount claimed to be due for debt or damages arises out of contracts, express or implied, or damages for wrongs or injuries to persons or property, including all proceedings by attachment or in replevin (except in cases involving title to real estate or actions against judges of the municipal court or other officers for official misconduct), and in actions for the recovery of damages for assault, assault and battery, slander, libel, malicious prosecution, and breach of promise to marry. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1191, ch. 854, § 9; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION—IMPLIED CONTRACTS

Municipal court of District of Columbia had jurisdiction of a claim for debt arising out of an "implied" contract, not exceeding $300. District of Columbia v. Thompson

RENTS FROM REAL ESTATE

Claims of son against sister involving rents from deceased father's property were within jurisdiction of municipal court. Shields v. Shields (69 App. D. C. 331, 101 Fed. (2d) 255).

SUITS AGAINST ADMINISTRATOR

Municipal court does not have jurisdiction over suits against an administrator for the debt of the decedent, for judgment for full amount of debt. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

SUITS FOR $1,000 DAMAGES

Municipal court acted within its jurisdiction when it entered judgment for landlord and could enter judgment on tenant's undertaking to secure a stay of execution on a review of a judgment by writ of error even though judgment was for more than $1,000. Bailey v. Allan E. Walker (55 App. D. C. 74, 2 Fed. (2d) 123).

Suit for $1,000 as damages for negligence was in exclusive jurisdiction of municipal court and as writ of error was available the judgment could not be reviewed by certiorari to the District Court. United States ex rel. Eure v. Borden (65 App. D. C. 84, 80 Fed. (2d) 527).

The actual damages recoverable being for a sum within the exclusive jurisdiction of the municipal court, the District Court had no jurisdiction, and a mere ad damnum clause did not confer it. Minick v. Associates Inv. Co. (71 App. D. C. 367, 110 Fed. (2d) 267).

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE

Retrial of title to real estate. Gray v. Ward (45 App. D. C. 498).

This section expressly excludes from the jurisdiction of the municipal court actions involving title to real estate. Johnson v. Simmons (53 App. D. C. 356, 290 Fed. 331).

It is obvious that Congress intended to exclude from the jurisdiction of the municipal court only cases where there is a necessary and direct issue as to the title to real estate, and the court properly assumed jurisdiction of an action to recover the balance of money received on a foreclosure sale. Schwartz v. Murphy (72 App. D. C. 103, 112 Fed. (2d) 24).

The said jurisdiction of the municipal court shall extend to cases of trespass upon or injury to real estate: Provided, That if the defendant shall file with the court an affidavit that he claims title or acts under a person claiming title to the real estate, setting forth the nature of his title, the court shall take no further cognizance of the case. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1191, ch. 854, § 10; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

Any judge of the municipal court may at any time, including Sundays and legal holidays, on complaint under oath or actual view, issue warrants returnable to the police court against persons accused of crimes and offenses committed in the District of Columbia, and he shall make a record of his proceedings in every case in a book to be kept for that purpose. Such warrants shall be issued free of charge. (Apr. 21, 1906, 34 Stat. 126, ch. 1646; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

All actions shall be assigned for trial among the members of said court in nearly equal numbers and in such manner as may be agreed upon between them. The judges of said court shall hold separate sessions, and are empowered to make rules for the apportionment of the business between them, and the act of each of said judges respecting the business of said court shall be deemed and taken to be the act of said court. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

In case of sickness, absence, disability, expiration of term of service of or death of any of the judges of the police court or of the juvenile court, any one of the justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may designate one of the judges of the municipal court to discharge the duties of said judges until such disability be removed or vacancy filled. The justice so designated shall take the same oath prescribed for these judges. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352, § 1, provides that, "Hereafter any justice of the peace (judge of the municipal court) designated to serve as judge of the police court, as provided in section 51 of the act to establish a code of law for the District of Columbia, shall receive no additional compensation while so serving." See § 11-610.

SENTENCES

Under Act Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134 (§§ 11-610, 11-706 to 11-708, 11-710), providing that in case of sickness, vacation, or disability of either of District of Columbia police court judges, any justice of the Supreme Court may designate a municipal court judge to discharge such duties until the disability be removed or vacancy filled, a judge so designated and acting on trial held at least de jure judge and authorized to sentence prisoner convicted on trial even though regular police court judge had resumed his duties after the trial but before sentence was pronounced. Shore v. Splain (49 App. D. C. 6, 258 Fed. 150).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS

Summary proceedings under R. S., D. C., 684 cannot be maintained unless conventional relation of landlord and tenant exists between the parties. Willis v. Eastern Trust & B. Co. (169 U. S. 295, 42 L. Ed. 752, 18 Sup. Ct. 347).

APPEAL

Proceedings in appeal in cases of forcible entry and detainer, which are regulated by §§ 1232, 1233 of the 1901 code, are different from those which govern appeals in ordinary cases. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

The complaint should be sufficient to advise the tenant of the breach which the landlord claims gives him a right to recover possession of the property, and if the complaint states only one ground, the landlord must be confined to that ground on appeal. Davis v. Taylor (51 App. D. C. 97, 276 Fed. 619).

BOND

Defendant, in order to perfect his appeal from justice of peace, in landlord and tenant case, need not give supersedeas bond. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

Bond given on appeal from justice of peace in a landlord and tenant case must be entered by two sureties in order to operate as a supersedeas. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

CONSTRUCTION OF PRIOR LAW

Construing original section, see Green v. McIntire (42 App. D. C. 250), holding code provision applicable, although title is claimed under instrument executed prior to adoption of code.

DAMAGES

Quaere: Whether landlord can recover damages for loss of rental of entire building when tenant leases only a part thereof. Such action, however, cannot be maintained under this section. Desio v. Hutchinson (36 App. D. C. 68).

JURISDICTION

Municipal court had jurisdiction of subject-matter involved in landlord and tenant proceeding and also over the person of defendant in the case, who appeared and made a defense, and the judge was not liable in civil action for the issuance of writ of restitution. Spruill v. O'Toole (64 App. D. C. 85, 74 Fed. (2d) 559).

NOTICE

Tenant is entitled to 30-day notice to quit before institution of summary proceedings for possession. Thornhill v. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. (63 App. D. C. 184, 70 Fed. (2d) 846).

PARTIES

A realty dealer acting as owner's rental agent for percentage of rents is not a party in interest such as is entitled to conduct a landlord and tenant proceeding. Heiskell v. Mozie (65 App. D. C. 255, 82 Fed. (2d) 861).

TITLE NOT ISSUE

If complaint were forcible entry and detainer, a claim of title by the defendant would be a proper defense to the action. Loring v. Bartlett (4 App. D. C. 1).

In proceedings for forcible entry and detainer, the title is not tried and is not at issue, but solely the right to the possession. Brown v. Slater (23 App. D. C. 51).

Right to possession of alleged purchaser at trustee's sale, not proved where tenant under 5-year lease continued to comply with said lease and dealt throughout with the same agent and knew nothing of the sale. Capital Apartment Corp. v. Vassos (62 App. D. C. 136, 65 Fed. (2d) 482).

The summons shall be served seven days, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, before the day fixed for the trial of the action. If the defendant has left the District of Columbia, or can not be found, said summons may be served by delivering a copy thereof to the tenant, or by leaving the same with some person above the age of sixteen years residing on or in possession of the premises sought to be recovered, and if no one be in actual possession of said premises, or residing thereon, by posting a copy of said summons on the premises where it may be conveniently read. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUBSTANTIAL COMPLIANCE

Service of summons by leaving a copy with a person over 16 years of age in possession of the premises and a return to that effect by the marshal was a substantial compliance with this section. Bliss v. Duncan (44 App. D. C. 93). Compare Settemier v. Sullivan (7 Otto (97 U. S.) 444, 24 L. Ed. 1110).

If upon the trial it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to the possession of the premises, judgment and execution for the possession shall be awarded in his favor, with costs; if the plaintiff becomes nonsuit or fails to prove his right to the possession, the defendant shall have judgment and execution for his costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 22.)

If upon the trial the defendant pleads title to the premises, in himself or in another under whom he claims, setting forth the nature of said title, under oath, and shall enter into an undertaking, with sufficient surety, to be approved by the court, to pay all intervening damages and costs and reasonable intervening rent for the premises, the court shall certify the proceedings to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and the same shall be further continued in said court according to its rules. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 23; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

A judgment before the municipal court in this proceeding, shall not be a bar to any after action brought by either party or conclude any question of title between them, where title is not pleaded by the defendants as aforesaid. NOTES TO DECISIONS

LEGISLATIVE INTENTION

Statute is mainly intended, by summary means, to indemnify and save harmless the officer charged with the execution of the writ or process, and to protect plaintiff who may direct the levy upon or seizure of the property, and also to uphold and maintain power and jurisdiction of the justice, in making his process effective, but at same time to avoid injury to third persons. *Snyder v. SUPERSEDEAS

On all judgments rendered by the municipal court, except as hereinafter provided, stay of execution may be had upon good and sufficient security being entered by a person who may be at the time the owner of sufficient real property located in the District, above all liabilities and exemptions, to secure the debt, costs, and interest.

In such cases stay of execution shall be entered as follows:

For the sum of five dollars, and not exceeding twenty dollars, one month.

For all sums over twenty dollars, and not exceeding forty dollars, two months.

One or more judges of the municipal court shall serve in said branch for such periods and in such order of rotation as the judges of the court may determine. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 3.)

§ 11-804 [18:241c]. Jurisdiction—Limited—Exclusive in certain actions—Authority of judges—Compensation.

(a) Said branch shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all cases within the jurisdiction of the court in which the amount of the plaintiff's claim or the claimed value of personal property in controversy does not exceed $50 exclusive of interest, attorneys' fees, protest fees, and costs. Said jurisdiction shall not include actions for recovery of the possession of real estate, whether or not such actions include a claim for arrears of rent, or personalty, or both arrears of rent and personalty.

(b) In order to effect the speedy settlement of controversies said branch shall also have authority with the consent of all parties to settle cases, irrespective of the amount involved, by the methods of arbitration and conciliation. The judges of said branch may also act as referees or arbitrators, either alone or in conjunction with other persons, under sections 16-1701 to 16-1719, or under the United States Arbitration Act of February 12, 1925 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., title 9, sections 1 to 15), or otherwise. No judge, officer, or other employee of the municipal court shall receive or accept any fee or compensation in addition to his salary for services performed under this subsection. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 4.)

§ 11-805 [18:241d]. Commencement of action—Form of statement of claim—Preparation by clerk—Notice—How served, cost, form—Judgment by default—Memorandum to plaintiff.

(a) Actions shall be commenced in said branch by the filing of a statement of claim, in concise form and free of technicalities. The plaintiff or his agent shall verify the statement of claim by oath or affirmation in the form herein provided, or its equivalent, and shall affix his signature thereto. The clerk of said branch shall, at the request of any individual, prepare the statement of claim and other papers required to be filed in an action in this branch, but his services shall not be available to any corporation, partnership, or association in the preparation of such statements or other papers. A copy of the statement of claim and verification shall be made a part of the notice to be served upon the defendant named therein. The mode of service shall be by the United States marshal, as provided by law; or by registered mail with return receipt; or by any person not a party to or otherwise interested in the suit, especially appointed by the judge for that purpose.

(b) When notice is to be served by registered mail, the clerk shall inclose a copy of the statement of claim, verification, and notice in an envelope addressed to the defendant, prepay the postage with funds obtained from plaintiff, and mail the same forthwith, noting on the records the day and hour of mailing. When such receipt is returned, the clerk shall attach the same to the original statement of claim, and it shall constitute prima facie evidence of service upon the defendant.

(c) When served by a private individual, as above provided, he shall make proof of service by affidavit before the clerk, showing the time and place of such service.

(d) When served by the marshal, or by registered mail, the actual cost of service shall be taxable as costs. When served by an individual, as above provided, the cost of service, if any, shall not be taxable as costs.

(e) The statement of claim, verification, and notice shall be in the following or equivalent form, and shall be in lieu of any forms now employed and of any form of summons now provided by law:

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SERVICE BY MAIL

The presumption must be that Congress intended service by registered mail to be so made as to insure due process of law. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

WHO MAY SERVE

The act permits service by persons designated for that purpose by the court. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

A separate small claims and conciliation docket shall be maintained in said branch, in which shall be indicated every proceeding and ruling had in each case. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 6.)

The fee for issuing summons and copies, trial, judgment, and satisfaction in an action in said branch shall be not more than $1. Other fees shall be as the court shall prescribe. The judge sitting in said branch shall have full discretionary power to waive the prepayment of costs or the payment of costs accruing during the action upon the sworn statement of the plaintiff or upon other satisfactory evidence of his inability to pay such costs. When costs are so waived the notation to be made on the records of said branch shall be "Prepayment of costs waived," or "Costs waived." The term "pauper" or "informa pauperis" shall not be employed in said branch. If a party shall fail to pay accrued costs, though able to do so, the judge of said branch shall have power to deny said party the right to file any new case in said branch while such costs remain unpaid, and likewise to deny such litigant the right to proceed further in any case pending in said branch. The award of costs shall be according to the discretion of the judge who may include therein the reasonable cost of bonds and undertakings, and other reasonable expenses incident to the suit, incurred by either party. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 7.)

(a) On the return day mentioned in section 11-805, or such later time as the judge may set, the trial shall be had. Immediately prior to the trial of any case, the judge shall make an earnest effort to settle the controversy by conciliation. If the judge fails to induce the parties to settle their differences without a trial, he shall proceed with the hearing on the merits pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) The parties and witnesses shall be sworn. The judge shall conduct the trial in such manner as to do substantial justice between the parties according to the rules of substantive law, and shall not be bound by the statutory provisions or rules of practice, procedure, pleading, or evidence, except such provisions relating to privileged communications.

(c) If the defendant fails to appear, judgment shall be entered for the plaintiff by default as above provided, or under any rule or rules of the municipal court now existing or hereafter promulgated, or on ex-parte proof. If the plaintiff fails to appear, the suit may be dismissed for want of prosecution, or a nonsuit may be ordered, or defendant may proceed to a trial on the merits, or the case may be continued or returned to the files for further proceedings on a later date, as the judge may direct. If both parties fail to appear, the judge may return the case to the files, or order the same dismissed for want of prosecution, or make any other just and proper disposition thereof, as justice may require. § 11-809 [18: 241h]. Set-off or counterclaim—Pleading—Retention of jurisdiction.

If the defendant asserts a set-off or counterclaim, the judge may, in his discretion, require a formal plea of set-off to be filed, or may waive the same. If plaintiff requires time to prepare his defense against such counterclaim or set-off, the judge may, in his discretion, continue the case for such purpose. If the set-off or counterclaim be for more than the jurisdictional limit of said branch but within the jurisdictional limit of this court, the action shall nevertheless remain in said branch and be tried therein in its entirety. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 9.)

Whenever the interests of justice shall seem to require it, and all parties consent thereto, any judge of the municipal court may certify any case to said branch for conciliation, or to endeavor to obtain a complete or partial agreed statement of facts or stipulation, which will simplify and expedite the ultimate trial of the case. The trial of any such case if all parties consent may be completed in said branch or in the absence of such consent shall be recertified to another judge of the court for trial. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 10.)

When judgment is to be rendered and the party against whom it is to be entered requests it, the judge shall inquire fully into the earnings and financial status of such party and shall have full discretionary power to stay the entry of judgment, and to stay execution, except in cases involving wage claims, and to order partial payments in such amounts, over such periods, and upon such terms, as shall seem just under the circumstances and as will assure a definite and steady reduction of the judgment until it is finally and completely satisfied. Upon a showing that such party has failed to meet any instalment payment without just excuse, the stay of execution shall be vacated. When no stay of execution has been ordered or when such stay of execution has been vacated as provided herein, the party in whose favor the judgment has been entered shall have the right to avail himself of all remedies otherwise available in said municipal court for the enforcement of such judgment. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 11.)

In all cases where the judgment is founded in whole or in part on a claim for wages or personal services the judge shall, upon motion of the party obtaining judgment, order the appearance of the party against whom such judgment has been entered, but not more often than once each four weeks for oral examination under oath as to his financial status and his ability to pay such judgment, and the judge shall make such supplementary orders as may seem just and proper to effectuate the payment of the judgment upon reasonable terms. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 12.)

The clerk of said branch shall maintain an accurate daily record of all transactions had therein and shall prepare and transmit to the Attorney-General of the United States a monthly report in detail showing the number and nature of all such transactions. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 13.)

All provisions of law relating to the municipal court and the rules of the municipal court shall apply to the practice herein so far as they may be made applicable and are not in conflict with the provisions of this chapter or with the rules hereunder promulgated. In case of conflict the provisions of this chapter and the rules hereunder promulgated shall control. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 14.)

The judges of the municipal court shall forthwith make rules to provide for a simple, inexpensive, and speedy procedure to effectuate the purposes of this

NOTES TO DECISIONS

RULES—VALIDITY—DUE PROCESS

The requirements of due process can be satisfied by compliance with the provisions of the statute as construed in Rule 9 (Rules for the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia), the latter constituting a reasonable exercise of the rule-making power delegated by the statute to the court, and which, when properly construed, neither abridges nor extends the jurisdiction of the court beyond the limits of the act itself, and therefore, has the force and effect of law. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

The small-claims branch with a judge in attendance shall be open for the transaction of business on every day of the year except Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and legal holidays, and shall also hold at least one night session during each week. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 16.)

Nothing in this chapter contained shall deprive any party of the right now existing to petition the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for a writ of error to review any judgment rendered in said branch of said municipal court. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 17.)

In any case filed or pending in said branch in which any party is entitled to demand a trial by jury and files such demand, the case shall be assigned to and tried in one of the regular branches of the court under the procedure provided for such trials. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 107, ch. 43, § 18.)

Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, or in the rules promulgated hereunder, a party obtaining a judgment in said branch shall be entitled to the same remedies, processes, costs, and benefits as are given or inure to other judgment creditors in said municipal court. COMPILER'S NOTES

The numbers carried in brackets in the black-letter lines are, except in the case of the first section, from the Fifth Supplement to the 1929 Code. The act of June 1, 1938, was entitled an act to amend "An Act to create a juvenile court in and for the District of Columbia, and for other purposes." The subject-matter of the sections of the new act carries the same section numbers as the act of March 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, which it purports to amend. The act of 1938 was both superseding and amendatory in character. Similar or corresponding sections of the 1929 Code will be referred to in a note whenever the context of the sections warrant that this be done.

The act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 605, ch. 309, § 43, provided as follows: "This chapter may be cited as the 'Juvenile Court Act of the District of Columbia.'"

The purpose of this chapter is to secure for each child under its jurisdiction such care and guidance, preferably in his own home, as will serve the child's welfare and the best interests of the state; to conserve and strengthen the child's family ties whenever possible, removing him from the custody of his parents only when his welfare or the safety and protection of the public cannot be adequately safeguarded without such removal; and, when such child is removed from his own family, to secure for him custody, care, and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given by his parents. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The words of this section were set out in the initial paragraph of the 1938 act.

This chapter shall be liberally construed to accomplish the purpose herein sought. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 2.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 11-901.

Said court shall be a court of record. The court shall have a seal, and the judge or acting judge thereof shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section contains in substance the provisions of title 18, § 268 of the Code of 1929.

The said court shall hold a term on the first Monday of every month and continue the same from day to day as long as it may be necessary for the transaction of its business. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 4.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section reads the same as title 18, § 269 of the Code of 1929.

Whenever any person shall give to the director of social work of the court, or other officer of the court duly designated as his representative, information in his possession that a child is within the provisions of this chapter, it shall be the duty of a duly designated officer of the court to make preliminary investigation to determine whether the interests of the public or of the child require that further action be taken and report his finding, together with a statement of the facts, to the director of social work. Whenever practicable such inquiry shall include a preliminary investigation of the home and environmental situation of the child, his previous history, and the circumstances which were the subject of the information. If the director of social work finds that jurisdiction should be acquired, he shall, after consultation with and approval by the corporation counsel or assistant corporation counsel assigned to the court, authorize a petition to be filed. In any case in which said director fails to so find, the person giving information to the director may present the facts to the corporation counsel or his assistant, who, after investigation by an officer of the court as herein provided, may authorize a petition to be filed. The proceedings shall be entitled, "In the matter of ———, a child under eighteen years of age."

The petition shall be verified by the officer making the investigation, or some other person having personal knowledge of the case, and shall allege briefly the facts which bring said child within the provisions of this chapter, and stating the name, age, and residence (1) of the child; (2) of his parents; (3) of his legal guardian, if there be one; (4) of the person or persons having custody or control of the child; and (5) of the nearest known relative, if no parent or guardian can be found. If any of the facts herein required are not known by the petitioner the petition shall so state. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 597, ch. 309, § 7.)

After a petition shall have been filed, unless the parties hereinafter named shall voluntarily appear, the court shall issue a summons reciting briefly the substance of the petition, and requiring the person or persons who have the custody or control of the child to appear personally and bring the child before the court at a time and place stated. If the person so summoned shall be other than the parent or guardian of the child, then the parent or guardian or both shall also be notified of the pendency of the case and of the time and place appointed, by personal service before the hearing, except as hereinafter provided: Provided, That if the child is married then the other spouse shall also be so notified. Summons may be issued requiring the appearance of any other person whose presence is necessary.

If it appears that the child is in such condition or surroundings that his welfare requires that his custody be immediately assumed by the court, the judge may cause to be endorsed upon the summons an order that the officer serving the same shall at once take the child into custody. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 8.)

Service of summons shall be made personally by the delivery of a true and attested copy to the person summoned: Provided, That where reasonable but unsuccessful efforts have been made to make personal service of summons or notice and if it shall appear that it is impracticable to do so, the court may make an order providing for service of summons or notice by registered mail to the last-known address or by publication, or both, as may be deemed necessary. It shall be sufficient to confer jurisdiction if service is effected at any time before the date fixed in the summons for the return thereof: Provided, That on request of the parent or guardian or person having custody of the child, the hearing on the petition shall not take place until three days subsequent to service of said summons.

The United States marshal for the District of Columbia or his deputy shall execute the orders and processes of the court in the same manner as he executes those of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall designate at least one of his deputies to serve at the court, where he shall perform such services as are required by the judge. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 9.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Service of process, Rule 4.

If any person summoned as herein provided shall, without reasonable cause, fail to appear, he may be proceeded against for contempt of court. In case the summons can not be served, or the parties served fail to obey the same, or the welfare of the child requires that he shall be brought forthwith into the custody of the court, a warrant may be issued against the parent or guardian or against the child himself. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 10.)

§ 11-912 [18: 261]. Taking child into custody—Release to parent, guardian, custodian, or probation officer.

Whenever any officer takes a child into custody, he shall, unless it is impracticable or has been otherwise ordered by the court, accept the written promise of the parent, guardian, or custodian to bring the child to the court at the time fixed. Thereupon such child may be released in the custody of a parent, guardian, or custodian. If not so released, such child shall be placed in the custody of a probation officer or other person designated by the court, or taken immediately to the court or to a place of detention provided by the Board of Public Welfare, and the officer taking him shall immediately notify the court and shall file a petition when directed to do so by the court.

In the case of any child whose custody has been assumed by the court and pending the final disposition of the case, the child may be released in the custody of a parent, guardian, or custodian, or of a probation officer or other person appointed by the court, to be brought before the court at the time designated. When not released as herein provided, such child, pending the hearing of the case, shall be detained in such place of detention as shall be provided by the Board of Public Welfare, subject to further order of the court.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as forbidding any peace officer, police officer, or probation officer from immediately taking into custody any child who is found violating any law or ordinance, or who is reasonably believed to be a fugitive from his parents or from justice, or whose surroundings are such as to endanger his health, morals, or safety, unless immediate action is taken. In every such case the officer taking the child into custody shall immediately report the fact to the court and the case shall then be proceeded with as provided in this chapter. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 11.)

If during the pendency of a criminal or quasi-criminal charge against any person under 21 years of age, in any other court, it shall be ascertained that said person was under the age of 18 years at the time of committing the alleged offense, it shall be the duty of such court to transfer such other case immediately, together with all the papers, documents, and testimony connected therewith, to the juvenile court. Such other court making such transfer shall order the child to be taken forthwith to the place of detention designated by the court or to that court itself, or release such child in the custody of some suitable person to appear before the juvenile court at a time designated. The court shall thereupon proceed to hear and dispose of such case in the same manner as if it had been instituted in that court in the first instance. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 12.)

If a child 16 years of age or older is charged with an offense which would amount to a felony in the case of an adult, the judge, after full investigation, may waive jurisdiction and order such child held for trial under the regular procedure of the court which would have jurisdiction of such offense if committed by an adult; or such other court may exercise the powers conferred upon the juvenile court in this chapter in conducting and disposing of such case. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 13.)

The court may conduct the hearing in an informal manner, and may adjourn the hearing from time to time. In the hearing of any case the general public shall be excluded and only such persons as have a direct interest in the case and their representatives admitted. All cases involving children may be heard separately and apart from the trial of cases against adults. The court shall hear and determine all cases of children without a jury unless a jury be demanded by the child, his parent, or guardian or the court.

If the court shall find that the child comes within the provisions of this chapter, it may by order duly entered proceed as follows:

(1) Place the child on probation or under supervision in his own home or in the custody of a relative or other fit person, upon such terms as the court shall determine.

(2) Commit the child to the Board of Public Welfare; or to the National Training School for Girls or the National Training School for Boys if in need of such care as is given in such schools; or to a qualified suitable private institution or agency willing and able to assume the education, care, and maintenance of such child without expense to the public.

(3) Make such further disposition of the child as may be provided by law and as the court may deem to be best for the best interests of the child: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed as authorizing the removal of the child from the custody of his parents unless his welfare and the safety and protection of the public can not be adequately safeguarded without such removal.

Whenever a child is committed by the court to custody other than that of its parent, the court may, after giving the parent a reasonable opportunity to be heard, adjudge that such parent shall pay in such manner as the court may direct such sum as will cover in whole or in part the support of such child, and if such parent shall willfully fail or refuse to pay such sum, he may be proceeded against as provided by law for cases of desertion or failure to provide subsistence.

Whenever the court shall commit a child to any institution or agency, it shall transmit with the order of commitment a summary of its information concerning such child.

No adjudication upon the status of any child in the jurisdiction of the court shall operate to impose any of the civil disabilities ordinarily imposed by conviction, nor shall any child be deemed a criminal by reason of such adjudication, nor shall such adjudication be deemed a conviction of a crime, nor shall any child be charged with or convicted of a crime in any court, except as provided in section 11-914. The disposition of a child or any evidence given in the court shall not be admissible as evidence against the child in any case or proceeding in any other court, nor shall such disposition, or evidence or adjudication operate to disqualify a child in any future civil-service examination, appointment, or application for public service under either the Government of the United States or of the District of Columbia. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 14.)

CROSS REFERENCE

An order of commitment or probation made by the court in the case of a child shall be subject to modification or revocation from time to time.

A parent, guardian, or next friend of a child who has been committed by the court to the custody of an institution, agency, or person, may at any time file with the court a verified petition, making application for modification or revocation of an order of commitment or probation, stating that such institution, agency, or person has denied application for the release of the child or has failed to act upon such application within a reasonable time. If the court is of the opinion that an investigation should be had, it may, upon due notice to all concerned, proceed to hear and determine the question at issue. It may thereupon order that such child be restored to the custody of its parent or guardian or be retained in the custody of the institution, agency, or person; and may direct such institution, agency, or person to make such other arrangements for the child's care and welfare as the circumstances of the case may require; or the court may make a further order or commitment. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 600, ch. 309, § 15.)

Whenever in the course of a proceeding instituted under this chapter it shall appear to the court that the welfare of a child will be promoted by the appointment of a relative or other suitable individual as guardian of its person, when such child is not committed to an institution or to the custody of an incorporated society, the court shall have jurisdiction to make such appointment either upon the application of the child or some relative or next friend or upon the court's own motion, and in that event an order to show cause may be made by the court to be served upon the parent or parents or custodian of said child in such manner and for such time prior to the hearing as the court may deem reasonable. In a case arising under this chapter the court may also determine as between parents whether the father or the mother shall have the custody and control of said child. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 16.)

In placing a child under any guardianship or custody other than that of its parent, the court shall, when practicable, select a person, or an institution or agency governed by persons of like religious faith as that of the parents of such child, or in case of a difference in the religious faith of the parents, then of the religious faith of the child, or if the religious faith of the child is not ascertained, then of either of the parents. § 11-919 [18: 268]. Procedure in adult cases—"Offense" defined—Penalty—Right to jury trial.

All provisions of this chapter relative to procedure in cases of children so far as practicable shall be construed as applying also to cases against adults arising under section 11-907 with the consent of the defendant or when not inconsistent with other provisions of law relating to the conduct of adult cases. Proceedings may be instituted upon complaint of an interested party or upon the court's own motion, and a reasonable opportunity to appear shall be afforded the respondent. The court may issue a summons, a warrant of arrest, or other process in order to secure or to compel the attendance of any necessary person. Any person who by act or omission willfully causes, encourages, or contributes to any condition which would bring a child within the provisions of this chapter, or who by such act or omission tends to cause such a condition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding $200 or imprisoned not exceeding 12 months, or by both fine and imprisonment. Upon the trial of such cases the court shall have power to impose such sentence as the law provides, or may suspend sentence and place on probation, and by order impose upon such adult such duty as shall be deemed to be for the best interests of the child or other persons concerned. If an adult is charged with an offense for which he is entitled to a trial by jury, he shall be so tried unless he shall expressly waive his right to such a trial. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 18.)

The judge of the court shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the consent of the Senate, for a term of 6 years, or until his successor is appointed and confirmed. To be eligible for appointment as judge a person must be a member of the bar, preferably of the District of Columbia, and have a knowledge of social problems and procedure and an understanding of child psychology. The judge shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States. The salary of the judge shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, § 673). (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 19.)

Deputy marshals are appointed by the marshal and not the District Court. Doherty v. Kalmbach (66 App. D. C. 322, 87 Fed. (2d) 539).

HISTORICAL

It is declared, that the marshal shall be entitled to receive, for his services, the same fees, perquisites, and emoluments, which are by law allowed to the marshal of the United States for the district of Maryland. United States v. Ringgold (8 Pet. (33 U. S.) 150, 3 L. Ed. 899).

The act of February 27, 1801, ch. 15, § 7, p. 103, established the office of marshal which superseded that of sheriff under the laws of Maryland. Levy Court v. Woodward, Coroner (2 Wall. (69 U. S.) 501, 17 L. Ed. 851).

By 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15, § 7, the custody of the jails was entrusted to the marshal of the District, and he was made accountable for the safe-keeping of the prisoners. United States v. Fitzpatrick (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 568, 20 L. Ed. 707).

MEASURE OF DAMAGES

Damages for wrongful levy are measured not by value of goods but by injuries occasioned from detention by officer from date of levy until the goods were taken from him. Palmer v. United States ex rel. Lane (41 App. D. C. 341).

REASONABLE CARE

After marshal takes possession of property, "the law makes it his duty to exercise reasonable care and diligence in protecting" it; "and it was not the duty of the plaintiff to direct the marshal as to the proper steps to be taken to that end." Palmer v. Costello (41 App. D. C. 165).

The fees and emoluments authorized under section 11-1510 shall be charged for services rendered by the marshal of the District, and collected as far as possible, and covered into the Treasury of the United States. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1220, ch. 854, § 187.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

There shall be a coroner of said District, who shall be appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. (Leg. Assem., Aug. 23, 1871, ch. 108, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 190; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189-1436, ch. 854, §§ 1 to 1642, was the last code actually enacted by Congress, and it was original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in this history line, they have to do only with origins, and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them, and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

AMENDMENTS

The act of 1902 provided a salary of $1,800 per annum. The salary paid is now governed by the Classification Act of 1923 (42 Stat. 1488), U. S. C., title 5, § 673.

The deputy coroners shall, while acting, receive compensation at a rate not exceeding $5 per day, to be paid as other expenses of said District, and each shall give bond in the penalty of $2,500, with security to be approved by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, conditioned for the due performance of his duties. And if he shall fail in the proper performance of his duties in the premises, like redress may be had against him, his sureties, and his and their heirs, devisees, and personal rep-

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW

Summary proceeding provided by this section is "at least as broad as the rule of the common law." Diggs v. Thurston (39 App. D. C. 267).

HISTORICAL

An order by the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia, made in 1867, disbarring an attorney from practice in that court, did not remove the attorney from the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), the criminal court at that time being an independent court. The act of June 21, 1870 (16 Stat. 160, ch. 141), making the criminal court a part of the Supreme Court did not affect that order. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

UNAUTHORIZED LAW PRACTICE

Attempt of association to settle by arbitration automobile damage claims of less than $100 for and against its members constitutes the unauthorized practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Attempt of association to adjust without court action claims for property damage to automobiles of less than $100 constitutes the unauthorized practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Filing out of blank complaints to be filed in the small claims court constitutes the practice of law. Merrick v.

American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Conducting of a department of claims and adjustment by an automobile association constitutes the practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, in general term, shall have full power and authority to censure, suspend from practice, or expel any member of its bar for any crime, misdemeanor, fraud, deceit, malpractice, professional misconduct, or any conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice. Any fraudulent act or misrepresentation by an applicant in connection with his application or admission shall be sufficient cause for the revocation by said court of such admission. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 219; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIABILITY OF JUSTICES

Chief Justice and Associate Justice when affixing their signature to an order for disbarment act within scope of their official authority and within jurisdiction of the court, and they are not liable for damages therefrom. Fletcher v. Wheat (69 App. D. C. 259, 100 Fed. (2d) 432).

MANDAMUS PROPER REMEDY

The petition for mandamus is the proper remedy to test the question of the right of the District Court without notice to suspend an attorney from practice during the period prior to the hearing on a motion for disbarment. Laughlin v. Wheat (68 App. D. C. 190, 95 Fed. (2d) 101).

MISCONDUCT

Court may order attorney to pay to client money collected for the latter, and retained or paid out without lawful authority, and this authority is not affected by the common-law action available to the client. Diggs v. Thurston (39 App. D. C. 267).

When attorney entered in transaction with clients with no deliberate intention of fraudulently profiting at their expense, such misconduct warranted suspension but not disbarment. Costigan v. Adkins (57 App. D. C. 153, 18 Fed. (2d) 803).

On the evidence defendant's failure to disclose loss of money to client held to be unprofessional conduct, which could be adequately punished by his suspension rather than disbarment. Costigan v. Adkins (57 App. D. C. 153, 18 Fed. (2d) 803, cert. den. 274 U. S. 760, 71 L. Ed. 1338, 47 Sup. Ct. 769).

Conduct by an attorney in his professional capacity prejudicial to the administration of justice would necessarily constitute professional misconduct in preparation of pleadings and affidavit. Curtis v. Whiteford (59 App. D. C. 330, 41 Fed. (2d) 302).

Order disbarring defendant affirmed on evidence that he filed a false affidavit of merit in suit to recover fees for legal services, stating that he had received no compensation, whereas, in fact he had received two separate payments on account. Curtis v. Whiteford (59 App. D. C. 330, 41 Fed. (2d) 302).

An attorney is properly disbarred who deceives the court by false statements and misappropriates client's money. Thomas v. Ogilby (59 App. D. C. 382, 44 Fed. (2d) 890).

Whenever any member of the bar of said court shall be convicted of any offense involving moral turpitude, and a duly certified copy of the final judgment of such conviction shall be presented to said court, the name of the member so convicted may thereupon, by order of said court, be stricken from the roll of the members of said bar, and he shall thereafter cease to be a member thereof. In the event of appeal from any such judgment of conviction as aforesaid, and pending the final determination of such appeal, the said court may order the suspension from practice of such convicted member of the bar; and upon a reversal of such conviction, or the granting of a pardon, said court shall have power to vacate or modify such order of disbarment or suspension. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

Before any such member of the bar is censured, suspended, or expelled as provided by section 11-1302, written charges, under oath, against him must be presented to said court, stating distinctly the grounds of complaint. Said court in general term may order said charges to be filed in the office of the clerk of said court and shall fix a time for hearing thereon. Thereupon a certified copy of said charges and order shall be served upon such member personally by the marshal or such other person as the court may designate, or in case it is established to the satisfaction of the court that personal service can not be had, a certified copy of such charges and order shall be served upon him by mail, publication, or otherwise as the court may direct. At any time after the filing of said written charges the court shall have power, pending the trial thereof, to suspend from practice the person charged. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 220; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

The 1920 amendment amended the 1901 act by deleting the word "clerk" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "jury commission," and by deleting all the remainder of the 1901 section after the present word "therefrom" in the first sentence of the first paragraph, and inserting in lieu thereof the present remainder of the section except as it has been amended as hereafter shown.

The 1925 amendment recomposed the last paragraph to provide for a monthly drawing of jurors for criminal court.

The June 14, 1926 amendment, in effect, added the words "grand and" in the first paragraph.

The July 3, 1926 amendment restored the last paragraph to the 1920 form, and reenacted the entire section as it now reads, probably because of the wording of the June 14, 1926 amendment, which purported to delete the entire section except the first paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IRREGULARITIES

Where pleas in abatement filed four years after indictment which shows that clerk of jury commission, charged with duty of selecting persons, unlawfully abstracted names of prospective jurors so that other prospective jurors were not drawn, this constitutes a serious irregularity in organization of grand jury but is not sufficient to show that it is an illegal body; such pleas in abatement were also filed too late. Hyde v. United States (35 App. D. C. 451, aff'd 225 U. S. 347, 56 L. Ed. 1114, 32 Sup. Ct. 793).

PANEL EXHAUSTED

Where the list of jurors given to accused before trial contained the names of all jurors assigned to serve in the criminal division of the court, but after the panel was exhausted other jurors were called from the civil court, the statutory requirement was satisfied, there being no charge that the selected jury was disqualified. Eagles v. United States (58 App. D. C. 122, 25 Fed. (2d) 546, cert. den. 277 U. S. 609, 72 L. Ed. 1013, 48 Sup. Ct. 603).

PUBLICLY BREAK THE SEAL

Act of assistant clerk in breaking seal of jury box and drawing jury when in the presence of the clerk and witnesses is a sufficient compliance with D. C. Code 1901 Edit., § 204 (31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854). Fletcher v. United States (42 App. D. C. 53); Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239).

VENIRE

Issuance of a venire is unnecessary when after the names of the grand jurors had been drawn the clerk certified those names to the marshal, who notified them of their selection and when to appear in court. Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239).

Whenever the United States attorney for the District of Columbia shall certify in writing to the chief justice of the District Court of the United States for said District, or, in his absence, to the senior associate justice of said court, that the exigencies of the public service require it, said chief justice or senior associate justice may, in his discretion, order an additional grand jury summoned, which additional grand jury shall be drawn at such time as he may designate in the manner provided by law for the drawing of grand jurors in the District of Columbia, and unless sooner discharged by order of said chief justice, or, in his absence, senior associate justice, said additional grand jury shall serve during and until the end of the term in and for which it shall have been drawn. (May 19, 1922, 42 Stat. 543, ch. 194.)

If any person whose name is drawn from the box shall have died or removed from the District before or after being selected, or become otherwise disqualified or disabled, the jury commission shall destroy the slip containing the name of such person, and in such case the jury commission shall draw from the box the name of another person to serve in his stead. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 205; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment rewrote this section to include the words "before or after being selected," to substitute "jury commission" for "clerk," and to rephrase the wording.

After the requisite number of jurors shall have been drawn the jury box shall be sealed and delivered to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for safekeeping, and the names of the persons drawn shall not be placed again in the box for one year, unless said jurors shall be excused or for other reasons shall fail to serve. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 206; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "and delivered to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for safe keeping" in lieu of the words "and remain in the custody of the clerk."

At the time of each drawing of jurors by said commission there shall be in the jury box the names of not less than six hundred persons possessing the qualifications hereinafter prescribed, which names shall have been placed therein by said jury commission. Said jury commission shall keep an accurate record, in alphabetical form, of all names remaining in the jury box from time to time, which record shall be kept sealed and deposited for safe-keeping in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia when the commission is not in session, and no person shall have access to said record except said commission. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 207; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the section of the 1901 act and substituted therefor the above. The former section read: "Any person who shall have been regularly drawn as a juror and shall thereupon have served as such for the period of twenty days or more shall be exempt from further service as a juror in said court for the period of one year from the beginning of his said term of service; but nothing herein contained shall render said juror ineligible to serve during said year, except that no person shall serve as a juror for two consecutive terms."

If any persons drawn as grand or petit jurors can not be found, or shall prove to be incompetent, or shall be excused from service by the court, the jury commission, under the direction of the court, shall draw from the box the name of other persons to take their places, and if, after the organization of the jury, any vacancies occur therein, they shall be filled in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 208; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "grand or petit" before the word "jurors," deleted the word "clerk" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "jury commission," and composed the paragraph into one sentence.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Alternate jurors, see Rule 47.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PANEL EXHAUSTED

If any persons are incompetent, the clerk under court's direction shall draw from the box the names of others to take their places, and since this is the only method for procuring a jury in a capital case owing to the exception in § 353 (§ 11-1413), which provides that if during the impaneling, the court may in its discretion draw further names when the panel becomes exhausted, such jury is properly drawn consonant with intent of framers of the statute. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

Whenever in any criminal case in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia it shall become impossible, on account of challenges or excuses, to impanel a trial jury from among the available petit jurors already in attendance on said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and distributed or assigned among the several special terms thereof, the justice presiding at such criminal trial shall order the marshal to summon as many talesmen as may be necessary to complete said jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 209; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the section of the 1901 act and substituted therefor the above. The former section read: "If at any time during the impaneling of a jury, in any other than a capital case, the regular panel, by reason of challenge or otherwise, shall become exhausted before the jury is complete the court may in its discretion, direct the clerk to draw from the box the names of other persons to serve as jurors and cause them to be summoned, or order the marshal to summon as many talesmen as may be necessary to complete the jury."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION OF PRIOR LAW

This section leaves it in the discretion of the trial judge, except in capital cases, to issue an open venire. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

It is proper to draw a number of grand jurors in excess of the number of vacancies. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

It shall be the duty of the marshal, at least five days before the meeting of the court for which a jury is required, to notify each person drawn by serving on him a notice in writing of his selection as a juror of the court he is to attend and of the day and hour when he is to appear. Such notice shall be given to each juror in person or be left at his usual place of residence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 210.)

A copy of the notice, with his certificate stating when and in what manner the original was served, shall be returned by the marshal to the court before the commencement of the term for which the jurors were drawn. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 211.)

If any person selected as a juror and duly notified to attend shall, without sufficient cause, neglect to attend agreeably to notice he shall be fined by the court in a sum not exceeding twenty dollars for every day that he shall be absent during the sitting of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 212.)

No person shall be competent to act as a juror unless he be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the District of Columbia, over twenty-one and under sixty-five years of age, able to read and write and to understand the English language, and a good and lawful person, who has never been convicted of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. NOTES TO DECISIONS

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Qualifications here prescribed do not furnish only test of juror's competency. Common-law provision is still in force making a government employee ineligible in a criminal case. Crawford v. United States (212 U. S. 183, 53 L. Ed. 465, 29 Sup. Ct. 260, rev'g 30 App. D. C. 1).

No person shall be disqualified for service as a juror or jury commissioner by reason of sex but the provisions of law relating to the qualifications of jurors and exemptions from jury duty shall in all cases apply to women as well as to men: Provided, That such service shall not be compulsory on any woman. (Feb. 26, 1927, 44 Stat. 1249, ch. 220.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EXCUSING AS JUROR

Where defendant had four peremptory challenges left, he can not claim prejudice because a woman juror was excused at her own request, after jury was accepted but not sworn. Fall v. United States (60 App. D. C. 124, 49 Fed. (2d) 506, cert. den. 283 U. S. 867, 75 L. Ed. 1471, 51 Sup. Ct. 657).

QUESTIONS NOT RAISED IN LOWER COURT

Objection to validity of this section made for first time on appeal, held too late. Howard v. United States (58 App. D. C. 179, 26 Fed. (2d) 551).

A person may be excused by the court from serving on a jury when for any reason his interests or those of the public may be materially injured by his attendance, or when he is a party in any action or proceeding to be tried or determined by the intervention of a jury at the term for which he may be summoned, or where his own health or the death or sickness of a member of his family requires his absence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 217; Feb. 18, 1909, 35 Stat. 636, ch. 146, § 73; Aug. 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 682, ch. 605.)

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section as amended in 1935, qualifying government employees and pensioners for jury service in criminal cases, does not violate the sixth amendment to the United States Constitution providing for a trial by an "impartial jury." *United States v. The 1935 amendment did not render this section either arbitrary or capricious so as to render it violative of the due process clause of the fifth amendment. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587).

Actions in forma pauperis in United States courts, § 11-1508.

§ 11-1506 [10: 6]. Deposit for costs in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia—Refunds—Security for costs by nonresidents.

At the commencement of every suit in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia the plaintiff shall deposit at least ten dollars with the clerk, to be appropriated toward the costs of the suit; and the court is hereby authorized to prescribe rules as to any further costs to be paid by either the plaintiff or defendant during the progress of the case, and as to the collection thereof. Upon the termination of the case any surplus of costs shall be refunded by the clerk.

The defendant in any suit instituted by a non-resident of the District of Columbia, or by one who becomes such after the suit is commenced, may, upon notice served on the plaintiff or his attorney, at any time after service of process on the defendant, require the plaintiff to give security for all costs and charges that may be adjudged against him on the final disposition of the cause. But such right of the defendant shall not entitle him to delay in pleading, and his pleading before the giving of such security shall not be deemed a waiver of his right to require such security for costs. In case of noncompliance with the foregoing requirements, within a time to be fixed by the court, judgment of nonsuit or dismissal shall be entered. The security required may be by an undertaking, with security, to be approved by the court, or by a deposit of money in amount to be fixed by the court.

A nonresident may, at the commencement of his suit, deposit with the clerk such sum in money as the court shall deem sufficient as security for all costs that may accrue in the cause, which deposit may afterwards be increased on application, in the discretion of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 175.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY OF CLERK

Fees and emoluments of the office belong to the government, subject only to the payment of the annual salary of the clerk, necessary clerk hire, and incidental expenses, and the clerk is the collecting agent of the government. Bean v. Patterson (110 U. S. 401, 28 L. Ed. 190, 4 Sup. Ct. 23).

Clerk should account to United States for fees received in civil actions and from the territory on account of territorial business, but not for services in naturalization proceedings. United States v. McMillan (165 U. S. 504, 41 L. Ed. 805, 17 Sup. Ct. 395).

FORMER RULE

As to liability of District of Columbia Commissioners for costs prior to act of June 9, 1910, see Brown v. Macfarland (22 App. D. C. 412).

PRINTING RECORD

Practice under this section has been for parties to deposit the sum of $25 in lieu of a fee bond, and the rule provides for the subsequent advance of the cost of printing the record and the fee for its preparation. Green v. Elbert (137 U. S. 615, 34 L. Ed. 792, 11 Sup. Ct. 188).

REASON FOR THE RULE

Clerk is required to pay into the treasury the fees and emoluments of his office over and above his own compensation as fixed by law, and his necessary clerk hire and incidental expenses. It is proper, therefore, that for his protection his fees should be paid in advance, if demanded. Steever v. Rickman (109 U. S. 74, 27 L. Ed. 861, 3 Sup. Ct. 67, 343).

§ 11-1508 [10: 8]. Poor persons allowed to plead and proceed without prepayment of fees and costs.

Any citizen of the United States entitled to commence any suit or action, civil or criminal, in any court of the United States, may, upon the order of the court, commence and prosecute or defend to conclusion any suit or action, or a writ of error or an appeal to the circuit court of appeals, or to the Supreme Court in such suit or action, including all appellate proceedings, unless the trial court shall certify in writing that in the opinion of the court such appeal or writ of error is not taken in good faith, without being required to prepay fees or costs or for the printing of the record in the appellate court or give security therefor, before or after bringing suit or action, or upon suing out a writ of error or appealing, upon filing in said court a statement under oath in writing, that because of his poverty he is unable to pay the costs of said suit or action or of such writ of error or appeal, or to give security for the same, and that he believes that he is entitled to the redress he seeks in such suit or action or writ of error or appeal, and setting forth briefly the nature of his alleged cause of action, or appeal: Pro- vided, That in any criminal case the court may, upon the filing in said court of the affidavit hereinbefore mentioned, direct that the expense of printing the record on appeal or writ of error be paid by the United States, and the same shall be paid when authorized by the Attorney-General. (June 25, 1910, 36 Stat. 866, ch. 435; June 27, 1922, 42 Stat. 666, ch. 246.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The act of Congress of Jan. 31, 1928, 45 Stat. 54, ch. 14, § 1 (U. S. C., title 28, §§ 861a, 861b), abolished the writ of error in cases, civil and criminal, and provided that "all relief which heretofore could be obtained by writ of error shall hereafter be obtainable by appeal." This law applies to courts of the United States and consequently would apply to the review of decisions of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, but would not of necessity apply to the police court, municipal court, and other District courts not considered as courts of the United States.

AMENDMENT

The 1922 amendment added the proviso.

TRANSCRIPTS

As Congress did not grant to the court the power to authorize payment for transcripts of testimony for poor persons, the court has no such authority. United States ex rel. Estabrook v. Otis ((C. C. A. 8), 18 Fed. (2d) 689).

UNITED STATES NOT LIABLE

Congress did not intend that the United States should be liable for any of the costs incurred under the provisions of this act. United States v. Fair ((D. C.-Cal.), 235 Fed. 1015).

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British Statute continued in force by virtue of the act of Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1. It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

(8 and 9 Wm. 3, ch. 11, § 1; Kilty's Rept. p. 243; Alex. Brit. Stat. p. 602; Comp. Stat. D. C. p. 417, § 101.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section appears to be in force except insofar as it has been modified by and is inconsistent with §§ 11-1512 to 11-1515. It appears to be in force as far as the municipal and juvenile courts are concerned.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISBARMENT PROCEEDINGS

Disbarment proceedings against attorney do not survive, although appeal was pending at his death. Metzger v. O'Donoghue (53 App. D. C. 107, 288 Fed. 461).

PARTNERSHIPS

This section is not applicable to partnerships, since surviving partner is vested with legal title to the assets of the partnership, and after reducing them to possession will be accountable to representative of deceased partner. Dingman v. Henry (51 App. D. C. 339, 279 Fed. 795).

PERSONAL INJURY

The cause of action for personal injury does not survive the death of the wrongdoer or the injured person. Woolen v. Lorenz (68 App. D. C. 389, 98 Fed. (2d) 261).

§ 12-102 [24:32]. Deceased defendant—Common law actions—Substituted party defendant—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Limitation.

No action at common law shall abate by the death of either or any of the parties thereto if the right of action would survive as aforesaid; but upon the death of any defendant the action shall continue pending, and the heir, devisee, executor, administrator, or other person interested in the place of the deceased defendant, as the case may require, may appear to such action. And in case the proper person to defend such action shall not appear to the same during the term of the court in which such death may be suggested, the plaintiff may cause a summons to be issued, directed to the proper person to defend such action, to be served on such person, if found in the District of Columbia and legally suable therein, requiring him to appear thereto on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the service thereof, and show cause why such action should not be prosecuted to judgment; and if it shall appear to the court that such summons has been duly served, and the person so summoned shall not appear as thereby required, then the court may cause the appearance of such person to be entered, and there shall be the same proceedings in said action as if said person had voluntarily appeared; and all the proceedings had before the death of the defendant shall be considered as proceedings in the action, and such further proceedings shall be had to bring the cause fairly to trial as the court may deem proper. If the proper representative of a deceased defendant be not made a party to the action within one year from the death of said defendant, the action shall abate as to such defendant: Provided, however, That where the representative of the deceased is an executor or administrator the plaintiff shall have six months after the issuance of letters testamentary or of administration within which to make such representative a party: And provided further, That in case the summons above provided for shall be returned "Not to be found," publication may be substituted therefor in all cases in which proceeding by publication is authorized by this code. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 236.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Substitution of parties because of death, see Rule 25 (a).

Substitution of parties, death or separation from office of public official, see Rule 25 (d).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EJECTMENT

Upon the death of a married woman (plaintiff in an ejectment action), her husband, who thereby becomes entitled to the estate by curtesy, cannot be substituted in her place, and "a new action and summons on the part of the new plaintiff was essential." Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122).

PRIOR LAW

The failure to bring in the representative of a deceased plaintiff by the tenth day of the second term of the court after the suggestion of death in pursuance of provisions of act of Maryland of 1785, ch. 80, § 1, can not apply to the case where there are two or more parties plaintiff, against the survivor or survivors of whom the action may be continued. Corbett v. Pond (10 App. D. C. 17) distinguishing Danenhower v. Ball (8 App. D. C. 137).

REPLEVIN

It is not competent for plaintiff in replevin to discontinue or dismiss his suit or voluntarily withdraw from it, without the consent of defendant, after the property has been delivered to him under the writ, unless he returns the property taken or makes good his loss. Hence plaintiff's death does not bar action, and defendant has the right to compel the executor or administrator to become a party to the suit. Corbett v. Pond (10 App. D. C. 17).

"WITHIN YEAR"

The year within which proper representative must be made a party is measured from the death of defendants, and not from the time that plaintiff learned thereof. Whelan v. Welch (50 App. D. C. 173, 269 Fed. 639).

§ 12-103 [24: 33]. Deceased plaintiff—Actions at law before judgment—Substituted party plaintiff—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Failure to appear and prosecute—Limitation—Abatement or judgment.

If any plaintiff in any such action shall die before judgment is given, the heir, devisee, executor, administrator, or other proper person to prosecute such action may appear and prosecute the same; and if such person does not appear to prosecute such action during the term of said court in which the death may be suggested, the defendant may cause a summons to be issued, directed to the proper person to prosecute such action, requiring him to appear and prosecute the same on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after service of the same; and if it shall appear to the court that such summons has been duly served, and the party summoned shall fail to appear in obedience thereto to prosecute the action, or if said party be not found in the District of Columbia and shall not appear to prosecute such action by the fourth day of the second term of the court after the term at which the death is suggested, the action shall abate or the cause may proceed to judgment notwithstanding such failure to appear, as the defendant may elect; but if the proper person to prosecute such action shall appear therein, either voluntarily or after being summoned as aforesaid, before said suit shall so abate, all proceedings in the action had before the death of the plaintiff shall be considered as proceedings in the cause, and such other proceedings shall be had to bring the cause fairly to trial as the court may deem proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1228, ch. 854, § 237; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 528, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "the" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "any" as the second word of the section, and inserted after the word "abate," the first time it appears, the words "or the cause may proceed to judgment notwithstanding such failure to appear, as the defendant may elect."

§ 12-104 [24: 34]. Upon death or removal of new party, his representative may be made party in same manner as if original party.

In all cases where a new party has been made to any action under the provisions aforesaid, and the new party so made shall die before judgment, or if an executor or administrator shall be removed from his office, the proper person to prosecute or defend such action in the place of the party so dying or removed may be made a party thereto by the same proceeding herein authorized on the death of the original plaintiff or defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1228, ch. 854, § 238.)

§ 12-106 [24: 36]. New party entitled to and liable for costs and damages same as original, except defendant not liable beyond assets received.

In all cases where a new party is made to an action the costs which accrued before such new party was made shall be taxed as part of the costs in such action, and the judgment rendered shall be the same as if the action had been originally commenced between the persons who are parties to such action: Provided, That no defendant who is made a new party to such action shall be burdened with debts, damages, or costs beyond the amount of property or assets descended or come to his hands from the deceased. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 240.)

In case of the death of one of several joint defendants to an action, where the right of action will survive as aforesaid, the same proceedings shall be had to make the proper representative of the deceased a party to the action as in the case of a sole defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 241.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 12-102.

If any of the parties to a suit in equity, whether complainant or defendant, shall die after the filing of the bill or petition, it shall not be necessary to file a bill of revivor; but any of the surviving parties may file a suggestion of such death, setting forth when the death occurred, and who is the legal representative of such deceased party, and how he is the representative, whether by devise, descent, or otherwise. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Statutory period of limitation applicable to simple contract action in District of Columbia, applies to actions brought upon a contract which has the effect of a specialty in the place where made. Willard v. Wood (1 App. D. C. 44, affd. 164 U. S. 502, 41 L. Ed. 531, 17 Sup. Ct. 176).

Part payment of judgment debt within statutory period of limitations will not avoid the operation of the statute when it is pleaded to a scire facias to revive the judgment, or in action of debt on the judgment. Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226).

Bar of the statute of limitations will not commence to run in equity until the fraud has been discovered, or until such time as by the use of ordinary care it might reasonably have been discovered. Lewis v. Denison (2 App. D. C. 387).

Statute of limitations against claim of set-off is not stopped by action in which set-off is pleaded, unless set-off has some connection to the principal claim, but it continues to run until filing of such plea. Durant v. Murdock (3 App. D. C. 114).

In action by assignee to recover a call under direction of the court upon stockholder, the statute of limitations runs from the date of the order of court. Glenn v. Sothoron (4 App. D. C. 125).

On petition of holder of one note to participate in proceeds of sale of mortgaged property by foreclosure at the instance of the holder of the other note, the bar of limitations is not that applicable to an action on the note, but that which applies to the remedy for the enforcement of an equitable right under the mortgage; and the same period that would bar an ejectment is required. Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373).

There is nothing in the language of acts of incorporation to prevent the running of the statute of limitations in favor of claimant against the company, to a portion of a public highway. Columbia v. Krause (11 App. D. C. 398).

When there is a mutual account and the last item is barred by statute of limitations, it is not proper for one of the parties to remove the bar of the statute by entering later items on his own side of the account. Ross v. Fickling (11 App. D. C. 442).

When a declaration is filed, with directions, either express or implied, given by the person on whose behalf it is filed, or by his attorney, to the clerk to issue the proper process thereon, and nothing then remains to be done but that the clerk should proceed, and the party has otherwise complied with the requirements of law, if other requirements there be, such as payment of necessary fees, the suit must be deemed to be then commenced so far as to arrest the application of the statute of limitations. Huysman v. Evening Star (12 App. D. C. 586).

When parent agrees to compensate in his will for daughter's services, but no provision is made, she has an action against the administrator and the claim will not be barred by limitations until after the lapse of statutory period after administration is granted. Tuohy v. Trail (19 App. D. C. 79).

IN GENERAL

There is an apparent conflict between this section and § 16-1501, as to the extent of the principal limitation of actions and also as to the extent of the saving to parties under disability; but in order to give effect to both sections, the last-mentioned section, being the act of Congress of March 3, 1899, must be read as an exception to this section. Gwin v. Brown (21 App. D. C. 295).

"A defendant can not avail himself of the bar of the statute of limitations, if it appears that he has done anything that would tend to lull the plaintiff into inaction, and thereby permit the limitation prescribed by the statute to run against him." Hornblower v. George Washington University (31 App. D. C. 64).

ADVERSE POSSESSION

If testator's right of entry is barred by adverse possession and statute of limitations, a devisee takes nothing under the devise. Dangerfield v. Williams (26 App. D. C. 508).

Adverse possession for 15 years confers title, and § 16-1501 has no application in an action of ejectment based upon adverse possession. McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

AMENDMENTS TO PLEADINGS

Where the cause of action remains the same, an amendment changing it in a different form is not open to the defense of the statute of limitations. Beasley v. Baltimore & P. R. Co. (27 App. D. C. 595). See also District of Columbia v. Frazer (21 App. D. C. 154).

An amendment made for the purpose of curing a defective cause of action will relate back to time of filing the original petition; and if made after the time limit of the statute, will not be barred itself or cause original petition, which was filed in time, to be barred. Goodacre v. Shulmier (64 App. D. C. 10, 73 Fed. (2d) 519).

APPLICATION TO EQUITABLE ACTIONS

Enforcement in equity of mortgages and deeds of trust of real estate is governed by twenty-year period of statute of limitations. Sis v. Boardman (11 App. D. C. 116).

In cases of concurrent jurisdiction courts of equity will hold themselves bound by the statute of limitations that would govern an action at law upon the same demand; and where the subject-matter of the demand is one ordinarily cognizable at law, but, by reason of special conditions, the remedy for its enforcement in the particular case is obtainable solely in equity, the bar of limitation will be applied, either in obedience to the statute, or by analogy, in the same way as at law. Washington L. & T. Co. v. Darling (21 App. D. C. 132).

When in equity an attempt was made to avoid a devise as invalid on its face, the statute of limitations will be applied by analogy, and relief will be denied where there has been delay of more than statutory period. Columbia University v. Taylor (25 App. D. C. 124).

Where an action at law was barred by the statute, appellant can not avoid this conclusion by describing the misappropriated money as a trust fund, for equity follows the law in such cases and the limitation would be enforced. Moran v. Schlosberg (67 App. D. C. 163, 90 Fed. (2d) 408).

ASSAULT

Limitation of three years applies to a suit against the Director General of Railroads for damages for assault by special officer of railroad acting within the scope of his employment. Mellon v. Seymoure (56 App. D. C. 301, 12 Fed. (2d) 836).

CONFLICT OF LAWS

Where a Florida contract was sued upon in the District, the court applied the D. C. Code as the law of the forum. Wells v. Atropa Corp. (65 App. D. C. 281, 82 Fed. (2d) 887).

If by the law of the state which has created a right of action, it is made a condition of the right that it shall expire after a certain period of limitation has elapsed, no action begun after the period has elapsed can be maintained in any jurisdiction. Moran v. Harrison (67 App. D. C. 237, 91 Fed. (2d) 310, 113 A. L. R. 505).

Suit on a policy of life insurance brought within the six-year statute of limitations of New York, where the policy was to be paid, was barred by the three-year statute of the District of Columbia where the suit was brought. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

A limitation on the time of suit is procedural and is governed by the law of the forum. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

CONTRACTS

When debt is payable in independent instalments, the action accrues as it matures upon each, and if the obligee fails to act until statute of limitations has barred some of the instalments, he can recover only for those not barred when his action was commenced. Washington L. & Trust Co. v. Darling (21 App. D. C. 132).

When plaintiff claimed she rendered services under an express contract for a specified monthly compensation but more than three years elapsed between date payment became due and bringing of the action, the claim is barred by § 1265 of 1901 Code (this section), which provides a three-year period on express or implied contracts. McCurley v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 10, 258 Fed. 154); Booger v. Roach (25 App. D. C. 324).

An action against executrix, if regarded as one upon account, accrued on the date of the last item, and is barred in three years. Anglo-Colombian Dev. Co. v. Stapleton (57 App. D. C. 209, 19 Fed. (2d) 683).

Limitation of three years applies to a suit against estate of testate for recovery upon a quantum meruit for services performed, or for specific performance of contract to compensate for services in will, and cause of action accrues at death of promisor. Hurdle v. American Sec. & Trust Co. (59 App. D. C. 58, 32 Fed. (2d) 954).

Applicable to action on contract brought in United States Court for China. Chalaire v. Franklin ((C. C. A. 9), 81 Fed. (2d) 105, cert. den. 293 U. S. 678, 80 L. Ed. 1399, 56 Sup. Ct. 942).

FOREIGN JUDGMENTS

"The section (this section) is lengthy and prescribes periods of limitation for many actions, civil and criminal, specially enumerated therein. The clause aforesaid (not otherwise provided for) was apparently intended to remedy a possible omission of some action that might have been properly embraced in that enumeration. Foreign judgments were provided for specially in section 1267 (§ 12-203)," and therefore, are not embraced in this section. McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

FRAUD

Action for fraud in inducing plaintiff to purchase realty, barred in three years. District-Florida Corp. v. Penny (62 App. D. C. 268, 66 Fed. (2d) 794).

Partners asking for an accounting of a partnership dissolution agreement, on the ground of fraud, four years later, are barred by laches. Singer v. Friedman (66 App. D. C. 191, 85 Fed. (2d) 690, cert. den. 299 U. S. 590, 81 L. Ed. 435, 57 Sup. Ct. 116).

HISTORICAL

By the enactment of this section, §§ 1 and 2 of the statute of James (21 James I, ch. 16), were repealed, and new periods of limitations substituted therefor. Gwin v. Brown (21 App. D. C. 295).

The Maryland statute of limitations of 1715 "was repealed or superseded by the District Code." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

IMPRISONMENT

The fact that plaintiff was held to bail and remained under bond did not stop the running of the statute of limitations against his civil action for libel. Rose v. Washington Times Co. (57 App. D. C. 385, 23 Fed. 993, cert. den. 277 U. S. 597, 72 L. Ed. 1006, 48 Sup. Ct. 559).

MANDAMUS

This section is not applicable to mandamus proceedings. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane (249 U. S. 367, 63 L. Ed. 650, 39 Sup. Ct. 293).

MINORS

In an action for negligence "the minor * * * has the entire period of his minority and three years thereafter within which to institute the action," and, if the action is brought within his minority, he is not confined to three years after the accrual of the right. Carson v. Jackson (52 App. D. C. 51, 281 Fed. 411).

The interest of adult beneficiary barred by statute and insurance company was liable to minor beneficiaries only to the extent of their separate interests in the policy. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

NEW PROMISE OR ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Suit for services is barred after three years from the time the action accrued, in the absence of a new promise or an acknowledgment within statutory period. Booger v. Roach (25 App. D. C. 324).

Where property covered by a mortgage barred by limitations, was devised by will, with a provision that the mortgage should be first satisfied, payee was entitled to interest not only to time of maturity of note but to time of payment. Taylor v. Drury (56 App. D. C. 266, 12 Fed. (2d) 489).

Commissioner's direction to assessor to cancel the record of paving assessments did not constitute an acknowledgment of indebtedness which would take case out of the operation of the statute of limitations. Lake for Use of Peyser v. District of Columbia (63 App. D. C. 306, 72 Fed. (2d) 174).

To take any case out of the operation of the statute, the acknowledgment must not be accompanied by circumstances which negative any intention or promise to pay. Moore v. Snyder (71 App. D. C. 293, 109 Fed. (2d) 840).

Letter by Maryland corporation, whose charter has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, to debtor extending, at the debtor's request, the time for action for deficiency judgment, was not sufficient to toll the statute of limitations, and the debtor was not estopped to plead such statute. Glennan v. Lincoln Inv. Corp. (71 App. D. C. 365, 110 Fed. (2d) 130).

PERSONAL INJURIES

In a suit for personal injuries sustained as a result of three separate acts, two of which are barred by limitations, evidence of injuries sustained by any but the one act not barred is inadmissible. Jackson v. Emmons (25 App. D. C. 146, affd. 203 U. S. 578, 51 L. Ed. 325, 27 Sup. Ct. 778).

RECOVERY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Limitations do not apply to attachment for recovery of property seized by alien property custodian. Sprunt v. Direction Der Disconto Gesellschaft (61 App. D. C. 350, 63 Fed. (2d) 127, cert. den. 289 U. S. 730, 77 L. Ed. 1479, 53 Sup. Ct. 526).

RECOVERY OF THE POSSESSION OF LAND

"An action against the commissioners to compel the execution and delivery of a tax deed is not one for the recovery of the possession of land" and does not come within the 15-year limitation, but within the omnibus clause of the section. Luchs v. Christman (42 App. D. C. 326).

RELEASE OF SURETY

Whether an indemnitor is discharged by the mere failure of his obligee to sue the principal debtor until suit is barred by the statute of limitations remains an open question in this court. Chapman v. Hoage (296 U. S. 526, 80 L. Ed. 370, 56 Sup. Ct. 333).

STATUTE A DEFENSE ONLY

Statute of limitations is "one of repose, and not one of payment or cancellation. It is a bar to the remedy only and does not extinguish or even impair the obligation of the debtor." Hall v. District of Columbia (47 App. D. C. 552); Talbott v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 96, 261 Fed. 244); Miles v. McGrath ((D. C.-Md.) 4 Fed. Supp. 604).

Statute of limitations is available as defense and not as a cause of action, and a suit to cancel lien of deed of trust can not be upon the ground that the power of sale under the trust deed was barred by statute. Talbott v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 96, 261 Fed. 244).

STATUTORY PENALTY OR FORFEITURE

Liability of principal and sureties on bond given by a contractor with District of Columbia, providing that such bond shall be the "usual penal bond" conditioned upon contractor paying expenses for materials and labor, is not a statutory penalty in the proper legal sense as to come within one-year statute of limitations within meaning of section 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section). Pavarini v. Title Guar. & S. Co. (36 App. D. C. 348).

Revocation of license to practice medicine is in the nature of a remedial measure for the protection of the public, and not a penalty or forfeiture, but as less than three years intervened between final judgment of conviction and institution of this proceeding, it is unnecessary to consider the application of the general three-year statute of limitations. Kemp v. Medical Supervisors (46 App. D. C. 173).

A proceeding to revoke physician's license who had been convicted of crime involving moral turpitude is not barred by act of Congress of June 3, 1896 (29 Stat. 198, ch. 313) when proceeding is instituted more than two years after affirmation of conviction; and it is not barred by § 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section) which provides for one-year period after cause of action accrues; nor is it barred by the fact that more than three years elapsed between conviction in trial court and proceeding by supervisors. Kemp v. Medical Supervisors (46 App. D. C. 173).

WHEN STATUTE BEGINS TO RUN

Upon the abandonment of a public improvement, cause of action for the return of assessment for benefits accrues at the time of abandonment. District of Columbia v. Thompson (281 U. S. 25, 74 L. Ed. 677, 50 Sup. Ct. 172, affg. 58 App. D. C. 313, 30 Fed. (2d) 476).

This jurisdiction prefers the rule followed in New York and Pennsylvania, which excludes the day on which the cause of action accrues, as a point of time after which the limitation ensues. Ambrose v. Brown (42 App. D. C. 25).

Payments made after life tenant's death tolled the three-year statute under § 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section) as to bringing suit against trustee's executor. National Sav. & Trust Co. v. Ryan (49 App. D. C. 159, 262 Fed. 613).

The time between the death of the deceased and the granting of letters testamentary is not to be counted in determining whether or not the statute of limitations has run. National Sav. & Trust Co. v. Ryan (49 App. D. C. 159, 262 Fed. 613).

Where a broker is engaged to procure a loan on real estate, the statute of limitations, as far as it affects his right to recover commissions, runs from the time that he furnishes a person ready, able, and willing to make the loan, and not from the time of the contract of employment. Daniel v. Drury (50 App. D. C. 107, 267 Fed. 751).

In computing limitation for action for malicious prosecution, the day on which cause of action accrued should be excluded. Freeman v. Pew (61 App. D. C. 223, 59 Fed. (2d) 1037).

Since no liability accrued until the date set by the comptroller, and since suit was brought within three years of that date, the action is not barred. Strasburger v. Schram (68 App. D. C. 87, 93 Fed. (2d) 246).

A promissory note payable on demand is a present debt and the statute begins to run from its date. Feucht v. Keller (70 App. D. C. 117, 104 Fed. (2d) 250), citing Kenyon v. Youngman (59 App. D. C. 300, 40 Fed. (2d) 812).

In suits against the estate of a deceased person, in computing the time of limitation, the interval, not exceeding two years, between the death of the deceased and the granting of letters testamentary or of administration shall not be counted as part of said time of limitation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1266; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "not exceeding two years" after the word "interval."

PROVING CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE

Proving claim against decedent's estate under section 336 of the 1901 Code (§ 18-509), as suspending running of limitations. Berry & Whitmore Co. v. Dante (43 App. D. C. 110).

Every action upon a judgment or decree rendered in any state or territory of the United States or in any foreign country shall be barred if by the laws of such state, territory, or foreign country such action would there be barred and the judgment or decree be incapable of being otherwise enforced there. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1267; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the following words from the end of the section: "and whether so barred or not, no action shall be brought in the District on any such judgment or decree rendered more than ten years before the commencement of such action."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

"This section prescribes two rules of limitation. By the first, all judgments barred by the law of the place of recovery are barred in the District. By the second, if not barred by the law of the place of recovery, still no action can be brought on any such judgment rendered more than ten years before the commencement of the action. On June 30, 1902, section 1267 (this section) was amended by striking therefrom the last part * * * in which the second rule aforesaid is embodied." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

EFFECT LIMITED

"Section 1267, as amended (this section), has no other effect than to bar an action upon a judgment of another state that is barred, at the time of the commencement of the action, by the laws of that state." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

None of the provisions of sections 12-201 to 12-203 shall apply to any action in which the United States is the real and not merely the nominal plaintiff. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1268; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the word "foregoing," translated herein as "sections 12-201 to 12-203," and struck out the word "aforesaid," inserting in lieu thereof the words "of this chapter," which refer to chapter 41 of the D. C. Code, 1901 edition.

If, when a cause of action accrues against a person who is a resident of the District of Columbia, he is out of the District or has absconded or concealed himself, the period limited for the bringing of the action shall not begin to run until he comes into the District or while he is so absconded or concealed; and if after the cause of action accrues he abscond or conceal himself, the time of such absence or concealment shall not be computed as any part of the period within which the action must be brought. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1269.)

Where the bringing of an action has been stayed by an injunction or other order of a court of justice, or by statutory prohibition, the time of such stay shall not be part of the time limited for the commencement of the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1270.)

No provision in the will of a testator devising his real estate, or any part thereof, subject to the payment of his debts, or charging the same therewith, shall prevent the statute of limitations from operating against such debts, unless it plainly appears to be the testator's intention that it shall not so operate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1272.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 12-208 [24: 348]. Actions against District of Columbia for unliquidated damages—Notice within 6 months—Police report.

No action shall be maintained against the District of Columbia for unliquidated damages to person or property unless the claimant within six months after the injury or damage was sustained, he, his agent, or attorney gave notice in writing to the commissioners of the District of Columbia of the approximate time, place, cause, and circumstances of such injury or damage: Provided, however, That a report in writing by the Metropolitan police department, in regular course of duty, shall be regarded as a sufficient notice under the above provision. (Feb. 28, 1933, 47 Stat. 1370, ch. 138.)

STATUTORY REFERENCE—BRITISH STATUTE

It has been suggested that portions of the third section of Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2d, c. 3) remain in force. That section provides that: "No leases, estates, or interests, either of freehold, or terms of years, or any uncertain interests, not being copyhold, or customary interest, of, in, to, or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be assigned, granted, or surrendered, unless it be by deed or note in writing, signed by the party so assigning, granting, or surrendering the same, or their agents thereunto lawfully authorized by writing, or by act and operation of law."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OUSTER OF TENANTS

Plaintiff-grantee could not ignore the legal procedure provided for ousting tenants, and compromise with them for a sum which it might elect to pay, and then recover that sum from defendant-grantors upon any basis of breach of warranty. Standard Sav. Bank v. Stone (52 App. D. C. 42, 280 Fed. 1016).

No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them, or upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, which need not state the consideration, and signed by the party to be charged therewith or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1117.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION GENERALLY

This section applies to an agreement which appears from its terms to be incapable of performance within a year. Street v. Maddux (58 App. D. C. 42, 24 Fed. (2d) 617).

DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY

If contract contains in itself no description of the property to be sold, standing alone, no court of equity could specifically enforce it, but, if the description is found in other writings, forming part and parcel of the transaction, the omission is not fatal. Shell Eastern Petroleum Products v. White (62 App. D. C. 332, 68 Fed. (2d) 379).

MEMORANDUM TO DISCLOSE VENDOR

A contract for the sale of land, where the memorandum fails to disclose the name of the vendor, can not be enforced. Storrow v. Concord Club (63 App. D. C. 190, 70 Fed. (2d) 852).

OPTION WITHIN YEAR

While plaintiff's contract with defendant was in parol, the option might have been exercised within a year, and the statute therefore did not apply. Campbell v. Rawlings (52 App. D. C. 37, 280 Fed. 1011, 23 A. L. R. 854).

PARTIAL PERFORMANCE

Remaining in employ of one orally agreeing to devise real estate when husband wished to move to another city held not to amount to such a change in the course of service in life of promisee as would justify invocation of exceptional rule of equity permitting specific performance. Faunce v. Woods (55 App. D. C. 330, 5 Fed. (2d) 753, 40 A. L. R. 208).

All declarations or creations of trust or confidence of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments shall be manifested and proved by some writing signed by the party who is by law enabled to declare such trust or by his last will in writing, or else they shall be utterly void and of none effect.

All grants and assignments of any trust or confidence shall likewise be in writing, signed by the party granting or assigning the same or by such last will or devise, or else shall likewise be utterly void and of none effect.

Where any conveyance shall be made of any lands or tenements by which a trust or confidence shall or may arise or result by the implication or construction of law, or be transferred or extinguished by an act or operation of law, then and in every such case such trust or confidence shall be of the like force and effect as the same would have been if this statute had not been made. It is immaterial that letters were written after instead of before or at the time of the contract. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (64 App. D. C. 156, 75 Fed. (2d) 675).

ORIGINAL PROMISE OF GENERAL CONTRACTOR

Alleged original promises of the general contractor to pay a materialman for materials furnished a subcontractor by the application of any retainable percentages accruing to the subcontractor were insufficient to warrant judgment against the general contractor when the subcontractor defaulted and the general contractor was compelled to take over the work and finish it at a loss. Watkins-Whitney v. Thyson (65 App. D. C. 404, 78 Fed. (2d) 1022).

§ 12-305 [11: 5]. New promise to be in writing—Effect of payment on account—Recovery against joint contractors, coexecutors, coadministrators when statute waived.

In actions of debt or upon the case grounded upon any simple contract, no acknowledgment or promise by words only shall be deemed sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take any case out of the operation of the statute of limitations or to deprive any party of the benefit thereof unless such acknowledgment or promise shall be made or contained by or in some writing to be signed by the party chargeable thereby: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall alter or take away, or lessen the effect of any payment of any principal or interest made by any person whatsoever: Provided, also, That in actions to be commenced against two or more joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, if it shall appear at the trial, or otherwise, that the plaintiff, though barred by the statute of limitations as to one or more of such joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, shall nevertheless be entitled to recover against any other or others of the defendants by virtue of a new acknowledgment or promise or otherwise, judgment may be given for the plaintiff as to such defendant or defendants against whom he shall recover. No indorsement or memorandum of any payment written or made upon any promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing, by or on behalf of the party to whom such payment shall purport to be made, shall be deemed sufficient proof of such payment so as to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

A promise to pay to the creditor an indebtedness at such time as creditor should need it is not a conditional promise to pay but an acknowledgment and new promise, and sufficient to avoid bar of statute of limitations. Cooper v. Olcott (1 App. D. C. 123).

PRIOR TO CODE

Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226); Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (3 App. D. C. 395); Pumphrey v. Boggan (8 App. D. C. 449); Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373); Reed v. Tierney (12 App. D. C. 165).

Evidence of a new promise may be given under the general issue joined on the plea of limitations. Pumphrey v. Boggan (8 App. D. C. 449).

Defendant can not be permitted, after he has made an acknowledgment, the effect of which may be to remove the bar, or to prevent the running of the statute, as to a particular account, upon a different occasion, by his declaration or claim, to overcome, qualify, or defeat the effect of his previous acknowledgment. Bean v. Wheatley (13 App. D. C. 473).

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF PARTNER

When debt is legally subsisting and not affected by the statute of limitations, an acknowledgment or promise of one partner will avoid the operation of the statute as to the rest. Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (3 App. D. C. 395).

EVIDENCE

Testimony of oral acknowledgment and promise to pay debt within statute of limitations is admissible in action against one upon the debt when there is other and written evidence consisting of letters relating to the debt, as § 1271 does not make testimony of oral acknowledgment wholly inadmissible, but provides only that it shall not be sufficient evidence. Shelley v. Westcott (23 App. D. C. 135).

Parol evidence, if competent, is admissible as to indorsement of payment on note. Madison v. White (60 App. D. C. 329, 54 Fed. (2d) 440).

EXTENSION OF TIME

Agreement for the extension of the time for payment was good and binding upon the parties thereto; and consequently the right of action upon the note, by reason of such extension of time for payment, did not accrue until the 16th of March 1894; and as this action was commenced on the 19th of February 1897, therefore the statute of limitations forms no bar to the right of recovery. Reed v. Tierney (12 App. D. C. 165).

JUDGMENT FOR EXECUTION

Judgment for execution is a new judgment, and statute of limitations begins to run from the new date. Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226).

NOTES SECURED BY MORTGAGE

On petition by holder of one of two notes secured by mortgage for leave to participate in sale of mortgaged property in foreclosure proceedings by the holder of the other note, in this proceeding the bar of limitation, or lapse of time, does not apply, as in case of an action on the note, but to the remedy for the enforcement of an equitable right in land under the mortgage; hence the same period that would bar an ejectment is required. Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373).

SUFFICIENCY OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

"To effect a confirmation of a contract entered into during infancy, the act must have been done with knowledge that the contract was voidable." Manning v. Gannon (44 App. D. C. 98). See also Gannon v. Manning (42 App. D. C. 206).

"A distinct and unequivocal acknowledgment by the debtor of the debt as a still subsisting personal obligation constitutes an implied promise to pay it, and this, 'according to all the authorities, is all that is required to remove the statute in the case of a simple contract'" (referring to such a promise in writing). Green v. Reeves (47 App. D. C. 83), citing Ruppert v. Beavans (2 App. D. C. 298) and Catholic University v. Waggaman (32 App. D. C. 307). See also Hornblower v. George Washington University (31 App. D. C. 64); Strong v. Andros (34 App. D. C. 278).

Correspondence between parties, to be sufficient acknowledgment of indebtedness to toll the statute, must recognize subsisting personal obligation. Hayden v. International Banking Corp. (59 App. D. C. 313, 41 Fed. (2d) 107).

The acknowledgment must not be accompanied by circumstances which negative any intention or promise to pay. Moore v. Snyder (71 App. D. C. 293, 109 Fed. (2d) 840).

Letter by Maryland corporation, whose charter has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, to debtor extending, at the debtor's request, the time for action for deficiency judgment, was not sufficient to toll the statute of limitations, and the debtor was not estopped to plead such statute. Glennan v. Lincoln Inv. Corp. (71 App. D. C. 365), 110 Fed. (2d) 130).

No action shall be maintained whereby to charge any person upon any acknowledgment of, or promise to pay, any debt contracted during infancy made after full age, except for necessities, unless such acknowledgment or promise shall be made by some writing signed by the party to be charged therewith: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall affect ratification by conduct. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added this section as a last paragraph to § 1271 of the 1901 act. The rest of § 1271 is contained in this Code as § 12-305.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

TORT ACTION

Seller of automobile to minor representing himself to be of age, who disaffirms purchase, may nevertheless recover damage to car. Dick Murphy, Inc. v. Holcer (61 App. D. C. 65, 57 Fed. (2d) 431).

12-401. Intent to defraud creditors.

12-402. Intent to defraud purchasers.

12-403. Executors may sue to vacate fraudulent transaction.

Every conveyance or assignment, in writing or otherwise, of any estate or interest in lands or rents and profits issuing from the same, or in goods or things in action, and every charge upon the same, and every bond or other evidence of debt given, or judgment or decree suffered, with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or other persons having just claims or demands of their lawful suits, damages, or demands, shall be void as against the persons so hindered, delayed, or defrauded: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to affect or impair the title of a purchaser for a valuable consideration, unless it shall appear that such purchaser had previous notice of the fraudulent intent of his immediate grantor, or of the fraud rendering void the title of such grantor: Provided further, That the question of fraudulent intent shall be deemed a question of fact and not of law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1120.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

By the terms of the statute a final judgment at common law is made a lien, not only upon the legal, but as well upon the equitable, interests in real estate of the judgment debtor from the date when the same is rendered, and this section likewise makes every conveyance of lands with intent to defraud creditors not merely voidable, but void. Reilly v. Sabitt (65 App. D. C. 125, 81 Fed. (2d) 259).

MORTGAGES

A mortgage made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud the bankrupt's creditors may be declared void.

Universal Dealers Co. v. Cromelin (71 App. D. C. 234, 109 Fed. (2d) 828).

The giving of the mortgage followed by withholding it from record pursuant to an agreement or understanding, operated to hinder, delay, and defraud the bankrupt's creditors as the parties are presumed to intend the natural and probable consequences of their own acts and whatever may have been the intention of the petitioner is immaterial. In re Nolan Motor Co., Inc. ((D. C.-D. C.), 25 Fed. Supp. 186).

TRANSFER TO WIFE OF BANKRUPT

Fraudulent transfer of bankrupt's property to wife; conveyance set aside in equity. Harding v. Aaronson (63 App. D. C. 107, 69 Fed. (2d) 845).

Every conveyance of any estate or interest in land or the rents and profits thereof, and every charge upon the same, made or created with the intent to defraud prior or subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration of the same lands, rents, or profits, shall, as against such purchasers, be void; but no such conveyance or charge shall be deemed fraudulent in favor of a subsequent purchaser who shall have actual or legal notice thereof at the time of his purchase, unless it appear that the grantee in such conveyance, or the person to be benefited by such charge, was privy to the fraud intended. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1121.)

Any executor, administrator, receiver, assignee, or other trustee of an estate, or of the property and effects of an insolvent estate, corporation, association, partnership, or individual, may, for the benefit of creditors and others interested in the estate or property so held in trust, disaffirm, treat as void, and resist all acts done, transfers, and agreements made in fraud of the rights of any creditor, including themselves and others interested in any estate or property held by or of right belonging to any such trustee or estate; and every person who in fraud of the rights of creditors and others shall have received, taken, or in any manner interfered with the estate, property, or effects of any deceased person or insolvent corporation, association, partnership, or individual shall be liable, in the proper action, to the executors, administrators, receivers, or other trustees of such estate or property for the same, or the value of any property or effects so received or taken, and for all damages caused by such acts to any such trust estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1122.)

In actions against foreign corporations doing business in the District all process may be served on the agent of such corporation or person conducting its business, or, in case he is absent and can not be found, by leaving a copy at the principal place of business in the District, or, if there be no such place of business, by leaving the same at the place of business or residence of such agent in said District, and such service shall be effectual to bring the corporation before the court.

When a foreign corporation shall transact business in the District without having any place of business or resident agent therein, service upon any officer or agent or employee of such corporation in the District shall be effectual as to suits growing out of contracts entered into or to be performed, in whole or in part, in the District of Columbia or growing out of any tort committed in the said District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1419, ch. 854, § 1537; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329; Feb. 1, 1907, 34 Stat. 874, ch. 445.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

It was intended merely to remedy an existing mischief by providing a simple and effectual way through which a foreign corporation doing business in the District of Columbia might be brought before the court. It does not attempt to limit the general jurisdiction of the courts of the District and cannot prevent their jurisdiction from attaching in any case where a foreign corporation might, like a natural person resident elsewhere, appear by competent authority and answer the cause of action. Howard v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (11 App. D. C. 300).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section is constitutional. Hoffman v. Washington-Virginia R. Co. (44 App. D. C. 418).

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO OR TO BE PERFORMED

"It will be observed that the statute is not confined to general agency or an established custom of doing business, but it applies to a suit growing out of a contract 'entered into or to be performed, in whole or in part, in the District of Columbia.'" Berkeley v. Culley (42 App. D. C. 140).

DOING BUSINESS

An action by a foreign corporation against another foreign corporation may be brought in District of Columbia when the defendant has business there. Gulford Granite Co. v. Harrison Granite Co. (23 App. D. C. 1).

A newspaper corporation which, in addition to its chief business of publishing a newspaper in New York, also maintains a permanent office in the District of Columbia, is doing business in the District within terms of statute so that service of process may be had. Rickets v. Sun Printing & Pub. Co. (27 App. D. C. 222).

Maintenance of an office in the District for the performance by the general officers of their duties of management and supervision of the affairs of the corporation amounts to doing business therein, especially when its president, secretary, and treasurer transacted business incidentally relating to corporate purposes. Ferguson Contracting Co. v. Coal & Coke R. Co. (33 App. D. C. 159).

Service on corporation was not proper when their room in the building had been abandoned and used as a storage place, and the officers had left the District. Mitchell Min. Co. v. Emig (35 App. D. C. 527).

When scales corporation not only negotiated sales, but looked after deliveries, collections, and complaints, service upon agent was proper under part of § 1537 of the 1901 Code (this section). Toledo Computing Scales Co. v. Miller (38 App. D. C. 237).

Service was not proper on corporation that had no office in the District of Columbia, at the time of service, for the transaction of business, and was not doing business therein. In fact it was not doing business anywhere, in the ordinary sense of the term, its purpose having been accomplished by issue of stock for purchase of patent, which formed the sole basis of its capitalization. Doremus v. National Cotton Impr. Co. (39 App. D. C. 295).

Service was proper upon agent of foreign corporation that was engaged in selling tickets for transportation between New York and Europe when such corporation had office in District of Columbia. Windell v. Holland American Line (40 App. D. C. 1).

"In this section Congress clearly has recognized the distinction made by the Supreme Court of the United States between the doing of business within a state at a place regularly established therefor, and the intermittent transaction of business through agents who come and go. Notwithstanding that a corporation is deemed to be a resident of the state of its creation, if it goes within another State or jurisdiction, and there establishes a place of business from which, through its authorized agents, its business is transacted, it must be regarded as also within that jurisdiction." Hoffman v. Washington-Virginia R. Co. (44 App. D. C. 418).

The agent or person contemplated by the Code must be possessed of such authority as will justify the conclusion that his principal, by him, is in the District. Chase Bag Co. v. Munson S. S. Line (54 App. D. C. 169, 295 Fed. 990).

Solicitation of business by railroad having no line in District held not "doing business." Cancelmo v. Seaboard

A. L. R. Co. (56 App. D. C. 225, 12 Fed. (2d) 166); Knobel v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. (56 App. D. C. 228, 12 Fed. (2d) 169).

An express company, doing business in the District, may be sued there for damages to a shipment, although shipment began and ended in other states; nor does this cause an unlawful burden on interstate commerce. Harris v. American R. Exp. Co. (56 App. D. C. 264, 12 Fed. (2d) 487).

Having selling agency contract constitutes "doing business." Carroll Elec. Co. v. Freed-Eisemann Radio Corp. (60 App. D. C. 228, 50 Fed. (2d) 993).

A foreign newspaper maintaining correspondent in District constitutes "doing business." Neely v. Philadelphia Inquirer Co. (61 App. D. C. 334, 62 Fed. (2d) 873).

The mere collection of news in Washington and its transmission to a paper published outside the District of Columbia is not "doing business" within meaning of statute. Layne v. Tribune Co. (63 App. D. C. 213, 71 Fed. (2d) 223).

A foreign corporation is amenable to process to enforce a personal liability, in the absence of consent, only if it is doing business within the state in such manner as to warrant the inference that it is present there, citing Philadelphia & Reading R. Co. v. McKibben (243 U. S. 264, 61 L. Ed. 710, 37 Sup. Ct. 289). Whitaker v. Macfadden Publications (70 App. D. C. 165, 105 Fed. (2d) 44).

The trial court was without jurisdiction and the original judgment was void where foreign corporation was never engaged in business in the District of Columbia, and has no officer or agent in the District upon whom process could be served. Consolidated Radio Artists v. Washington Section (70 App. D. C. 262, 105 Fed. (2d) 785).

The mere insuring of residents of a foreign state, the contract of insurance being made and carried out in the home state, does not constitute "doing business" in the state of the insured. Sasnett v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Assn. ((C. C. A. 8), 90 Fed. (2d) 514).

PARTNERSHIPS

Statute relating to foreign corporations does not apply to partnerships. Matson v. Mackubin (61 App. D. C. 102, 57 Fed. (2d) 941).

PENDING BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDING

No effective service in a creditor's suit for appointment of receiver of company whose only asset is a claim against the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation can be made owing to a bankruptcy proceeding begun in another court having full jurisdiction. Zibell v. Meacham & Babcock Shipbldg. Co. (56 App. D. C. 385, 16 Fed. (2d) 330).

PLEADING

To raise the question whether summons was served on proper representative, motion to quash service is proper. Bloedorn v. Washington Times Co. (67 App. D. C. 91, 89 Fed. (2d) 835).

SERVICE UPON OFFICER

When officers of corporation are not in the District in their official or representative capacity and it is not shown that they are clothed with authority, the corporation is not liable to suit in a jurisdiction foreign to its creation. Ambler v. Archer (1 App. D. C. 94).

STATUTE MUST BE STRICTLY FOLLOWED

When appellant had closed its office and removed its property from the District and there were no agents in the District, service of summons could not be secured, and statutes pertaining to such service must be strictly followed. New York Continental Filtration Co. v. Karr (31 App. D. C. 459).

In a suit against a corporation, whether foreign or domestic, if process can not be served, such corporation may be proceeded against as a nonresident defendant, by notice by publication. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1207, ch. 854, § 112.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

Whenever an infant is a party defendant in any suit, in equity or at law, the subpoena or summons issued in such suit shall be served upon him personally, and also the person with whom he resides if under sixteen years of age, if within the District, and said infant shall in such case be produced in court, unless, for cause shown, the court shall dispense with his appearance; and it shall be the duty of the court to appoint a suitable and competent person guardian ad litem for such infant, to appear for and defend such suit on his behalf, and whenever in the judgment of the court the interests of such infant shall require it the court shall assign a solicitor or attorney to represent such infant, whose compensation shall be paid by the plaintiff, or out of the estate of such infant, at the discretion of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1205, ch. 854, § 102; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 Act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The 1901 section read: "Whenever an infant is a party defendant in any equity suit, the subpoena issued in said suit shall be served upon him personally, if within the District, and the said infant shall be produced in court unless, for cause shown, the court shall dispense with his appearance, and a guardian ad litem shall be appointed to answer the bill and defend the suit for him, the said infant having the right to select his guardian ad litem if of the age of fourteen years or older."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADOPTION

General statutes prescribing appointment of guardian ad litem to protect infants, and the rules for civil procedure in the District Courts authorizing appointment of guardian ad litem for infant or incompetent person not otherwise represented in an action do not govern procedure in adoption proceedings. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

ANSWER FILED BY GUARDIAN

Decree of court is valid against infant although there was no service upon him, where a guardian ad litem had been appointed for him and an answer had been filed by such guardian. Manson v. Duncanson (166 U. S. 533, 41 L. Ed. 1105, 17 Sup. Ct. 647, affg. 3 App. D. C. 260).

If any person shall secrete an infant against whom process has issued, so as to prevent the service of such process, or shall prevent his appearance in court as aforesaid, such person shall be liable to attachment and punishment as for contempt; or if any infant shall secrete himself or evade the service of process, he may be proceeded against as if he were a nonresident. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 103.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 104; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

§ 13-108 [24: 378]. Publication as to nonresident, those absent for six months, unknown heirs or devisees, for divorce or proceeding in rem—Actual service beyond District.

Publication may be substituted for personal service of process upon any defendant who can not be found and who is shown by affidavit to be a nonresident, or to have been absent from the District for at least six months, or against the unknown heirs or devisees of deceased persons, in suits for partition, divorce, by attachment, foreclosure of mortgages and deeds of trust, the establishment of title to real estate by possession, the enforcement of mechanics' liens, and all other liens against real or personal property within the District, and in all actions at law and in equity which have for their immediate object the enforcement or establishment of any lawful right, claim, or demand to or against any real or personal property within the jurisdiction of the court.

Personal service of process may be made by any person not a party to or otherwise interested in the subject-matter in controversy on a nonresident defendant out of the District of Columbia, which service shall have the same effect and no other as an order of publication duly executed. The cost and expense of such service of process out of the District of Columbia shall be borne by the party at whose instance the same is made and shall not be taxed as a part of the costs in the case; but where such service of process is made by same authorized officer of the law in this section mentioned, the actual and usual cost of such service of process shall be taxed as a part of the costs in the case. COMPILER'S NOTES

Many sections of this and other titles are affected by the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of the United States, adopted by the Supreme Court of the United States pursuant to the act of June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1064, ch. 651, §§ 1, 2 (U. S. C., title 28, §§ 723b, 723c).

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 2, 7-16, 18, 54 (b), 55 (a), (d), and 56.

§ 13-202 [24: 2]. All proceedings which concern the law and administration of justice shall be in the English tongue—Penalty for violation.

(4 Geo. 2, ch. 26, § 1, 1731; Kilty Rep., p. 249; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 702; Md. Act 1781, ch. 16; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 445, § 28; Apr. 2, 1792, 1 Stat. 248, ch. 16, § 9.)

§ 13-203 [24: 3]. All proceedings written—Figures and abbreviations commonly used, permissible—Writs, other process, and technical words, how expressed.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BILL OF PARTICULARS PART OF DECLARATION

Although a declaration may be defective and not a model of good pleading, a bill of particulars is part thereof and may serve to remove any uncertainty inherent in the latter. Finney v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. (22 App. D. C. 476).

FILING INSTRUMENT SUED ON

It is not the practice, and it would be unreasonable to require, that a promissory note which is the subject of suit should be filed with the declaration. It is sufficient if it is produced at the trial or at the hearing on motion for judgment; and it will be presumed that this was done when there is nothing in the record to show the contrary. Finney v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. (22 App. D. C. 476).

No suit at law founded upon a lost instrument shall be dismissed on the ground that the suit should have been brought in equity, but a similar bond or undertaking to that required in equity shall be given as a condition precedent to judgment. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1335d.)

§ 13-205 [24: 5]. Plural breaches may be assigned in suits on bonds or on penal sums—Judgment given on demurrer, confession, or nihil dicit—Damages—Determination by jury.

In all actions, which shall be commenced or prosecuted in any courts of record, upon any bond or bonds, or on any penal sum for nonperformance of any covenants or agreements in any indenture, deed, or writing contained, the plaintiff or plaintiffs may assign as many breaches as he or they shall think fit, and the jury, upon trial of such action or actions, shall and may assess, not only such damages and costs of suit as have heretofore been usually done in such cases, but also damages for such of the said breaches so to be assigned, as the plaintiff upon the trial of the issues shall prove to have been broken, and that the like judgment shall be entered on such verdict as heretofore hath been usually done in such like actions; and if judgment shall be given for the plaintiff on a demurrer, or by confession, or nihil dicit, the plaintiff upon the roll may suggest as many breaches of the covenants and agreements as he shall think fit, upon which a jury shall inquire of the truth of every one of those breaches, and assess the damages that the plaintiff shall have sustained thereby. (8 and 9 Wm. 3, ch. 11, § 8, 1697; Kilty Rep., p. 244; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 604; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 69, § 14.)

§ 13-206 [24: 6]. On demurrer, judgment shall be given according to right, disregarding form, immaterial traverses or lack of profert, except as specifically set down as cause for demurrer.

Where any demurrer shall be joyned, and entered in any action or suit in any court of record, the judges shall proceed and give judgment, according as the very right of the cause and matter in law shall appear unto them, without regarding any imperfection, omission or defect or want of form in any writ, return, plaint, declaration, or other pleading, process or course of proceeding whatsoever, except those only which the party demurring shall specially and particularly set down and express, together with his demurrer, as causes of the same, so as sufficient matter appear in the said pleadings, upon which the court may give judgment according to the very right of the cause; and therefore no advantage or exception shall be taken of or for an immaterial travers; or of or for the default of alledging the bringing into court any bond, bill, indenture or other deed whatsoever mentioned in the declaration or other pleading; or of or for the default of alledging of the bringing into court letters testamentary, or letters of administration; or of or for the omission of vi et armis et contra pacem, or either of them; or of or for the want of averment of hoc paratus est verificare, or hoc paratus est verificare per recordum; or of or for not alledging prout patet per recordum; but the court shall give judgment according to the very right of the cause, as aforesaid, without regarding any such imperfections, omissions and defects, or any other matter of like nature, except the same shall be specially and particularly set down and shewn for cause of demurrer, and that no judgment to be given shall be reversed, for any such imperfection, defect, or want of form, as is aforesaid, except such only as is before excepted. Provided always, that this section, or anything herein contained, shall not extend to any writ, declaration, or suit of appeal of felony or murder, or to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, or to any process upon any of them, or to any writ, bill, action, or information upon any popular or penal statute. (27 Eliz., ch. 5, § 1, 1585; Kilty Rep., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 420; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 96; 4 Ann, ch. 16, § 1, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 245; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 659; Comp. Stat., D. After demurrers joined and entered, the court shall and may from time to time amend all and every such imperfections, defects, and wants of form, as set out in section 13-206, other than those only which the party demurring shall specially and particularly express and set down together with his demurrer, as is aforesaid. (27 Eliz., ch. 5, § 2, 1585; Kilty Rept., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 421; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 96.)

He may also join in his declaration in trespass, in separate counts, different claims for damages for torts, whether committed with force or not. This section is made applicable to the municipal court by the 1923 act, which reads as follows: "That hereafter section 1535c (this section) of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, permitting equitable defenses to be interposed in actions at law, shall be applicable to proceedings now pending in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia as well as to actions hereafter brought in said court."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Forms of actions have been abolished in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see rule 2.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

The true legislative intent was to simplify the practice as between legal and equitable procedure in those courts which already possessed jurisdiction over equitable causes, and was not to give the municipal court general equitable jurisdiction when dealing with defenses to actions. International Exch. Bank v. Pullo (52 App. D. C. 199, 285 Fed. 933) (decided prior to enactment of 42 Stat. 1506).

NO EXTENSION OF EQUITY JURISDICTION

This section does not authorize an equity court, having jurisdiction, to stay proceedings to await the bringing of another action in an inferior court. Sambataro v. Caffo (57 App. D. C. 260, 20 Fed. (2d) 276).

RAISING QUESTION ON APPEAL

An equitable defense not interposed below could not be insisted upon on appeal. Saks v. B. H. Stinemetz & Son Co. (54 App. D. C. 38, 293 Fed. 1005).

SPECIFIC DEFENSES

A lessee's plea denying default in rent sued for is a good equitable defense, Smith v. O'Connor (66 App. D. C. 367, 88 Fed. (2d) 749).

§ 13-215 [24: 14]. Transfer of causes from law to equity or vice versa—Amendments—Previous testimony preserved to stand in cause.

In any case where it shall appear that an action at law should have been brought in equity, or a suit in equity should have been brought at law, the judge presiding in the special term, circuit or equity, as the case may be, shall order such case to be transferred to such other special term accordingly, whereupon such amendments shall be made in the pleadings as may be necessary to make them conform to the proper practice. All testimony taken before such transfer, if preserved, shall stand as testimony in the cause. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1535b.)

Other provisions concerning transfer of actions, § 11-314.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROBATE COURT

Probate court's jurisdiction over proof of wills is exclusive. Gracie v. American Sec. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

ON APPEAL

Equitable defense not urged in the trial court by bill or motion cannot be availed of on appeal. Saks v. B. H. Stinemetz & Son Co. (54 App. D. C. 38, 293 Fed. 1005).

§ 13-216 [24: 15]. Judgment or decree may be entered for part of cause admitted, and remainder of claim prosecuted.

Whenever in any action at law or in equity the defendant admits a part of the cause of action, a final judgment or decree may be entered for such part, and the plaintiff may prosecute the remainder of his claim in the same suit and (if he sustains his claim for such remainder) may have a further final judgment or decree therefor. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1535a.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section must be considered when construing § 1535c of the 1901 Code (§ 13-214). International Exch. Bank v. Pullo (52 App. D. C. 199, 285 Fed. 933).

§ 13-217 [24: 16]. Interpleader—Affidavit by defendant—Contents—Order of court—Appearance of third party—Failure to appear.

Upon affidavit by the defendant, in an action upon contract or for the recovery of personal property, that a third party, without collusion with him, has or makes claim to the subject of the action, and that he, the defendant, is ready to pay or dispose of the same as the court may direct, the court may make an order for the safe-keeping or for the payment or deposit in court of the subject of the action, or the delivery thereof to such person as it may direct, and also an order requiring such third party to appear in a reasonable time and maintain or relinquish his claim against the defendant; and if said third party, having been served with a copy of the order by the marshal, fail to appear the court may declare him barred of all claim in respect to the subject of the action against the defendant therein; but if he appear he shall be allowed to make himself defendant in the action in lieu of the original defendant, who shall be discharged from all liability to either of the other parties in respect to the subject of the action on his compliance with the order of the court for the payment, deposit, or delivery thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1418, ch. 854, § 1531; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REQUISITES OF INTERPLEADER

The four conditions prerequisite to an order for interpleader are: (1) The same thing, debt, or duty must be claimed by both or all the parties against whom relief is demanded; (2) all their adverse titles or claims must be dependent, or be derived from a common source; (3) the person asking the relief—the plaintiff—must not have or claim any interest in the subject-matter; and, (4) he must have incurred no independent liability to either of the claimants—that is, he must stand perfectly indifferent between them in the position merely of a stakeholder. Morgan v. Kraft (52 App. D. C. 172, 285 Fed. 906).

SERVICE ON THIRD PERSON

Personal service upon such third person within the jurisdiction is necessary to bring him into court. Personal service out of the jurisdiction or service by publication is insufficient. Dexter v. Lichliter (24 App. D. C. 222).

§ 13-218 [24: 17]. Payment—When pleaded—Debt on single bill or scire facias on judgment—On bond—Or a lesser sum at different date from defeazance.

When any action of debt shall be brought upon any single bill, or where action of debt or scire facias, shall be brought upon any judgment, if the defendant hath paid the money due upon such bill or judgment, such payment shall and may be pleaded in bar of such action or suit, and where an action of debt is brought upon any bond which hath a condition or defeazance to make void the same upon payment of a lesser sum at a day or place certain, if the obligor, his heirs, executors, or administrators have, before the action brought, paid to the obligee, his executors or administrators, the principal and interest due by the defeazance or condition of such bond, though such payment was not made strictly according to the condition or defeazance; yet it shall and may nevertheless be pleaded in bar of such action, and shall be as effectual a bar thereof, as if the money had been paid at the day and place, according to the condition or defeazance, and had been so pleaded. (4 Ann. ch.

If any person or persons sue with good faith any action popular, and the defendant or defendants in the same action plead any manner of recovery of action popular in bar of the said action, or else that the same defendant or defendants plead, that he or they before that time barred any such plaintiff or plaintiffs in any such action popular, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in the action taken with good faith may aver, that the said recovery in the said action popular was had by covin, or else to aver that the said plaintiff or plaintiffs was or were barred in the said action popular by covin, that then if after the said collusion or covin so averred be lawfully found, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in that action sued with good faith, shall have recovery according to the nature of the action, and execution upon the same in like wise and effect, as though no such afore had been had. AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted the above in lieu thereof. The former section read: "In all actions at law the court shall have power to order and allow amendments to be made in all proceedings whatsoever, so as to have the merits of the controversy fairly tried, before the jury retire to make up their verdict, in cases of jury trial, and at any time before judgment is entered in cases of issues of law or fact tried by the court."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 15, 60, and 61.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMINISTRATOR AS SUBSTITUTED PARTY

Although this section should be liberally construed, a suit begun in the name of a deceased plaintiff is a nullity (and this is true, although the plaintiff is merely a formal, nominal, use plaintiff); hence there can be no amendment substituting the administrator of the deceased plaintiff as party plaintiff. Karrick v. Wetmore (22 App. D. C. 487). For the further history of this litigation, see 205 U. S. 141, 51 L. Ed. 745, 27 Sup. Ct. 434, affg. 25 App. D. C. 415 and 26 App. D. C. 124.

APPEALS—REMAND FOR AMENDMENT

"In the case of Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Ohio & M. R. Co. (142 U. S. 396, 35 L. Ed. 1055, 12 Sup. Ct. 188), it was held by the Supreme Court that where the facts showed that the plaintiff had an equitable title to relief, but that court, on the state of pleadings before it, was unable to afford relief it could and would remand the case to the court below for amendment of pleadings and further proceedings, in order that the right might be availed of." Wagenhurst v. Wineland (22 App. D. C. 356). See also Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Atkinson (16 App. D. C. 462).

COMPARING COMMON-LAW RULE

Quaere: Whether this section modifies common-law rule that "the finding in favor of the plaintiff of an issue of fact raised by a plea in abatement, entitles the plaintiff to a judgment on the merits." Brown v. Savings Bank (28 App. D. C. 351).

DISCRETION OF COURT

"There is nothing in section 399 of the Code (this section) to make it mandatory on the courts to allow amendments." Schrot v. Schoenfeld (23 App. D. C. 421).

"The grant or refusal of leave to amend is a power entrusted to the trial court that injustice and hardship may be prevented and the merits of the case fairly tried. Whether in the particular instance the leave should be granted or refused is a matter within the discretion of the trial court, and is not reviewable in the appellate court." Chunn v. City & S. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 551, revd. on other grounds 207 U. S. 302, 52 L. Ed. 219, 28 Sup. Ct. 63), citing German Soc. v. Prospect Hill Cemetery (2 App. D. C. 310); Brown v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (6 App. D. C. 237).

"After the appearance of defendant, the granting of additional time to plead and leave to amend affidavits was within the discretion of the court." Armour v. Flook (44 App. D. C. 415).

Where defendant filed an additional plea of equitable estoppel to which plaintiff demurred, the granting of leave to file a substituted amended plea within a few days thereafter was within the court's discretion. Daly v. Sacks (59 App. D. C. 216, 38 Fed. (2d) 388).

Under this section an amendment of a plea, after the jury was sworn, but before the statement of the case or the admission of evidence, is in the discretion of the court. Kinchlow v. Peoples Rapid Transit Co. (66 App. D. C. 382, 88 Fed. (2d) 764, cert. den. 301 U. S. 693, 81 L. Ed. 1349, 57 Sup. Ct. 926).

PLEA IN ABATEMENT

"That the amendment may relate to the withdrawal of a plea in bar and its substitution by one in abatement, or the reverse, does not alter the rule." Chunn v. City & S. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 551, revd. on other grounds 207 U. S. 302, 52 L. Ed. 219, 28 Sup. Ct. 63).

PRIOR LAW

Under R. S., § 954 (U. S. C., title 28, § 777), and the Maryland Act of 1785, ch. 80, § 4, the lower court may allow a change, by amendment, of one form of action to another, provided the claim or cause of action sued for be the same in both. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

SCIRE FACIAS

"The power of amendment is equally applicable and to the same extent in the case of a scire facias as in the case of an ordinary execution." Otterbach v. Patch (5 App. D. C. 69).

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Where a declaration is filed within the period of the statute of limitations, an amendment made after the statute has run which charges the same cause of action in a different form is not open to the defense of the statute. Beasley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (27 App. D. C. 595). See also District of Columbia v. Frazer (21 App. D. C. 154).

In an action in ejectment, where the defense was the general issue, it is not error to permit defendant to amend by pleading the statute of limitations (after the evidence has been introduced and a motion by plaintiff for a directed verdict has been overruled). "Plaintiff was not taken by surprise; no additional evidence was introduced; plaintiff sustained no possible legal injury." McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

No such amendment shall entitle either party, as of course, to a postponement of the trial or to a continuance of the case to the next term of the court; but the court shall allow a postponement or continuance in case the ends of justice require it, and upon such terms as the court shall deem proper. If such amendment is ordered and a postponement or continuance is allowed after the jury have been sworn the jury shall be discharged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1253, ch. 854, § 400.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCONTINUANCE OF COUNT

A discontinuance of a count in a declaration setting up a distinct cause of action is not an amendment, but treating it as such, it creates no necessity for a continuance. Crandall v. Lynch (20 App. D. C. 73).

In all cases of amendment such costs shall be allowed the party against whom the amendment is made as the court may determine. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1253, ch. 854, § 401.)

§ 13-304 [24: 64]. Process not annulled or discontinued by clerk writing one syllable or one letter too much or too little—Such errors amendable.

By the misprision of a clerk in any place wheresoever it be, no process shall be annulled, or discontinued, by mistaking in writing one syllable, or one letter too much or too little; but as soon as the thing is perceived, by challenge of the party, or in other manner, it shall be hastily amended in due form, without giving advantage to the party that challengeth the same because of such misprision. (14 Edw. 3, ch. 6, § 1, 1340; Kilty Rep., p. 216; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 167; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 460, § 88.)

§ 13-305 [24: 65]. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment as long as the record is before them.

The justices before whom plea or record is made, or shall be depending, as well by adjournment, as by way of error, or otherwise, shall have power and authority to amend such record and process, as well after judgment in any such plea, record, or process given, as before judgment given in any such plea, record, or process, as long as the same record and process is before them, in the same manner as the justices had power to amend such record and process before judgment given by force of section 13-304. (9 Hen. 5, ch. 4, § 1, 1421; Kilty Rep., p. 226; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 221, 222; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 90.)

§ 13-306 [24: 66]. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment on verdict as well as upon matter in law pleaded.

The effect of section 13-305 shall hold strength, force, and effect, in every record and process of the same, as well after judgment given upon a verdict passed, as upon a matter in law pleaded. (4 Hen. 6, ch. 3, § 1, 1425; Kilty Rep., p. 226; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 224; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 91.)

§ 13-307 [24: 67]. Record and proceedings not amendable after term at which judgment given and enrolled.

The records and process of pleas real and personal, and of assises of novel disseisin, or mortdancer, and certifications, and of others, whereof judgment is given and inrolled, or things touching such plea, shall in no wise be amended nor impaired by new entring of the clerks, or by the record or thing certified in witness or commandment of any justice, in no term after that such judgment in such pleas is given and inrolled. (11 Hen. 4, ch. 3, § 1, 1409; Kilty Rep., p. 225; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 211, 212; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 89.)

§ 13-308 [24: 68]. Judges may reform and amend misprisions of clerk in record, process, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, and return, except appeals, indictments of treason and felonies, so that by such misprision no judgment shall be reversed or annulled.

The judges of the courts and places in which any record, process, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, or return, which for the time shall be, shall have power to examine such records, process, words, pleas, warrants of attorney, writs, panels, or return, by them and their clerks, and to reform and amend (in affirmance of the judgments of such records and processes) all that which to them in their discretion seemeth to be misprision of the clerks in such record, processes, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, and return; except appeals, indictments of treason and of felonies, so that by such misprision of the clerk no judgment shall be reversed nor annulled. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 2, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 233; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 93.)

§ 13-309 [24: 69]. Judges may order amended or reformed erroneous or defective certification of record, process, writs, warrants of attorney, and return—Party may show certification varies from first writing.

If any record, process, writ, warrant of attorney, return, or panel be certified defective, otherwise than according to the writing which thereof remaineth in the courts or places from whence they be certified, the parties in affirmance of the judgments of such record and process shall have advantage to alledge, that the same writing is variant from the said certificate, and that found and certified, the same variance shall be by the said judges reformed and amended according to the first writing. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 2, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 234; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 93.)

§ 13-310 [24: 70]. No judgment of records and process reversed nor annulled after exemplification under great seal enrolled.

If any record, process, writ, or warrant of attorney, panel, or return, or parcel of the same, referred to in sections 13-308 and 13-309, be now, or hereafter shall be exemplified under the great seal, and such exemplification there of record inrolled without any raising of the same place in the exemplification and the inrollment of the same, that another time for any error assigned, or to be assigned in the said record, process, writ, warrant of attorney, panel, or return, in any letter, word, clause, or matter of the same varying, or contrary to the said exemplification and the inrollment, there shall be no judgment of the said records and process reversed nor annulled. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 4, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 234; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 94.)

§ 13-311 [24: 71]. Justices have power to amend defaults, errors, and misprisions in the record, process, or returns by the marshal, coroner, or clerk, in writing one letter or syllable too much or too little.

The justices, before whom any misprision or default is or shall be found, be it in any records and processes which now be, or shall be depending before them, as well by way of error as otherwise, or in the returns of the same, made or to be made by the marshal, coroner, or any other, by misprision of the clerks of courts, or by misprision of the marshal, coroner, their clerks, or other officers, clerks, or other ministers whatsoever, in writing one letter or one syllable too much or too little, shall have power to amend such defaults and misprisions according to their discretion, and by examination thereof by the said justices to be taken where they shall think needful. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 15, § 1, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 242; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 95.)

§ 13-312 [24: 72]. Writs of error variant from the original record, or otherwise defective, amendable by the court where returnable—Judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for defect or fault, in form or substance, in bill, writ, original, or judicial, or variance in said writs from other proceedings, except process upon indictment, presentment, or information, of or for any offence or misdemeanor.

All writs of error, wherein there shall be any variance from the original record, or other defect, may and shall be amended and made agreeable to such record, by the respective courts where such writ or writs of error shall be made returnable; and where any verdict hath been or shall be given in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand, in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed for any defect or fault, either in form or substance, in any bill, writ, original or judicial, or for any variance in such writs from the declaration or other proceedings.

Provided nevertheless, that nothing in this section contained shall extend, or be construed to extend to any process upon any indictment, presentment, or information, of or for any offence or misdemeanor whatsoever. (5 Geo. 1, ch. 13, § 1, 1718; Kilty Rep., p. 248; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 697; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 463, § 99.)

§ 13-313 [24: 73]. After verdict, judgment shall be given, notwithstanding lack of color, insufficient pleading, jeofail, miscontinuance, discontinuance, misconveyance of process, misjoining of issue, lack of warrant of attorney, or other default or neglect of parties, counsel, or attorneys—Such judgment shall stand in full force according to the verdict, without reversal as though such default or negligence had not been.

If any issue be tried by the oath of twelve indifferent men, for the party plaintiff or demandant, or for the party tenant or defendant, in any manner of action or suit at common law, in any of the courts of record, that then the justice or justices by whom judgment thereof ought to be given, shall proceed and give judgment in the same; any mispleading, lack of colour, insufficient pleading, or jeofail, any miscontinuance or discontinuance, or misconveying of process, misjoining of the issue, lack of warrant of attorney for the party against whom the same issue shall happen to be tried, or any other default or negligence of any of the parties, their counsellors, or attorneys, had or made to the contrary notwithstanding; and the said judgments thereof, so to be had and given, shall stand in full strength and force to all intents and purposes, according to the said verdict, without any reversal or undoing of the same by writ of error, or of false judgment, in like form as though no such default or negligence had never been had or committed. (32 Hen. 8, ch. 30, § 2, 1540; Kilty Rep., p. 232; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 327; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 448, § 37.)

§ 13-314 [24: 74]. After verdict judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for default in form, lack of form, false Latin, variance from register—Default in form of writ, count, declaration, plaint, bill, suit or demand, want of writ, imperfect return or default in process, except indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or process upon them, actions popular and upon penal statutes.

If any verdict of twelve men shall be given in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand, in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed by reason of any default in form, or lack of form, touching false latin, or variance from the register, or other defaults in form, in any writ original or judicial, count, declaration, plaint, bill, suit, or demand, or for want of any writ original or judicial, or by reason of any imperfect or insufficient return of any marshal or other officer, or for want of any warrant of attorney, or by reason of any manner of default in process, upon or after any aid prier or voucher, nor any such record or judgment after verdict to be given hereafter, shall be reversed for any of the defects or causes aforesaid.

Provided always, That this section or any thing herein contained, shall not extend to any indictment, or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, nor to any process upon any of them, nor to any writ, bill, action or information upon any popular or penal statute. (18 Eliz. ch. 14, §§ 1 and 2, 1576; Kilty Rep., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 411; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 287, §§ 3 and 4.)

§ 13-315 [24: 75]. After verdict judgment shall not be stayed nor reversed for issuance of process to the wrong officer, that any juror is misnamed, no return to writs, that the marshal's name does not appear, that infant plaintiff appeared by attorney, if he won—Except as to indictment or presentment of felony, murder, or treason, or process upon them, and popular and penal statutes.

If any verdict of twelve men, shall be given for the plaintiff or defendant, in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed nor reversed by reason of any lack of an averment of any life or lives of any person or persons, so as upon examination, the said person be proved to be in life; or by reason that the venire facias, or habeas corpora is awarded to a wrong officer, upon any insufficient suggestion; or by reason that any of the jury which tried the said issue is misnamed, either in the surname or addition in any of said writs, or in any return upon any of the said writs, so as upon examination it be proved to be the same man that was meant to be returned; or by reason that there is no return upon any of the said writs, so as a pannel of the names of jurors be returned and annexed to the said writ; or for that the marshal's name or other officer's name having the return thereof, is not set to the return of any such writ, so as upon examination it be proved that the said writ was returned by the marshal or deputy marshal, or any such other officer; or by reason that the plaintiff in an ejection firmæ, or in any personal action or suit (being an infant under the age of one and twenty years) did appear by attorney therein, and the verdict pass for him.

Provided always, that this section, or any thing herein contained, shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder or treason, nor to any process upon any of them; nor to any writ, bill, action or information upon any popular or penal statute. (21 Jac. 1, ch. 13, §§ 2 and 3, 1623; Kilty Rep., p. 237; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 442, 443; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 448, §§ 38 and 39.)

If any verdict of twelve men shall be given in any action, suit, bill or demand, judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed, for default in form, or lack of form; or for default of alledging the bringing into court of any bond, bill, indenture, or other deed whatsoever mentioned in the declaration, or other pleading; or for default of allegation of bringing into court of letters testamentary, or letters of administration; or by reason of the omission of vi et armis, or contra pacem; or for or by reason of the mistaking of the christian name or surname of the plaintiff or defendant, demandant or tenant, sum or sums of money, day, month or year, by the clerk in any bill, declaration or pleading, where the right name, surname, sum, day, month or year, in any writ, plaint, roll, or record preceding, or in the same roll or record where the mistake is committed, is or are once truly and rightly alledged, whereunto the plaintiff might have demurred and shewn the same for cause; nor for want of the averment of hoc paratus est verificare; or for hoc paratus est verificare per recordum; or for not alledging prout patet per recordum; nor any judgment after verdict, confession by cognovit actionem, or relicta verificatione, shall be reversed for want of misericordia, or capiatur; or by reason that a capiatur is entred for a misericordia, or a misericordia is entred where a capiatur ought to have been entred; nor for that ideo concessum est per curiam is entred for ideo consideratum est per curiam; nor for that the increase of costs after a verdict in an action, or upon a nonsuit in replevin are not entred to be at the request of the party for whom the judgment is given; nor by reason that the costs in any judgment whatsoever are not entred to be by consent of the plaintiff; but that all such omissions, variances, defects, and all other matters of like nature, not being against the right of the matter of the suit, nor whereby the issue or trial are altered, shall be amended by the justices or other judges of the courts where such judgments are or shall be given, or whereunto the record is or shall be removed by writ of error. (16 and 17 Car. 2, ch. 8, § 1 (1664); Kilty Rep., p. 239; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 484 and 485; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 287, § 5.)

Provided always that section 13-316 or anything therein contained, shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, nor to any process upon any of them; nor to any writ, bill, action, or information upon any penal statute, other than concerning customs and subsidies of tonnage and poundage, nor to any writ of error to be brought by any executor or administrator; nor unto any action popular, nor unto any other action which is, or hereafter shall be brought upon any penal law or statutes. (16 and 17 Car. 2, ch. 8, §§ 2 and 5 (1664); Kilty Rep., p. 239; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 485; Comp. Stat., D. C., pp. 288 and 289, §§ 6 and 10.)

§ 13-318 [24: 78]. Statutes of jeofails extend to judgments by confession, nihil dicit and non sum informatus.

All statutes of jeofails in this chapter shall extend to judgments entred upon confession, nihil dicit, or non sum informatus, in any court of record; and no such judgment shall be reversed, nor any judgment upon any writ of enquiry of damages executed thereon be staid or reversed for or by reason of any imperfection, omission, defect, matter or thing whatsoever, which would have been aided and cured by any of the said statutes of jeofails in case a verdict of twelve men had been given in the said action or suit. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 2 (1705); Kilty Rep., p. 245; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 660; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 449, § 42.)

Where money is payable by two or more persons jointly or severally or jointly and severally upon the same obligation or instrument, one action may be sustained and judgment recovered against all or any of the parties by whom the money is payable, at the option of the plaintiff; but if separate actions be brought unnecessarily against the several parties to such contract, the said actions may on motion be consolidated, and the plaintiff shall be allowed the costs of one (1) action only. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

When two persons are joined as defendants upon contract, but the proof shows liability of one only, a judgment may be taken against the one liable. Presbrey v. Thomas (1 App. D. C. 171).

When two joint contractors were joined in the same action, the entry of judgment against one does not bar the action against the other. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

Maker and endorsers of a promissory note may properly be joined, by the holder, as defendants, and under R. S., D. C., § 827 relating to suits against joint obligors, separate judgments may be rendered against them. Young v. Warner (6 App. D. C. 433).

When contract is made with several persons, whether it is under seal or not, if their legal interest is joint, they must, if living, all join in an action on the contract, and if all have not joined the judgment will be arrested. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

In a suit against all the joint obligors on a joint and several bond, after judgment has been taken against one by confession, the suit may be continued against the others and there can be no difference between taking judgment by confession and taking judgment by default. Bladen v. United States ex rel. Preinkert (18 App. D. C. 370).

JUDGMENT AGAINST LESS THAN ALL PARTIES

In a suit against the principal and two sureties on a bond the action was discontinued as to one of the sureties. On appeal from an order overruling a motion in arrest of judgment "because the action is against but two of three joint and several obligors," and "because the action has been discontinued against one of the three joint and several obligors," and "because though one of the three joint and several obligors has died since the institution of this suit plaintiffs have failed to make his personal representative a party defendant," the court ruled: "That the action was discontinued as to Horton, who it seems had become insolvent, presents no ground for arresting the judgment. Section 1211 of the code (this section) simply provides that one action may be sustained and judgment recovered against all or any joint and several obligors. It does not require that this shall be done." Wilkinson v. McKimmie (36 App. D. C. 336, affd. 229 U. S. 590, 57 L. Ed. 1342, 33 Sup. Ct. 879).

Chapter 2.—DEPOSITIONS

- Sec.
- 14-201. Depositions de bene esse—Taking—Conditions—Procedure—Resident and nonresident witnesses.
- 14-202. Attendance of witness—Tender of fee.
- 14-203. Commission to take depositions—Admissibility.
- 14-204. Commissions from courts out of the District.

§ 14-201 [9: 3]. Depositions de bene esse—Taking—Conditions—Procedure—Resident and nonresident witnesses.

The testimony of any witness may be taken in any civil cause depending in any court of the District of Columbia, whether the cause be at issue or not, by deposition de bene esse, under any of the following conditions:

First. Where the witness lives beyond the District of Columbia.

Second. Where the witness is likely to go out of the United States or beyond the District and not return in time for the trial.

Third. Where the witness is infirm or aged, or for any other reason the party desiring his testimony fear he may not be able to secure the same at the time of trial, whether said witness resides within the District or not.

Fourth. If during the trial any witness is unable, by reason of sickness or other cause, to attend the trial, the deposition of such witness may, in the discretion of the court, be taken and read at the trial.

Any such deposition may be taken before any judge of any court of the United States; before any commissioner or clerk of any court of the United States, or any examiner in chancery of any court of the United States; before any chancellor, justice, or judge or clerk of any court of any state or territory or other place under the sovereignty of the United States, or any notary public or justice of the peace within any place under the sovereignty of the United States: Provided, That no such person shall be eligible to take such deposition who is counsel or attorney for any party to the cause or who is in any wise interested in the event of the cause.

Before proceeding to take the deposition reasonable written notice of the time, place, names, and addresses of the witnesses shall be given by the party or his attorney proposing to take the deposition to the attorney of record, if there be one, of the adverse party, and if not, to the party himself, which notice shall specify the name or names of the witnesses, the time and place of taking the same, and the name and official character of the person before whom the same is to be taken; but it shall not be lawful to require the adverse party to attend the taking of a deposition at more than one place on the same day.

In all cases in rem the person having the agency or possession of the property at the time of seizure shall be deemed the adverse party until a claim shall have been put in, when the claimant and the person having the agency or possession as aforesaid shall both be entitled to the notice.

Summons to any witness to appear and testify shall be issued by the person or officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, and served by the marshal of the United States or his deputy within the place where the witness resides; and the witness may be compelled to appear and testify by the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken in the same manner as witnesses may be compelled to appear and testify in court; and for the purpose of executing the provisions of this section any of the persons authorized to take such depositions are hereby vested with all the power and authority for compelling the attendance of the witness and the giving of his testimony which by law or usage are vested in any of the judges of the courts of the United States, and shall be entitled, upon summary application, to the aid of the courts of the United States to compel such attendance and giving of testimony.

Every person deposing as herein provided shall first swear or solemnly and truly affirm to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth in answer to such questions as are propounded to him by the parties or their counsel; and the adverse party or his counsel shall have the right to cross-examine such witness.

The questions propounded to the witness and the answers of the witness thereto shall be taken down in writing; and the same may be taken down stenographically by the officer taking the deposition or a competent and disinterested stenographer engaged by him, and afterwards transcribed into writing or typewriting, and, in the presence of the officer taking the deposition, read over to the witness, and signed by him. If the witness be unable to write or refuse to sign the deposition, the officer taking the same shall certify the fact and the reason, if any, assigned by the witness.

The deposition of the witness or witnesses, together with the certificate of the officer taking the same, shall be by said officer sealed up and indorsed with the title of the cause in which the deposition is taken, and the cost of taking the same and by whom paid, and by him transmitted to the court in the District of Columbia in which the cause is pending, and by him deposited, postage prepaid, in the United States mail.

If, at the time of trial, the witness can be produced to testify in open court the deposition shall not be read in evidence; but if the attendance of the witness can not be produced then the said deposition shall be admissible in evidence, subject to such objections to the questions and answers as were noted at the time of taking the deposition, or within ten days after the return thereof, and would be valid were the witness personally present in court.

In any case where the interests of justice may require the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may grant a dedimus potestatem to take depositions according to common usage, and may, according to the usages of chancery, direct depositions to be taken in perpetuam rei memoriam if they relate to any matters that might be cognizable in any court of the United States.

When the testimony of any witness residing in any place not within the sovereignty of the United States is desired in any cause pending in any court of the District of Columbia, the same may be taken upon interrogatories and cross-interrogatories filed in said court, and transmitted by said court under letters rogatory, addressed to some court of record in the foreign state in which said witness is then to be found. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1354, ch. 854, § 1058; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. In the 1901 act the second and third paragraphs provided as follows: "First. Where the witness lives at a greater distance than 100 miles from the place of trial.

"Second. Where the witness is likely to go out of the United States or out of the District to a place more than 100 miles from the place of trial and not return in time for the trial."

In the seventh paragraph the provision as to notice was as follows: "Which notice shall be at least twenty days more than the time necessary to reach the place of taking such deposition, and shall specify the name or names of the witnesses, the time and place of taking the same, and the name and official character of the person before whom the same is to be taken; but it shall not be lawful to require the adverse party to attend the taking of a deposition at more than one place on the same day."

The following ninth paragraph of the 1901 act was omitted by the 1902 amendment: "When by reason of absence of the party or his attorney of record, or other cause, the giving of the notice herein required shall be impossible or impracticable, and there shall be urgent necessity for taking such deposition, the notice shall be given in such manner as a justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia shall direct."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

It would seem that this section is largely superseded since Rule 26 provides that "Depositions shall be taken only in accordance with these rules."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The code provisions relative to depositions, etc., supersede all former legislation on the subject. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

DEPOSITIONS

Deposition may be offered in evidence by adverse party. New Arcade Co. v. Owens (49 App. D. C. 65, 258 Fed. 965).

Counsel had the right to read as a part of his own case so much of the deposition as he desired, which was not clearly fragmentary and misleading. Bernhardt v. City & S. R. Co. (49 App. D. C. 265, 263 Fed. 1009).

Deposition taken in New York City, pursuant to notice, wherein, witness testified that he lived in that city, is admissible without proof that witness was unavailable at time of trial. "In such a case the law presumes that the witnesses continued to live in that city and were there at the time of the trial." Campbell v. Willis (53 App. D. C. 296, 290 Fed. 271).

GENERAL INTERROGATORIES

General interrogatories which do not inform the opposing party of the answer that might be expected are improper, and "should be called attention to by motion to exclude or suppress the answer, in advance of the trial." Walker v. Warner (31 App. D. C. 76). See also Anacostia & P. R. R. Co. v. Klein (8 App. D. C. 75); Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Assn. v. Dudley (15 App. D. C. 472).

OBJECTIONS

Objections to questions and answers must be noted at the time of taking of deposition or within 10 days after the return thereof, and an objection first made when the deposition is read to the jury comes too late. Macafee v. Higgins (31 App. D. C. 355). See also Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122).

WITNESSES IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Testimony of witness in foreign country must be taken on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, under letters rogatory. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

WHO ARE WITNESSES

Word "witnesses" is used in its ordinary sense, and includes all persons whose declarations under oath are received for any legal purpose, and embraces deponents in affidavits. The recorder is a representative of the Civil Service Commission, duly authorized by it to administer oaths of witnesses, and is therefore a person authorized by the laws of the United States to administer oaths. United States v. Crandol ((D. C.-Va.), 233 Fed. 331).

No witness shall be required, under the provisions of section 14-201, to attend at any place out of the county where he resides, nor more than forty miles from the place of his residence, to give his deposition; nor shall any witness be deemed guilty of contempt for disobeying any subpoena directed to him by virtue of the said section, unless his fee for going to, returning from, and one day's attendance at the place of examination are paid or tendered to him at the time of the service of the subpoena. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1356, ch. 854, § 1059.)

On motion made in any common-law action in the District, by a party thereto, the court may order a commission to issue to such person or persons as the court may name to take the deposition of any witness residing or being out of the District orally or on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, to be filed and accompany such commission, as may be provided by the rules of the court, and said commission shall be executed, returned, and published according to the practice in courts of equity: Provided, That such depositions shall not be admitted at the trial of the action if, at the time, the witness be present in the District and his attendance can be obtained by the process of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1356, ch. 854, § 1060; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Acts of Congress relating to the admission of parties to testify in the courts of the United States apply to the courts of the District of Columbia. Page v. Burnstine (102 U. S. 664, 26 L. Ed. 268).

CONFIDENTIAL COMMUNICATIONS OF THIRD PERSONS

Where widow was neither a party nor interested in the suit, she was incompetent to testify to private conversations between her and her husband in his lifetime. Hopkins v. Grimshaw (165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739, 17 Sup. Ct. 401).

In suit for custody of child, letters of the child's father's second wife, written to him before marriage, were held material, relevant, and competent, and the father was a competent witness to testify concerning them. Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

If one of the original parties to a transaction or contract has, since the date thereof, died or become insane or otherwise incapable of testifying in relation thereto, the other party thereto shall not be allowed to testify as to any transaction with or declaration or admission of the said deceased or otherwise incapable party in any action between said other party or any person claiming under him and the executors, administrators, trustees, heirs, devisees, assignees, committee, or other person legally representing the deceased or otherwise incapable party unless he be first called upon to testify in relation to said transaction or declaration or admission by the other party, or the opposite party first testify in relation to the same, or unless the transaction or contract was made or had with an agent of the said deceased or otherwise incapable party, and said agent testifies in relation thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1064; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the words "or unless called to testify thereto by the court" from the end of the section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"We think the statute should not be extended to prevent the living party from testifying to the truth or falsity of mere extraneous facts, which have been testified to by other witnesses, not involving declarations or admissions by the deceased party." Lockwood v. Rucker (34 App. D. C. 376).

In action by administrator against decedent's debtor, debtor having been called as a witness by administrator may testify as to transaction, for herself, or as to declarations by the intestate. Lemon v. Martin (55 App. D. C. 186, 3 Fed. (2d) 710).

ADMISSIONS OF DECEDENTS

Plaintiff can not testify as to statements made by defendant's testator to a third person, in the presence of the witness. The statute "clearly forbids the surviving party to testify to any admission of the deceased made with respect to a transaction had with him." McCurley v. Na- tional Sav. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 10, 258 Fed. 154), citing Dawson v. Waggaman (23 App. D. C. 428); Patten v. Glover (1 App. D. C. 466, affd. 165 U. S. 394, 41 L. Ed. 760, 17 Sup. Ct. 411); Manogue v. Herrell (13 App. D. C. 455). See also Parish v. McGowan (39 App. D. C. 184, revd. on other grounds 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. Ed. 955, 35 Sup. Ct. 543).

CROSS EXAMINATION

Testimony brought out on cross-examination after calling of witness by adversary held competent. Payne v. Payne (56 App. D. C. 167, 11 Fed. (2d) 464).

JOINT MAKER OF NOTE

Quaere: Whether a joint maker of a note can testify as a witness for plaintiff as to an agreement with the deceased comaker, stopping the statute of limitations, where the suit was originally brought against the witness and the representatives of the decedent, and prosecuted only against decedent. White v. Connecticut Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460).

OBJECTION NOT RAISED AT TRIAL

Although the testimony was not objected to, Court of Appeals did not consider objection waived and disregarded testimony on appeal; dissenting opinion states this rule to be different from that in all other jurisdictions. Faunce v. Woods (55 App. D. C. 330, 5 Fed. (2d) 753, 40 A. L. R. 208).

STOCKHOLDERS OR OFFICERS OF CORPORATION

A stockholder, officer and director of a corporation is not a "party" with reference to a contract between the corporation and decedent, and his testimony is not excluded. Cush v. Allen (56 App. D. C. 327, 13 Fed. (2d) 299, 54 A. L. R. 261).

In suit against corporation, seeking to show liability of corporation on contract of sale negotiated by deceased promoter, "Section 1064 (this section) affords no proper basis for exclusion of the evidence." Lucas v. Hamilton Realty Corp. (70 App. D. C. 277, 105 Fed. (2d) 800).

WIDOWS

Testimony of widow as to work done in connection with business owned jointly with her husband is not testimony "to a transaction or contract" with the deceased. Ellis v. Ellis (51 App. D. C. 383, 280 Fed. 457), citing Tuohy v. Trail (19 App. D. C. 79).

WITNESS CALLED BY COURT

It is not the duty of the court to call a party to testify whenever the party requests that it be done, but it should be done only when there is something extreme or special. Ockstadt v. Bowles (34 App. D. C. 58); Janes v. Janes (51 App. D. C. 267, 278 Fed. 576).

When appellant's deposition was regularly taken and he was fully and carefully cross-examined by counsel for appellees, the result was exactly the same as though he had been called to testify by the court. Conkling v. New York Life Ins. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 166, 262 Fed. 620).

If a party, after having testified at a time when he was competent to do so, shall die or become insane or otherwise incapable of testifying, his testimony may be given in evidence in any trial or hearing in relation to the same subject-matter between the same parties or their legal representatives, as the case may be; and in such case the opposite party may testify in opposition thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1065; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "a subsequent trial" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "any trial or hearing."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CORONER'S INQUEST

A coroner's inquest is not an action or judicial proceeding between the same parties or their legal representatives within the meaning of this section. Capital Trac. Co. v. King (44 App. D. C. 315).

§ 14-304 [9: 11]. Partners as witnesses.

Where any of the original parties to a contract or transaction which is the subject of investigation are partners or other joint contractors, or jointly entitled or liable, and some of them have died or otherwise become incapable of testifying, any others with whom the contract or transaction was personally made or had, or in whose presence or with whose privity it was made or had, or admissions in relation to the same were made, shall not, nor shall the adverse party, be incompetent to testify because some of the parties or joint contractors, or those jointly entitled or liable, have died or otherwise become incapable of testifying. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1066.)

No person shall be incompetent to testify, in either civil or criminal proceedings, by reason of his having been convicted of crime, but such fact may be given in evidence to affect his credit as a witness, either upon the cross-examination of the witness or by evidence aliunde; and the party cross-examining him shall not be concluded by his answers as to such matters. In order to prove such conviction of crime it shall not be necessary to produce the whole record of the proceedings containing such conviction, but the certificate, under seal, of the clerk of the court wherein such proceedings were had, stating the fact of the conviction and for what cause, shall be sufficient. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1067; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "other than perjury" following the word "crime" in the first sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONVICTION

The remoteness of the conviction does not affect its admissibility. Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 283 Fed. 1008).

According to this section, "the certificate is necessary only in order to prove previous convictions where the defendant being examined denies the convictions." Gordon v. United States (53 App. D. C. 154, 289 Fed. 552).

To constitute "conviction" under this section there must be plea or verdict of guilty, as well as judgment and sentence. Crawford v. United States (59 App. D. C. 356, 41 Fed. (2d) 979).

Instructions with reference to the effect of evidence of prior convictions on credibility. Mostyn v. United States (62 App. D. C. 22, 64 Fed. (2d) 145).

CRIMES, FELONIES, AND MISDEMEANORS

The word "crime" includes both felonies and misdemeanors. Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008).

The word "crime," as used in statute, includes both felonies and misdemeanors, this case involving a simple assault. Bostic v. United States (68 App. D. C. 167, 94 Fed. (2d) 636).

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Accused may be cross-examined respecting previous arrest and peace bond to refresh his memory concerning threats to deceased. Hawkins v. United States (59 App. D. C. 249, 39 Fed. (2d) 294).

DENIAL BY WITNESS

Since defendant denied that he had been formerly convicted and counsel abandoned the matter, defendant was not prejudiced. Clifton v. United States (54 App. D. C. 104, 295 Fed. 925).

If denial of witness was false, counsel for prosecution could have pursued the matter and established the conviction by evidence aliunde, or by production of a certificate by the clerk of the court wherein the conviction was had. Clifton v. United States (54 App. D. C. 104, 295 Fed. 925).

EXAMINATION OF WITNESS

In discussing question of competency of witness previously convicted of crime, court cites Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008), and says it held no error to ask defendant, a witness for himself, if he had not been convicted of five misdemeanors. Scaffidi v. United States ((C. C. A. 1), 37 Fed. (2d) 203).

IMPEACHMENT

Impeachment in civil assault case by showing indictment for forgery is prejudicial. Chebithes v. Price (59 App. D. C. 212, 37 Fed. (2d) 1008).

Violation of ordinance against the sale of half of round trip railroad ticket not crime, to impeach credibility. Clawans v. District of Columbia (61 App. D. C. 298, 62 Fed. (2d) 383).

It is improper for impeachment purposes, to show accusation, arrest or indictment. Sanford v. United States (69 App. D. C. 44, 98 Fed. (2d) 325).

In both civil and criminal proceedings, husband and wife shall be competent but not compellable to testify for or against each other. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1068.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is affected by § 22-904, making competent testimony as to confidential communications between husbands and wives in criminal prosecutions for non-support.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section must be taken "as qualified by § 964 of the 1901 Code (§ 16-420), which provides a special rule of evidence for divorce cases." Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160). See also Hopkins v. Grumshaw (165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739, 17 Sup. Ct. 401); Chase v. United States (7 App. D. C. 149); McCartney v. Fletcher (10 App. D. C. 572); Capital Trac. Co. v. Lusby (12 App. D. C. 295); Bergheimer v. Bergheimer (17 App. D. C. 381); Mallery v. Frye (21 App. D. C. 105).

"The Code specifically provides that 'husband and wife shall be competent * * * to testify for or against each other.' Section 964 of the 1901 Code (§ 16-420) * * * has no relation to the competency of the witnesses * * *. The section (§ 16-420) deals only with the weight of the evidence." Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

"The purpose of section 1068 (this section) * * * was to remove grounds of incompetency and not increase them * * *. Therefore a husband or wife, under this statute, can claim no greater privilege than existed at common law." Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

The provisions of this section apply to all proceedings wherein it is sought to compel the testimony of the husband or wife for or against one another, including bills of discovery, interrogatories in garnishment, and like proceedings. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

ACTION FOR INJURIES TO WIFE

In action by husband and wife for injuries to the wife, the wife is a competent witness. Capital Trac. Co. v. Lusby (12 App. D. C. 295).

DIVORCE

No decree for divorce or the annulment of a marriage can be given upon the mere unsupported petition of either husband or wife, even though the petition should be sworn to; and it is not apparent that the conditions are altered by the substitution of a deposition for the petition. Plain purpose of this to prohibit divorce or annulment of marriage upon statement of one without corroborative evidence. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

HISTORICAL

At common law "in collateral proceedings not immediately affecting their mutual interests, either husband or wife might be a witness, although the evidence of one tended to criminate the other, or to contradict the other, or to subject the other to a legal demand." Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

INTERROGATORIES

One spouse can not be compelled to answer interrogatories, for such disclosures would amount pro tanto to testimony of witness in the case. McGrew v. McGrew (54 App. D. C. 331, 298 Fed. 204).

Interrogatories in garnishment proceedings are within the provisions of this section. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

TESTIMONY AGAINST INTEREST

Wife being a competent witness may testify against her own interest, that she had nothing more than a naked legal title while the sole beneficial ownership was in the husband. Mallery v. Frye (21 App. D. C. 105).

TESTIMONY AS TO FACT OF MARRIAGE

Testimony of the husband as to the fact of marriage is admissible. Chase v. United States (7 App. D. C. 149).

WIDOW

A wife shall not be compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage and it applies as well after the death as during the lifetime of the husband, and it is immaterial whether the objection be taken by demurrer or answer. McCartney v. Fletcher (10 App. D. C. 572).

§ 14-307 [9: 14]. Confidential communications between husband and wife.

In neither civil nor criminal proceedings shall a husband or his wife be competent to testify as to any confidential communications made by one to the other during the marriage. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1069.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 14-306.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMUNICATIONS PRIOR TO MARRIAGE

Communications prior to marriage are not confidential. Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

GARNISHMENT PROCEEDINGS

Testimony of husband or wife for or against one another including interrogatories in garnishment can not be compelled. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

HUSBAND'S INSTRUCTIONS TO WIFE

Quaere, whether, in the prosecution of the husband for selling liquor on Sunday, the wife of the accused, who made the sale, will be permitted to testify as to instructions or prohibitions she had from her husband as to selling on Sunday. Trometer v. District of Columbia (24 App. D. C. 242).

§ 14-308 [9: 20]. Testimony of physicians—Inapplicable in criminal cases.

In the courts of the District of Columbia no physician or surgeon shall be permitted, without the consent of the person afflicted, or of his legal representative, to disclose any information, confidential in its nature, which he shall have acquired in attending a patient in a professional capacity and which was necessary to enable him to act in that capacity, whether such information shall have been obtained from the patient or from his family or from the person or persons in charge of him: Provided, That this section shall not apply to evidence in criminal cases where the accused is charged with causing the death of, or inflicting injuries upon a human being, and the disclosure shall be required in the interests of public justice. (May 25, 1896, 29 Stat. 138, ch. 245; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1073; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1636.)

AMENDMENTS

The words of the above section are as they appear in the 1896 act. The 1901 act contained, as § 1073, a section similar to this one except that the word "representative" was plural and the phrase before the proviso clause which begins "whether such information" was omitted. However, § 1636 of the same 1901 act, being the repealing section thereof, expressly excepted from its application the 1896 act aforesaid.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Party may be forced to submit to physical or mental examination, penalty for refusal, see Rules 35, 37 (b).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIBILITY IN GENERAL

"It is for the court, and not the witness, to determine whether or not the facts upon which the conclusion or opinion is founded are within or without the limitations of the statute," and it is error to permit the "witness to discriminate as to matters of fact in his own mind, and merely state his conclusion to the jury." Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 495).

Testimony of physician attending testatrix inadmissible; confidential relationship presumed; tender of proof out of presence of jury. Stafford v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (60 App. D. C. 380, 55 Fed. (2d) 542).

Evidence that physicians had attended insured, to contradict application denying medical attendance, is admissible. Kavakos v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. (66 App. D. C. 380, 88 Fed. (2d) 762).

DEATH CERTIFICATE

Death certificate properly admitted in evidence. Labofish v. Berman (60 App. D. C. 397, 55 Fed. (2d) 1022).

EXECUTORS

The term "legal representative" includes "executor." Thompson v. Smith (70 App. D. C. 65, 103 Fed. (2d) 936).

FACTS DISCLOSED BY AUTOPSY

"It is well settled that physicians and surgeons may be compelled to testify to the facts disclosed by an autopsy, where the relation of physician and patient did not exist under the lifetime of the deceased." Carmody v. Capital Trac. Co. (43 App. D. C. 245).

HOSPITAL RECORD

A properly authenticated hospital record of patient's name, address, age, and the like, is admissible, provided there is no disclosure of diagnosis or treatment. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

SUBSEQUENT EXAMINATION BY PHYSICIAN

Plaintiff calling a physician to testify as to his physical condition at a certain time does not waive the right to object to the testimony of a physician who made an examination at a different time. Mays v. New Amsterdam Cas. Co. (40 App. D. C. 249, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1108, cert. den. 238 U. S. 624, 59 L. Ed. 1494, 35 Sup. Ct. 662), citing Pru- dential Ins. Co. v. Lear (31 App. D. C. 184); Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Morgan (35 App. D. C. 195).

WAR RISK INSURANCE

In action on war risk insurance policy by the mother of insured, who claimed that insured had become permanently and totally disabled, by failure of his mind, at and before the time the policy lapsed, the report of the examination of insured by a physician was admissible in evidence, the insured himself having sent it to the Veterans' Bureau, but so far as the physician's opinions were based on information received in professional confidence, they should be excluded. United States v. Witbeck (72 App. D. C. 231, 113 Fed. (2d) 185).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The statute assumes the probates to have been lawfully made; and it no more undertakes to define or to regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of probate of the District for the future, than it does the jurisdiction of those courts in the past, or the jurisdiction of the courts elsewhere whose proceedings filed in the District are equally made evidence. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

The record in the office of the register of wills for the District of Columbia of a duly certified copy, or transcript of the record of proceedings, admitting any will or codicil to probate outside of the District of Columbia; and the record in said office of any will or codicil admitted to probate in said District before June 8, 1898, and which shall not have been annulled or declared void according to law prior to June 8, 1898, shall be deemed and held, at law and in equity, as of the same and like force and effect as if such will or codicil had been duly proved and admitted to probate and record under and in accordance with the provisions of sections 19-301 to 19-303. (June 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 437, ch. 394, § 10.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The 1898 act contained a proviso which read: "Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any proceedings at law or in equity pending at the date of passage of this act, or commenced within one year after the passage of this act, wherein or whereby the validity of such will or codicil is or shall be called in question."

In an action at common law the court may, on motion, and on reasonable notice thereof, require the parties to produce books and writings in their possession or power, which contain evidence pertinent to the issue, in cases and under circumstances where they might heretofore have been compelled to produce the same by the ordinary rules of proceeding in chancery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1072.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 34, 37 (b), 45 (b), 45 (f).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BILL OF DISCOVERY

Bill in equity for discovery is not proper, merely because books, papers, and documents are in possession of defendant, as such evidence can be obtained by legal process. Curriden v. Middleton (37 App. D. C. 568).

Where joint tenant applied for equitable relief, the proper procedure was to file bill of discovery rather than motion to produce books and records. Arms v. Burg (67 App. D. C. 155, 90 Fed. (2d) 400).

Municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District of Columbia may be proved by producing in evidence a copy thereof certified by the secretary or an assistant secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and such certified copy shall be prima facie evidence of the due adoption and promulgation of such ordinances and regulations. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 1073b.)

Sec.

14-501. Presumption of death.

14-502. Person presumed dead found living.

If any person shall leave his domicile without any known intention of changing the same, and shall not return or be heard from for seven years from the time of his so leaving, he shall be presumed to be dead, in any case where his death shall come in question, unless proof be made that he was alive within that time. NOTES TO DECISIONS

FOREIGN INSURANCE COMPANY

Insurance company, although incorporated elsewhere, can not effectively adopt by-law seeking to overcome presumption of death from long-continued absence. National Union v. Sawyer (42 App. D. C. 475).

HISTORICAL

There is no presumption of death from an absence of less than seven years, unless it appears that during that time the absent person "encountered some specific peril, or within that period came within the range of some impending or immediate danger, which might reasonably be expected to destroy life," or that he disappeared under circumstances inconsistent with a continuation of life. Groff v. Groff (36 App. D. C. 560). See also Angell v. Groff (42 App. D. C. 198). See also Hamilton v. Rathbone (9 App. D. C. 48, revd. on other grounds 175 U. S. 414, 44 L. Ed. 219, 20 Sup. Ct. 155) (holding that there is no presumption as to the time of death).

"The common-law presumption of death was made statutory, and the statute declares the public policy of the District in that respect." National Union v. Sawyer (42 App. D. C. 475).

PRESUMPTION REBUTTED

Presumption of death after seven years under § 252 of 1901 Code (this section) is rebutted by the appearance of insured at the trial. La Raw v. Prudential Ins. Co. (57 App. D. C. 289, 22 Fed. (2d) 717).

If the person so presumed to be dead be found to have been living, any person injured by such presumption shall be restored to the rights of which he shall have been deprived by reason of such presumption. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 253.)

ABROGATION OF COMMON LAW

Sections 1212 to 1215, inclusive (§§ 15-101 to 15-103, 15-107), and § 1078 of the code (§ 15-205) completely abrogate the rule of the common law on the subject of the limitation and revival of judgments in the District of Columbia. "Twelve years is fixed by statute as the life of a judgment under our code, and at any time during that period the writ of scire facias may be issued by the creditor for the revival of the judgment by merely filing a praecipe with the clerk." Simpson v. Minniz (30 App. D. C. 582).

MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGMENT

A judgment of the municipal court docketed in the Supreme Court is enforceable for 12 years from the date it was so docketed. Brown v. Allen E. Walker & Co. (58 App. D. C. 173, 26 Fed. (2d) 545).

REVIVAL

Judgment becomes extinct at expiration of 12 years unless revived by scire facias within that time. Dutton v. Parish (34 App. D. C. 393).

At the expiration of said period of twelve years the said judgment or decree shall cease to have any operation or effect, and no action shall be brought on the same nor any scire facias or execution issued on the same thereafter; but this provision shall in no wise affect any proceeding that may be then pending for the enforcement of the said judgment or decree. § 15-103 [24: 323]. Lien of judgment or decree—Recognizance.

Every final judgment at common law and every unconditional final decree in equity for the payment of money from the date when the same shall be rendered, every judgment of the municipal court when docketed in the clerk's office of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and every recognizance taken by said District Court, or a justice thereof, from the time when it shall be declared forfeited, shall be a lien on all the freehold and leasehold estates, legal and equitable, of the defendants bound by such judgment, decree, or recognizance, in any lands, tenements, or hereditaments in the District, whether such estates be in possession or be re-versions or remainders, vested or contingent, but such liens or equitable interest shall be enforced by bill in equity. And any recognizance taken in the police court, after being forfeited, may be transmitted to the clerk's office of said District Court and therein docketed in the same manner as the judgment of the municipal court as aforesaid, and thereupon shall have the same effect as if taken in the said District Court; and said lien shall continue as long as such judgment, decree, or recognizance shall be in force or until the same shall be satisfied or discharged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1214; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

The 1909 act changed the name of the "justice of the peace court" to "municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EQUITABLE ESTATE

A final judgment at common law is made a lien, not only upon the legal, but as well upon the equitable, interests in real estate of the judgment debtor from the date when the same is rendered. Reilly v. Sabín (65 App. D. C. 125, 81 Fed. (2d) 259).

PRIORITY IN TIME

A judgment prior in time will take priority over a subsequent judgment, as a lien against defendant's property, although the subsequent judgment debtor has been to considerable trouble and expense in uncovering debtor's equitable interests. Ginder v. Giuffrida (61 App. D. C. 338, 62 Fed. (2d) 877).

REAL ESTATE ACQUIRED AFTER JUDGMENT

Judgment lien attaches to after-acquired real estate by the judgment debtor, but only to the extent of actual title which the debtor has therein. Atlas Portland Cement Co. v. Fox (49 App. D. C. 292, 265 Fed. 444). See also 49 App. D. C. 292, 266 Fed. 1021.

REAL ESTATE CONVEYED BEFORE JUDGMENT

A judgment at law is not a lien upon real estate in the City of Washington, which, before the judgment was rendered, had been conveyed to trustees with a power of sale to secure the payment of the debts of the grantor described in the deed of trust. Morsell v. First Nat. Bank (1 Otto (91 U. S.) 357, 23 L. Ed. 436).

REAL ESTATE ENCUMBERED BY TRUST

Where the real estate involved was encumbered by two trusts, the provisions of this section are directly applicable, citing Biggs v. Campbell and Redman v. Campbell (46 App. D. C. 288). Carroll v. Elkins (58 App. D. C. 265, 29 Fed. (2d) 638).

Any judge or officer of any court, that shall sign any judgments, shall at the signing of the same, without fee for doing the same, set down the day of the month and year of his so doing, upon the paper, book, docket, or record which he shall sign; which day of the month and year shall be also entered upon the margin of the roll of the record where the said judgment shall be entered; and such judgments as against purchasers bona fide for valuable consideration of lands, tenements, or hereditaments to be charged thereby, shall in consideration of law, be judgments only from such time as they shall be so signed, and shall not relate to the first day of the term whereof they are entered. (29 Car. 2, ch. 3, §§ 14 and 15, 1676; Kilty's Rep., p. 241; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 511; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 290, §§ 16 and 17.)

The clerk of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall keep and maintain a docket, to be known as the judgment docket, in which shall be entered the titling of every cause and proceeding in which any judgment or decree may be entered or any recognizance taken, as aforesaid, including recognizances transmitted from the police court, as aforesaid, with a minute of the dates and amounts thereof, and said judgments, decrees, and recognizances shall be indexed in the names of all the principals and sureties bound thereby. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1217.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 15-103.

§ 15-106 [24: 326]. Judgments not docketed, shall not affect purchasers or mortgagees, or have preference.

No judgment not docketed, and entered in the books, shall affect any lands or tenements as to purchasers or mortgagees, or have any preference against heirs, executors, or administrators, in their administration of their ancestors, testators, or intestates estates. (4 and 5 W. and M. ch. 20, § 3, 1692; Kilty's Rep., p. 243; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 581; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 291, § 19.)

If during the period of twelve years from the rendition of the judgment or decree, or from judgment upon a scire facias thereon, the creditor shall cause a scire facias to be issued upon the judgment or decree and a fiat shall be issued thereupon, the effect of such fiat shall be to extend the effect and operation of said judgment or decree with the lien thereby created and all the remedies for the enforcement of the same for the period of twelve years from the date of such fiat. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1215.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Writ of scire facias has been abolished, same relief to be obtained by appropriate action or motion as prescribed by rules, Rule 81 (b).

See Rule 69.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

To support the scire facias, it is incumbent upon the plaintiff in the judgment to show that the judgment debtor had title to the land. Roller v. Caruthers (5 App. D. C. 368).

A plea to scire facias to revive a judgment entered upon power of attorney to confess judgment is sufficient which states that the defendant was never served with process, hadn't authorized anyone to appear for him, nor confessed judgment, nor waived service of process, nor submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the court. Harper v. Cunningham (8 App. D. C. 430).

CONVERSION INTO ACTION

Scire facias is a judicial writ, which may, however, be converted into an action by appearance and plea thereto by defendant. If not so converted, it remains a judicial writ merely, the life of which is ended and its force spent after a year and a day from the date of issuance. Collins v. McBlair (29 App. D. C. 354).

SUFFICIENCY

A scire facias to enforce a judgment, addressed to named parties as devisees of judgment debtor is fatally defective as it does not allege that judgment debtor was dead at the time the writ was issued, that he left a will under which addressees succeeded as sole devisees, and failed to describe this realty. Waters v. Taylor (52 App. D. C. 135, 284 Fed. 639).

Where real property is sold and conveyed and, at the same time, a mortgage or deed of trust thereupon is given by the purchaser to secure the payment of the whole or any part of the purchase-money, the lien of the said mortgage or deed of trust on the property shall be superior to that of a previous judgment or decree against the purchaser. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1216.)

§ 15-109 [24: 329]. Decree confirming sale vests title in purchaser and is notice when registered in land records—Court may order conveyance.

In case of the sale of things, real or personal under a decree in equity, the decree confirming the sale shall divest the right, title, or interest sold out of the former owner, party to the suit, and vest it in the purchaser, without any conveyance by the officer or agent of the court conducting the sale; and the decree shall be notice to all the world of this transfer of title when a copy thereof shall be registered among the land-records of the District; but the court may, nevertheless, order its officer or agent to make a conveyance, if that mode be deemed preferable, in particular cases. (R. S., D. C., § 793; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 75, § 6.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Judgment in mortgage foreclosure, § 45-616.

In all cases where a decree shall be made for a conveyance, release, or acquittance, and the party against whom such decree shall pass shall neglect or refuse to comply therewith, such decree shall stand, be considered and taken, in all courts of law and equity, to have the same operation and effect as if the conveyance, release, or acquittance had been executed conformably to such decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1205, ch. 854, § 101.)

§ 15-111 [24: 331]. Payment of amount of judgment and costs into court stays execution, and property discharged—Judgment remains for further breaches.

In any action upon any bond or bonds, or on any penal sum for nonperformance of any covenants or agreements in any indenture, deed or writing contained in case the defendant or defendants, after judgment entred, and before any execution executed, shall pay unto the court where the action shall be brought, to the use of the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or his or their executors or administrators, such damages, so to be assessed, by reason of all or any of the breaches of such covenants, together with the costs of suit, a stay of execution of the said judgment shall be entred upon record; or if by reason of any execution executed, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or his or their executors or administrators shall be fully paid or satisfied all such damages so to be assessed, together with his or their costs of suit, and all reasonable charges and expences for executing the said execution, the lands, or goods of the defendant, shall be thereupon forthwith discharged from the said execution, which shall likewise be entred upon record; but notwithstanding in each case such judgment shall remain, continue, and be, as a further security to answer to the plaintiff or plaintiffs, and his or their executors or administrators, such damages as shall or may be sustained for further breach of any covenant or covenants in the same indenture, deed, or writing, contained, upon which the plaintiff or plaintiffs may have a scire facias upon the said judgment against the defendant, or against his heir, terre-tenants, or his executors or administrators suggesting other breaches of the said covenants, or agreements, and to summon him or them respectively to shew cause why execution shall not be had or awarded upon the said judgment, upon which there shall be the like proceeding as was in the action of debt upon the said bond or obligation for assessing of damages upon trial of issues joined upon such breaches or inquiry thereof, upon a writ to be awarded in manner as aforesaid; and upon payment or satisfaction in manner as aforesaid, of such future damages, costs, and charges, as aforesaid, all further proceedings on the said judgment are again to be stayed, and so toties quoties, and the defendant's lands or goods shall be discharged out of execution, as aforesaid. (8 and 9 W. 3, ch. 11, § 8, 1697; Kilty's Rep., p. 244; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 604; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 69, § 14.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL AS A SUPERSEDEAS

"Unless an appeal operates as a supersedeas, execution of the judgment may be had immediately." Byrne v. Morrison (25 App. D. C. 72); Sechrist v. Bryant (52 App. D. C. 286, 286 Fed. 456).

The appellant appealed from the decree entered in the equity suit; but filed no supersedeas bond for a stay of execution upon the decree, and consequently a writ of execution might have issued at any time thereafter. Fletcher v. Kellogg (55 App. D. C. 97, 2 Fed. (2d) 315).

DECREE MUST BE FINAL

Decree of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in general term was not a final decree in the sense that a writ of execution can be issued upon it. Bieber v. Fehheimer (9 App. D. C. 548).

EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS

The code provides expressly for actions and judgments against executors and administrators and for the issuance of writs of fieri facias thereon, and there is no reason to doubt that this contemplates the use of attachment and garnishment. Fishel v. Kite (69 App. D. C. 360, 101 Fed. (2d) 685).

POWER OF COURT TO VACATE SALE

Until the sheriff or marshal makes return of the writ and of the manner of his service of it, and the court is enabled to judge of the propriety of such service, the debtor can not be barred of his right of objection and to have the sale vacated on the ground of irregularity. It is only required of him that he should act promptly before any rights of innocent parties have intervened. Hart v. Hines (10 App. D. C. 366).

There is a difference between an attempt by a court to revise one of its judgments, after the expiration of the term in which that judgment was entered, and the assertion by the court of power to set aside an execution sale. This is especially true when the sale had not been confirmed by judicial order. Shipley v. Shamwell (41 App. D. C. 267).

PROPERTY SUBJECT TO EXECUTION

No property but that in which the judgment debtor has a legal title is subject to execution at law. Starr v. United States (8 App. D. C. 552).

SATISFACTION BY GARNISHEE

A garnishee who, in good faith, satisfied a claim of attaching creditor without waiting for judgment against him, is not liable on a subsequent attachment. Smith v. Shapiro (61 App. D. C. 66, 57 Fed. (2d) 432).

If the execution be issued and returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, within said period of three years, an alias writ may be issued at any time during the life of the judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1075.)

If the return shall be omitted to be made on or before the return day expressed in the writ it may nevertheless be made afterwards as of that date. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1076.)

If said writ shall not be issued within the time allowed therefor, as aforesaid, it shall not be issued until a scire facias has been issued upon said judgment and a fiat has been rendered thereupon. Said fiat shall be deemed a renewal of the judgment, and the same rule shall apply thereto in relation to the issuing of execution thereon as to the original judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1077.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS

The code provides expressly for actions and judgments against executors and administrators and for the issuance of writs of fieri facias thereon, and there is no reason to doubt that this contemplates the use of attachment and garnishment. Fishel v. Kite (69 App. D. C. 360, 101 Fed. (2d) 685).

Attachment may be issued at any time during the life of the judgment, without issuing a scire facias previously thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1087.)

An attachment may be levied upon the judgment debtor's goods, chattels, and credits. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1088; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The former section read: "An attachment may be levied upon the judgment debtor's credits due him from third persons and upon his interest in letters patent for inventions issued by the United States."

In all cases of attachment the plaintiff may exhibit interrogatories in writing, in such form as may be allowed by the rules or special order of the court, to be served upon any garnishee concerning any property of the defendant in his possession or charge or any indebtedness of his to the defendant at the time of the service of the attachment or between the time of such service and the filing of his answers to said interrogatories; and the garnishee shall file his answers, under oath, to such interrogatories within ten days after service of the same upon him. In addition to the answers to written interrogatories required of him, the garnishee may, on motion, be required to appear in court and be examined orally, under oath, touching any property or credits of the defendant in his hands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1089.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Statute contemplates (1) "the garnishee answering interrogatories, (2) oral examination of the garnishee, supplementing the answers to the interrogatories, (3) traverse by plaintiff of the garnishee's answer, after the oral examination, and (4) the determination of the issue joined by traverse." When the record shows only the first of these steps the trial court is correct in denying the motion for summary judgment. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

When the usual written interrogatories were directed to the garnishee and she answered that she was indebted to defendant in the principal suit and that this indebtedness, in the amount of $300, had been established by stipulation filed in an equity suit between her and the defendant then pending in the District Court, and when the stipulation was filed as an exhibit and recited that the named amount was "in compromise of all the various claims and counterclaims between the parties" and if plaintiff was not satisfied with this answer, he had means of testing its accuracy and truthfulness. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

FORM

A garnishee is not excused from answering a proper question, merely because it is ineptly combined with improper queries in a single interrogatory where the proper question is clear and easily separable. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

ORAL EXAMINATION

The provision in this section and § 15-309 do not affect the right of the plaintiff to examine the garnishee orally under oath, without waiting for a traverse of the answer. Flynn v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (60 App. D. C. 82, 47 Fed. (2d) 978).

The right to oral examination supplementing the information obtained in the garnishee's answer is permitted in express statutory terms. Young v. Nicholson (70 D. C. App. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

Where the garnishee's answer on its face shows the uncertainty as to the ownership of deposits, it is error to refuse plaintiff the right to examine the garnishee orally. Young v. Nicholson (70 D. C. App. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

Attachments shall be levied upon credits of the defendant in the hands of a garnishee by serving him with a copy of the writ of attachment and of the interrogatories accompanying the same, and a notice that any property or credits of the defendant in his hands are seized by virtue of the attachment. It may be levied upon debts due to the defendant upon any judgment or decree by a similar service upon the debtor owing the same.

The garnishee, in any case in which the property or credits attached or sought to be attached is held by him in the name of or for the account of another than the defendant, shall retain such property or credits during the period pending determination by the court of the propriety of the attachment or the rightful owner of such property or credits, and, during such period, shall incur no liability whatsoever for such retention. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1090; Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 8 (b).)

AMENDMENT

The 1939 amendment added the second paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSONAL PROPERTY IN HANDS OF TRUST COMPANY

Personal property in the hands of a trust company may be garnished. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

SUBSEQUENT CREDITOR

To rule that after writ of attachment has been served on garnishee a subsequent attaching creditor might seize the property so garnished would be inconsistent with the intent and purpose of the law. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

Attachments may be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of the marshal or coroner, and shall bind the same from the time of service, and shall be a legal excuse to such officer for not paying or delivering the same as he would otherwise be bound to do. Attachments may also be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of an executor or administrator, and shall bind the same from the time of service; but if the executor or administrator shall make return to the writ that he can not certainly answer whether the defendant's share of the money or property in his hands will prove sufficient to pay the plaintiff's debt, no judgment of condemnation shall be rendered as against such executor or administrator until the passage by the Probate Court of his final or other account showing money or property in his hands to which the defendant is entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1091; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the second sentence.

DEFENDANT

The "defendant" referred to is one who has a right to money in the hands of an administrator or executor of an estate which is subject to a judgment against him. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

The court may make all orders necessary for the preservation of the property attached, and if the same be perishable or for other reasons a sale of the same shall be expedient, may order that the same be sold and the proceeds paid into court and held subject to its order. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1093.)

Any garnishee or stranger to the suit who may make claim to the property attached as hereinafter provided, may plead to the attachment, and such plea shall be considered as raising an issue without replication, and any issue of fact thereby made may be tried by the court or by a jury impaneled for the purpose, if either party desire it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1094.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSION OF OWNERSHIP

Where answers of bank disclosed deposits in the names of appellants individually, and appellants in their affidavits in support of their motion to quash as well as in their verified pleas averred that the said deposits belonged to them, they can not complain if court takes their statements as true and condemns such deposits to satisfy a default judgment against them personally. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

OWNERSHIP OF FUND

Neither the answer of the garnishee nor the information obtained in the oral examination is conclusive upon the court in respect of the true ownership of the fund. Young v. Nicholson (70 App. D. C. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

If any garnishee shall answer to interrogatories that he has no property or credits of the defendant or less than the amount of the plaintiff's judgment, the plaintiff may traverse such answer as to the existence or amount of such property or credits, and the issue thereby made may be tried as provided in the last aforesaid section; and in such case, where judgment is rendered for the garnishee, the plaintiff shall be adjudged to pay to the garnishee, in addition to his taxed costs, a reasonable counsel fee; and if such issue be found for the plaintiff, judgment shall be rendered as if possession of the property or credits had been confessed by the garnishee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1095.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 15-304. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PLAINTIFF MAY TRAVERSE

The plaintiff may traverse the garnishee's answer, and the issue thereby made may be tried before the court or by a jury if either party so desire. Young v. Nicholson (70 App. D. C. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

If plaintiff is not satisfied with answer to written interrogatories, he has means of testing its accuracy and truthfulness. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

Any person may file his petition in the cause, under oath, at any time before the final disposition of the property attached or its proceeds, not being real estate, setting forth a claim thereto or an interest in or lien upon the same; and the court, without other pleadings, shall inquire into the claim, and, if either party request it, impanel a jury for the purpose, who shall be sworn to try the question involved as an issue between the claimant as plaintiff and the parties to the suit as defendants, and the court may make all such orders as may be necessary to protect any rights of the petitioner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1096.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSION OF OWNERSHIP

Where appellants have stated in affidavits and in verified pleadings that deposits in bank belonged to them absolutely, they can not complain that the issue as to such credits was not determined as provided in this section. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

Where the attachment has been levied upon specific property, on the return by the marshal judgment of condemnation of the same may be entered, and so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's judgment may be sold under a fieri facias; or, if said property shall have been sold under interlocutory order of the court, the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied to the plaintiff's claim by order of the court. NOTES TO DECISIONS

ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES

The garnishee, wife of the judgment debtor, may not be compelled to answer interrogatories that would compel her to testify against her husband. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

Appellants having failed to make answer to the proper and separable portion of the third interrogatories within the time limited, judgment was properly entered against them. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

BY DEFAULT

The lower court may not enter judgment by default against the garnishee unless it failed to appear and show cause, or to answer. Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. v. Flynn (60 App. D. C. 108, 48 Fed. (2d) 1020).

§ 15-313 [24: 296]. Refusal to deliver possession of property sold—Order to show cause—Possessor may show superior title.

When real estate is sold by virtue of any execution, and the judgment defendant or any person claiming under him since the rendition of the judgment is in actual possession of the property and refuses to deliver possession thereof to the purchaser upon demand made therefor, it shall be lawful for the court, on the application of the purchaser, to require the person so in possession to show cause why possession should not be delivered according to said demand, and, if no good cause be shown, to issue a writ of habere facias possessionem, requiring the marshal to put the purchaser in possession. If the party in possession shall allege under oath a title derived from the judgment debtor prior to the judgment or a title superior to that of the defendant, said writ shall not issue, but the purchaser may have his remedy by an action of ejectment or the summary remedy in the municipal court as herein provided in sections 11-703, 11-704, 11-710, 11-713, 11-724 to 11-729, 11-731, 11-732, 11-735 to 11-748 and 22-805, 22-806. (4 Ann. ch. 16, § 27, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat. p. 664; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 447, § 34.)

§ 16-102 [24: 52]. Accounts at law referred to auditor—Discharge of jury—Procedure as in equity—Report filed and notice given—Judgment after thirty days, unless exceptions filed—Form of exceptions—Certificate of counsel and affidavit of exceptant.

In actions at common law grounded upon an account, or in which it may be necessary to examine and determine upon accounts between the parties, the court, in its discretion, at any stage of the cause, may order the accounts and dealings between the parties to be audited and stated by the auditor of the court or by a special auditor to be appointed by the court for the purpose; in which case, if a jury shall have been sworn, they shall be discharged. The course of proceedings before the auditor shall be the same as in cases in equity referred to him. When his audit is completed the auditor shall file his report and account in the clerk's office and give notice thereof to the parties or their attorneys, and at the expiration of thirty days after said notice judgment may be entered, on motion of either party, in accordance with said report and account, unless exceptions are filed thereto for errors in law or fact therein. The party excepting thereto shall point out particularly the item or items in such report and account excepted to, and state the grounds of such exception, and annex to his exceptions a certificate of counsel that, in his opinion, the matters of law therein stated are well founded in law, and an affidavit of such party that the exceptions are not filed for delay, and that the allegations of fact in said exceptions are true to the best of his knowledge and belief, and a copy of said exceptions shall be served on the opposite party or his attorney. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 254; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "true" the words "to the best of his knowledge and belief."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Masters, reference to, see Rule 53.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This chapter of the code does not deprive a party, in a proper case, of a trial by the common law triers of fact, but provides a simple and workable method by which he may secure it. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505), citing, with approval, Simmons v. Morrison (13 App. D. C. 161).

APPLICATION OF STATUTE

The statute applies only to actions at law wherein a mutual accounting between the parties is involved. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

CONSENT TO REFERENCE

A failure to object to an order of reference is equivalent to a consent thereto. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

Consent to a common-law reference, however, which does not amount to a stipulation of reference for a finding of law and fact, does not amount to a waiver of a trial by jury, if by proper exception issues of fact can be framed for submission to a jury. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (52 App. D. C. 194, 285 Fed. 923).

EXCEPTIONS

"It is the right of parties who file exceptions to withdraw them. They are not bound to let them stand because other parties may find it to their advantage to have them retained." Other parties could have taken their own exceptions. Gilbert v. Washington Benefit Assn. (21 App. D. C. 344). See also United States v. Groome (13 App. D. C. 460); American Ice Co. v. Eastern Trust & Banking Co. (17 App. D. C. 422, affd. 188 U. S. 626, 47 L. Ed. 623, 23 Sup. Ct. 432).

The allowance of amendments to exceptions is also within the court's discretion. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

If there are no disputed facts, it is not error to refuse to submit an exception to the jury. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

"The exceptions, to be sufficient to avoid judgment on the report, must respond to the original issues made by the pleadings, as further defined and limited by the approved findings of the auditor. If proper exceptions are filed, in so far as they dispute the findings of fact by the auditor, they created issues to be submitted to the jury. and, upon the issues so defined, the trial will proceed in all respects as if no reference or report had been made." Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

"Failure to except to a finding (of the auditor), as we understand the statute, is equivalent to an admission that it is correct." Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

"As we understand chapter 4 of the Code (§§ 16-102 to 16-106), the party defeated before the auditor must except to his ultimate finding, and to every other finding which he believes prejudicially affects that finding, and must state with particularity the grounds of each exception. In other words, he must show the relation between the subordinate finding and the ultimate one, and that, if his theory is correct, the ultimate one is wrong in whole or in part." Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

Exceptions cannot be to matters de hors the report. Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

FINDINGS OF AUDITOR

"The findings of a master or an auditor, concurred in by the court below, are to be taken as presumptively correct, and will be permitted to stand unless some obvious error has intervened in the application of the law or the principles of the decree under which he acts, or some important mistake has been made in the evidence, and which has been clearly pointed out and made manifest." France v. Coleman (29 App. D. C. 386, dism. 207 U. S. 601, 52 L. Ed. 359, 28 Sup. Ct. 258), citing Richardson v. Van Auken (5 App. D. C. 209); Grafton v. Paine (7 App. D. C. 257, dism. 168 U. S. 704, 42 L. Ed. 1212, 18 Sup. Ct. 942); Smith v. American Bonding & Trust Co. (12 App. D. C. 192); Hutchins v. Munn (28 App. D. C. 271, affd. 209 U. S. 246, 52 L. Ed. 776, 28 Sup. Ct. 504). See also Consaul v. Cummings (24 App. D. C. 36).

In the absence of exceptions under a general submission, the auditor's report when admitted on trial before a jury is prima facie evidence both of the facts and conclusions of fact therein contained. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886). See also (52 App. D. C. 194, 285 Fed. 928).

POWER TO MAKE REFERENCE

Court has inherent power to make references in actions at law to the same extent as in equity. A compulsory reference with power to determine issue is impossible in view of constitutional provisions. But no reason exists why a compulsory reference to simplify and clarify the issues and to make tentative findings cannot be made at law, when occasion arises, as freely as in equity. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

Reference of complicated questions of fact to an auditor to hear the evidence and make findings of fact has long been recognized as an appropriate proceeding in an action at law, and, in this case, no reason is shown why it should be transferred from law to equity side. United States Shipping Bd. Merchant Fleet Corp. v. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. (64 App. D. C. 247, 77 Fed. (2d) 370).

SELECTION OF AUDITOR

The selection of a special auditor is within the discretion of the trial court. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

When such exceptions are filed, the court shall enter the cause on the trial calendar of the term in which they are filed in its proper place, and the issues made by said exceptions shall be tried and determined in the same manner as other issues of law or fact made by the pleadings in an action at common law, and any part of such report and account not so excepted to shall be adjudged to be conclusive between the parties on such trial. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 255.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-102.

§ 16-104 [24: 54]. Where issues at trial of exceptions are numerous, may be considered separately by the same jury or by different jury.

If, in the opinion of the court, such issues are so numerous as to create confusion the court may, in its discretion, direct evidence to be received and considered by the jury as to a part of said issues, and direct the jury to retire and conclude as to the same before hearing the evidence as to the other issues, and this to repeat as often as may be necessary, the final conclusion of the jury as to all the issues to be announced as their verdict; or may submit the different issues to the same jury at different times for their separate verdicts thereon, or submit such issues to different juries; or may pursue such other course as the rules of the court may prescribe to facilitate the determination of such issues. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 256.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-102.

§ 16-105 [24: 55]. General, frivolous, immaterial, or informal exceptions.

If only general, immaterial, or frivolous exceptions are made or they are filed without the certificate of counsel and affidavit of exceptant, required as aforesaid, they may be overruled by the court or a justice at chambers, on notice and motion, and judgment entered as if no exceptions had been filed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 257.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-102.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Formal exceptions unnecessary, see Rule 46.

Upon the conclusion of such trial or trials the court shall enter judgment upon the auditor's report as affirmed or corrected by the findings of the jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 258.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FORM OF AUDITOR'S REPORT

As to modification by Court of Appeals of decree approving auditor's report, because defective in form, see Eclipse Bicycle Co. v. Farrow (23 App. D. C. 411, revd. on other grounds 199 U. S. 581, 50 L. Ed. 317, 26 Sup. Ct. 150).

§ 16-201 [15: 1a]. Jurisdiction—Consent of petitioner's spouse—Residence requirements—Data to be furnished—Investigation and report—Exceptions.

Jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to hear and determine petitions and decrees of adoption of any adult or child (hereinafter called adoptee) with authority to make such rules, not inconsistent with this section and sections 16-202 to 16-207, as shall bring fully before the court for consideration the interests of the adoptee, the natural parents, the petitioner, and any other properly interested party. No petition shall be considered by the court unless petitioner's spouse joins in the petition or consents to the adoption.

Jurisdiction is conferred if either of the following circumstances exist:

- (1) If petitioner is a legal resident of the District of Columbia;
- (2) If petitioner has actually resided in the District of Columbia for at least one year.

The petition shall state, so far as known, the name, age, race, occupation, and address of the natural parents, when known, and of the petitioner, whether the petitioner is married or single, the age and sex of the adoptee, the property owned by the adopted, and such other facts as the court may require.

The court shall thereupon, if the adoptee is under twenty-one years of age, issue a rule with copy of the petition attached, which shall be served in such manner as the court shall therein direct, directed to all parties to the petition who do not appear and consent to the adoption, and to the Board of Public Welfare to verify the allegations of the petition, to make a thorough investigation for the purpose of ascertaining if the adoptee is a proper subject for adoption and if the home of the petitioner is a suitable one for the adoptee and within a period not in excess of ninety days to report its findings with recommendations to the court. If an investigation already has been made by a social agency approved by the court, the Board of Public Welfare shall accept it instead of making one itself: Provided, That the foregoing provisions of this section relating to investigations and reports by the Board of Public Welfare or an approved social agency shall not apply, if an investigation has already been made by a recognized religious or fraternal organization, having under its care minors for adoption, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and if such organization appears in the proceeding and reports to the court the results of its investigation and its recommendations with respect to the adoption. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 806, ch. 774, § 1; June 20, 1939, 53 Stat. 844, ch. 226.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The former section conferring jurisdiction of adoptions was repealed by § 7 of the 1937 act, and is set out as a compiler's note to § 16-207.

AMENDMENT

The 1939 amendment changed the word "thirty" in the last paragraph to "ninety."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PURPOSE OF STATUTE

Protection of adoptees and their interests is a dominant purpose of the adoption act. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

REPORT OF BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE

An investigation by and the report of the Board of Public Welfare may not, in all cases, satisfy the statutory requirement that the interests of the adoptee be fully protected, as where no report was made as to the character of an absentee natural parent when this was a vital issue, assuming that the board was authorized to make such an investigation. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

§ 16-202 [15: 1b]. Persons who must consent—Adoptee—Parents, natural and adoptive—Consent of father of illegitimate adoptee not necessary—Circumstances.

If adoptee is under twenty-one years of age, no decree of adoption shall be made unless the court shall find that the following persons have consented to the adoption: Adoptee, if fourteen or more years of age; and the natural parents or adoptive parents by a previous adoption, if living. The consent of the father of an adoptee born out of wedlock shall not be necessary unless he has both acknowledged the adoptee and contributed voluntarily to its support. The consent of a parent who is a minor shall not be voidable because of that minority.

If adoptee shall have attained the age of twenty-one years or over, the only consents which shall be required are those of such adoptee, and its spouse, if any.

The consent of a natural parent, or parents, or adoptive parents by a previous adoption, may be dispensed with (1) where after such notice as the court shall direct it shall appear to the court that such person or persons can not be located; (2) where they have been permanently deprived of custody of the adoptee by court order; (3) where it shall appear to the court that they have abandoned the adoptee and voluntarily failed to contribute to his or her support for a period of at least one year next preceding the date of the filing of the petition; or (4) where investigation has shown to the satisfaction of the court extraordinary cause why such consent should be dispensed with. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEARANCE OF ADOPTEEES

Boys 12 and 14 years old, respectively, in proceedings to adopt them, should appear for examination by the court in order to bring their interests before it, when no one legally capable of representing them appears. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

DISCRETIONARY POWER OF COURT

Since "extraordinary cause" must be established to the satisfaction of the court, a broad measure of discretion is vested in the District Court, and its decision on "this question" will be disturbed only on a showing that there has been a grave abuse of this discretion. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

GUARDIAN AD LITEM

A request for the appointment of a guardian ad litem made by an absentee natural parent should be granted, in the absence of a rule otherwise providing. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

§ 16-203 [15: 1c]. Decree of adoption—Satisfaction of court—Adoptee to have lived with adoptor six months—Board of Public Welfare.

After considering the petition, the consents, and such evidence as the parties and any other properly interested person may wish to present, the court may enter a final decree of adoption if it is satisfied (a) that adoptee is physically, mentally, and otherwise suitable for adoption by the petitioner; (b) that the petitioner is fit and able to give the adoptee a proper home and education; and (c) that the change will be for the best interests of adoptee.

No final decree of adoption shall be entered unless the adoptee shall have been living with the adoptor at least six months prior to the filing of the petition. If, however, it shall appear in the interests of the adoptee, the court may enter an interlocutory decree for adoption, which decree shall by its terms automatically become a final decree of adoption on a day therein named, which shall not be more than six months from the entry of such interlocutory decree unless such decree shall be set aside for cause shown. If it shall appear in the interests of the adoptee, the Board of Public Welfare shall visit the adoptee during the period of the interlocutory decree at regular intervals. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEALS

An aggrieved party may appeal from a final order of the District Court in an adoption proceeding. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

§ 16-204 [15: 1d]. Notice to Vital Statistics Bureau, Health Department—New record made—Original birth certificate sealed.

Notice of a final decree of adoption shall be sent to the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Health Department. This Bureau shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name and with the names of the adoptor and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the order of the court and such sealed package shall be opened only by order of court. If the birth occurred outside of the District of Columbia, the clerk shall, upon petition by the adopter, furnish him with a certified copy of the final decree of adoption. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 4; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. 235, ch. 244.)

AMENDMENT

The 1940 amendment added the last sentence.

§ 16-205 [15: 1e]. Relationship of adoptee and adopter—Rights of inheritance and succession qualified—Adoptee's family name—Given name.

Entry of a final decree of adoption shall establish the relation of natural parent and natural child between adoptor and adoptee for all purposes including mutual rights of inheritance and succession the same as if adoptee was born of adoptor, except that adoptee shall not inherit from collateral relatives of or the parents of adoptor although such collateral relatives and parents of adoptor shall have the right of inheritance from adoptee. All rights and duties including those of inheritance and succession between adoptee, his or her natural parents, their issue, collateral relatives, and so forth, shall be cut off. In the event one of the natural parents shall be the spouse of petitioner, then the rights and relations as between adoptee, such natural parent, and his or her parents and collateral relatives, including mutual rights of inheritance and succession, shall in nowise be altered.

The family name of the adoptee shall be changed to that of adoptor unless the decree shall otherwise provide, and the given name of the adoptee may be fixed or changed at the same time. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 5.)

§ 16-206 [15: 1f]. Records open to inspection upon court order only—Records sealed—Application for leave to inspect—Docket of adoption proceedings.

Records and papers in adoption proceedings, after the petition is filed and prior to the entry of a final decree, shall be open to inspection by the parties or their attorneys and members of the Board of Public Welfare or their agents, upon order of the court. Upon the entry of a final decree the Board of Public Welfare and the clerk of the court shall seal all papers in the proceedings. Said seals shall not be broken, and said papers shall not be inspected by any person, including the parties to the proceeding, except upon order of the court. Application for leave to inspect papers in adoption proceedings shall be by petition and shall be granted only for extraordinary cause shown. The court may appoint a master to consider and investigate the facts upon which such a petition is based, who shall make his findings and recommendations to the court.

The clerk of the court shall keep a docket of all adoption proceedings which shall only be inspected upon order of the court upon the same conditions hereinabove set out for the inspection of papers. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 6.)

The provisions of sections 16-201 to 16-207 shall have no retroactive effect and shall not be construed as affecting in any way the rights and relations obtained by any decree of adoption entered prior to August 25, 1937, and all proceedings instituted and pending on August 25, 1937, shall be carried to their final determination in accordance with the provisions of section 395 of the Act of March 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1252, ch. 854, as if sections 16-201 to 16-207 had not been enacted, and all orders and decrees entered therein shall remain valid and binding on all parties thereby affected. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 7.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 7 of the act of 1937 contains the following as its first sentence: "Section 395 (title 15, sec. 1, New Code) of the Code of Law of the District of Columbia is hereby repealed." This is the section referred to above and was set out as follows in D. C. Code, 1929 Edit., title 15, § 1: "Section 1. Adoption.—Jurisdiction is hereby conferred on any judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia to hear and determine any petition that may be presented by a person or a husband and wife residing in the District of Columbia, praying the privilege of adopting any minor child as his or her or their own child, and making such minor child an heir at law. If the judge shall find, upon the hearing of such petition, that the petitioner is a proper person to have custody of such child, and that the parent or parents or guardian of such child have given their permission for such adoption, he shall enter an order upon the records of the court legalizing such adoption and making such child an heir at law of such petitioner, the same as if such child was born to such petitioner. If the child has no parent or guardian the judge shall appoint a guardian ad litem. (Feb. 26, 1895, 28 Stat. 687, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1252, ch. 854, § 395.)"

In any action at law in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia or the municipal court of said District, for the recovery of specific personal property, or a debt, or damages for the breach of a contract, express or implied, if the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, either at the commencement of the action or pending the same, shall file an affidavit showing the grounds of his claim and setting forth that the plaintiff has a just right to recover what is claimed in his declaration, and where the action is to recover specific personal property stating the nature and, according to affiant's belief, the value of said property and the probable amount of damages to which the plaintiff is entitled for the detention thereof, and where the action is to recover a debt stating the amount thereof, and where the action is to recover damages for the breach of a contract setting out, specifically and in detail, the breach complained of and the actual damage resulting therefrom, and also stating either, first, that the defendant is a foreign corporation or is not a resident of the District, or has been absent therefrom for at least six months; or, second, that the defendant evades the service of ordinary process by concealing himself or temporarily withdrawing himself from the District; or, third, that he has removed or is about to remove some or all of his property from the District, so as to defeat just demands against him; or, fourth, that he has assigned, conveyed, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, convey, dispose of, or secrete his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors; or, fifth, that the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which the action is brought, the clerk shall issue a writ of attachment and garnishment, to be levied upon so much of the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, and credits of the defendant as may be necessary to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff: Provided, That the plaintiff shall first file in the clerk's office a bond, executed by himself or his agent, with security to be approved by the clerk, in twice the amount of his claim, conditioned to make good to the defendant all costs and damages which he may sustain by reason of the wrongful suing out of the attachment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 445; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 563, ch. 153.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AFFIDAVITS

Affidavits in an attachment proceeding becomes a part of the record on appeal. Barbour v. Paige Hotel Co. (2 App. D. C. 174).

An affidavit fully complies with the statute which states the ultimate fact substantially in its terms, without stating in connection therewith the probative facts which may be necessary to be shown in case of traverse. The same rule applies also to the allegation of the intent with which the act may have been done. Wielar v. Garner (4 App. D. C. 329).

It is ordinarily sufficient in an affidavit for attachment to follow the words of the statute substantially without stating the probative facts which go to show the ultimate conclusion. Cissell v. Johnston (4 App. D. C. 335).

Though the affidavit preceding the issuance of the writ may be so defective as to warrant a reversal of the judgment by an appellate court, such defect will not deprive the court of the jurisdiction acquired by the writ levied upon defendant's property. The proceeding being in rem, the levy of the writ "is the one essential requisite to jurisdiction." Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194).

BOND

Where an attachment is issued against the property of one of several defendants, the bond properly runs to him and not to the other defendants against whom attachment did not issue. Bradford v. Brown (22 App. D. C. 455).

If the bond is defective, the defendant may move to quash the attachment. Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194). See also Hayes v. Conger (36 App. D. C. 202).

Bond is sufficient if it is twice the amount sued upon; "uncertain costs and interest which may accrue during litigation are no part of a plaintiff's claim at the date of suit." Rhodes v. Bowling Green White Stone Co. (43 App. D. C. 298).

A surety on a bond given under section 454 of the Code (§ 16-310) can not object, except in case of fraud, to defects in original affidavits which render the attachment merely voidable. National Surety Co. v. Poates (43 App. D. C. 334).

The requirements of this section as to the filing of a bond are not superseded by the act of April 19, 1920 (41 Stat. 564), section 479a of the Code (§ 28-2403). Tri-State Motor Corp. v. Standard Steel Car Co. (51 App. D. C. 109, 276 Fed. 631).

EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS

"Neither executors nor administrators are named in the section as subject to attachment, and as the attachment of the property of an estate is obviously inconsistent with the law of administration, nothing less, we think, than express authorization would warrant." Jordan v. Landram (35 App. D. C. 89), citing Graham v. Fitch (13 App. D. C. 569), referring to foreign executors, compare § 16-313.

FOREIGN CORPORATION

A foreign corporation, notwithstanding its exclusive engagement in business in the District, its organization for that purpose only, and the continuous presence of its secretary and treasurer therein, is a nonresident and subject to attachment as such. Barbour v. Paige Hotel Co. (2 App. D. C. 174).

JURISDICTION

When debtor leaves city taking all cash with him and leaves no information as to where he is going or when he will return, a creditor after making unsuccessful attempts to locate him is justified in assuming that he left for the purpose of evading the process and a writ of attachment will lie. Wilkins & Co. v. Hillman (8 App. D. C. 469).

The question of the jurisdiction of the court to issue the attachment must be decided solely upon the sufficiency of the declaration, regardless of defenses available to defendant since these are waived by its motion to dissolve the attachment. Orenstein & Koppel, Aktiengesellschaft v. Koppel Industrial Car Equipment Co. (59 App. D. C. 221, 38 Fed. (2d) 532).

MEMBER OF CONGRESS

A member of Congress, present in the District to attend its sessions, is to be regarded (in the absence of a plain, unequivocal statement to the contrary) as a resident of the state which he represents, and therefore a nonresident of the District within the meaning of the attachment statute. Howard v. Trust Co. (12 App. D. C. 222), citing Robinson v. Morrison (2 App. D. C. 105).

PROPERTY ATTACHED

Attachment may be levied against property of the defendant in the possession of the plaintiff. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

Under this and following sections credits may be attached as well as chattels. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

REMOVAL OF PROPERTY

A mere suspicion that the defendant intends to remove his property from the District is not sufficient to justify an attachment. Mackenzie v. Crouse (35 App. D. C. 291).

STATEMENT OF DAMAGES

Attachment statute is not only meant to apply to those actions for damages for breach of contract which are precisely liquidated and ascertained. The object of the statute is to require such a statement of the damages suffered as will be informing to the defendant and enable him to prepare himself to meet the issue tendered. Suter v. Lockwood Dental Co. (45 App. D. C. 92).

Every such writ shall require the marshal to serve a notice on the defendant, if he be found in the District, and on any person in whose possession any property or credits of the defendant may be attached, to appear in said court on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after service of such notice, and show cause, if any there be, why the property so attached should not be condemned and execution thereof had; and the marshal's return shall show the fact of such service. If the defendant is returned "Not to be found," such notice shall be given by publication to the following effect, namely:

In the District (Municipal) Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

A B, plaintiff, versus
C D, defendant. } At law. Numbered —.

The object of this suit is to recover (here state it briefly) and to have judgment of condemnation of certain property of the defendant levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy the plaintiff's claim.

It is, therefore, this — day of —, ordered that the defendant appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the day of the first publication of this order, to defend this suit and show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the suit will be proceeded with as in case of default.

By the court:

—, Justice.

And every such order shall be published at least once a week for three successive weeks or oftener, or for such further time and in such manner as may be ordered by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 446.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The alternative name "Municipal" has been inserted by the compiler in conformity with § 11-703, which gives the Municipal Court jurisdiction in attachment proceedings "in which the claimed value of the personal property or the debt or damages claimed, exclusive of interest and costs does not exceed $1,000." See also compiler's note to § 16-301.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CREDITS

The court cites and construes Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752), and says it is unable to discover a distinction that would permit the attachment of chattels and not of credits. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

One purpose of this section is to protect the rights of third parties in whose possession the property may be. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

PARTIES

Under this and following sections, the Attorney General must be made a party in suit to compel the payment of a judgment of condemnation, where such officer has succeeded the Alien Property Custodian. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

PROPERTY IN SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Property in a safe-deposit box in a trust company is subject to garnishment. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

In all cases of attachment the plaintiff may exhibit interrogatories in writing in such form as may be allowed by the rules or special order of the court, to be served on any garnishee, concerning any property of the defendant in his possession or charge, or any indebtedness of his to the defendant at the time of the service of the attachment, or between the time of such service and the filing of his answers to said interrogatories; and the garnishee shall file his answers under oath to such interrogatories within ten days after service of the same upon him. In addition to the answers to written interrogatories required of him, the garnishee may, on motion, be required to appear in court and be examined orally under oath touching any property or credits of the defendant in his hands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 447.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ANSWER BY CORPORATION

Quaere: Where a corporation garnishee may answer per alium through an agent or must answer per se, through its officers. Particularly when no effort was made to examine deponent orally as to the scope of his authority. International Seal Co. v. Beyer (33 App. D. C. 172). Compare Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194), as to authority of agent to execute bond.

An affidavit signed by the president, secretary, or other proper officer of a corporation is prima facie to be considered the act of the corporation. International Seal Co. v. Beyer (33 App. D. C. 172).

A corporation garnishee may make answer, subscribed and sworn to by a representative of the corporation as "associate counsel." Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Flynn (60 App. D. C. 108, 48 Fed. (2d) 1020).

FAILURE TO ANSWER IN TIME

Upon failure of garnishee to answer within time limit, adverse party must apply to enforce such default. A failure to do so is a tacit consent to an extension of time within which the answer may be filed. Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23).

It is not necessary to secure leave of court to file the answer after expiration of time limit, when no steps have been taken to enforce default. Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23).

Court cites Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23, 29) and says the limitation there is not for the benefit of the pleader, but for his opponent, and, if the opponent fails to take advantage of the default, failure to plead in time will be deemed waived. Shannon & Luchs Constrn. Co. v. Reichelderfer (61 App. D. C. 36, 57 Fed. (2d) 402).

NOTICE

When the garnishment is served on the garnishee, the suit becomes a suit in personam against the garnishee and he is entitled to notice. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

ORAL EXAMINATION

This section permits of an oral examination of the garnishee as broad as the one in writing, and can be invoked although garnishee has not admitted in his written answers that in fact he has property or credits of the defendant in his hands. Fidelity Sav. Co. v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (55 App. D. C. 180, 3 Fed. (2d) 351).

A traverse of the answer is not a condition precedent to the exercise of the right to require oral examination. Flynn v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (60 App. D. C. 82, 47 Fed. (2d) 978).

SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Trust company must answer interrogatory as to whether or not defendant has a safe-deposit box. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

Upon the application of the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney, other attachments founded on the original affidavits may be issued from time to time, to be directed, executed, and returned in the same manner as the original, and without further publication, against a nonresident or absent defendant, and without additional bond, unless required by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 448.)

In case the defendant or any other person interested in the proceedings is not satisfied with the sufficiency of the surety or sureties or with the amount of the penalty named in the bond aforesaid, he may apply to the court for an order requiring the plaintiff to give an additional bond in such sum and with such security as may be approved by the court; and in case of the plaintiff's failure to comply with any such order the court may order the attachment to be quashed and any property attached or its proceeds to be returned to the defendant or otherwise disposed of, as to the court may seem proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 449.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Defendant has the right when not satisfied with the sufficiency of the surety on the bond or amount of its penalty to apply for order requiring plaintiff to give additional bond or, if the bond is defective, move to quash the writ. Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194).

§ 16-306 [24: 126]. Debts not due—Affidavit—Supported by witnesses—Causes—Bond—Dismissal without prejudice.

A creditor may maintain an action and have an attachment against his debtor's property and credits, as aforesaid, where his debt is not yet due and payable, provided the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney shall file in the clerk's office, at the commencement of the action, an affidavit, supported by the testimony of one or more witnesses, as to the amount and justice of the claim and the time when it will be payable, and also setting forth that the defendant has removed or is removing or intends to remove a material part of his property from the District with the intent or to the effect of defeating just claims against him should only the ordinary process of law be used to obtain judgment against him, and shall also comply with the condition as to filing a bond prescribed by section 16-301. The plaintiff in such case shall not have judgment before his claim becomes due; and in case the attachment is quashed the action shall be dismissed, but without prejudice to a future action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 450.)

If the defendant in any case shall file affidavits traversing the affidavits filed by the plaintiff the court shall determine whether the facts set forth in the plaintiff's affidavits as ground for issuing the attachment are true, and whether there was just ground for issuing the attachment; and if, in the opinion of the court, the proofs do not sustain the affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney the court shall quash the writ of attachment; and this issue may be tried by the court or a judge at chambers after three days' notice. The said issue may be tried as well upon oral testimony as upon affidavits, and, if the court shall deem it expedient, a jury may be impaneled to try the issue. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 451.)

Attachments may be levied on the lands and tenements, whether leasehold or freehold, and personal chattels of the defendant not exempt by law, whether in the defendant's or a third person's possession, and whether said defendant's title to said property be legal or equitable, and upon his credits in the hands of a third person, whether due and payable or not, and upon his undivided interest in a partnership business. Every attachment shall be a lien on the property attached from the date of its delivery to the marshal, and if different persons obtain attachments against the same defendant the priorities of the liens of said attachments shall be according to the dates when they were so delivered to the marshal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 452.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CHATELS SUBJECT TO DEED OF TRUST

Attachment is proper against chattels which are subject to a deed of trust as the deed of trust is in favor of the plaintiff in the suit in which the attachment is issued. Richmond v. Cake (1 App. D. C. 447).

PAYMENT ON ACCOUNT—ANOTHER CONTRACT

Where judgment debtor has made a deposit with company on account of the purchase price under another contract, such funds may not be reclaimed by the judgment debtor without the seller's consent, and, being payable upon a contingency, is not subject to garnishment by the judgment creditor. Wheeler v. Thomas ((D. C. D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 702).

PROCEEDS OF SALE

Proceeds of the sale of property in the hands of a purchaser from a foreign receiver who brought the property into this jurisdiction (and was vested with title and a right to sell the same) are not subject to attachment by domestic creditor of original owner. Jenkins v. Purcell (29 App. D. C. 209, 9 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1074).

RENTS ACCRUING AFTER SERVICE

Rents which accrued after service of the garnishment constituted a contingent liability when the garnishment was levied and was not subject to garnishment. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Attachment may be levied against safe-deposit box. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

"THIRD PERSON" MAY BE PLAINTIFF

Attachment may be levied against property of the defendant in the possession of the plaintiff. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

The attachment shall be sufficiently levied on the lands and tenements of the defendant by said property being mentioned and described in an indorsement on said attachment, made by the officer to whom it is delivered for service, to the following effect, namely:

And by service of a copy of said attachment, with said indorsement, and the notice required by section 16-302 on the person, if any, in possession of said property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 453.)

The attachment shall be levied upon personal chattels by the officer taking the same into his possession and custody, unless the defendant shall give to the officer his undertaking, to be filed in the cause, with sufficient security, to the following effect, namely:

A B, plaintiff, }

C D, defendant. }

The defendant and —, his surety, in consideration of the discharge from the custody of the marshal of the property seized by him, upon the attachment sued out against the defendant, on the — day of —, anno Domini nineteen hundred —, in the above entitled cause, appear, and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, hereby undertake, for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, and administrators, or successors or assigns, to abide by and perform the judgment of the court in the premises in relation to said property, which judgment may be rendered against all the parties whose names are hereto signed.

E F.

Or unless the person in whose possession the property is attached shall give to the officer, to be filed in the cause, an undertaking in the following form or to the same effect, namely:

A B, plaintiff, }

C D, defendant. }

Whereas by virtue of an attachment issued in the above-entitled suit, the United States marshal for the District of Columbia has attached certain property in the hands of the undersigned E F, as garnishee, namely, (here describe) of the value of — dollars; and now, therefore, the said E F and G H, as surety, appearing in said suit, and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, hereby undertake for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, and administrators to abide by the judgment of the court in relation to said property, and that if the same shall be condemned to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, judgment may be rendered against all of the undersigned for the value of said property and costs, to be executed against them, and each of them, unless said property shall be forthcoming to satisfy the judgment of condemnation.

G H.

And in either of said cases the attachment shall be sufficiently levied by the taking of the undertaking, as above provided for; and in the latter case the recital of the undertaking shall contain a sufficient description of the property and its value, which value shall be ascertained by an appraisement to be made under direction of the officer and returned with the writ. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1261, ch. 854, § 454; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "administrators" the words "or successors or assigns," and deleted the word "seal" and the brackets inclosing the same following the signatures on both forms.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section was not unconstitutional. United Surety Co. v. American Fruit Product Co. (238 U. S. 140, 59 L. Ed. 1238, 35 Sup. Ct. 828).

§ 16-311 [24: 131]. Release from attachment—Undertaking—Acceptance by marshal—Marshal's liability—Undertaking approved by court—Judgment after release.

Either the defendant or the person in whose possession the property was may obtain a release of the same from the attachment, after it has been taken into the custody of the marshal and the writ has been returned, by giving the undertaking required of him as aforesaid, with security to be approved by the court.

The plaintiff may except to the sufficiency of the undertaking accepted as aforesaid by the marshal and, if the exceptions be sustained, the court shall require a new undertaking, with sufficient surety, by a day to be named, in default of which he shall be liable to the plaintiff on his official bond for any loss sustained by the plaintiff through such default.

Either the defendant or the person in whose possession credits are attached may obtain a release of the same from the attachment by filing an undertaking with security to be approved by the court.

If property or credits attached be released upon an undertaking given as aforesaid, and judgment in the action be rendered in favor of the plaintiff, it shall be a joint judgment against both the defendant and all persons in said undertaking for the appraised value of the property or the amount of the credits. DUTY TO OBTAIN RELEASE—MEASURE OF DAMAGES

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 468.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 469.)

No decree of nullity of marriage or divorce shall be rendered in favor of anyone who has not been a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia for at least one year next before the application therefor, and no divorce shall be decreed in favor of any person who has not been a bona fide resident of said District for at least two years next before the application therefor for any cause which shall have occurred out of said District and prior to residence therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 971; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 539, ch. 453, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

The 1935 amendment deleted the words "not a resident of the District of Columbia" and inserted in lieu thereof the words following the word "anyone" and ending "therefore"; and changed the word "three" to "two."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

"The statute in no way changes the rules of evidence but is designed primarily to prevent this jurisdiction from becoming a haven for those seeking divorce." Creel v. Creel (43 App. D. C. 82).

FOREIGN DECREES

A divorce granted in any State according to its laws by a court having jurisdiction of the cause and of both the parties is valid and effectual everywhere. Sears v. Sears (67 App. D. C. 379, 92 Fed. (2d) 530).

GOOD FAITH

Residence for purpose of divorce must be in good faith. Downs v. Downs (23 App. D. C. 381).

JURISDICTION

The voluntary appearance of the defendant in such cases does not confer jurisdiction. Winston v. Winston (50 App. D. C. 321, 271 Fed. 551).

Jurisdiction in divorce suit not shown, by reason of nonresidence. Rollings v. Rollings (60 App. D. C. 305, 53 Fed. (2d) 917); Marcum v. Marcum (61 App. D. C. 332, 62 Fed. (2d) 871); Ridgeway v. Ridgeway (61 App. D. C. 395, 63 Fed. (2d) 458).

LAW APPLICABLE

When Congress has enacted a complete set of divorce and marriage laws for the District of Columbia, it is to these laws, rather than to those preserved out of the past relationship with the State of Maryland, that must be looked to for guidance and control in the determination of a question. Hoage v. Murch Bros. Constr. Co. (60 App. D. C. 218, 50 Fed. (2d) 983).

LOCUS OF ACTS

Where the parties are residents of the District and sue for a divorce for acts committed therein it is not error to introduce evidence showing acts of cruelty commenced in another jurisdiction and culminating in this District. Creel v. Creel (43 App. D. C. 82).

Where offense was committed beyond the District of Columbia plaintiff must affirmatively aver in the bill, and prove as a fact at the trial, a bona fide residence here for a period of three years; and such averment and proof is jurisdictional. Winston v. Winston (50 App. D. C. 321, 271 Fed. 551).

RESIDENCE

Residence required by "divorce statute" does not necessarily mean the technical legal domicile, but does mean that locality where the social life of the party is lived, and that locality where the greatest publicity will be given by litigation concerning his status. Downs v. Downs (23 App. D. C. 381).

One who was married in the District of Columbia and resided there for 14 years does not lose such residence by temporarily residing in another state, without intending to abandon the domicile here. Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987).

Naval officer who was born and lived in Washington, D. C., may obtain divorce in that jurisdiction although he was a registered voter in New Jersey. Dennett v. Dennett (63 App. D. C. 252, 71 Fed. (2d) 975).

A decree annulling the marriage as illegal and void may be rendered on any of the grounds mentioned in sections 30-101, 30-103 as invalidating a marriage. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FRAUD

Fraud in its procurement will vitiate the contract upon which marriage is based as well as any other contract, and will justify its annulment by the courts. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

Plain purpose of the law is to prohibit divorce or annulment of marriage upon the mere statement of one of the parties without corroborative evidence. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

LUNATIC

A person who has been allured or entrapped into a marriage with an insane person is not required to procure an adjudication of such insanity in an independent proceeding before he or she could be permitted to institute a suit directly for the annulment of the marriage. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

PARTIES

Proceeding in equity on behalf of a lunatic to annul a marriage contracted during infancy is properly brought by his next friend; however, the committee should be made a party defendant. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

§ 16-403 [14: 63]. Causes for divorce a vinculo and for divorce a mensa et thoro and for annulling marriages.

A divorce from the bond of marriage or a legal separation from the bed and board may be granted for adultery, desertion for two years, voluntary separation from bed and board for five consecutive years without cohabitation, final conviction of a felony involving moral turpitude and sentence for not less than two years to a penal institution which is served in whole or in part. A legal separation from bed and board may be granted for cruelty: Provided, That where a final decree of divorce from bed and board heretofore has been granted or hereafter may be granted and the separation of the parties has continued for two years since the date of such decree, the same may be enlarged into a decree of absolute divorce from the bond of marriage upon the application of the innocent spouse: Provided further, That marriage contracts may be declared void in the following cases:

First. Where such marriage was contracted while either of the parties thereto had a former wife or husband living, unless the former marriage had been lawfully dissolved.

Second. Where such marriage was contracted during the lunacy of either party (unless there has been voluntary cohabitation after the lunacy) or was procured by fraud or coercion.

Third. Where either party was matrimonially incapacitated at the time of marriage and has continued so.

Fourth. Where either of the parties had not arrived at the age of legal consent to the contract of marriage (unless there has been voluntary cohabitation after coming to legal age), but in such cases only at the suit of the party not capable of consenting. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 966; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 539, ch. 453, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of 1935 repealed D. C. 1929, title 14, § 64, which section provided as follows:

"64. In suits for divorce a vinculo a divorce a mensa et thoro may be decreed.—Where a divorce from the bond of marriage is prayed for, the court shall have authority to decree a divorce from bed and board if the causes proved be sufficient to entitle the party to such relief only. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 968.)"

AMENDMENT

The section of the 1901 act was repealed by the 1935 act. The earlier act read as follows:

"A divorce from the bond of marriage may be granted only where one of the parties has committed adultery during the marriage: Provided, That in such case the innocent party only may remarry, but nothing herein contained shall prevent the remarriage of the divorced parties to each other: And provided, That legal separation from bed and board may be granted for drunkenness, cruelty, or desertion: And provided * * *", followed by the words of the present section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

When facts show occasional instances, within the three years, of disgusting and sometimes protracted intoxication, it falls short of establishing the state of habitual drunkenness required by the statute. Acker v. Acker (22 App. D. C. 353).

Under particular circumstances the trial court should grant a limited divorce although there is no specific prayer for such a decree. O'Neil v. O'Neil (55 App. D. C. 40, 299 Fed. 914).

If parties to a marriage separated by agreement without cohabitation for more than eight years under the old law and one month under the new law, the actual status of the parties should be recognized and the separation be regarded as a ground for divorce rather than require that the separation should continue for four years and eleven months more before a divorce could be granted. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

Legal separation from bed and board is authorized for various grounds including cruelty. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

ADULTERY

Foundation principle underlying connivance, and essential to its establishment, is that plaintiff must have consented, either expressly or impliedly, to the adultery. Bateman v. Bateman (42 App. D. C. 230).

ANNULMENT

In proceedings to annul a void marriage, especially where it is so declared by statute, the rule of pari delicto and the equitable principle of "clean hands" are inapplicable, since in such cases the State becomes a third party. Simmons v. Simmons (57 App. D. C. 216, 19 Fed. (2d) 690, 54 A. L. R. 75).

CRUELTY

"It is difficult to lay down any definite rule as to what constitutes cruelty within the provisions of this statute. It is clear, we think, that it is not necessary that the conduct be limited to such physical treatment as would endanger life or health. * * * The conduct of the offending party, in the absence of assault, may be such as to make life intolerable and thereby amount to such cruel treatment as to justify a decree of separation. * * * It is sufficient if the evidence, in the absence of physical violence, establishes conduct which creates a state of mind which operating upon the physical system produces bodily injury." Waltenberg v. Waltenberg (54 App. D. C. 383, 298 Fed. 842). On cruelty, see also Snow v. Snow (48 App. D. C. 448, cert. den. 250 U. S. 641, 63 L. Ed. 1185, 39 Sup. Ct. 492).

Evidence held not to establish cruelty warranting a divorce. Trice v. Trice (55 App. D. C. 323, 5 Fed. (2d) 543).

"Cruelty" may be shown, without physical violence, but not by mere incompatibility. Taylor v. Taylor (62 App. D. C. 316, 67 Fed. (2d) 582); Holt v. Holt (64 App. D. C. 280, 77 Fed. (2d) 538).

A limited divorce may be granted for cruelty. Helvestine v. Helvestine (67 App. D. C. 121, 89 Fed. (2d) 970).

DEFINITIONS

While statute does not declare length of time drunkenness, cruelty, or desertion must continue, "there is no difficulty in arriving at the legal definition of the terms employed." Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

DENIAL OF INTERCOURSE

"The wife's denial to the husband of matrimonial intercourse is not, of itself, ground for divorce." Underwood v. Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553), citing Steele v. Steele (1 McArthur (8 D. C.) 505).

DESERTION

One unjustifiably deserted need not seek a reconciliation. Underwood v. Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553).

Ill temper and differences over financial matters are not sufficient to justify desertion. "Acts justifying desertion must be such as would support a decree for divorce." Underwood v. Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553).

"No definite period of desertion is prescribed. Intent, therefore, plays an important part in determining the question. While actual separation and intention to desert must exist together to constitute desertion, it is apparent that they need not be identical in their commencement. Thus, if the departure antedates the intention to desert, the period of desertion dates from the time such intention was formed (Hitchcock v. Hitchcock (15 App. D. C. 81)), while if the intention to desert antedates the departure, the period commences to run from the time of the latter." Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005). See also Blandy v. Blandy (20 App. D. C. 535).

The present law of the District authorizes absolute divorce for desertion. Atkinson v. Atkinson (65 App. D. C. 241, 82 Fed. (2d) 847).

An unrevoked separation agreement in the absence of other circumstances bars a divorce on the ground of desertion but where other circumstances are present, the agreement becomes merely one of the factors to be considered and the question must be determined upon its merits in each case. The important consideration is whether the separation of the parties was consented to or acquiesced in by the innocent party, who except for such consent or acquiescence would have been privileged to secure a divorce upon the ground of desertion. Parks v. Parks (68 App. D. C. 363, 98 Fed. (2d) 235).

Desertion for a period before the passage of this act may be added to time subsequent, before institution of absolute divorce proceedings, to make up the two years provided for herein. Richardson v. Richardson (72 App. D. C. 67, 112 Fed. (2d) 19).

FOREIGN DECREE

When petitioner presented to the Virginia court the grounds on which he sought release, gave notice to the respondent of the suit, and when she appeared, especially as she maintains and raised the question whether he had standing to sue, it would be unreasonable to hold that his domicile in Virginia was not sufficient to entitle him to obtain a divorce having the same force in the District as in that State. Davis v. Davis (305 U. S. 32, 83 L. Ed. 26, 59 Sup. Ct. 3).

Virginia decree, lawfully obtained, constitutes a valid divorce a vinculo, entitled to full faith and credit in the Supreme Court of the District when there drawn in question. Bloedorn v. Bloedorn (64 App. D. C. 199, 76 Fed. (2d) 812).

Divorce obtained in Maryland on grounds not recognized in the District, which was the matrimonial domicile, would be held valid. Atkinson v. Atkinson (65 App. D. C. 241, 82 Fed. (2d) 847).

A divorce obtained by a person legally domiciled in the District who leaves it and goes into a state solely for the purpose of obtaining a divorce and with no purpose of residing there permanently, is invalid, and the District, being the bona fide residence, may forbid the enforcement within its borders of a decree of divorce so procured. Sears v. Sears (67 App. D. C. 379, 92 Fed. (2d) 530).

FRAUD

Concealing pregnancy at time of marriage as fraud, see Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160). See also Alexander v. Alexander (36 App. D. C. 78).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

Congress intended by the enactment of 1935 (§§ 16-401, 16-403, 16-409, 16-421) to liberalize and enlarge the divorce laws of the District of Columbia, both as to existing and prospective conditions. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

In passing the act of August 7, 1935 (§§ 16-401, 16-403, 16-409, 16-421), it was the intention of Congress to liberalize the grounds for divorce. Helvestine v. Helvestine (67 App. D. C. 121, 89 Fed. (2d) 970).

LEGITIMACY

While the courts of the District will refuse a husband or wife relief from a remarriage willfully contracted in violation of the laws of the District, and will not enforce the obligations of the marital status so assumed, if such enforcement will result in benefit or advantage to the wrongdoer only, judicial cognizance may be taken of such status in order to preserve and protect the rights of children and innocent persons. Olverson v. Olverson (54 App. D. C. 48, 293 Fed. 1015).

The courts do not look with favor on the construction of a law, if not unavoidable, which declares children illegitimate. Thomas v. Murphy (71 App. D. C. 69, 107 Fed. (2d) 268).

LUNATIC

Suit to annul marriage of lunatic may be filed by next friend, and need not be filed by his committee, although in such case the committee should be made a defendant. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

MAINTENANCE

To entitle a wife, seeking a limited divorce, to a temporary allowance for maintenance, she must live separate and apart from her husband. Cooper v. Cooper ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 151).

Where parties enter into a ceremonial marriage and live together for 19 years, the wife, having every right to assume that her former husband from whom she had heard nothing for more than 10 years before her marriage was dead, may sue for separate maintenance upon separation. It could not be presumed that the former husband had remained alive for the 30 years, and the circumstances would establish a common-law marriage upon the death of the former husband in case he was alive at the time of the second ceremonial marriage. Williams v. Williams ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 612). To same effect, see Parrella v. Parrella, 33 Fed. Supp. 614).

"MORAL TURPITUDE"

Violation of the Harrison Act, although said act was passed as an exercise of the government's taxing power, involved control of narcotics and was a felony involving "moral turpitude" within meaning of act. Menna v. Menna (70 App. D. C. 13, 102 Fed. (2d) 617).

PLEADING

A suit for a limited divorce and alimony or, in the alternative, for separate maintenance, states two causes of action, distinct not only in the nature of the relief sought but also in the statutory causes for which it may be granted. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26), 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

PRIOR DIVORCE INVALID

A divorce to a husband in Virginia being invalid, his subsequent marriage was void, his wife acquired no rights, nor his children, except to have their legitimacy declared. Frey v. Frey (61 App. D. C. 232, 59 Fed. (2d) 1046).

REMARRIAGE

District law, forbidding remarriage of guilty party (provision subsequently eliminated from law by amendment) to divorce, does not render invalid subsequent remarriage in Florida. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684, revg. 62 App. D. C. 262, 66 Fed. (2d) 567, reh. den. 292 U. S. 615, 78 L. Ed. 1474, 54 Sup. Ct. 861).

A remarriage elsewhere in disregard of the statute, even when both parties remained domiciled in the District, is not void ab initio, but, at most, voidable, and a voidable marriage cannot be annulled after death of either spouse. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684, revg. 62 App. D. C. 262, 66 Fed. (2d) 567, reh. den. 292 U. S. 615, 78 L. Ed. 1474, 54 Sup. Ct. 861).

Provision that after divorce for adultery the innocent party only may remarry was eliminated by 1935 amendment. Thomas v. Murphy (71 App. D. C. 69, 107 Fed. (2d) 263).

"SEPARATION FROM BED AND BOARD"

The phrase "legal separation from bed and board" is a synonymous term with divorce a mensa et thoro. Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

Divorce a vinculo matrimonii is final, while separation from bed and board is only a partial divorce. Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

VOLUNTARY SEPARATION

Provision authorizing divorce on voluntary separation for five years without cohabitation, retroactively applied, held valid. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

In all cases where a divorce from bed and board is decreed it may at any time thereafter be revoked by the court upon the joint application of the parties to be discharged from the operation of the decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 969.)

Where a divorce from bed and board has been decreed the court may afterwards decree an absolute divorce between the parties for any cause arising since the first decree and sufficient to entitle the complaining party to such decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 970.)

In case any marriage shall be declared by decree to have been void on account of either party having a former wife or husband living, if it shall appear that said marriage was contracted in good faith by the other party and in ignorance of said obstacle to the marriage, that fact shall be found and declared by the decree, and in such case the issue of said marriage shall be deemed to be the legitimate issue of the parent who was capable of contracting. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 972.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MARRIAGE—WHEN VOID

When divorce decree was obtained in Virginia through falsehood, any subsequent marriage by either party is void. Frey v. Frey (61 App. D. C. 232, 59 Fed. (2d) 1046).

Where a marriage is declared null and void on account of the idiocy or lunacy of either party at the time of the marriage the issue of the marriage shall be deemed legitimate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 973.)

A divorce for any of the causes herein provided for shall not affect the legitimacy of the issue of the marriage dissolved by such divorce, but the legitimacy of such issue, if questioned, shall be tried and determined according to the course of the common law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 974.)

§ 16-409 [14: 69a]. Decree of annulment or divorce a vinculo dissolves property rights—Jurisdiction of court to determine property rights.

Upon the entry of a final decree of annulment or divorce a vinculo, in the absence of a valid antenuptial or postnuptial agreement in relation thereto, all property rights of the parties in joint tenancy or tenancy by the entirety shall stand dissolved and the court, in the same proceeding in which such decree is entered, shall have power and jurisdiction to award such property to the one lawfully entitled thereto or to apportion the same in such manner as shall seem equitable, just, and reasonable. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 974a, as added Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 540, ch. 453, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROPERTY RIGHTS

Under this section, giving the court the right to adjudicate the title to property held in common, the court did not abuse its discretion in awarding to the husband, on his application for divorce, sole ownership of real estate which was purchased from a joint account established by him, the wife having been guilty of breaching the marriage vows. Richardson v. Richardson (71 App. D. C. 26, 112 Fed. (2d) 19).

§ 16-410 [14: 70]. Alimony pendente lite—Suit money—Counsel fees—Enforcement—Enjoining disposition and sequestration of property—Custody of children.

During the pendency of a suit for divorce, or a suit by the husband to declare the marriage null and void, where the nullity is denied by the wife, the court shall have power to require the husband to pay alimony to the wife for the maintenance of herself and their minor children committed to her care, and suit money, including counsel fees, to enable her to conduct her case, whether she be plaintiff or defendant, and to enforce obedience to any order in regard thereto by attachment and imprisonment for disobedience. The court may also enjoin any disposition of the husband's property to avoid the collection of said allowances, and may, in case of the husband's failure or refusal to pay such alimony and suit money, sequester his property and apply the income thereof to such objects. The court may also determine who shall have the care and custody of infant children pending the proceedings. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 975; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "whether the husband or wife" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "who" in the last sentence.

IN GENERAL

ABSCONDING HUSBAND

This section authorizes the rendering and enforcement of personal decrees for temporary alimony and it may well be extended to include the case of an absconding husband when the matrimonial domicile of husband and wife is within jurisdiction of the court. Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980).

ANNULMENT

When suit was for the annulment of the marriage, and not for a divorce, the court might allow alimony pendente lite, but it had no power to award to the defendant permanent alimony. Alexander v. Alexander (36 App. D. C. 78); Payne v. Payne (54 App. D. C. 149, 295 Fed. 970).

COSTS AND COUNSEL FEES

"Without regard to whether or not the wife succeeds in her litigation, we think that under section 975 of the Code (§ 16-410) she is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees for services rendered in prosecuting her case and to costs of the suit." Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517).

Counsel fees of a husband who was plaintiff in divorce proceedings cannot be allowed against the correspondent. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

The wife was entitled to present her case, and the court may compel a husband to pay counsel fee for the wife, while refusing because of her misconduct to compel the payment of alimony. Myers v. Myers (55 App. D. C. 224, 4 Fed. (2d) 300).

Although there had been no lawful marriage between the parties, either under the statutes or at common law, because plaintiff had a legal husband living, the court was authorized to require defendant to pay a reasonable counsel fee to plaintiff's counsel for their services. Tendler v. Tendler (56 App. D. C. 296, 12 Fed. (2d) 831); criticized as to existence of marriage in Williams v. Williams ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 612), and Parrella v. Parrella ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 614).

The fact that the court found against the wife did not affect the rightfulness of the allowance for counsel fees. Friedenwald v. Friedenwald (57 App. D. C. 13, 16 Fed. (2d) 509).

Order for "suit money" could not be entered after divorce suit had abated by reason of the plaintiff's death. Bailey v. Scott (57 App. D. C. 142, 18 Fed. (2d) 184).

The court is not required to hear and pass upon the evidence relating to the final issues involved before granting allowance to wife for suit money and counsel fees. Martin v. Martin (57 App. D. C. 173, 18 Fed. (2d) 823).

Counsel fees to wife in divorce proceedings; enforced by contempt proceedings. Boardman v. Carey (62 App. D. C. 152, 65 Fed. (2d) 600).

Upon dismissal of complaint the allowance of costs and counsel fees is within the discretion of the trial court. Shellman v. Shellman (68 App. D. C. 197, 95 Fed. (2d) 108).

CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Welfare of the child is a matter of paramount consideration at all times and under all circumstances. Slack v. Perrine (9 App. D. C. 128).

Courts, looking principally to the welfare and happiness of the children, will award their care and custody to the one party or the other as will best promote child's interest and general welfare. Wells v. Wells (11 App. D. C. 392).

When custody of children is involved "the courts do not act to enforce the right of either parent, but to protect the interest and general welfare of the children." Stickel v. Stickel (18 App. D. C. 149).

Interest of infants is even paramount to the claim of both parents. Seeley v. Seeley (30 App. D. C. 391, 12 Ann. Cas. 1058, cert. den. 209 U. S. 544, 52 L. Ed. 919, 28 Sup. Ct. 570).

This section authorizes the court to determine who shall have the care and custody of infant children pending proceedings for divorce. Since the court had jurisdiction of the appellant and of the subject-matter, it was his duty to obey the order, irrespective of whether or not it was erroneous. Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

Equity will interfere to protect children from cruelty or from immoral influences, and may even deprive parents of the care of their own children. Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359).

Disposition of the custody of the child rests in the sound discretion of the court, subject to the rule that its welfare is the paramount thing to be considered. Snow v. Snow (52 App. D. C. 39, 280 Fed. 1013).

DISCRETION OF COURT

"The granting of alimony pendente lite is a matter within the sound discretion of the trial court." Dunnington v. Dunnington (45 App. D. C. 277); Jacobi v. Jacobi (45 App. D. C. 442).

ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER

An order for alimony and attorney's fees pendente lite in a divorce proceeding is in effect a personal decree, and can only be enforced in a foreign jurisdiction after personal service upon the defendant, regardless of the statutory provisions in the state or jurisdiction where the divorce proceeding is pending. Publication may be substituted for personal service of process upon any defendant in a divorce proceeding in this District. Johnston v. Johnston (64 App. D. C. 87, 74 Fed. (2d) 774).

Failure to make payments for maintenance of minor children not enforceable by imprisonment for contempt. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

EXEMPTIONS

Payments of disability insurance are not exempt under § 35-717 from liability for alimony and support of divorced wife. Schlaefel v. Schlaefel (71 App. D. C. 350, 112 Fed. (2d) 177).

JUDGMENT AGAINST PROPERTY

Court may, in case of the husband's failure or refusal to pay such alimony and suit money, sequester his property and apply the income to such object but when husband does not default in paying instalment of alimony when due, a writ will not lie. Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987).

An order to sequester property of the absent defendant, within the immediate jurisdiction of the court, is quasi in rem, issued to satisfy a personal claim on specific property. Thus the court acquires jurisdiction to render a judgment essentially in rem affecting such property, notwithstanding the absence of the owner from the state. Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980).

JURISDICTION OF EQUITY

Equity is ancillary and not antagonistic to the law, and where a statute precludes the authority to make an allowance, equity can not be invoked to aid in its circumvention. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

LIABILITY OF HUSBAND

Decree awarding alimony pendente lite is a final order, and husband is liable therefor although he finally prevail. Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

"In a divorce proceeding the husband is primarily liable for the costs." Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

PROPERTY

In making provision for the wife's sustenance, the term "property" requires a liberal interpretation. Schlaefel v. Schlaefel (71 App. D. C. 350, 112 Fed. (2d) 177).

When a divorce is granted to the wife, the court shall have authority to decree her permanent alimony sufficient for her support and that of any minor children whom the court may assign to her care, and to secure and enforce the payment of said alimony in the manner before mentioned, and may, if it shall seem fit, retain to the wife her right of dower in the husband's estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 976.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ARREARS

No contempt where arrears are due to personal injuries. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

AWARD UNDER PRIOR LAW

Provision in 1901 Code, § 978 (§ 16-413) that a case where permanent alimony has been awarded under 1901 Code, § 976 (this section) shall still be considered open for any further orders operates only prospectively, and the court can not set aside or reduce sums determined and past due. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

DIVORCED FATHER

Act which defines the power of a court to make a support-money order against a husband for the benefit of a wife and minor child, does not embrace the case of an order against a divorced father. See § 980, 1901 Code (§ 16-415). Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

INCREASE OF ALIMONY

Where, in a petition for an increase in an alimony award, the petitioner alleged that she was without knowledge of the provisions of the decree awarding alimony, and that she had accepted the monthly payments provided therefor under protest, an affidavit asserting that petitioner was present in court when the decree was signed, when un-denied, was sufficient to overcome petitioner's allegation that she had no knowledge of the provisions of the decree. Moran v. Moran ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 227).

A claim for an increase in alimony, based on an allegation that the decree was entered by mistake, will be denied, where the motion was not made until more than six months after the judgment was taken. Moran v. Moran ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 227).

REMISSION OF INSTALMENT

Decree as to alimony is final as to instalments of alimony in arrears, and court cannot remit them. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

§ 16-412 [14: 72]. Alimony when divorce is in favor of husband.

If the divorce is granted on the application of the husband, the court may, nevertheless, require him to pay alimony to the wife, if it shall seem just and proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 977; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "but in such cases the husband may appeal" at the end of this section.

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-411.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

RETENTION OF JURISDICTION

Jurisdiction may be retained to enter further orders respecting alimony and care and custody of child. Davis v. Davis (61 App. D. C. 48, 57 Fed. (2d) 414).

WAIVER OF APPEAL

Right to appeal is lost by acceptance of alimony. Harris v. Harris (67 App. D. C. 85, 89 Fed. (2d) 829).

After a decree of divorce in any case granting alimony and providing for the care and custody of children, the case shall still be considered open for any future orders in those respects. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 978.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Setting aside or reducing sums determined and past due, see note to § 16-411. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ARREARS

Decree as to alimony is final as to installments of alimony in arrears. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

Provision in § 978 (§ 16-413) that a case where permanent alimony has been awarded under § 976 (§ 16-411) shall still be considered open for any further orders operates only prospectively, and the court can not set aside or reduce sums determined and past due. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

"CARE AND CUSTODY OF CHILDREN"

Phrase "care and custody of children," includes maintenance, since plainly a child cannot be cared for without being fed, clothed, and otherwise maintained. Elkins v. Elkins (55 App. D. C. 9, 299 Fed. 690).

Marriage of a daughter may constitute a good and sufficient reason for modification of a previous order for support and maintenance. Davis v. Davis (68 App. D. C. 240, 96 Fed. (2d) 512).

COUNSEL FEES

An order for payment of counsel fees in connection with the collection of alimony and support, is an order "in those respects" within the meaning of this section, and the case was "open" for the purposes of this order. Junghans v. Junghans (— App. D. C.—, 112 Fed. (2d) 212).

DISCRETION OF COURT

Trial court has large discretion in awarding custody of minor child and cause will remain open for any further orders found to be proper. Warner v. Warner (58 App. D. C. 34, 24 Fed. (2d) 609).

Alimony within trial court's discretion. Dependent on circumstances. Garrett v. Garrett (61 App. D. C. 309, 62 Fed. (2d) 471).

PROCEEDING IN PERSONAM

Claim for maintenance is essentially a proceeding in personam and there can be no attachment, seizure, or taking of the property until after the decree has passed. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

§ 16-414 [14: 74]. Prior name of wife may be restored.

In granting a divorce from the bond of marriage the court may restore to the wife her maiden or other previous name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 979.)

§ 16-415 [14: 75]. Maintenance of wife and minor children—Enforcement.

Whenever any husband shall fail or refuse to maintain his wife and minor children, if any, although able so to do, the court, on application of the wife, may decree that he shall pay her, periodically, such sums as would be allowed to her as permanent alimony in case of divorce for the maintenance of herself and the minor children committed to her care by the court, and the payment thereof may be enforced in the same manner as directed in regard to such permanent alimony. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 980.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Under the statute "the power of the court to grant separate maintenance can be exercised only where the 'husband shall fail or refuse to maintain his wife and minor children,' if any, although able so to do." Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517), citing Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

Statute does not require that husband and wife live "separate and apart." Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

AMOUNT OF AWARD

Evidence was sufficient to sustain an order of $150 per month for the support and maintenance of wife and three children. Wedderburn v. Wedderburn (54 App. D. C. 193, 295 Fed. 1014).

Lower court, having first obtained jurisdiction of the parties under the bill for maintenance, had the power and the right to enter a decree for maintenance and as shown in the circumstances the allowance of the amount of alimony should be sustained as a proper allowance. Marcum v. Marcum (61 App. D. C. 332, 62 Fed. (2d) 871).

AWARD PENDENTE LITE

This section makes no provision for an award pendente lite as an incident to a suit for separate maintenance. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

DISCHARGE OF ORDER

"The amount and the continuation of the allowance will remain subject to the control of the equity court," and should the parties be reconciled or should the husband provide a suitable home and invite the wife to occupy it, the order for maintenance will be discharged. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff (26 App. D. C. 520). Distinguished Marschalk v. Marschalk (45 App. D. C. 455).

DISCRETION OF COURT

Where a bill for maintenance makes out a prima facie case, the complainant is entitled to an allowance pendente lite for support, the amount of which is within the sound discretion of the trial court. Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

Matter of granting or refusing temporary alimony is committed to sound discretion of trial court, and will not be disturbed by reviewing court, unless discretion has been abused. Reed v. Reed (52 App. D. C. 35, 280 Fed. 1009); Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

DIVORCED FATHER

This section defines the power of a court to make a support-money order against a husband for the benefit of a wife and minor children, but does not embrace the case of an order against a divorced father. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

EQUITY JURISDICTION

Equity has jurisdiction to grant maintenance as an independent relief. Rhodes v. Rhodes (36 App. D. C. 261), following Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299). See also Lesh v. Lesh (21 App. D. C. 475), holding such jurisdiction not superseded by this section.

FOREIGN DECREE

Decree of divorce obtained by husband in Virginia barred wife's action for maintenance in the courts of the District of Columbia. Thompson v. Thompson (226 U. S. 551, 57 L. Ed. 347, 33 Sup. Ct. 129).

LEGITIMACY OF CHILD

The presumption of legitimacy of a child, corroborated by the mother's sworn statement that her husband, defendant in suit for maintenance, was the father of the child, and affidavits of third parties detailing circumstances strongly corroborative of the claim, is not overcome by the husband's denial of paternity, supported by the professional opinion of a physician, based on an examination of defendant more than a year later, that he was sterile at the time conception occurred. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

PERMANENT ALIMONY

Question of permanent alimony could be judicially considered only on the granting of a divorce or on application of the wife for maintenance. Payne v. Payne (54 App. D. C. 149, 295 Fed. 970).

PROCEEDING IN PERSONAM

When suit is for maintenance it is a proceeding in personam, and wife could not by attachment or seizure take the property until after the decree has passed. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

SUFFICIENCY OF ALLEGATIONS

Wife suing for limited divorce and failing to establish any dereliction on the part of the husband is not entitled to maintenance under section 980, D. C. 1901 (§ 16-415). Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517).

Although cruelty was alleged in bill for maintenance on ground of failure to support, it was sufficient. Cissell v. Cissell (61 App. D. C. 271, 61 Fed. (2d) 679).

SUIT BY NONRESIDENT WIFE

A suit for maintenance may be maintained by a non-resident wife against a resident husband. Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

SUPPORT OF CHILD

A child's claim to paternal support, unlike a claim by a wife in separate maintenance and support proceedings, is not affected by the merits of the controversy between the spouses. A father's obligation to contribute to the support of a child born of marriage is unqualified, and maintenance pendente lite for the child must be provided. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

A child's claim for maintenance is not subsidiary to that of the mother. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

All applications for divorce or for a decree annulling a marriage shall be made by petition to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and the proceedings thereupon shall be the same as in equity causes, except so far as otherwise herein provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 963; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The 1902 amendment added a paragraph which provided for disposal of divorce actions pending December 31, 1901. This paragraph has been omitted herefrom.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACTION EQUITABLE

A divorce proceeding in this jurisdiction is equitable in character. Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005).

In all divorce cases where adultery is charged the person or persons with whom the adultery is charged to have been committed shall be made defendant or defendants and brought in by personal service of process or by publication as in other cases. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 983.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Bill alleging adultery with two persons without making them party to suit, was not maintainable. Nelson v. Nelson (60 App. D. C. 156, 49 Fed. (2d) 680).

COUNSEL FEES

Counsel fees of husband plaintiff cannot be assessed against the co-respondent as costs. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

DEFENSE BY CO-RESPONDENT

Quaere: Whether co-respondent can plead condonation by plaintiff. Holden v. Matteson (38 App. D. C. 128).

IDENTITY UNKNOWN

It is not necessary to make co-respondent a party if his identity cannot be determined or he is known only by a fictitious name. McLarren v. McLarren (45 App. D. C. 237).

§ 16-418 [14: 78]. Court to assign attorney in uncontested cases—Compensation.

In all uncontested divorce cases, and in any other divorce case where the court may deem it necessary or proper, a disinterested attorney shall be assigned by the court to enter his appearance for the defendant and actively defend the cause, and such attorney shall receive such compensation for his services as the court may determine to be proper, such compensation to be paid by the parties as the court may direct. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 932.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CITED

Referred to but not construed in Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

No decree for a divorce, or decree annulling a marriage, shall be rendered on default, without proof; nor shall any admission contained in the answer of the defendant be taken as proof of the facts charged as the ground of the application, but the same shall in all cases, be proved by other evidence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 964.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIONS

Admissions of adultery by wife, having been freely made, were rightly received in evidence against her. Holden v. Matteson (38 App. D. C. 128).

CONFESSIONS

"In Michalowicz v. Michalowicz (25 App. D. C. 484) it was ruled that this provision of the code is declarative of the general rule of practice in such cases and was not intended to prohibit all evidence of confessions that may have been made by a party. 'But,' said the court, 'to warrant a decree of divorce the confessions must be well established, direct, and certain, free from suspicion of collusion, and corroborated by independent facts and circumstances.'" Cogswell v. Cogswell (49 App. D. C. 31, 258 Fed. 287).

NATURE OF PROOF REQUIRED

In divorce proceedings, evidence of wife's adultery must be clear and convincing. Mere circumstances of suspicion are not sufficient. Krous v. Krous (41 App. D. C. 200); Symons v. Symons (51 App. D. C. 69, 275 Fed. 1015); Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987), citing Glennan v. Glennan (3 App. D. C. 333); McKittrick v. McKittrick (49 App. D. C. 109, 261 Fed. 451); Topham v. Topham (50 App. D. C. 229, 269 Fed. 1013).

Proof of an adulterous disposition and opportunity to commit offense warrant a finding of adultery. Allen v. Allen (52 App. D. C. 228, 285 Fed. 962).

Where testimony is in conflict, "the finding of the lower court will not be disturbed, unless it is palpably wrong." Cole v. Cole (52 App. D. C. 302, 286 Fed. 764). See also Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359).

"But that rule does not require proof beyond the possibility of doubt, nor does it necessarily require proof by eye witnesses of the actual offense. Nor do we overlook the rule that the testimony of hired detectives in such cases should be scrutinized with great caution." Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987). See also Allen v. Allen (52 App. D. C. 228, 285 Fed. 962) (testimony of detectives).

WITNESS

"In the case of Bergheimer v. Bergheimer (17 App. D. C. 381), we held that in divorce cases the parties to a suit are not competent to testify as witnesses in their own behalf. Therein we followed the ruling of the general term of the Supreme Court of the District in the case of Burdette v. Burdette (2 Mackey (13 D. C.) 469) and the uniform rule of practice in this District. And this rule, we think, is not affected by section 1063 of the Code (§ 14-306). * * * This section must be taken as qualified by section 964 of the Code (this section), which provides a special rule of evidence for divorce cases." Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

This section has no relation to the competency of the witnesses of the parties to the suit. Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

The provisions of this chapter shall not invalidate any marriage solemnized according to law before January 1, 1902, or affect validity of any decree or judgment of divorce pronounced before January 1, 1902. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 967.)

No final decree annulling or dissolving a marriage shall be effective to annul or dissolve the marriage until the expiration of the time allowed for taking an appeal, nor until the final disposition of any appeal taken, and every final decree shall expressly so recite. Every decree for absolute divorce shall contain the date thereof and no such final decree shall be absolute and take effect until the expiration of six months after its date. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 983a; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 540, ch. 453, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 act provided for an interlocutory decree and a waiting period of 90 days before final decree was entered, but did not postpone effectiveness for 6 months.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Meaning and purpose of this provision is to prevent the remarriage of and preserve the status quo of the parties until the losing party may have his or her full legal rights and the law should be satisfied when that result is accomplished. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (58 App. D. C. 107, 25 Fed. (2d) 531).

DEFENSE TO POLYGAMY

Since plaintiff had been legally divorced in the District while the parties were domiciled there, and the decree became effective unconditionally and irrevocably, she was thereafter an unmarried woman and could not be guilty of polygamy. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684).

§ 16-422 [14: 82]. Suit to determine validity of marriage.

When the validity of any alleged marriage shall be denied by either of the parties thereto the other party may institute a suit for affirming the marriage, and upon due proof of the validity thereof it shall be decreed to be valid, and such decree shall be conclusive upon all parties concerned. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 981.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REMARRIAGE BEFORE APPEAL DATE

A wife's remarriage before time had expired for taking appeal from husband's annulment decree, was valid. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (58 App. D. C. 107, 25 Fed. (2d) 531).

Every action of ejectment shall be brought in the name of the real claimant and may be brought against the person actually occupying the premises claimed, either in person or by tenant, or against both the claimant and his tenant, or other occupant claiming under him, or, if they be not actually occupied, against some person exercising acts of ownership thereon adversely to the plaintiff. If a lessee be made a defendant at the suit of a party claiming against the title of his landlord such landlord may appear and be made a party defendant in the place of his lessee. And any person claiming to be in possession may, on motion, be admitted to defend the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 984; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "tenant" in the first sentence, the words "or against both the claimant and his tenant, or occupant claiming under him."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EQUITY—JURISDICTION TO ENJOIN

When equity has jurisdiction to enjoin prosecution of an action of ejectment involving three tracts of land, so far as two tracts are concerned, on ground that defendants have no adequate remedy at law, it will assume jurisdiction as to the third tract to terminate the litigation even though the defendants would have a remedy as to said third tract. Camp v. Boyd (35 App. D. C. 159, affd. 229 U. S. 530, 57 L. Ed. 1317, 33 Sup. Ct. 785).

ESTOPPEL

Strict rules of estoppel are present when the parties in both actions are the same, when they are parties in interest, not only asserting in both instances the right of possession, but the title to the property. Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

HISTORICAL

The abolition of fictions in pleading in the District of Columbia by act June 1, 1870 (16 Stat. 146, ch. 115) and providing that all actions for the recovery of real estate in the District should be commenced in the name of the real party in interest, did not abolish the action of ejectment or make any other alteration in the form of the action, or extend limitations. Hogan v. Kurtz (94 U. S. 773, 24 L. Ed. 317).

British statutes prohibiting conveyance of lands held adversely are obsolete in this District. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

PLEADING

It seems to be unnecessary to plead the statute of limitations where the general issue has been pleaded in actions of ejectment. McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

Where defendant pleads the general issue, and was found in possession of the land demanded, his plea must be construed as making defense for the whole. Marine R. & Coal Co. v. United States (49 App. D. C. 285, 265 Fed. 437).

POSSESSION—JUDGMENT REVERSED ON APPEAL

"Where in ejectment a party in possession has been ejected from the premises under a judgment found upon appeal or writ of error to be erroneous, the party so dispossessed is entitled to restitution of the premises." Wilson v. Newburgh (42 App. D. C. 407).

The court is without jurisdiction to permit the plaintiff to retain possession under such reversed judgment, conditioned upon paying the original occupant a monthly rental pending further litigation. Wilson v. Newburgh (42 App. D. C. 407).

PRESUMPTION AS TO JUDGMENT

The doctrine as to the inconclusiveness of judgments of ejectment has been abrogated by section 1002 of the Code (§ 16-518). Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

PROOF OF TITLE

For exceptions to the rule that plaintiff in ejectment must recover on strength of his own title, see Chesapeake

Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

Marshal's deed of land which shows levy upon and sale of property under judgment is not sufficient to show title to the land in the grantee, but the grantee must prove the judgment and the execution. Rowlett v. Nash (38 App. D. C. 598).

One in peaceable possession of property, either in person or by tenant, is presumed to be in lawful possession, and "he was entitled to recover possession from a mere trespasser without further proof of title." Nash v. Rowlett (41 App. D. C. 456). See also Bradshaw v. Ashley (180 U. S. 59, 45 L. Ed. 423, 21 Sup. Ct. 297, affg. 14 App. D. C. 485); Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affg. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25); Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

Every tenant, to whom any declaration in ejectment shall be delivered for any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall forthwith give notice thereof to his or her landlord or landlords, or his, her, or their bailiff or receiver, under penalty of forfeiting the value of three years improved or rack rent of the premises so demised or holden in the possession of such tenant, to the person of whom he or she holds; to be recovered by action of debt. (11 Geo. 2, ch. 19, § 12, 1738; Kilty Rep., p. 251; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 737; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 332, § 61).

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 13-201.

The plaintiff in his declaration must describe the premises claimed with reasonable certainty, and set forth distinctly the nature and quantity of the estate claimed by him in the same, and it shall be sufficient for him to state in addition thereto that the plaintiff was possessed of the premises, and while he was so possessed the defendant entered wrongfully into possession of the same and withholds the possession thereof from the plaintiff, or wrongfully detains such possession, or that the defendant is wrongfully exercising acts of ownership thereon. Such acts of ownership, however, unaccompanied with possession shall not, except as hereinafter provided, be held to amount to an adversary possession, so as to make it necessary for the plaintiff to sue in order to avoid the bar of the statute of limitations. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 985.)

The declaration may contain several counts and several parties may be named as plaintiffs, jointly in one count and separately in others. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 986.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 2, 7-25, 54 (b), 55 (a), (d), 56, 67.

It shall be sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to a verdict to show that he is entitled, as against the defendant, to the immediate possession of the premises claimed and that the defendant is in possession thereof, holding adversely to the plaintiff, or is exercising acts of ownership over the same adversely to the plaintiff; except that in an action by one or more joint tenants or tenants in common against their cotenants, the plaintiffs shall be required to prove an actual ouster or some other act amounting to a denial of the plaintiff's title and his exclusion from the enjoyment of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 988.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEFENSE—ADVERSE POSSESSION

Defense of adverse possession held established. Holtzman v. Douglas (168 U. S. 278, 42 L. Ed. 466, 18 Sup. Ct. 65, affg. 5 App. D. C. 397).

OUSTER NOT PRESUMED

"Ouster will not be presumed, but there must be a showing of positive acts of hostility." Lyon v. Bursey (42 App. D. C. 519).

PROOF OF TITLE

Where plaintiff and defendant do not claim through common source of title, plaintiff must "show a complete chain of title from the sovereign, either the English crown, the State of Maryland, or the United States," particularly when neither plaintiff nor those under whom he claims was ever in possession of the property. Bursey v. Lyon (30 App. D. C. 597). See also Anderson v. Reid (10 App. D. C. 426); Scott v. Herrell (27 App. D. C. 395); Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

TENANTS IN COMMON

"One tenant in common is not liable to his cotenant for use and occupation, unless there has been an actual ouster of the cotenant, or acts amounting to that." Lyon v. Bursey (42 App. D. C. 519).

§ 16-506 [24: 166]. Legal title in mortgagee or trustee—Possession.

It shall be no bar to the plaintiff's recovery that the legal title to the property claimed is outstanding in another as mortgagee or trustee under a mortgage or deed of trust to secure a debt unless such mortgagee or trustee, or those claiming under him, has taken possession of the premises; or unless the defendant claims under such mortgagor or grantor in the deed of trust. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 989; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words following the word "trustee" where it first appears, which read, "if the mortgage or deed of trust has been satisfied and the plaintiff would be entitled to an unconditional decree for the release or reconveyance of the property to him, nor shall the mortgagee or trustee in such case be entitled to maintain an action of ejectment against the party so entitled," and inserted in lieu thereof the words that follow the word "trustee."

§ 16-507 [24: 167]. Vendor in valid contract, entitling vendee to decree of specific performance may not recover in ejectment.

Where real property has been sold under a written contract executed by the vendor, and there has been such a performance of its terms by the vendee as would entitle him to a decree in equity for a conveyance of the legal title, without condition, such vendor shall not be entitled at law, any more than in equity, to recover said property from the vendee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 990.)

If it appears on the trial that some of the defendants occupy distinct parcels of the property claimed, in severalty, the plaintiff, if entitled to recover, may in the discretion of the court, have several judgments against the respective parties, according to the proof of occupancy. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 992; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "may" the words "in the discretion of the court."

The plaintiff, under a claim to certain described premises, may recover less than the whole property claimed, and, under a claim to an entire property, may recover an undivided part thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 993.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCLAIMER OF OTHER PART

§ 16-510 [24: 170]. Joint tenants and tenants in common.

Joint tenants must sue jointly in ejectment, but tenants in common may sue either jointly or separately, and any numbers of tenants in common, less than the whole number entitled, may sue jointly in reference to their undivided interests. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 994.)

The plaintiff may embody in his declaration, in a separate count, a claim for the mesne profits received by the defendant from the property sued for or for the clear value of the use and occupation thereof extending to the time of the verdict, and also damages for waste or injury to the premises during said period; and if the jury find for the plaintiff they may, at the same time, find and assess the said mesne profits, or the value of said use and occupation and the amount of said damages; and, besides a judgment for the recovery of the property, there shall be rendered a judgment against the defendant for the amount so found by the jury, except in the case provided for in section 16-519. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 995; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

realty, for arrears of rent due at the termination of the tenancy, a claim for double rent in cases authorized by this code from the termination of the tenancy to the verdict for possession, and a claim for damages for waste or injury to the premises or furniture during the defendant's occupancy of the same and before the commencement of the suit; and if the jury find for the plaintiff, they may at the same time find the amounts due for arrears of rent and for double rent and for damages as aforesaid, and judgment shall be rendered accordingly. § 16-513 [24: 173]. Plaintiff may sue separately for rent or damages.

The plaintiff in ejectment shall not be bound to join his claim for rent or damages with his claim for the recovery of the land and his omission to do so shall not prevent him from suing for the same separately. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 997.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Defense of adverse possession held established by payment of taxes on lot and collection of rent from one who used it as stoneyard. Holtzman v. Douglas (168 U. S. 278, 42 L. Ed. 466, 18 Sup. Ct. 65, affg. 5 App. D. C. 397).

"The evidence on behalf of the defendant made out a clear case of actual, exclusive, continuous, open, and adverse possession of the premises for more than 20 years by her and those under whom she claimed, and had the effect to create in her a good and sufficient title." Briel v. Jordan (27 App. D. C. 202).

EFFECTIVENESS OF TITLE SO SECURED

When title is secured by adverse possession an attempted dedication by the record owner is ineffectual to vest title in the District of Columbia. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

OCCUPATION BY MISTAKE

Where one entitled to eight acres of land by mistake takes eleven acres, and occupies the entire tract adversely, such error can not be held to operate against his acquisition by such adverse possession of the three wrongfully occupied acres. Johnson v. Thomas (23 App. D. C. 141).

Occupation by grantee, although by mistake, of land beyond boundaries as specified in deed vests in him an indefeasible title if his possession has been actual, open, notorious, exclusive, and adverse for the statutory period. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

PRESUMPTION THAT POSSESSION FOLLOWED TITLE

Where railroad tracks were on the land, and when plaintiff exhibits a series of deeds purporting to convey the property, the last one to itself, it is to be presumed that possession followed the title until dispossession by the defendant took place. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 537, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

PUBLIC HIGHWAY

Quaere: Whether one may acquire title by adverse possession of a portion of a public highway outside of the boundary of the city of Washington. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

RECOVERY AGAINST TRESPASSER

One in adverse possession for less than statutory period, and who has never voluntarily relinquished possession, may recover as against a subsequent trespasser. Bradshaw v. Ashley (14 App. D. C. 485, affd. 180 U. S. 59, 45 L. Ed. 423, 21 Sup. Ct. 297). See also Staffan v. Zeust (10 App. D. C. 260).

If the plaintiff's title be established by proof, the verdict of the jury shall be generally for the plaintiff as to the whole or part of the property or interest claimed in the declaration, as the case may be; if, on the contrary, the plaintiff fail to make satisfactory proof of title, the verdict shall be for the defendant as to the whole or part of the property, as the case may be, and it may be for the plaintiff as to part and for the defendant as to other part thereof, and judgment shall be rendered according to the verdict, except as hereinafter provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1000; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "property" the words "or interest."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JUDGMENT FOR PART OF PROPERTY

Under this section, plaintiff may recover a less portion than the whole sued for. Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

If it appear on the trial that the defendant did not wrongfully enter into possession of the property sued for, or exercise acts of ownership over the same adversely to the plaintiff, as aforesaid, the verdict of the jury shall be that the defendant is not guilty, and thereupon judgment shall be rendered in favor of the defendant against the plaintiff for the costs of the action, but such judgment shall not be a bar to a future action by the plaintiff against the defendant for the recovery of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1001.)

Any final judgment rendered in an action of ejectment shall be conclusive as to the title thereby established as between the parties to the action and all persons claiming under them since the commencement of the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1002.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW ABROGATED

"The doctrine of the common law as to the inconclusiveness of judgments of ejectment has been abrogated in this District" by code section 984 (§ 16-501) and this section. Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

JUDGMENT IS "FINAL"

A judgment in ejectment, appealed from, is a final judgment. Reed v. Allen (286 U. S. 191, 76 L. Ed. 1054, 52 Sup. Ct. 532, revg. 60 App. D. C. 346, 54 Fed. (2d) 713).

§ 16-519 [24: 179]. Recovery for improvements—Notice—Good faith—Directions to jury—Measure of damages.

If at any time before the trial the defendant shall give notice that if the verdict of the jury shall be in favor of the plaintiff's title the defendant will claim the benefit of permanent improvements that may have been placed on the property by the defendant or those under whom he claims, and shall offer evidence at the trial tending to show that he or those under whom he claims had peaceably entered into possession of the premises in controversy under a title which he or they had reason to believe and did believe to be good, and had erected valuable and permanent improvements on said property, which were begun in good faith before the commencement of the suit, the jury shall be directed, in case they find in favor of the plaintiff's title and also find that such permanent improvements were made by the defendant, or those under whom he claims, under the circumstances aforesaid, to assess—

First. The damages of the plaintiff, being the clear value over and above taxes and necessary expenses of the use and occupation of the property, exclusive of said improvements, during the whole period of the occupation of the same to the date of the verdict, and also any damage done to the property, by waste or otherwise, by said parties during said occupation.

Second. The present value of any permanent improvements which may have been placed on the premises by the defendant or those under whom he claims.

Third. The present value of the property of the plaintiff without and exclusive of said improvements. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1003; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the following: from the second paragraph following the word "improvements," the words "to the defendant and those under whom he claims"; from the third paragraph following the word "value," the words "to the plaintiffs"; and, from the fourth paragraph following the word "value," the words "to the defendant."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OCCUPANT IN GOOD FAITH

This section "is limited to those who enter into possession of the premises under a title which they had reason to believe, and did believe, to be good, and erect valuable and permanent improvements in good faith." Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576). See also Armstrong v. Ashley (22 App. D. C. 368), holding that grantee of an occupant in good faith can have no better right than his grantor had to an equitable lien for improvements, citing Anderson v. Reid (14 App. D. C. 54) and stating that the rule therein announced "has now, at least to some extent, been modified by the code in section 1003 (this section)."

If either party shall feel aggrieved by said assessment he may, within four days after the verdict, move to set the assessment aside, and the court may, for good cause shown, set the same aside and order another jury to be empaneled in the cause to make a new assessment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1004; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the first sentence which read as follows: "In addition to the evidence offered at the trial as to said values, the jury may be directed to view the premises, and their said assessments shall be returned with their verdict and recorded with the same"; and changed the word "three" to "four."

§ 16-521 [24: 181]. Judgment for damages in excess of improvements.

If the damages of the plaintiff, assessed as aforesaid, shall exceed the value of said permanent improvements as ascertained by the jury, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a judgment for the excess in like manner as directed in section 16-511. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1005.)

§ 16-522 [24: 182]. Improvements and damages offset.

If the value of said improvements, so ascertained, shall equal but not exceed the plaintiff's damages, as found by the jury, the plaintiff shall only be entitled to judgment for the recovery of the property sued for and costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1006.)

§ 16-523 [24: 183]. Election of plaintiff to pay excess or tender deed.

If the value of said improvements shall be found by the jury to exceed the damages of the plaintiff, the plaintiff may elect either to pay to the defendant the amount of said excess or to demand of the defendant the value of the plaintiff's property, without the improvements, as fixed by the jury, and tender to the defendant a deed for said property, with all the plaintiff's right, title, and interest in the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1007.)

If the said plaintiff shall pay to the defendant, within the time fixed therefor by the court, or, in case of his refusal to accept the same, shall pay into court for his use the amount of such excess of the value of said improvements over the damages of the plaintiff, the plaintiff shall be entitled forthwith to a judgment and writ of possession. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1008.)

If the plaintiff shall tender a deed as aforesaid to the defendant and demand the value of his property without the said improvements, as found by the jury, and the defendant shall fail or refuse to pay the same within the time fixed therefor by the court, the plaintiff shall, in like manner, be entitled to a judgment and writ of possession; and in case the plaintiff shall be a minor, the court may authorize said deed to be executed by his guardian. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1009.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

On March 1, 1929, Congress changed the method of procedure in condemnation cases in the District of Columbia and different methods were provided for the United States (§§ 16-601 to 16-619). Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

ABANDONMENT OF PROCEEDINGS

The Commissioners have the right to discontinue and abandon a condemnation proceeding; and such abandonment need not be in toto, but may be in parte. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (62 App. D. C. 237, 66 Fed. (2d) 217).

APPROPRIATION NOT MADE

The fact that Congress has made no appropriation for payment of the land condemned at the time condemnation proceedings are instituted is no defense. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

COMMISSIONERS

Commissioners of the District have no power to acquire land by condemnation, except by express authority of Congress. Dougherty v. Galliher (58 App. D. C. 166, 26 Fed. (2d) 538).

CONSTRUCTION

The words "authorized by Congress" limit only the preceding phrase "or for other municipal purposes," and have no reference to the preceding phrases. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

This statute must be strictly construed; if doubt exists as to authority of commissioners to condemn it must be resolved in favor of the landowner. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81)

DISCRETION OF MUNICIPAL OFFICERS

An appellate court will not interfere with the report of Commissioners to correct the amount of damages, except in cases of gross error, showing prejudice or corruption. Hence, for an error in the judgment of Commissioners in arriving at the amount of damages there can be no correction, especially where the evidence is conflicting. Seufferle v. Macfarland (28 App. D. C. 94).

When power of condemnation is vested in municipal officers "it rests with such officers to determine whether it shall be exercised, and when and to what extent it shall be exercised." Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC FIELD

Land to be condemned for high school athletic field is to be used for "educational" purposes within the meaning of the zoning regulations, and such field may be located in a residential district. Commissioners of District of Columbia v. Shannon & Luchs Constr. Co. (57 App. D. C. 67, 17 Fed. (2d) 219).

Appropriation for school athletic field authorizes condemnation proceedings by District. Commissioners of District of Columbia v. Shannon & Luchs Constr. Co. (57 App. D. C. 67, 17 Fed. (2d) 219).

SCHOOL SITES

To condemn land for school sites, district assessor may not testify as expert witness. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (60 App. D. C. 186, 50 Fed. (2d) 336). But see § 14-309 which changes this rule.

WIDENING STREET

Under the provisions of this statute, condemnation proceedings may be instituted for widening any street. Nealy v. Hazen (63 App. D. C. 239, 71 Fed. (2d) 692).

Such petition shall contain a particular description of the property selected, with the names of the owners thereof and their residences, so far as the same may be ascertained, together with a plan of the land to be taken. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 484; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

The jury commission of the District of Columbia shall prepare a special list of persons having the qualifications of jurors, as prescribed by section 11-1417, and being also freeholders of the District of Columbia. The jury commission shall from time to time as may be necessary write the names contained in said special list on separate and similar pieces of paper, which they shall so fold or roll that the names cannot be seen, and shall place the same in a special box to be provided for the purpose, and shall thereupon seal and lock said special box, and after thoroughly shaking the same shall deliver it to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for safekeeping; but the same shall not be unsealed or opened except by said jury commission. From time to time, as ordered by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or one of the justices thereof holding a special term for the trial for condemnation proceedings, the jury commission shall publicly break the seal of said special box and proceed to draw therefrom by lot and without previous examination the names of such number of persons as the said court may from time to time direct to serve as jurors in condemnation proceedings, and certify the names so drawn to the clerk of said court. At the time of each drawing of condemnation jurors from said special box there shall be in said special box the names of not less than one hundred persons possessing the qualifications hereinbefore prescribed. Except as in this section specially provided, sections 11-1401 to 11-1420, inclusive, so far as the same may be applicable, shall govern the qualifications of said jurors in condemnation cases and the duties and conduct of said jury commissioners under this section. No person shall be eligible to serve as a condemnation juror who has served as such juror within one year. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 484a, as added Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 565, ch. 153, § 484a; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment deleted the words "commissioner or" after the word "condemnation," and the words "commissioner or" after the word "such" in the last sentence.

The said court holding a District Court of the United States, shall thereupon cite all the owners and other persons interested to appear in said court, at a time to be fixed by the court, to answer said petition; and if it shall appear to the court that there are any owners or other persons interested who are under disability, the court shall give public notice of the time at which it will proceed with the matter of condemnation; and at such time, if it shall appear that there are any persons under disability who have appeared or who have not appeared, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for each such person, and shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon appoint a jury of five capable and disinterested persons, to which jury the court shall administer an oath or affirmation that they are not interested in any manner in the land to be condemned, and are not related to the parties interested therein, and that they will, without favor or partiality, and to the best of their judgment, appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in such lands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 485; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 565, ch. 153; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "and shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon," in that part of the section following the second semicolon, and added the words "under such regulations as to notice and hearing as shall seem meet" at the end of the section, which words have been deleted by the 1929 amendment.

The 1929 amendment raised the number of jurors appointed from three to five.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section is mandatory and was intended by Congress to require a party in a condemnation proceeding to bring his objections and exceptions to the attention of the court within twenty days, the time limit prescribed, or else be taken to have waived them. Walker v. Hazen (67 App. D. C. 188, 90 Fed. (2d) 502).

§ 16-605 [25: 44a]. Declaration of taking—Contents—Deposit of estimated compensation—Transfer of title to District of Columbia—Compensation—Interest—Deficiency—Excess—Surrender of possession.

The petitioners may file in a cause, with the petition or at any time before judgment, a declaration of taking, signed by the commissioners, declaring that said lands are thereby taken for use of the District of Columbia. Said declaration of taking shall contain or have annexed thereto—

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which the said lands are taken;

(2) A description of the lands taken sufficient for the identification thereof;

(3) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands taken for said public use;

(4) A plan showing the lands taken;

(5) A statement of the sum of money estimated by the commissioners to be just compensation for the land taken.

Notwithstanding the provisions of section 16-608, upon the filing of said declaration of taking and the deposit in the registry of the court, for the use of the persons entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in the declaration, title to the said lands in fee simple absolute, or such less estate or interest therein as is specified in the declaration, shall vest in the District of Columbia, and the lands shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the District, and the right to just compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto. Said compensation shall be ascertained and awarded in said proceedings and established by judgment therein, and the judgment shall include, as part of the just compensation awarded, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum on the amount finally awarded as the value of the property as of the date of taking, from said date to the date of payment; but interest shall not be allowed on so much thereof as shall have been paid into the registry. No sum so paid into the registry shall be charged with commissions or poundage.

Upon the application of the parties in interest, the court may order that the money deposited in the registry of the court, or any part thereof, be paid forthwith for or on account of the just compensation to be awarded in said proceeding. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands, or any parcel thereof, shall exceed the amount of the money so received by any person entitled thereto, the court shall enter judgment against the District for the amount of the deficiency. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands, or any parcel thereof, shall be less than the amount of the money so received, the court shall have the power to enter judgment against the party or parties receiving the same for the amount representing the difference between the amount received and the amount awarded by the jury as fair compensation, and writs of execution may be issued thereon within the same time and have the same effect as liens, and shall be executed and returned in the same manner as if issued upon a common-law judgment.

Upon the filing of the declaration of taking, the court shall have power to fix the time within which and the terms upon which the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioners. The court shall have power to make such orders in respect of incumbrances, liens, rents, taxes, assessments, insurance, and other charges, if any, as shall be just and equitable. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 485a, as added July 8, 1932, 47 Stat. 647, ch. 462.)

The court, before accepting the jury, shall hear any objections that may be made to any member thereof, and shall have full power and authority to pass upon any such objection, and to excuse any juror or cause any vacancy in the jury, when empaneled, to be filled; and after the jury shall have been organized and shall have viewed and examined the land and premises affected by the condemnation proceeding, they shall proceed, in the presence of the court, to hear and receive such evidence as may be offered or submitted on behalf of the District of Columbia and by any person or persons having any interest in the proceeding. When the hearing is concluded, the jury, or a majority of them, shall return to the court, in writing, their appraisement of the value of the interests of all persons, respectively, in such land, where said appraisement shall be recorded. In making their decision, the jury shall take into consideration, whenever a part only is taken, the benefit to the remainder of the tract, and shall give their appraisement accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 486; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out this section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PAYMENT AS CONDITION PRECEDENT

Owner cannot be divested of his property until payment has been made. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

"PERSONS IN INTEREST"

In the proceeding before the appraisal commissioners, the District has a right to be heard and therefore is one of the "persons in interest" therein mentioned. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

WITNESSES

It was error to allow a District assessor to testify as an expert witness in proceedings to condemn land for school sites, and certain other municipal purposes. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (60 App. D. C. 186, 50 Fed. (2d) 336). But see § 14-309 which changes this rule.

§ 16-607 [25: 46]. Objections and exceptions to appraisal—New jury.

to vacate and set any appraisement aside, in whole or in part, when satisfied that it is unjust or unreasonable, in which event the court shall order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon appoint a new jury of five capable and disinterested persons, who shall proceed as in the case of the first jury: Provided, That if vacated in part the residue of the appraisement as to the land condemned shall not be affected thereby: And provided further, That the objections or exceptions to the appraisement shall be filed within twenty days after the return of the appraisement to the court: And provided further, That the appraisement of the new jury shall be final when confirmed by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 487; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 566, ch. 153; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1920 amendment struck out § 487 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof a new section which in turn was struck out by the 1929 amendment and the section was made to read as above.

The 1901 act provided that the marshal should summon a jury of seven disinterested men, not related to anyone interested, to meet and view the premises, giving the parties at least six days' notice of the time and place of meeting. Under the 1920 act, the court ordered the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court might direct, from which the court should appoint a jury of seven capable and disinterested persons for the same purpose.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISION UNDER PRIOR LAW

The words "any of the parties interested" in § 487 of the 1901 Code (this section) were not to be given such a restricted meaning as to include only owners of the land and to exclude the party equally interested in the proceeding, namely, the District. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

Pending an appeal, the lower court may prevent removal or disturbance of improvements until after a view thereof may be had by the jury impaneled or to be impaneled in a condemnation case. In re Acquisition of Original Lot 14, and Assessment and Taxation Lot in Washington, D. C. (60 App. D. C. 216, 50 Fed. (2d) 981.)

IN GENERAL

This section provides for the summoning of a jury by the marshal and requires the jury to take certain benefits into consideration in returning their verdict. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

It was the intent of Congress to make these proceedings adversary throughout and allow either party to invoke the jury hearing provided by this section. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

APPRAISAL BY JURY

Jury award of almost $2,000 less than the lowest estimate of the District experts was held to be unjust and unreasonable and sufficient grounds for authorizing reversal for new appraisal. Branson v. Reichelderfer (62 App. D. C. 129, 65 Fed. (2d) 280).

It was the province of the jury to weigh the evidence after seeing and hearing all the witnesses and viewing the premises, and trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to set aside verdict. Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

SETTING ASIDE VERDICT

In condemnation proceeding, the court does not have the power to set aside the verdict of a jury in the absence of plain errors of law, misconduct, or grave error of fact indicating plain partiality or corruption. Johnson v. Hazen (69 App. D. C. 151, 99 Fed. (2d) 384).

If the appraisement of the jury should not be objected to by the parties interested, it shall be confirmed by the court, or, if the appraisement of the new jury is confirmed by the court, the commissioners of said District shall pay the amount awarded by the jury out of the appropriation made therefor or deposit the same in the same manner as directed in section 7-215, and thereupon the land condemned shall become and be the property of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 488; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 488 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

In every case involving the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, at the close of the hearing thereof, the court shall fix a time in which the jury shall return its verdict or to report to the court the reasons why said verdict or appraisement can not be returned by the time fixed: Provided, That the court shall have the power, within its discretion, to extend the time for the return of the verdict or appraisement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 489; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 489 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

§ 16-610 [25: 49]. Proceedings may be abandoned by Commissioners—Liability.

It shall be optional with the commissioners to abide by the verdict of the jury and occupy the land appraised by them, or within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court in its order confirming the verdict, to abandon the same, without being liable to damage therefor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 490; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1439, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 490 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ABANDONMENT OF PROCEEDING

This section makes it optional with the Commissioners to abide by the verdict of the jury or, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court, to abandon the proceeding. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

§ 16-611 [25: 50]. Pending proceedings and suits by United States not affected.

Nothing herein contained in sections 16-601 to 16-610 shall affect any suit or proceeding begun prior to March 1, 1929, pending on March 1, 1929, or thereafter to be instituted by or on behalf of the United States for the condemnation of land for any purpose; but all such suits and proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with existing law or such laws as hereafter may be enacted. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 491; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1439, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 491 of the 1901 act, as amended by the 1902 act, and inserted in lieu thereof the above section. The sense of the former section is now contained in § 16-610.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Act permitting head of executive department to obtain realty in the District of Columbia for public buildings is constitutional as against the contention that it is invalid in that "it does not provide for the payment of damages to the owner of the land and the vesting of title in the United States contemporaneously." Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. United States (66 App. D. C. 77, 85 Fed. (2d) 243, cert. den. 299 U. S. 565, 81 L. Ed. 416, 57 Sup. Ct. 27).

SITES FOR GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS

Under authority of this and other acts the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to acquire site for Department of Interior building. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. United States (66 App. D. C. 77, 85 Fed. (2d) 243, cert. den. 299 U. S. 565, 81 L. Ed. 416, 57 Sup. Ct. 27).

Every such condemnation proceeding shall be instituted by filing in said court a verified petition which shall contain or have annexed thereto the following:

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which the lands are to be acquired.

(2) A description of the lands to be acquired sufficient for the identification thereof. Where such lands, taken together, constitute all privately-owned land in any square in the City of Washington it shall be sufficient to designate the same by the number of the square as the same appears on the records of squares in the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia.

(3) A plan showing the lands to be acquired.

(4) The names of the owners of the lands to be acquired, so far as ascertainable by reasonable inquiry, and of the persons in actual and open possession of the same. If it shall appear from the land records of the District of Columbia that a right, title, interest, or estate in said lands was formerly vested in any person who is known, or may be presumed, to be deceased, which right, title, interest, or estate, if valid and subsisting, would be adverse to the person in present possession claiming to be owner of said lands, and the names of the heirs or devisees of such deceased person are not known, it shall be sufficient to describe them in the petition and in any order of citation or publication or other process thereon as "the unknown heirs or devisees" of such deceased person. And such designation shall be valid and effective to all intents and purposes as if all persons claiming by, through, or under said deceased person had been specifically named.

(5) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands which petitioner intends to acquire for the public use stated.

(6) A prayer that said lands be condemned and taken for the use of the United States and that the title to the same in fee simple, or such estate or interest as may be specified, be vested in the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1415, ch. 416, § 2.)

§ 16-621 [25: 102]. Citation and notice.

The court shall cause public notice of the institution of such proceeding to be given by an order of citation requiring all persons claiming to have any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired, or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same, and all persons occupying the same, to appear in said court on a day to be named in said order of citation to answer the petition and make claim for the compensation to which they deem themselves entitled. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 3.)

Such order of citation shall contain a description of the lands to be acquired sufficient for the identification thereof and the names of the persons given in the petition as claiming to have any right, title, interest, or estate in said lands or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same and as occupying the same. If any such person is alleged in said petition to be a nonresident of the District of Columbia, the order of citation shall also state the last place of residence of such person, if known. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 4.)

Said order of citation shall be published at least once a week for three consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the District of Columbia. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 5.)

The court shall also direct service of a copy of said order of citation before the return date of the said order upon each of the persons named therein who is, so far as ascertainable by reasonable inquiry, residing or sojourning at the time within the District of Columbia. The court shall also require a copy of said order of citation to be mailed, postpaid, to such of the persons named therein as may be shown by said petition or affidavit to be nonresidents of the District of Columbia, such copy to be addressed to such persons at their last-known places of residence. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 6.)

In default of appearance on or before the return day specified in said order of citation (or on or before such further day as the court for cause shown may allow for the purpose) every person having any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands described in said order, or entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same or entitled to the possession of, or occupying the same, shall be deemed to have consented to the taking and condemnation of said lands for the public purpose stated at and for such compensation as may be finally awarded therefor in the proceeding and shall be bound by all orders, judgments, and decrees that may be entered in said proceeding. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 7.)

The court may, by order, upon application and for cause shown, at any time prior to final judgment permit any person claiming any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same to appear in said proceeding upon such terms and conditions as the court may direct. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 8.)

If any person having, or claiming to have, any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired, or entitled, or claiming to be entitled, to compensation in respect of the taking of the same, or entitled or claiming to be entitled, to the possession of the same, appears to be under legal disability by reason of infancy, insanity, idiocy, or other like cause, the court, after the return day specified in the order of citation, upon the application of any person interested, shall appoint some suitable person as guardian ad litem to appear for such person under disability. Failure to apply for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for any such person under disability shall not affect the validity of the proceedings. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1417, ch. 416, § 9.)

The petitioner may file in the cause, with the petition or at any time before judgment, a declaration of taking signed by the authority empowered by law to acquire the lands described in the petition, declaring that said lands are thereby taken for the use of the United States. Said declaration of taking shall contain or have annexed thereto—

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which said lands are taken.

(2) A description of the lands taken sufficient for the identification thereof.

(3) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands taken for said public use.

(4) A plan showing the lands taken.

(5) A statement of the sum of money estimated by said acquiring authority to be just compensation for the land taken.

Upon the filing of said declaration of taking and of the deposit in the registry of the court, to the use of the persons entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in said declaration, title to the said lands in fee simple absolute, or such less estate or interest therein as is specified in said declaration, shall vest in the United States of America, and said lands shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the United States, and the right to just compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto; and said compensation shall be ascertained and awarded in said proceeding and established by judgment therein, and the said judgment shall include, as part of the just compensation awarded, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum on the amount finally awarded as the value of the property as of the date of taking, from said date to the date of payment; but interest shall not be allowed on so much thereof as shall have been paid into the registry. No sum so paid into the registry shall be charged with commissions or poundage.

Upon the application of the parties in interest, the court may order that the money deposited in the registry of the court, or any part thereof, be paid forthwith for or on account of the just compensation to be awarded in said proceeding. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands or any parcel thereof shall exceed the amount of the money so received by any person entitled, the court shall enter judgment against the United States for the amount of the deficiency.

Upon the filing of a declaration of taking, the court shall have power to fix the time within which and the terms upon which the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. The court shall have power to make such orders in respect of encumbrances, liens, rents, taxes, assessments, insurance, and other charges, if any, as shall be just and equitable. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1417, ch. 416, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Section permitting the advance taking of property for public use and providing for judgment against the United States with six per cent. interest until paid does not violate the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. Lee v. United States (61 App. D. C. 153, 58 Fed. (2d) 879).

JUDGMENT AGAINST UNITED STATES

Judgment may be obtained against the United States in condemnation case, not enforceable by execution and levy. Lee v. United States (61 App. D. C. 153, 58 Fed. (2d) 879).

When all the persons who have been summoned or published against in said case, as hereinbefore provided, have either answered or are in default as aforesaid, and all persons under legal disability have answered by their guardians ad litem, or in the judgment of the court ample opportunity has been given for the same, the case shall be regarded as ready for trial, and, upon the application of any party to said suit, the court shall forthwith set an early date to be especially fixed by it, not less than ten nor more than twenty days from the date of such application, for the trial of the issues of law and fact raised in said case, and the ascertainment of the compensation or damages to be awarded for the taking of the lands to be condemned. The court shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box provided for by law the names of as many persons, not less than twenty, as the court may direct, and to certify said names to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as a panel of prospective jurors. The persons so certified shall be thereupon summoned by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia to appear in said court on the day specially fixed for the trial of said cause. Before selecting or impaneling said jury, the court may, in its discretion, cause a second, third, or other further list of prospective jurors to be drawn, certified, and summoned in like manner. From the persons so certified and summoned, the court, after examination on oath and in open court as to their qualifications, shall select and impanel a jury of five capable and disinterested persons who shall have the qualifications of jurors as prescribed by law for the courts of the District of Columbia, and in addition thereto shall be freeholders of said district and shall not be in the service or employment of the United States or of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

VALUATION OF PROPERTY

Instruction was proper which stated that recent bona fide sales under fair market conditions, or recent contracts of sale under like conditions of any lot or lots, parcel or parcels within the limits of the area to be condemned, or in the vicinity thereof, or so situated as to have a bearing upon the market value of the land to be condemned, may be considered by the jury in so far as such sales or sale contracts may reasonably be regarded as throwing light upon the fair market value of the land to be condemned. Loughran v. United States (62 App. D. C. 57, 64 Fed. (2d) 555).

To the jurors so selected and impaneled the court shall administer an oath or affirmation that they are not interested in any manner in the lands to be condemned and that they are not to their knowledge related to any person interested therein, and that they will impartially and to the best of their judgment ascertain, appraise, and award just compensation for the lands to be condemned and taken in said proceeding. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 12.)

After being selected, impaneled, and sworn, and before hearing the evidence, the jury shall be taken by the marshal upon the lands to be acquired at a time to be fixed by the court in order to view the said lands; and all parties in interest, their attorneys, and representatives shall have the right to be present at such view. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 13.)

After such view and the jury shall have returned to the court, the trial of said cause shall be proceeded with before the court and jury. Any person who has appeared in the cause claiming any right, title, interest, or estate in the land to be taken, or compensation on account of the taking of the same, shall have the right to submit evidence concerning the value of such land, parcel by parcel, the nature and extent of his right, interest, or estate therein, and the compensation justly due for the taking of the same. No new structure or substantial alteration of a permanent nature, the purpose or natural effect of which is to enhance the value of the land to be taken, erected, or made thereon after the institution of the condemnation proceedings shall be taken into consideration in assessing and awarding compensation for said land. If the land to be valued shall have been taken by virtue of a declaration of taking, as provided in sections 16-619 to 16-644, said land shall be valued for the purposes of compensation as of the date of such taking; and if, by act of the owner or other party claiming to be entitled to compensation, the value of the land for the use for which it is to be taken has been diminished, as by cutting trees, excavating, grading, or otherwise altering its physical condition, allowance, if petitioner so elects, shall be made in assessing compensation for such diminution in value. Every party, whether petitioner or respondent, may except to any ruling of the court admitting or excluding evidence, granting, rejecting, or modifying prayers for instruction, or other ruling made in the cause in like manner as in other civil trials. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 14.)

At the close of the evidence the court shall charge the jury as in other trials at law and furnish them with a written form to be used in returning their verdict. The members of the jury may separate when not engaged in the consideration of their verdict. When the jury, or a majority thereof, shall have agreed upon their verdict they shall, through their foreman, so notify the court, which shall thereupon pass an order setting a day for the return of the verdict in open court. The verdict shall be in writing subscribed by the jurors concurring therein, and shall set forth, parcel by parcel, the compensation to be paid for the taking of the lands to be condemned. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 15.)

The court shall have power to set aside or vacate the verdict of the jury, or any award contained therein, and to grant a new trial upon the same grounds as in other trials at law and upon the ground that said verdict, or any award contained therein is, in the judgment of the court, grossly excessive, or inadequate, or otherwise unreasonable or unjust. In case the verdict or any award contained therein is set aside or vacated, the court shall award a new trial with respect to the lands as to which said verdict or such award is set aside or vacated; and the court shall fix a date for a new trial and order a new panel of prospective jurors to be drawn, certified, and summoned as hereinbefore provided; and the cause shall be proceeded with as if no such verdict or award had been rendered. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 16.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Where in a proceeding by the United States to condemn property in the District of Columbia, appellant did not file motion for a new trial, but objected to the finding of the jury as if action had been brought by the District; said objection was treated as motion for new trial. Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

No motion for a new trial or to set aside or vacate the verdict, in whole or in part, or any award contained therein, shall be made after the expiration of twenty days, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, from the rendition thereof; and if no such motion be filed within such time, the verdict and the award or awards contained therein shall become final and conclusive, and judgment shall be entered thereon. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 17.)

In the event that any verdict or any award contained therein shall become final by lapse of time or that any motion filed to set aside or vacate the same or to grant a new trial in respect thereof shall have been denied or overruled, the court shall enter judgment against the United States in favor of the parties entitled for the sum or sums awarded as just compensation, respectively, for the lands condemned for the use of the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 18.)

Any final judgment rendered against the United States under any provision of sections 16-619 to 16-644 shall have like force and effect as a money judgment rendered against the United States by the Court of Claims in a suit in respect of which the United States has expressly consented to be sued; and the amount of any such final judgment shall be paid out of any specific appropriation applicable to the case, if any such there be; and when no such appropriation exists, said judgment shall be paid in the same manner (except with respect to interest) as judgments rendered by the Court of Claims in cases under its general jurisdiction. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 19.)

Any party aggrieved by any final judgment in a proceeding under sections 16-619 to 16-644 may appeal therefrom to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and upon such appeal said court shall have power to review said judgment and affirm, reverse, or modify the same as on appeals in other actions at law. No such appeal, nor any bond or undertaking given therein, shall operate to prevent or delay the vesting of title to said lands in the United States, but upon the filing of a declaration of taking or (if no declaration of taking is filed) upon payment to the party entitled or deposit in the registry of the court, of the amount awarded by any judgment, title shall vest in the United States, saving to all parties their right to just compensation. In the event that the compensation finally awarded and adjudged for such lands shall exceed the amount awarded and adjudged by the judgment appealed from, said court shall enter judgment for the deficiency with interest as hereinbefore provided. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 20.)

Payment into the registry of the court for the use of all parties entitled of the sum of money adjudged to be just compensation for the lands to be condemned and taken, or for any parcel thereof, or any interest therein, shall constitute payment of such compensation. Upon such payment, the petitioner shall be entitled to an order declaring that the title to the lands in respect of which such compensation is so paid is vested in the United States of America. The money so paid into the registry of the court shall be deemed to be vested in the persons owning or interested in said lands, according to their respective estates and interests, and said money shall take the place and stand in lieu of the lands condemned. The court, upon the application of the petitioner or of any party in interest, shall have power to determine and direct who is entitled to receive payment of the money so paid into the registry, and may, in its discretion, order a reference to the auditor of the court or a special master to ascertain the facts on which such determination and direction are to be made. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 21.)

In cases in which possession shall not have been awarded pursuant to a declaration of taking, when the adjudged compensation shall have been paid into the registry as directed in the judgment of the court and a certified copy of such judgment, with a certificate of the clerk of the court showing such payment, has been served upon the person in possession of said lands, such person shall, upon demand, deliver possession thereof to the petitioner. In case possession is not delivered when so demanded, the petitioner may apply to the court without notice (unless the court shall require notice to be given) for a writ of assistance, and the court, upon proof of the service of the copy of the final order or judgment and certificate of the clerk showing payment as aforesaid, shall thereupon cause such writ to be issued, which shall be executed in the same manner as when issued in other cases for the delivery of possession of real property. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 22.)

In all proceedings under sections 16-619 to 16-644 the court shall have power at any stage of the proceeding to allow amendments in form or substance in any petition, citation, summons, process, answer, declaration of taking, order, verdict, or other proceeding, including amendment in the description of the lands sought to be condemned, whenever such amendment will not impair the substantial right of any party in interest. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 23.)

In all proceedings under sections 16-619 to 16-644 where the mode or manner of conducting the proceeding is not expressly provided for by law, the court shall have power to make all necessary orders and give all necessary directions to carry into effect the object and intent of sections 16-619 to 16-644 and of the several Acts of Congress heretofore or hereafter enacted conferring authority to acquire lands for the use of the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 24.)

The repeal, express or implied, of any existing law or the alteration or amendment thereof by virtue of anything in sections 16-619 to 16-644 contained shall not affect (1) any act done or any right, including the right to appeal, accruing or accrued under the law so repealed, altered, or amended, or (2) any suit or proceeding pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, or the Supreme Court of the United States upon writ of error, appeal, certificate, writ of certiorari, or upon application for writ of error, appeal, certificate, or writ of certiorari at the time of the taking effect of sections 16-619 to 16-644; but all suits and proceedings shall be proceeded with and disposed of in the same manner and with the same effect as if sections 16-619 to 16-644 had not been passed, save and except only that in any condemnation suit or proceeding for the condemnation of land for the use of the United States pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in which commissioners of appraisalment shall not have been appointed by the court at the time of the taking effect of sections 16-619 to 16-644, the trial of said condemnation suit or proceeding shall proceed and be conducted from that point forward in accordance with sections 16-619 to 16-644; and all evidence as to the value of the property to be condemned and taken shall be given before the court and jury as in sections 16-619 to 16-644 prescribed and the matter shall be proceeded with and disposed of in the same manner and with like effect as if the proceeding had been originally begun and the petition filed and all prior proceedings had under and pursuant to the provisions of sections 16-619 to 16-644 and after the taking effect of the same. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 25.)

§ 16-644 [25:110a]. Proceedings on behalf of the District of Columbia, not affected by sections 16-619 to 16-644.

Sections 16-619 to 16-644 shall not affect any suit or proceeding begun, pending, on March 1, 1929, or hereafter to be instituted under sections 16-601 to 16-611 by or on behalf of the commissioners of the District of Columbia for the condemnation of lands for sites of schoolhouses, fire or police stations, or for a right of way for sewers, or for any other municipal use; but as to all such suits and proceedings, and the right of said commissioners to institute the same, said sections 16-601 to 16-611 shall be and remain in full force and effect as if said sections had not been made. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1422, ch. 416, § 26.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

COMPILER'S NOTE

The original British statute set out in this section provided for an amount of 10 pounds. This amount was reduced by the codifiers to a dollar equivalent of $26.67. The dollar equivalent was reached by a consideration of the Maryland act of 1781 (ch. 16, §§ 1, 2), which provided that all fines could only be imposed in current money at the rate in value of 7 shillings 6 pence for $1, or "Spanish milled pieces of 8," which was the Spanish dollar declared to be of the value of 100 cents. Any person committed, detained, confined, or restrained from his lawful liberty within the District, under any color or pretense whatever, or any person in his or her behalf, may apply by petition to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or any justice thereof, for a writ of habeas corpus, to the end that the cause of such commitment, detainer, confinement, or restraint may be inquired into; and the court or the justice applied to, if the facts set forth in the petition make a prima facie case, shall forthwith grant such writ, directed to the officer or other person in whose custody or keeping the party so detained shall be, returnable forthwith before said court or justice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1143.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ALIENS

Immigration officers have jurisdiction under the statute to exclude an alien who is not entitled under some statute or treaty to come into the United States, yet if the alien is entitled, of right, by some law or treaty, to enter this country, but is nevertheless excluded by such officers, the latter exceed their jurisdiction; and their illegal action, if it results in restraining the alien of his liberty, presents a judicial question for the decision of which the courts may intervene upon a writ of habeas corpus. Lem Moon Sing v. United States (158 U. S. 538, 39 L. Ed. 1082; 15 Sup. Ct. 967).

A petition for habeas corpus ought not to be entertained unless the court is satisfied that the petitioner can make out at least a prima facie case. United States v. Sing Tuck (194 U. S. 161, 48 L. Ed. 917, 24 Sup. Ct. 621).

Habeas corpus will lie to test the legal authority of the Secretary of Labor to deport alien contract laborers and to revoke the permit of entry. Bata Shoe Co. v. Perkins ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 508).

JUSTICES MAY ISSUE

The justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia have power to issue writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Downey v. United States (67 App. D. C. 192, 91 Fed. (2d) 223).

NATURE OF WRIT

The writ of habeas corpus in respect of lunacy is one of relief rather than of original adjudication. Barry v. Hall (68 App. D. C. 350, 98 Fed. (2d) 222).

SUFFICIENCY OF PETITION

Petition for writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that petitioner's confinement after expiration of his sentence was illegal, was denied where petitioner had committed a crime while on parole, and the judge imposing the second sentence had no power to make it and the unexpired portion of the first sentence run concurrently. Hammerer v. Huff (71 App. D. C. 246, 110 Fed. (2d) 113).

The said writ shall be served by delivering it to the officer or other person to whom it is directed, or by leaving it at the prison or place at which the party suing it out is detained; and such officer or other person shall forthwith, or within such reasonable time as the court or justice shall direct, make return of the writ and cause the person detained to be brought before the court or justice, according to the command of the writ, and shall likewise certify the true cause of his detainer or imprisonment, if any, and under what color or pretense such person is confined or restrained of his liberty. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1144.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROCESS

Service on the commissioners of the District, the Director of Public Welfare, and the Superintendent of Penal Institutions, was sufficient to give the District Court jurisdiction to issue habeas corpus in District of Columbia workhouse located outside of the District. Sanders v. Allen (69 App. D. C. 307, 100 Fed. (2d) 717).

On any application for a writ of habeas corpus, if probable cause be shown for believing that the person charged with confining or detaining the person applying or on whose behalf the application is made is about to remove the person so detained from the place where he may then be, for the purpose of evading any writ of habeas corpus or for other purposes, or that he would evade or not obey any such writ, the court or justice shall insert in the writ a clause commanding the marshal to serve the writ on the person to whom it is directed and cause said person immediately to be and appear before the court or justice, together with the person so confined or detained, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the marshal immediately to carry the person charged with the detention, together with the person detained, before the court or justice, and said court or justice shall proceed to inquire into the matter. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1145.)

If any officer or other person to whom a writ of habeas corpus may be directed shall neglect or refuse to make return thereof, or to bring the body of the person detained, according to the command of the writ, he shall forfeit to the person detained the sum of five hundred dollars, and besides shall be liable to attachment and punishment as for a contempt. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1146.)

Any person committed or detained, or any person in his behalf, may demand a true copy of the warrant of commitment or detainer, and any officer or other person detaining him who shall refuse or neglect to deliver to him a true copy of the warrant of commitment or detainer, if any there be, within six hours after the demand, shall forfeit to the party so detained the sum of five hundred dollars. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1147.)

On the return of the writ of habeas corpus and the production of the person detained the court or justice shall immediately inquire into the legality and propriety of such confinement or detention, and if it shall appear that such person is detained without legal warrant or authority, he shall immediately be released or discharged; or if the court or justice shall deem his detention to be lawful and proper, he shall be remanded to the same custody, or, in a proper case, admitted to bail, if he be confined on a charge of a bailable criminal offense; and if he be bailed, the court or justice shall require a sufficient bond or recognizance to answer in the proper court, and transmit the same to said court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1148.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

RIGHT TO JURY TRIAL

In habeas corpus for release from an insane asylum petitioner is not entitled to jury trial, although the court may call a jury to render an advisory verdict. Barry v. White (62 App. D. C. 69, 64 Fed. (2d) 707).

Any person at whose instance or in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus has been issued may traverse the return thereto, or plead any matters showing that there is not a sufficient legal cause for his confinement or detention, and the court or justice may issue process for witnesses or for the production of papers, which shall be served and enforced in like manner as similar process issued in a cause depending in court, if the court or justice shall be satisfied of the materiality of the testimony proposed to be adduced. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1149.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECREE OF STATE COURT

In habeas corpus proceeding in the District for the custody of a minor child, a decree, in a state court having jurisdiction, awarding divorce and the custody of the child, is conclusive. Burrowes v. Burrowes (64 App. D. C. 392, 78 Fed. (2d) 742).

Any person entitled to the custody of another person, unlawfully confined or detained by a third person, as a parent, guardian, committee, or husband, entitled to the custody of a minor child, ward, lunatic, or wife, upon application to the court or a justice as aforesaid, and showing just cause therefor, under oath, shall be entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, directed to the person confining or detaining as aforesaid, requiring him forthwith to appear and produce before the court or justice the person so detained, and the same proceedings shall be had in relation thereto as hereinabove authorized, and the court or justice, upon hearing the proofs, shall determine which of the contesting parties is entitled to the custody of the person so detained, and commit the custody of said person to the party legally entitled thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1150.)

LUNATIC

Habeas corpus not the proper remedy where the child was not unlawfully confined or detained. Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359); Burrowes v. Burrowes (64 App. D. C. 392, 78 Fed. (2d) 742.)

Chapter 9.—JOINT CONTRACTS

Sec.

- 16-901. Joint and several—Contracts—Definition.
- 16-902. Death of joint contractor.
- 16-903. Merger.
- 16-904. Death after suit brought—Legal representatives.
- 16-905. Proof of joint liability not necessary—Judgment.
- 16-906. Separate compromise.

Every contract and obligation entered into by two or more persons, whether partners or merely joint contractors, whether under seal or not, and whether written or verbal, and whether expressed to be joint and several or not, shall for the purposes of suit thereupon be deemed joint and several. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1205.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

In the case of a joint and several contract, an unsatisfied judgment against one of the promisees is no bar to a subsequent action against the other; and the statute places a joint contract for the payment of money on the same footing as a several contract, with respect to the right of suit thereon. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

A creditor should not be allowed to sue jointly and separately at the same time, nor prosecute more than one suit, if all the parties bound by the contract can be proceeded against together in a single action. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

If the contract be joint or joint and several, and the parties be sued jointly, the recovery must be general against the parties, but as to the married woman defendant, the award of execution must be against her sole and separate estate acquired and held under the statute, at the date of the judgment if real estate, or at time of delivery of execution to the marshal, if personal. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

Issues having been joined a nonsuit may be entered as to the minors, and the suit proceeded against the remaining adult defendants. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

EXECUTOR OF JOINT OBLIGOR

Executor of a deceased joint obligor may be sued at law with his coobligor. White v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460. Writ of error dismissed. 218 U. S. 684, 54 L. Ed. 1208, 31 Sup. Ct. 219).

NONSUIT AS TO MINORS

In a suit against the owners of property, some of whom are minors, to recover a brokerage commission, it is proper, under this section and § 1209 (§ 16-905), after issue joined to enter a nonsuit as to the minors and proceed against the remaining defendants. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

REMEDIAL IN EFFECT

This section "merely affects the remedy. It relates wholly to procedure. It does not convert a joint instrument into a joint and several instrument, or change a joint obligor into a joint and several obligor. The contract and the relations of the obligations of the contractors remain unchanged." White v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460. Writ of error dismissed. 218 U. S. 684, 54 L. Ed. 1208, 31 Sup. Ct. 219).

If one or more of such persons shall die, his or their executors, administrators, or heirs shall be bound by said contract in the same manner and to the same extent as if the same were expressed to be joint and several. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1206.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-901.

If an action be brought against all the parties to such contract, but service of process is had against some only of the defendants, or an action is brought against and service had on some only of the parties, a judgment against the parties so served shall not work an extinguishment or merger of the cause of action on which such judgment is founded as respects the parties not so served, but they shall remain liable to be sued separately. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1207.)

If any one of several defendants in an action shall die after the commencement of the action, his legal representatives may be made parties thereto as directed in sections 12-101 to 12-116. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1208.)

In actions ex contractu against alleged joint debtors it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to prove their joint liability as alleged in order to maintain his action, but he shall be entitled to recover, as in actions ex delicto, against such of the defendants as shall be shown by the evidence to be jointly indebted to him, or against one only, if he alone is shown to be indebted to him, and judgment shall be rendered as if the others had not been joined in the suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1209.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-901.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NONSUIT AS TO MINORS

Issues having been joined, a nonsuit was entered as to the minors, and the suit proceeded against the remaining defendants; this was proper under the Code. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

Any one of several joint debtors, when their debt is overdue, may make a separate composition or compromise with their creditors, with the same effect as is provided in the case of parties in sections 41-101 to 41-131, 41-201 to 41-204, on partners. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1210.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NO RELEASE OF OTHER JUDGMENT DEBTORS

Compromise with one of several judgment debtors, and an entry of a satisfaction of the judgment as to him, will not operate as a release of the other judgment debtors. Bunch v. United States ex rel. Keppler (40 App. D. C. 156).

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Mandamus has been abolished insofar as the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia is concerned; similar relief may be obtained by appropriate action or motion as may be prescribed by rules of court, see Rule 81 (b).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS

Writs of mandamus may still be issued by Circuit Courts of Appeals. National Bondholders Corp. v. McClintic ((C. C. A. 4), 99 Fed. (2d) 595); Armour & Co. v. Kloebe ((C. C. A. 6), 109 Fed. (2d) 72).

MINISTERIAL DUTY

As the Comptroller General was not charged with duties requiring the exercise of judgment or discretion, but was called upon to perform a purely ministerial function, mandamus lies to compel him to certify a voucher for refund of immigration fines which were made through error of government officers. McCarl v. United States ex rel. Societa Ligure di Armamento (58 App. D. C. 319, 30 Fed. (2d) 561).

Statute being mandatory and clear, the duty of the appellant to admit the appellee to the public schools of the District was purely ministerial. Mandamus is the orthodox remedy to compel the performance of a ministerial duty. Ballou v. Kemp (68 App. D. C. 7, 92 Fed. (2d) 556).

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Mandamus, being a remedial process, is not within the statute of limitations, but is within the discretion of the court, and application to compel restoration to government service is barred by laches of twenty months. Laches as a bar. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane (249 U. S. 367, 63 L. Ed. 650, 39 Sup. Ct. 293).

USE OF MANDAMUS IN GENERAL

Mandamus is the proper remedy when a case is outside the discretion of the inferior court, and is one of irregularity, or against law, or of flagrant injustice, or without jurisdiction. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

USE OF MANDAMUS IN PARTICULAR CASES

In action by a contractor against the Emergency Fleet Corporation to have a claim submitted to the audit of the Comptroller General, mandamus is the proper remedy. United States ex rel. Skinner & Eddy Corp. v. McCarl (275 U. S. 1, 72 L. Ed. 131, 48 Sup. Ct. 12).

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1274.)

The defendant, by the day named in such order, unless for cause shown the court shall extend the time, shall file an answer to such petition, fully setting forth all the defenses upon which he intends to rely in resisting such application, which shall be verified by his affidavit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1275.)

If issue shall be joined on such proceedings, the same shall stand for trial at as early a day as the court shall appoint. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1277.)

Such issues shall be tried by a jury if both parties in writing require it, otherwise they shall be heard and determined by the court; and in case a verdict shall be found for the petitioner, or if the court upon hearing determine for the petitioner, or judgment be given for him upon demurrer or for want of a plea, such petitioner shall thereupon recover his damages and costs as he might have done in an action for a false return, to be levied by execution, and a peremptory writ of mandamus shall be granted thereon without delay against the defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1278.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSONAL LIABILITY OF GOVERNMENTAL OFFICER

The fact that this section allows the petitioner to recover damages in the same proceeding does not justify the retention of the petition to charge the secretary personally, since damages are only incident to the allowance of the writ. Le Crone v. McAdoo (253 U. S. 217, 64 L. Ed. 869, 40 Sup. Ct. 510).

If judgment shall be given for the defendant he shall recover his costs of suit, to be levied in the manner aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1279.)

If the defendant shall neglect to file his answer to the petition by the day named in the order of the court, after being served with notice thereof, the said court shall thereupon proceed to hear the said petition ex parte, within five days thereafter, and if it shall be of opinion that the facts and law of the case authorize the granting of a mandamus as prayed, it shall thereupon without delay order a peremptory mandamus to issue, and shall also adjudge to the petitioner his costs of suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1280.)

If the court shall, upon such ex parte hearing, be of opinion that the facts and law of the case do not authorize the granting of a mandamus, it shall dismiss such petition with costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1281.)

In case of an appeal by the defendant the court shall fix the penalty of the appeal bond necessary to be given to stay the execution or enforcement of the order appealed from. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1282.)

Chapter 11.—CHANGE OF NAME

Sec.

- 16-1101. Proceeding for change of name—By petition.
- 16-1102. Notice—Contents.
- 16-1103. Decree.

Any person, being a resident of the District, desiring a change of name may file a petition in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia holding an equity term setting forth the reasons therefor and also the name desired to be assumed. In case the applicant is an infant, such petition shall be filed by the parent, guardian, or next friend to said infant. The court shall have power, in its discretion, to grant the prayer of such petition. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1298; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment changed the section to read as above. The 1901 act read as follows: "Any person of full age, being a resident of the District and desirous to have his name changed, may file a petition in the supreme court setting forth the reasons therefor and also the name desired to be assumed."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NOT APPLICABLE TO CORPORATIONS

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1299; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

Chapter 12.—NEGLIGENCE CAUSING DEATH

Sec.

- 16-1201. "Cause of action" defined—Damages—Limitation.
- 16-1202. Party plaintiff—Statute of limitations.
- 16-1203. Distribution of damages.

Whenever by an injury done or happening within the limits of the District of Columbia the death of a person shall be caused by the wrongful act, neglect, or default of any person or corporation, and the act, neglect, or default is such as would, if death had not ensued, have entitled the party injured, or if the person injured be a married woman, have entitled her husband, either separately or by joining with the wife, to maintain an action and recover damages, the person who or corporation which would have been liable if death had not ensued shall be liable to an action for damages for such death, notwithstanding the death of the person injured, even though the death shall have been caused under circumstances which constitute a felony; and such damages shall be assessed with reference to the injury resulting from such act, neglect, or default causing such death, to the widow and next of kin of such deceased person: Provided, That in no case shall the recovery under this title exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars: And provided further, That no action shall be maintained under sections 16-1201 to 16-1203 in any case when the party injured by such wrongful act, neglect, or default has recovered damages therefor during the life of such party. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1301.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Under act of February 17, 1885 (23 Stat. 307), see McGraw v. District of Columbia (3 App. D. C. 405, 25 L. R. A. 691).

In action for wrongful death under act of Congress of February 17, 1885 (23 Stat. 307), it was not necessary for the plaintiff to allege special pecuniary loss due to death of the deceased. District of Columbia v. Wilcox (4 App. D. C. 90).

Under act of Congress of February 17, 1885 (23 Stat. 307), an administrator may sue for killing of his intestate whether the intestate left goods and chattels or not. Washington Asphalt Block & Tile Co. v. Mackey (15 App. D. C. 410).

IN GENERAL

Statute is remedial and as such must be liberally construed. Calvert v. Terminal Taxicab Co. (48 App. D. C. 119), citing United States ex rel. Stevens v. Richards (33 App. D. C. 410).

BENEFICIARIES

Action for wrongful death caused by negligence in Maryland can be maintained in District of Columbia court for the benefit of the persons designated in the statute of Maryland. Stewart v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (168 U. S. 445, 42 L. Ed. 537, 18 Sup. Ct. 105, rev. 6 App. D. C. 56).

Fact that the deceased had his domicile in Virginia, and that he had no estate here, at the time of his death are not conclusive against the right to obtain letters of administration in District of Columbia. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Lipscomb (22 App. D. C. 104).

If the action cannot be maintained by the personal representative of the intestate for the ultimate benefit of the father, who is next of kin, and alone has been shown to have sustained any injury by the death of the son, the judgment ought to be arrested, for the remedy of the statute goes no further. United States Elec. Lighting Co. v. Sullivan (22 App. D. C. 115).

Action is maintainable for benefit of illegitimate brother of the half blood of the decedent, a woman. Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313, 21 Ann. Cas. 926).

Necessity for declaration to allege existence of beneficiaries within the statute, and right to amend a declaration failing so to allege, see Neubeck v. Lynch (37 App. D. C. 576, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 813).

A husband, as administrator, has a proper action for death of wife, within meaning of the words "next of kin." Calvert v. Terminal Taxicab Co. (48 App. D. C. 119).

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY ACT

This section is not repealed by the Employers' Liability Act (34 Stat. 232); but each act applies to cases arising under it and to none other. Hyde v. Southern R. Co. (31 App. D. C. 466).

MEASURE OF DAMAGES

In damage suit for wrongful death, where deceased leaves a widow and four sons, one of whom is a minor, an instruction to the jury is erroneous which includes damages for reasonable expectations of prospective inheritance, prospective support, gifts, guidance, paternal advice and maintenance. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Golway (6 App. D. C. 143).

At common law, the right of a parent to recover for loss of the services of his minor child, like that of the husband for the services of the wife, is limited to the time that may have elapsed, if any, between the time of the injury giving rise to the action, and the resulting death. United States Elec. Lighting Co. v. Sullivan (22 App. D. C. 115).

Father as administrator is entitled to recover more than nominal damages for death of child between eight and nine years of age. United States Elec. Lighting Co. v. Sullivan (22 App. D. C. 115); Smith v. Cissel (22 App. D. C. 318).

"Section 1301, D. C. 1901 (this section), in effect, provides that the measure of damages shall be the injury resulting to the widow and next of kin. While section 1302 (§ 16-1202) requires the action to be brought in the name of the personal representative, section 1303 (§ 16-1203) in terms sets aside the damages recovered for the benefit of the family of the decedent. It will thus be seen that the duty of the administrator is simply to bring the suit allowed by the statute, and, in the event of a recovery, distribute the damages according to the provisions of the statute of distributions in force in this District." Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313, 21 Ann. Cas. 926).

In action for death of sister, the amount of pecuniary loss is for the jury. Ramsey v. Ross (66 App. D. C. 186, 85 Fed. (2d) 685).

PARTIES DEFENDANT

Action may be maintained in this District against a druggist whose negligent filling of a prescription in the District results in death beyond the District. Moore v. Pywell (29 App. D. C. 312, 9 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078).

No right of recovery exists where an officer kills one engaged in the commission of a felony and who draws a gun on the officer. Harris v. Embrey (70 App. D. C. 232, 105 Fed. (2d) 111).

These sections apply to action for death of seaman on board a vessel owned by the Fleet Corporation occurring on the coast of Africa; and they also apply to the operator of the vessel joined as a defendant with the owner. United States Shipping Bd. v. Greenwald ((C. C. A. 2), 16 Fed. (2d) 948).

Every such action shall be brought by and in the name of the personal representative of such deceased person, and within one year after the death of the party injured. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1302; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the word "such" after the word "every."

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-1201.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Action for wrongful death must fail if not brought by personal representative. Harris v. Embrey (70 App. D. C. 232, 105 Fed. (2d) 111).

EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR

This section requiring that suit shall be brought by and in the name of the personal representative of such deceased person, has been held to mean either the executor or administrator of the deceased. Ferguson v. Washington & R. G. Co. (6 App. D. C. 525); Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313, 21 Ann. Cas. 926).

Words "personal representative" have been held to refer either to the executor or administrator, and hence, as the right of the action is statutory, no person other than those upon whom authority is expressly conferred may maintain action. Fleming v. Capital Trac. Co. (40 App. D. C. 489).

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT—SUBROGATION

An employer or an insurance carrier who has paid compensation to the only beneficiary or beneficiaries entitled to receive the same and who has a right of subrogation, may bring the subrogation action against the third person who caused the death of the employee, and the action need not be brought by the personal representative of the decedent. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Moses (287 U. S. 530, 77 L. Ed. 477, 53 Sup. Ct. 231, 88 A. L. R. 647, revg. 61 App. D. C. 74, 57 Fed. (2d) 440).

In case there is more than one dependent and one only elects to accept workmen's compensation and the other dependent or dependents elect to bring an action under the wrongful death statute, then the employer is not entitled to sue as a subrogee but the action must be brought by the personal representative of the decedent, the employee having the right to demand that such action be brought and that he share in the recovery. Doleman v. Levine (295 U. S. 221, 79 L. Ed. 1402, 55 Sup. Ct. 741, revg. 64 App. D. C. 25, 73 Fed. (2d) 842).

The damages recovered in such action shall not be appropriated to the payment of the debts or liabilities of such deceased person, but shall inure to the benefit of his or her family and be distributed according to the provisions of the statute of distribution in force in the said District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1395, ch. 854, § 1303.)

Chapter 13.—PARTITION AND ASSIGNMENT OF DOWER

Sec.

- 16-1301. Partition—When granted—Parties—Accounting by tenant in common.
- 16-1302. Assignment of dower—Appointment of commissioners—Cases of partition.
- 16-1303. Assignment of dower of widow of tenant in common.
- 16-1304. Parties to proceeding.
- 16-1305. Sale of land encumbered by dower—Lack of consent—Consent in writing—Her portion.
- 16-1306. Sale of indivisible property—Discharge from dower.

The equity court may decree a partition of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments on the bill or petition of any tenant in common, claiming by descent or purchase, or of any joint tenant or coparcener; or if it appear that said lands, tenements, or hereditaments can not be divided without loss or injury to the parties interested, the court may decree a sale thereof and a division of the money arising from such sale among the parties, according to their respective rights; and this section shall apply to cases where all the parties are of full age, to cases where all the parties are infants, to cases where some of the parties are of full age and some infants, to cases where some or all of the parties are non compos mentis, and to cases where all or any of the parties are non-residents; and any party, whether of full age, infant, or non compos mentis, may file a bill under this section, an infant by his guardian or prochein ami and a person non compos mentis by his committee: Provided, That in every case of partition any tenant in common who may have received the rents and profits of the property to his own use may be required to account to his cotenants for their respective shares of said rents and profits, and any amounts found to be due on said accounting may be charged against the share of the party owning the same in the property, or its proceeds in case of sale. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1203, ch. 854, § 93; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section and § 21-213 were originally § 93 of the code of 1901 and probably should be read together.

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "who was such at the date of this code" which followed the word "coparcener" in the first clause, and struck out the proviso of the 1901 Act and inserted in lieu thereof the words following the word "provided." The proviso of the 1901 Act read as follows: "Provided, That if the parties entitled as heirs at law to the real estate of an intestate can not agree upon a partition thereof, or any of said parties be a minor, or the courts shall be of opinion that said estate can not be divided without loss or injury to the parties interested, before any sale shall be made thereof, the oldest son, child, or person entitled, if of age, shall have the election to take the whole estate and pay to the others their just proportions of the value in money; and if the oldest child or person entitled refuses to take the estate and pay to the others money for their proportions, then the next oldest child or person entitled, being of age, shall have the same election, and so on to the youngest child or person entitled; and if all refuse, then the property shall be sold as aforesaid; and in every case of partition any tenant in common who may have received the rents and profits of the property to his own use or may have had the exclusive possession and enjoyment of the property may be required to account to his cotenants for their respective shares of said rents and profits, or, as the case may be, for the value of the use and occupation of their undivided shares of the property; and any amounts found due on said accounting may be charged against the share of the party owing the same in the property or its proceeds in case of sale."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

For history of partition of District of Columbia among original proprietors, see Bursey v. Lyon (30 App. D. C. 597).

ACCOUNTING

Statute creates equitable lien against the interest of a cotenant to the amount found to be due from him on accounting permitted by statute. Loving v. Moore (37 App. D. C. 214).

Quaere: Whether common-law action of account lies by one tenant in common against the other who has secured more than his just share, in view of provisions of this section. Lyon v. Bursey (42 App. D. C. 519).

When one of tenants in common occupied property without payment of rent, an accounting under this section would not be allowable inasmuch as this section presupposes a subletting. Allen v. Jones (56 App. D. C. 245, 12 Fed. (2d) 186).

COTENANTS

Mere acquiescence by one tenant in common in upkeep and improvements by his cotenant, who has complete possession of the common property, is not sufficient to establish partition in pais, without proof of some agreement between the parties to that end. Addison v. Barnes (45 App. D. C. 284).

A cotenant is not liable to his cotenants for use and occupation, unless there has been an actual or constructive ouster of the cotenants. Allen v. Jones (56 App. D. C. 245, 12 Fed. (2d) 186).

COUNSEL FEES

In partition, the fees of plaintiff's attorney cannot be charged against all the parties when in good faith they retain and are represented by other counsel. Fletcher v. Coomes (52 App. D. C. 159, 285 Fed. 893).

DEFINITIONS

The terms "parties" and "rights" mentioned in this section are defined and limited by the provisions of §§ 16-1305 and 16-1306. Devlin v. Esher (52 App. D. C. 30, 280 Fed. 1004).

DOWER

Inchoate dower right of a wife of a tenant in common is not to be set off to the wife on sale of the property for partition, but the husband is entitled to entire distributive share. Devlin v. Esher (52 App. D. C. 30, 280 Fed. 1004).

ORDER OF SALE

Where the property is susceptible of division in kind, a sale will not be ordered against the will of one of the parties. Walker v. Lyon (6 App. D. C. 484).

PARTIES

"No one is entitled to maintain partition who has not an estate that entitles him to immediate possession." Sis v. Boarman (11 App. D. C. 116).

SURETY

In action on bond of trustee for sale of infant's property, the surety cannot be heard to question validity of the bond. United States ex rel. Hine v. Morse (218 U. S. 493, 54 L. Ed. 1123, 31 Sup. Ct. 37, revg. 29 App. D. C. 433, 31 App. D. C. 433).

TITLE

A mere averment of title in defendant is not sufficient to make a question of title: "proof is required to show that the claim of title is fair and reasonable, and not a mere sham intended to delay and embarrass the complainant." Smith v. Butler (15 App. D. C. 345).

While the jurisdiction of a court of equity to decree partition, or sale for partition, is undoubted in cases where there is no serious question of legal title as between the parties, it is equally well settled that the court does not sustain a bill for partition unless the legal title be clear and where the legal title is disputed, the court will retain the bill to give the plaintiff an opportunity to establish his title at law. Roller v. Clarke (19 App. D. C. 539, mfd. 199 U. S. 641, 50 L. Ed. 300, 26 Sup. Ct. 141).

"A bill of partition can not be made the means of trying a disputed title." Staub v. Staub (47 App. D. C. 180) citing Jordan v. O'Brien (33 App. D. C. 189); Hasler v. Williams (34 App. D. C. 319), distinguishing Taylor v. Leesnitzer (37 App. D. C. 356) where rights were determined because no motion to dismiss was made. See also Goodman v. Wren (34 App. D. C. 516) re rights of equitable owners to maintain partition.

Whenever any person or persons shall hold real estate, by descent or purchase, in the whole of which a widow is entitled to dower, either the widow or any person entitled to said property or an undivided share therein may apply to said court to have the widow's dower therein assigned; and thereupon the court shall appoint three commissioners to lay off and assign said dower, if practicable, the report of said commissioners to be subject to ratification by the court. In all cases of partition between two or more joint tenants or tenants in common of real estate, in the whole of which a widow is entitled to dower, the said dower shall be laid off and assigned, in like manner, before said partition shall be decreed. When an estate of which a woman is dowable is entire, and the dower can not be set off thereout by metes and bounds, it may be assigned by the court as of a third part of the net rents, issues, and profits thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 86.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONDITION PRECEDENT

Assignment of dower is condition precedent to partition. Hasler v. Williams (34 App. D. C. 319).

SPECIFICALLY

Construing the word "specifically" it is said: "The act undoubtedly requires explicitness and certainty; it requires that the owner of the property * * * should have full and accurate notice of the claims of those who deal with the latter upon the faith of the legal liability of the property. For that purpose it requires that 'the amount claimed' should be set forth specifically; but it is the amount claimed, not the items that go to make up that amount, that is required to be so stated." Emack v. Campbell (14 App. D. C. 186).

Whenever the widow of any tenant in common of real estate shall be entitled to dower in his undivided share of said property, and a partition shall be decreed between his heirs or devisees and the other tenants in common, the said dower shall attach to and may, in like manner, be assigned and laid out in the shares assigned in severalty to the said heirs or devisees, and the shares of the other tenants in common shall be assigned to them, respectively, in severalty, free from such dower. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 87.)

Whenever an application is made to the court to decree a partition of real estate between tenants in common, it shall not be necessary to make the wife of any of such persons a party to the proceedings, but her right of dower shall attach to whatever part of such property may be assigned in severalty to her husband, and the other parts thereof shall be assigned free of said right of dower. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 88.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Under this section and sections 89, 90 and 93, Code of 1901 (§§ 16-1301, 16-1305, 16-306), property may be sold by way of partition, free of a wife's inchoate right of dower, and the husband is entitled to his entire distributive share. Devlin v. Esher (52 App. D. C. 30, 280 Fed. 1004).

Whenever a decree is rendered for the sale of land, in the whole of which a widow is entitled to dower, if she will not consent to a sale of the same free of her dower, the court may, if it appears advantageous to the parties, cause her dower to be laid off and assigned as aforesaid. If she will consent in writing to the sale of the property free from her dower, the court shall order the same to be sold free of her dower, and shall allow her, in commutation of her dower, such portion of the net proceeds of sale as may be just and equitable, not exceeding one-sixth nor less than one-twentieth, according to the age, health, and condition of the widow. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 89.)

Whenever real property is decreed to be sold for the purpose of division of the proceeds between tenants in common because the said property is incapable of being divided between them in specie, the court may decree a sale of the property free and discharged from any right of dower by the wife of any of the parties in his undivided share. Chapter 15.—QUIETING TITLE OBTAINED BY ADVERSE POSSESSION

Sec.

- 16-1501. Procedure—Sufficiency of bill—Parties—Decree—Recording—Service—Defendants under disabilities—Limitation.

§ 16-1501 [25: 1]. Procedure—Sufficiency of bill—Parties—Decree—Recording—Service—Defendants under disabilities—Limitation.

When title to any real estate in the District of Columbia shall have become vested in any person or persons by adverse possession, the holder thereof may file a bill in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to have such title perfected, in which bill it shall be sufficient to allege that the complainant holds the title to such real estate, and that the same has vested in him, or in himself and in those under whom he claims, by adverse possession; and in such action it shall not be necessary to make any person a party defendant except such persons as may appear to have a claim or title adverse to that of the complainant. Upon the trial of such cause, proof of the facts showing title in the complainant by adverse possession shall entitle him to a decree of the court declaring his title by adverse possession, and a copy of such decree may be entered of record in the office of the recorder of deeds for said District. In any such action if process shall be returned not to be found, notice by publication may be substituted as in case of nonresident defendants. If in any case it shall be unknown whether one who, if living, would be an adverse party is living or dead, or in the case of a decedent, whether he died testate or left heirs, or his heirs or devisees are unknown, the cause may be proceeded with under the provisions of section 13-113: Provided, That the rights of infants or others under legal disability shall be saved for a period of two years after the removal of their disabilities: Provided, however, That the entire period during which such rights shall be preserved shall not exceed twenty-two years from the time such rights accrued, either in said complainant or in the person or persons under whom he claims. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1207, ch. 854, § 111; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 524, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "plaintiff" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "complainant" where this word now appears; struck out the word "nine" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "ten" before the word "provided," the first time it is used; and struck out the word "claimant" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "complainant" in the last proviso clause.

COMPILER'S NOTE

Title 25, § 2, D. C. Code 1929 Edit. was duplicated by Title 24, § 175 of said Code and appears herein as § 16-515. Said section provides as follows:

"In an action to recover vacant and unimproved lots of ground it shall not be necessary, in order to maintain the defense of adversary possession, to show that the premises in controversy had been inclosed; but if it appear that the property had been assessed for taxation to the defendant, or those under whom he claims, and that he or they had regularly paid the taxes on the same and were the only persons who had exercised control over the same for a period of fifteen years before the bringing of the action, such facts shall be the equivalent of possession by actual inclosure."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"A great deal of indulgence has always been extended to one in the undisturbed possession of property, in respect of proceedings to quiet or perfect a title that had not been assailed." Myers v. Mayhew (32 App. D. C. 205).

"A title is good (as distinguished from good of record) if it has been acquired by adverse possession under such circumstances, and for such length of time, as to render it indefeasible at law or in equity." Marsh v. Kenyon (37 App. D. C. 574), citing Block v. Ryan (4 App. D. C. 283).

COTENANT

One cotenant may hold adversely to his co-owner, although ouster or disseisin is not to be presumed from the mere fact of sole possession. Henderson v. Mann (47 App. D. C. 174).

DURATION OF POSSESSION

Adverse possession held clearly shown by 30 years' possession of lot with clearly defined boundaries which extended beyond the line as surveyed. Brumbaugh v. Gompers (50 App. D. C. 130, 269 Fed. 472).

EJECTMENT

This section has no application to action in ejectment based upon title by adverse possession. McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

EVIDENCE—SUFFICIENCY

Evidence held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of adverse possession. Davis v. Coblens (174 U. S. 719, 43 L. Ed. 1147, 19 Sup. Ct. 832, affg. 12 App. D. C. 51).

INCLOSURE

"Actual inclosure is not necessary to prove possession; that while inclosure is the most tangible evidence of possession, a continuous, uninterrupted, open, actual, exclusive, and adverse possession is in law equally as satisfactory." Howison v. Masson (29 App. D. C. 338), citing Holtzman v. Douglas (5 App. D. C. 397, affd. 168 U. S. 278, 42 L. Ed. 466, 18 Sup. Ct. 65).

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS

There is an apparent conflict between § 111 (this section) and § 1265 (§ 12-201) of the 1929 edition, as to the extent of the principal limitation of actions, and also as to the extent of the saving to parties under disabilities. But in order to give effect to both sections, the former section being the act of Congress of March 3, 1899, must be read as an exception to the latter more general provision. Gwin v. Brown (21 App. D. C. 295).

POSSESSION TO BE ADVERSE

Possession, to become adverse, and effectual to defeat a clear pre-existing legal title, must be actual, continuous, and exclusive, attended with such manifest intention of holding and continuing the possession as will make that possession notorious to every one interested in reclaiming the property to the rightful ownership. Reid v. Anderson (13 App. D. C. 30).

POSSESSION UNDER MISTAKE

Title by adverse possession may be secured although possession was had under mistake (whether the mistake was honest or deliberate). Rudolph v. Peters (35 App.

D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446), citing Johnson v. Thomas (23 App. D. C. 141).

REMEDY

A bill in equity is the proper remedy to perfect title by adverse possession, and not ejectment, where defendants have not entered into possession or attempted to oust the plaintiff. Myers v. Mayhew (32 App. D. C. 205), citing Peck v. Heurich (6 App. D. C. 273, affd. 167 U. S. 624, 42 L. Ed. 302, 17 Sup. Ct. 927).

SUBSEQUENT ABANDONMENT

Title acquired by adverse possession is not lost by subsequent abandonment of possession. Myers v. Mayhew (32 App. D. C. 205), citing Todd v. Kauffman (8 Mackey (19 D. C.) 204).

The Attorney General or the district attorney may institute such proceeding on his own motion, or on the relation of a third person. But such writ shall not be issued on the relation of a third person except by leave of the court, to be applied for by the relator, by a petition duly verified, setting forth the grounds of the application, or until the relator shall file a bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by the clerk of the court, in such penalty as the court may prescribe, conditioned for the payment by him of all costs incurred in the prosecution of the writ in case the same shall not be recovered from and paid

CLAIMANT TO OFFICE

A citizen and taxpayer who makes no claim to the office can not make application for quo warranto. Newman v. United States ex rel. Frizzell (238 U. S. 537, 59 L. Ed. 1446, 35 Sup. Ct. 881). See also Hayes v. Burns (25 App. D. C. 243, app. dismiss. 201 U. S. 650, 50 L. Ed. 905, 26 Sup. Ct. 744).

NOT AN ADEQUATE REMEDY AT LAW

Quo warranto is not an adequate remedy at law because the right to bring such action is not absolute, but lies within the discretion of the Attorney General or of the district attorney or of the court. Columbian Cat Fanciers v. Koehne (68 App. D. C. 257, 96 Fed. (2d) 529).

"THIRD PERSON"

Congress used the words "third person" in the sense of "any person." Newman v. United States ex rel. Frizzell (238 U. S. 537, 59 L. Ed. 1446, 35 Sup. Ct. 881).

If the Attorney General and district attorney shall refuse to institute such proceeding on the request of a person interested, such person may apply to the court by verified petition for leave to have said writ issued; and if in the opinion of the court the reasons set forth in said petition are sufficient in law, the said writ shall be allowed to be issued by any attorney, in the name of the United States, on the relation of said interested person, on his compliance with the condition prescribed in section 16-1602 as to security for costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1540.)

STATUTORY CROSS REFERENCE

This section is in U. S. C., Title 28, § 377c.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSON INTERESTED

The interest which will justify such a proceeding by a private individual must be more than that of a taxpayer; it must be an interest in the office itself, and must be peculiar to the applicant. Newman v. United States ex rel. Frizzell (238 U. S. 537, 59 L. Ed. 1446, 35 Sup. Ct. 881).

The action must be brought by a person claiming title to the office in question and out of possession thereof. Columbian Cat Fanciers v. Koehne (68 App. D. C. 257, 96 Fed. (2d) 529).

When such proceeding is against a person for usurping an office, on the relation of a person claiming the same office, the relator shall set forth in his petition the facts upon which he claims to be entitled to the office. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1541.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16-1601.

§ 16-1605 [24: 235]. Notice to defendant.

On the issuing of the writ the court may fix a time within which the defendant may appear and answer the same. If the defendant can not be found in the District, the court may direct notice to be given to him by publication as in other cases of proceedings against nonresident defendants, and upon proof of publication, if the defendant shall not appear, judgment may be rendered as if he had been personally served. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1542; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "clerk" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "court" in the first sentence.

If the defendant shall not appear as required by the writ, after being personally served, the court may proceed to hear proof in support of the writ, and render judgment accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1543.)

The defendant may demur or plead specially or plead "not guilty" as the general issue, and the United States may reply as in other actions of a civil character; and any issue of fact shall be tried by a jury if either party shall require it, otherwise it shall be determined by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1544.)

Where the defendant is found by the jury to have usurped or intruded into or unlawfully held or exercised an office or franchise, the verdict shall be that he is guilty of the act or acts in question, and judgment shall be rendered that he be ousted and excluded therefrom and that the relator recover his costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1545.)

Where the proceeding is against persons acting as a corporation without being legally incorporated, the judgment against the defendants shall be that they be perpetually restrained and enjoined from the commission or continuance of the acts complained of. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1546.)

Where the proceeding is against a director or trustee of a corporation and the court finds that at his election either illegal votes were received or legal votes rejected, or both, sufficient to change the result if such error be corrected, judgment may be rendered that the defendant be ousted, and that the relator, if entitled to be declared elected, be admitted to the office, and a mandamus may be issued to the proper parties, being officers or members of said corporation, to admit him to said office. The said judgment may require the defendant to deliver to the relator all books, papers, and other things in his custody or control pertaining to the said office, and obedience to said judgment may be enforced by attachment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1420, ch. 854, § 1547.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Mandamus in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia has been abolished; similar relief may be obtained by appropriate action or motion as prescribed by rules of court, see Rule 81 (b).

At any time within a year after such judgment the said relator may bring an action against the party ousted and recover the damages sustained by him by reason of such usurpation of the office to which he was entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1548.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AWARD AS CONDITION PRECEDENT

An award by arbitration is not a condition precedent to be proved before bringing suit. Fontano v. Robbins (18 App. D. C. 402).

POWERS

United States commissioners have only such powers as to procedure that may be conferred by the State statutes on examining magistrates of the State; United States commissioner can go no further in his procedure than the State examining magistrate could do. United States v. Mace ((C. C. A. 8), 281 Fed. 635).

SETTING ASIDE ARBITRATOR'S AWARD

If the arbitrator professes to decide upon the law and he mistakes it, the court will set aside the award; also where the arbitrator's reasons did not appear upon the face of the award, but only upon another paper delivered therewith. Bailey v. District of Columbia (4 App. D. C. 356).

SUBMISSION TO ARBITRATION WITHOUT ORDER OF COURT

As to submission to arbitration without an order of court, see District of Columbia v. Bailey (171 U. S. 161, 43 L. Ed. 118, 18 Sup. Ct. 868, revg. 9 App. D. C. 360).

The referee, before proceeding to hear the cause, shall be sworn faithfully and fairly to try the issues and determine the questions referred to him, as the case may require, and to make a just and true award thereof.

He shall thereupon fix a time for the hearing of said cause and notify all parties thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1254, ch. 854, § 413.)

He shall have power to administer oaths, to cause subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum to be issued to witnesses and to compel their attendance by attachment, and to punish a witness by fine and imprisonment for contempt of court, for nonattendance, or refusal to be sworn, or to testify. He shall have the same power to adjourn from time to time, and to preserve order in the trial or hearing before him, and to punish any violation thereof, as a court in regular session. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1254, ch. 854, § 414.)

In suits in equity the referee shall have power to take depositions in cases where they are taken before an examiner in chancery, and in all suits shall receive and consider all depositions and other evidence in like manner as where the trial or hearing is by the court. He may allow amendments to process or pleadings, pass interlocutory orders, award costs, and hear and determine all questions arising in the cause, with like effect as if done by order of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 415.)

Within sixty days after the reference is made, unless a longer time is agreed upon by both parties or allowed by the court, the referee shall file with the clerk a written award and give notice thereof to each party interested; otherwise either party may notify the adverse party, or his attorney or solicitor, that he elects to end the reference, and the cause shall proceed as if no reference had been made. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 416.)

The final award of the referee shall state separately the facts found by him and his conclusions of law, and direct the judgment or decree to be entered thereupon, including a determination as to costs, and in common-law cases the finding as to the facts shall have the effect of a verdict of a jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 417.)

On motion filed within twenty days after notice of the filing of the award to the parties or their attorneys, the court may set aside his award because of corruption or misconduct of the referee, or because he exceeded his powers or so imperfectly executed them that a final award was not made, or may modify his award in case of an evident miscalculation of figures, or if it relates to matter not submitted, or is imperfect in form. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 418.)

Judgment or decree, if no such motion is made, or it is overruled, or the award is only modified as aforesaid, shall thereupon be entered by the clerk as in the award directed, and shall stand as the judgment of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 419.)

An appeal may be taken to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia from such final decree in equity causes in like manner as from decrees rendered by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 420.)

Upon the trial of issues of fact in an action at law exceptions may be taken to the rulings of the referee upon the admissibility of evidence or upon questions of law arising during the hearing; and a refusal to make a finding upon a question of fact, upon sufficient evidence in law to sustain it, or making a finding of fact without sufficient evidence in law to sustain it, shall be deemed such a ruling upon a question of law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 421.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Formal exceptions unnecessary, see Rule 46.

§ 16-1711 [24: 101]. Exceptions to rulings of referee—Reduction to writing—Bill of exceptions.

Such exceptions must be taken at the time the rulings excepted to are made, and must be reduced to writing by the exceptant, or they may be noted on the minutes of the referee and afterwards stated in a bill of exceptions, which shall be settled in the same manner as where the trial is by a jury, as directed by the rules of court, the referee exercising the same power therein as the trial justice in case of a jury trial. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 422.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See Rules of Civil Procedure, §§ 16-1701, 16-1710.

§ 16-1712 [24: 102]. Appeals in common-law cases.

An appeal may be taken to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia from a final judgment in a common-law case, entered upon the award of the referee, in the same manner and with like effect as from a judgment rendered by the court on the verdict of a jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 423.)

The exceptions taken as aforesaid shall constitute a part of the record upon which an appeal from the judgment shall be heard. It shall not be necessary, however, to take exceptions to the conclusions of law appearing upon the face of the referee's award; but any error therein shall be considered on appeal as if presented in a formal bill of exceptions. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 424.)

In case of the disability of the referee, or his failure or refusal to proceed with the reference, or his misconduct, the court which passed the order of reference may rescind the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1255, ch. 854, § 425.)

The fees of the referee may be fixed by rule of court or agreement of the parties, and taxed as part of the costs of the cause. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 426.)

FEES PART OF COSTS

Fees to special auditor may be taxed as part of the costs of the cause. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (63 App. D. C. 395, 73 Fed. (2d) 118).

§ 16-1716 [24: 106]. Several referees.

The reference may be to more persons than one, provided they be an odd number of persons, in which case all must meet together and hear all the allegations and proofs of the parties; but a majority may determine all questions submitted to or arising before them. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 427.)

If the death of either party shall happen pending the trial or hearing of a cause before a referee, the reference shall be at an end. If such death shall occur after the cause is submitted to the referee for final judgment or decree, the referee shall return his award, and thereupon the representative of such decedent may appear, or be required by the adverse party to appear, as provided in sections 12-101 to 12-116, and the cause thereupon be proceeded with as if such death had not occurred. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 428.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Substitution of parties, see Rule 25.

§ 16-1718 [24: 108]. Death of referee.

If any referee shall die before making his award the court shall, upon the consent of the parties or their counsel, appoint a referee, who shall have the same power to act as if originally appointed by mutual consent of the parties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 429.)

§ 16-1719 [24: 109]. Common-law references.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the court from referring a cause to an arbitrator, subject to the ratification of his award by the court, according to the course of the common law and the former practice of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 430.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW APPLICABLE

Common-law rules prevail as to powers of officers in executing a writ of replevin. "The rule of the common law * * * seems to be that an officer, in executing a writ of replevin, may not break an outer door or window of a dwelling to gain entrance to seize the property of the occupant or of a person rightfully domiciled therein. He may enter either an open outer door or window, provided it can be accomplished without committing a breach of the peace; he may then, after a request and refusal, break open any inner doors belonging to the defendant, in order to take the goods. We think a further reasonable rule is deducible from the cases, that when an officer, in the execution of a writ, finds an outer door or window slightly ajar, but not sufficiently so to admit him, he may open the door or window, provided he does not find it obstructed, but if it is fastened or obstructed so as to require force to overcome the obstruction, he may not use such force for such an entrance would constitute a breaking." Palmer v. King (41 App. D. C. 419, L. R. A. 1916 D, 278, Ann. Cas. 1915 C, 1139).

GOODS TAKEN BY POLICE

Replevy of goods taken by police from person accused of crime, see Mutual Comm. & Stock Co. v. Moore (13 App. D. C. 78).

PROMISSORY NOTES

Replevin action is proper against a bank to recover possession of overdue promissory notes received by it from a private bank to secure a payment of an overdraft, when it is apparent the notes evidenced a debt secured by deed of trust on property that was owned by plaintiff and her sister, that the debt was paid on maturity of the notes and they were left with banking firm for safe-keeping but the bank used them to pay overdraft without plaintiff's authority. District Nat. Bank v. Trimble (46 App. D. C. 319).

SUFFICIENCY OF BILL IN EQUITY

Equity will not require a specific delivery of art collection when the bill does not disclose what, if any, disposition of the art collection was made or attempted to be made in the will. Dante v. Hutchins (49 App. D. C. 348, 265 Fed. 988).

WHEN PURCHASE WAS FRAUDULENT

When vendor replevies goods on ground that the purchase was fraudulent and it appears that the value of the goods was in excess of balance due the vendor, it is proper to tender the excess to the defendant and upon his refusal to receive tender, pay the amount into court. Samaha v. Mason (27 App. D. C. 470).

The declaration in replevin shall be in the following or equivalent form: "The plaintiff sues the defendant for (wrongly taking and detaining) (unjustly detaining) his, said plaintiff's, goods and chattels, to wit: (describe them) of the value of _____ dollars. And the plaintiff claims that the same be taken from the defendant and delivered to him; or, if they are eloigned, that he may have judgment of their said value and all mesne profits and damages, which he estimates at _____ dollars, besides costs." (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1550.)

At the time of filing the declaration in replevin, the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney shall file an affidavit stating—

First. That, according to affiant's information and belief, the plaintiff is entitled to recover possession of chattels proposed to be replevied, being the same described in the declaration.

Second. That the defendant has seized and detained or detains the same.

Third. That said chattels were not subject to such seizure or detention and were not taken upon any writ of replevin between the parties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1551; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the words "between the parties" at the end of this section.

The plaintiff shall at the same time enter into an undertaking by himself or his agent with surety, approved by the clerk, to abide by and perform the judgment of the court in the premises. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1552; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "by himself or his agent."

§ 16-1805 [24: 395]. Failure of officer to obtain possession—Procedure.

If the officer's return of the writ of replevin be that he has served the defendant with copies of the declaration, notice to plead, and summons, but that he could not get possession of the goods and chattels sued for, the plaintiff may prosecute the action for the value of the same and damages for detention, or he may renew the writ in order to get possession of the goods and chattels themselves. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1553.)

If the officer's return be that he has taken possession of the goods and chattels sued for, but that the defendant is not to be found, the court, subject to the provisions of section 13-111 as to mailing notice, may order that the defendant appear to the action by some fixed day; and of this order the plaintiff shall cause notice to be given by publication in some newspaper of the District at least three times, the first of which shall be at least twenty days before the day fixed for the defendant's appearance. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1554; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "court" the words "subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eight hereof as to mailing notice" which section of the 1901 Code appears herein as § 13-111.

If the defendant fails to appear, the court may proceed as in case of default after personal service. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1555.)

If the defendant appear he may plead not guilty, in which case all special matters of defense may be given in evidence, or he may plead specially. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1421, ch. 854, § 1556.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SET-OFF

Damages for breach of warranty of chattel sold on conditional sale, proper set-off in replevin. Marks v. Frigid-aire Sales Corp. (60 App. D. C. 359, 54 Fed. (2d) 974, cert. den. 285 U. S. 544, 76 L. Ed. 936, 52 Sup. Ct. 394).

§ 16-1809 [24: 399]. Motion for return of property—Procedure—Objection to sufficiency of surety—Section applicable in Municipal Court.

On the taking possession of the goods and chattels by the marshal or coroner by virtue of the writ of replevin, the defendant may, on one day's notice to the plaintiff or his attorney, move for a return of the property to his possession; and the court may thereupon inquire into the circumstances and manner of the defendant's obtaining possession of such property, and if it shall seem just may order the property to be returned to the possession of the defendant, to abide the final judgment in the action, and may, in its discretion, require the defendant to enter into an undertaking, with surety or sureties, similar to that required of the plaintiff upon the commencement of the action, and in such case a judgment for the plaintiff shall be rendered against the surety or sureties, as well as against the defendant. If it shall appear that the possession of the property was forcibly or fraudulently obtained by the defendant, or that the possession, being first in the plaintiff, was procured or retained by the defendant without authority from the plaintiff, the court may refuse to order the return. The defendant may also, on similar notice, object to the sufficiency of the security in the undertaking, and the court may require additional security, in default of which the property shall be returned to the defendant, but the action may proceed as if the property had not been taken. This section is applicable also to the Municipal Court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1557; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

If the defendant shall notify the officer taking possession of the property, in writing, of his intention to make either of the motions aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the officer to retain possession of the property until said motion shall be disposed of, provided that the same shall be filed and notice given, as aforesaid, to the plaintiff, or his attorney, within two days thereafter. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1558.)

Whether the defendant plead and the issue thereon joined is found against him, or his plea is held bad on demurrer, or he makes default after personal service or after publication, the plaintiff's damages shall be ascertained by the jury trying the issue, where one is joined, or by a jury of inquest, where there is no issue of fact, and the damages shall be the full value of the goods, if eloiigned by the defendant, including, in every case, the loss sustained by the plaintiff by reason of the detention, and judgment shall pass for the plaintiff accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1559.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUBSEQUENT ACTION

A buyer who brings replevin for the possession of an automobile repossessed by the seller, with nominal damages for detention, is not thereby barred from subsequent action for illegal and malicious seizure. Wardman-Justice Motors v. Petrie (59 App. D. C. 262, 39 Fed. (2d) 512, 69 A. L. R. 648).

If the issue be found for the defendant, or the plaintiff dismiss or fail to prosecute his suit, the judgment shall be that the goods, if delivered to the plaintiff, be returned to the defendant with damages, or, on failure, that the defendant recover against the plaintiff and his surety the damages by him sustained, to be assessed by the jury trying the issue; or, where the plaintiff dismisses or fails to prosecute his suit, by the jury of inquest. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1560.)

If the defendant has eloiigned the things sued for the court may instruct the jury, if they find for the plaintiff, to assess such damages as may compel the defendant to return the things. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1561.)

Mutual debts and claims under contract between the parties to a common-law action, or between any of the several defendants and the plaintiff, or between one party and the testator or intestate of the other, or between the testators or intestates of both parties, may be set off against each other by plea in bar, whether said debts or claims be of the same or a different nature or degree, and whether the claims be for liquidated debts or unliquidated damages for breach of contract; and if either debt be in the form of the penalty of a bond the exact sum to be set off shall be stated in the plea. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1422, ch. 854, § 1563; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Durant v. Murdock (3 App. D. C. 114) (plea of set-off barred on its face by statute of limitations cannot be pleaded to prevent a summary judgment under 73d rule); United States v. West (8 App. D. C. 59) (when a plea of set-off only is filed, it is equivalent to a plea of confession and avoidance and transfers burden of proof to defendants); Samaha v. Samaha (18 App. D. C. 76) (right of plaintiff to dismiss action after plea filed).

Even if defendant had entered a plea of recoupment, coupled with non assumpsit, it would not amount to an admission of the existence of a cause of action, for the plea of non assumpsit is a denial of liability. Hornblower v. George Washington University (31 App. D. C. 64, 14 Ann. Cas. 696).

DISTINGUISHED FROM COMMON LAW

Set-off did not exist at common law and is entirely founded upon statutory regulation and it is carefully to be distinguished from recoupment, which is a right existing at common law, and which arises when there are counterclaims accruing upon the same general contract. Durant v. Murdock (3 App. D. C. 114).

IN EQUITY

In equity suit against a contractor to enforce mechanics' lien for materials furnished, a recoupment or set-off will not be allowed against claim of complainant, of penalty by reason of failure to finish building on time, as complainant was not privy to the contract. Carver v. Hall (3 App. D. C. 170).

A creditor, having unliquidated demands against another not reduced to judgment, may set them off in equity against a judgment recovered against him by that other person, if there has been no opportunity to set them off in the suit which led to the judgment, and if the person who holds the judgment is insolvent. Fedarwisch v. Alsop (18 App. D. C. 318).

Cross-demands and counterclaims, whether arising out of the same or wholly disconnected transactions, and whether liquidated or unliquidated, may be enforced by way of set-off whenever the circumstances are such as to warrant the interference of equity to prevent wrong and injustice. Fitzgerald v. Wiley (22 App. D. C. 329).

Damages, to be recouped in equity proceeding, by a cross-bill, as to foreclose of mortgage on patents to be granted against person interested in mortgage debt, as result of negligence on the part of such person, a patent attorney, in not notifying mortgagor whereby patent lapsed and sale was prevented, must be limited to interest person has in original bill. Fitzgerald v. Wiley (22 App. D. C. 329).

PLEADING

Plea of set-off "must state facts which not only bring it within the privilege of set-off, but would also constitute a good cause of action if the party pleading were the plaintiff in the prosecution of a suit therefor. And while the technical formality and accuracy of a declaration may not be required, the plea must, nevertheless, inform the plaintiff, with reasonable certainty, of the particulars of the demand which he is called upon to defend." McGuire v. Gerstley (26 App. D. C. 193, affd. 204 U. S. 489, 51 L. Ed. 581, 27 Sup. Ct. 332).

Set-off must be specially pleaded. Simmons v. Jaselli (38 App. D. C. 242). See also Knight v. W. T. Walker Brick Co. (23 App. D. C. 519).

REPLEVIN

In replevin action, after default on conditional sales contract, the right of defaulting buyer for breach of contract may be set off. Marks v. Frigidaire Sales Corp. (60 App. D. C. 359, 54 Fed. (2d) 974).

The plea of set-off may be as follows: That the plaintiff, at the commencement of the suit, was, and still is, indebted to the defendant in the sum of ——— dollars, for that, and so forth, as appears by the particulars of said indebtedness hereunto annexed; and defendant is willing that the same may be set off against the plaintiff's demand. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1564.)

§ 16-1903 [24: 413]. Set-off deemed an action by defendant—Plaintiff may not dismiss—Procedure—Jurisdiction—Municipal Court.

A defendant who files a plea of set-off, founded on a claim against the plaintiff, shall be deemed to have brought an action at the time of filing such plea against the plaintiff for the matters mentioned in the plea; but it shall not be necessary that the amount of the claim so sought to be set off shall be such that the court would have jurisdiction of an original action to recover the same; and the plaintiff shall not thereafter be allowed to dismiss his suit without the consent of the defendant, but the defendant shall be entitled to a trial of and judgment upon his claim, but the same shall be open to the same defenses to which it would be open in an action brought by him thereon; and on the trial of an issue on said plea of set-off judgment shall be rendered for the balance found due, whether to the plaintiff or to the defendant, with costs: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to enlarge the jurisdiction of the municipal court so as to authorize any judgment by such court in excess of one thousand dollars exclusive of interest and costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1565; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The 1921 act changed the jurisdiction from the "justice of the peace" court to the municipal court.

CROSS REFERENCE

When cross-demands have existed between persons under such circumstances that if one had brought an action against the other a counterclaim or set-off could have been pleaded, neither can be deprived of the benefit thereof by an assignment by the other; but in an action by the assignee of any nonnegotiable debt the defendant may set off any indebtedness to him of the assignor, existing before notice of the assignment, as well as any indebtedness to him of the plaintiff. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1566.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NO APPLICATION TO NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

"Taking this section as a whole, it is resolved into the statement that in an action by the assignee of any non-negotiable debt, the defendant may set off any indebtedness to him of the assignor. The terms used are wholly inapplicable to negotiable instruments. According to accurate legal terminology, the person who transfers a promissory note is not called an assignor, but an indorser; the person to whom it is transferred is not designated the assignee, but the indorsee; and the use of the words 'nonnegotiable debt,' as meaning a negotiable promissory note would be a startling neologism." Lincoln v. Grant (47 App. D. C. 475).

If the defendant's plea of set-off covers or applies to only part of the plaintiff's demand judgment may be forthwith rendered for the part not controverted and the costs accrued until the filing of the plea, and the case shall be proceeded with for the residue as if the part for which judgment was rendered had not been included therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1567.)

In an action against principal and sureties an indebtedness of the plaintiff to the principal may be set off as if he were the sole defendant, and in such case, if the indebtedness so set off shall exceed the plaintiff's demand, the judgment for the excess shall be in favor of the defendant, who is sued as principal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1568.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUFFICIENCY OF FACTS

Plea that plaintiffs attempted to destroy defendants' business by persuading one partner to dissolve the partnership held not to set up facts sufficient to constitute a valid set-off, recoupment, or cause of action. McGuire v. Gerstley (204 U. S. 489, 51 L. Ed. 581, 27 Sup. Ct. 332, affg. 26 App. D. C. 193).

If the plaintiff is trustee for another, or has no actual interest in the contract on which the action is founded, a demand against the plaintiff shall not be pleaded by way of set-off, but a demand against the person whom he represents or for whose benefit the action is brought may be pleaded. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1569.)

In an action against an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, the defendant may plead, by way of set-off, a demand belonging to the decedent where he would have been entitled to rely upon the same in an action against him, and in an action brought by an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, a demand against the decedent, belonging at the time of his death to the defendant, may be pleaded by way of set-off, as if the action had been brought by the decedent in his lifetime. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1423, ch. 854, § 1570.)

Where reciprocal claims between different parties have passed into judgments the court may, on motion, in its discretion, order that the judgments shall be set off against each other and satisfaction of both be entered to the amount of the smaller claim. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1424, ch. 854, § 1571.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AUTHORITY DISCRETIONARY

Where attorney was to be paid out of a judgment, his interest is in the nature of an equitable lien and the court ought not to exercise its discretionary authority and allow another judgment to be set off against it when the effect would be to absorb the fund out of which appellees are entitled to be paid. Continental Casualty Co. v. Kelly (70 App. D. C. 320, 106 Fed. (2d) 841).

When the surety, or his personal representatives, of any officer, commissioner, receiver, or trustee appointed under a decree of court and required to give bond shall apprehend himself to be in danger of suffering from the suretyship and shall petition the court to be relieved from the suretyship, or that the court shall require said officer, commissioner, receiver, or trustee to give counter security, the court may, on reasonable notice to the trustee or other officer, require him to give counter security or to give a new bond in the same manner as if none had been given by him, and on his failure so to do by a day named may remove him from his office or trust and appoint a new trustee or other officer in his stead to complete the duties of his office or trust, and may thereupon order him to deliver over to his successor all the trust property, including moneys, books, papers, bonds, notes, and evidences of debt, and may compel compliance with said order by attachment. Where any person shall recover a judgment or money decree against the principal debtor and a surety or indorser, and the judgment shall be satisfied by the surety or indorser, the latter shall be entitled to have the judgment or money decree entered by the clerk to his use and to have execution in his own name against the principal, and where any judgment or money decree shall be rendered against several sureties and one of them shall satisfy the whole debt, the said surety shall be entitled to have the judgment or decree entered to his use, as aforesaid, and to have execution against each of the other sureties in the judgment or decree for a proportionate part of the debt so paid by him; and on the motion of said surety so paying the entire debt and notice to the other sureties the court may determine for what amount execution shall issue against each of the other sureties. TITLE 17.—REVIEW

Chap.	Sec.
1. Jurisdiction and method.....	17-101

Chapter 1.—JURISDICTION AND METHOD

Sec.
17-101.	District Court and Court of Appeals.
17-102.	Court of Appeals—Appeals from interlocutory orders in criminal case prohibited.
17-103.	Appeals from police court—Discretionary writ of error.
17-104.	Appeals from municipal court—Discretionary writ of error.
17-105.	Appeals from juvenile court—Discretionary writ of error.

Any party aggrieved by any final order, judgment, or decree of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or of any justice thereof, may appeal therefrom to the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia; and upon such appeal the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall review such order, judgment, or decree, and affirm, reverse, or modify the same as shall be just, except as provided in the following sections. Appeals shall also be allowed to said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia from all interlocutory orders of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or by any justice thereof, whereby the possession of property is changed or affected, such as orders for the appointment of receivers, granting injunctions, dissolving writs of attachment, and the like; and also from any other interlocutory order, in the discretion of the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, whenever it is made to appear to said court upon petition that it will be in the interest of justice to allow such appeal. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 435, ch. 74, § 7; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1225, ch. 854, § 226; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 12.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The Code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189-1436, ch. 854, §§ 1 to 1642, was the last official code of the District and was original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of that code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 Code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

AMENDMENT

The act of 1921 deleted the words "including any final order or judgment in any case heard on appeal from a justice of the peace," following the words, "or any justice thereof."

STATUTORY REFERENCE

Post office authorities requiring transmission of publication by freight.—Whenever the owner of any publication required by an order of the Post Office Department to be transmitted by freight believes that he is unfairly discriminated against, he may apply to the Post Office Department for an opportunity to be heard; that upon such application being duly filed in writing, the owner of such publication shall have opportunity for a full and fair hearing before said department, and pending final determination no change shall be made in the method of transportation of such publication as ordered by the Department. The testimony in any such hearing or proceedings shall be reduced to writing and filed in the Post Office Department prior to entering an order upon such hearing. That upon such hearing if the Post Office Department decides adversely to the contention of the publisher, such publisher shall have the right, within the period of twenty days after the date of the order of the Post Office Department made upon such hearing, to appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, for a review of such order by said court of appeals, by filing in the court a written petition praying that the order of the Post Office Department be set aside. A copy of such petition shall be forthwith served upon the Post Office Department and thereupon the said Department forthwith shall certify and file in the court a transcript of the record and testimony. Upon the filing of such transcript the court shall have jurisdiction to affirm, set aside, or modify the order of the Department.

The jurisdiction of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to affirm, set aside, or modify such orders of the Post Office Department shall be exclusive.

Such proceedings in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall be given precedence over other cases pending therein and shall be in every way expedited. (July 28, 1916, 39 Stat. 424, ch. 261, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Since this act, Supreme Court of United States could not review judgments and decrees of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. In re Massachusetts (197 U. S. 482, 49 L. Ed. 845, 25 Sup. Ct. 512).

It was too late to assert a new and additional ground when case in ejectment came before the District Court and consequently it cannot then be alleged that a forfeiture resulted by reason of the tenant's allowing the attachment to be issued and levied. Davis v. Taylor (51 App. D. C. 97, 276 Fed. 619).

Jurisdiction is appellate and not original. Hartman v. Masters (57 App. D. C. 196, 19 Fed. (2d) 670).

ADOPTION PROCEEDINGS

The aggrieved party may appeal from a final order of the District Court in an adoption proceeding. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

ANTITRUST ACT

When the Supreme Court of the United States had settled that by reason of the Expediting Act the Court of Appeals was without jurisdiction of an appeal in a suit in equity under the Antitrust Act and that a consent decree was valid, the Court of Appeals, in refusing to vacate its judgment and mandate departed from the limits of admissible discretion. United States v. California Co-op. Canneries (279 U. S. 553, 73 L. Ed. 838, 49 Sup. Ct. 423).

APPEALABLE INTEREST

"It is a condition precedent to the right of appeal that the appellant must show that he is directly aggrieved by the order appealed from." Barksdale v. Morgan (34 App. D. C. 549).

Executor cannot appeal from an order made in equity cause sustaining an exception to auditor's report allowing claim of an attorney for professional fee in acting for executor, under probate court order authorizing the executor to employ counsel, for such executor has no interest in the claim. Barksdale v. Morgan (34 App. D. C. 549).

Appellate Court will not review a case where the appellants are not aggrieved by the order made in their favor. Dieterich v. Dieterich (48 App. D. C. 356).

APPEAL FROM JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

The controversy in respect of appeals to the Court of Appeals in the Supreme Court of the District in cases appealed from justices of the peace, raised under 1901 Code, §§ 82 and 226 (§ 17-101), was not only disposed of by the Court of Appeals in Groff v. Miller (30 W. L. R. 434), but determined by the repeal of § 82 by the act of June 30, 1902. In re Key (189 U. S. 84, 47 L. Ed. 720, 23 Sup. Ct. 624).

APPEAL IN FORMA PAUPERIS

Practice of the courts of appellate jurisdiction in allowing appeals or writs of error to be brought by defendants in criminal cases in forma pauperis, upon proof of inability to pay costs and fees, furnishes no authority or precedent for allowing the privilege to a plaintiff in a civil action. Ex parte Harlow (3 App. D. C. 203); but see U. S. Code, title 28, § 832).

Wife who prosecuted in forma pauperis an appeal from a decree granting husband a divorce a vinculo and moves to have him pay alimony pending appeal, such motion was denied for the application was made to the court after rendition of the decree appealed from, and the transcript having been filed the lower court lost jurisdiction. McLarren v. McLarren (44 App. D. C. 555).

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER

After appointment of receiver an order directing that certain property covered by original order shall be delivered to him is supplemental only and not appealable. Mearns v. Sullivan (49 App. D. C. 179, 262 Fed. 633).

Appeal from order of Supreme Court of District appointing receiver, was one of right and not dependent upon an order of allowance by court of appeals. Vernon v. Provident Relief Assn. (57 App. D. C. 236, 19 Fed. (2d) 710).

On appeal under this section, interlocutory decree of District Court, appointing receiver for a grocery business was reversed, evidence failing to sustain plaintiff's claim of a partnership interest therein. Chaparas v. Kountakis (59 App. D. C. 367, 42 Fed. (2d) 351).

BANKRUPTCY CASES

No appellate jurisdiction over the District Court of the District sitting as a Court of Bankruptcy. Sullivan v. Goldman (38 App. D. C. 319, cert. den. 225 U. S. 701, 56 L. Ed. 1264, 32 Sup. Ct. 835).

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

"There is no power in this court, by certiorari or otherwise, to correct the imperfections or misstatements that are alleged to exist in the bill of exceptions taken and certified to this court." Kelly v. Moore (22 App. D. C. 1).

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS

Court has jurisdiction to hear appeals in a proceeding to take land by condemnation and determine the compensation to be made for it. Winslow v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (28 App. D. C. 126, affd. 208 U. S. 59, 52 L. Ed. 388, 28 Sup. Ct. 190). See also Seufferle v. Macfarland (28 App. D. C. 94).

CONTEMPT CASES

A punitive sentence appropriate only to a proceeding at law for criminal contempt where the contempt consisted in doing that which had been prohibited by an injunction could not properly be imposed in contempt proceedings which were instituted, entitled, tried, and, up to the moment of sentence, treated as a part of the original cause in equity. Gompers v. Buck's Stove & Range Co. (221 U. S. 418, 55 L. Ed. 797, 31 Sup. Ct. 492, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 874, revg. 33 App. D. C. 516).

An appeal did not lie, nor did a writ of error, but a writ of certiorari was granted from a judgment of the District Court of the District of Columbia in a proceeding for an alleged criminal contempt of an injunction. Gompers v. United States (233 U. S. 604, 58 L. Ed. 1115, 34 Sup. Ct. 693, revg. 40 App. D. C. 293).

An alleged criminal contempt of an injunction is within the meaning of U. S. C., title 18, § 582, which provides for three-year limitation for criminal prosecution. Gompers v. United States (233 U. S. 604, 58 L. Ed. 1115, 34 Sup. Ct. 693, revg. 40 App. D. C. 293).

Appeal lies from order finding defendant guilty of criminal contempt. Pierce v. United States (37 App. D. C. 582, cert. den. 223 U. S. 732, 56 L. Ed. 634, 32 Sup. Ct. 528).

Order adjudging one in contempt for failure to deliver property to receivers was not a final order. Mearns v. Sullivan (49 App. D. C. 179, 262 Fed. 633).

DIVORCE PROCEEDING

Trial court can grant an order requiring husband to pay attorney fees and costs of printing brief only until the transcript is lodged in the Appellate Court. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff (26 App. D. C. 228).

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ORDERS

Congress, in making its provision for the use of the Circuit Courts of Appeals, in reviewing the Federal Trade Commission's orders, intended to include within that description the Court of Appeals of the District as the appellate tribunal to be charged with the same duty in the District. Federal Trade Comm. v. Klesner (274 U. S. 145, 71 L. Ed. 972, 47 Sup. Ct. 557).

FINAL DECREE

Final order of dismissal as to one count of a declaration is not appealable, where the disposition of the subject-matter depends upon the issues made by and under the remaining counts. Commercial Bank v. Consumers Brew. Co. (16 App. D. C. 186).

"An order for the payment of alimony pendente lite, although merely an incident in all these proceedings, is in effect a final order" and therefore appealable as of right. Lesh v. Lesh (21 App. D. C. 475), citing Alexander v. Alexander (13 App. D. C. 334). See also Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

Order of justice of peace quashing attachment is not appealable, while the action remains undisposed of. United States ex rel. Robertson v. Barnard (24 App. D. C. 8).

Order dismissing defendant in criminal case from the indictment without day is final and therefore appealable. United States v. Cadaar (24 App. D. C. 143, revd. on other grounds 197 U. S. 475, 49 L. Ed. 842, 25 Sup. Ct. 487).

"A decree may be final in the sense that it may be appealed from, though not final in the strict technical sense of the term. If it dispose of all questions within the pleadings, and nothing remains but to adjust an account between the parties in the execution of the decree, it is final. But if the reference is for a judicial purpose, as to state an account between the parties, upon which a further decree is to be entered, it is not final." King v. Harrington (35 App. D. C. 111), citing Gilbert v. Washington Beneficial Endowment Assn. (10 App. D. C. 316), Metzger v. Kelly (34 App. D. C. 548).

Decree holding certain defendants liable and ordering reference, held not final and appealable. United States ex rel. Philips v. Bailey (57 App. D. C. 287, 22 Fed. (2d) 715).

Order removing administrator is a final appealable order. Perry v. Wilson (60 App. D. C. 109, 48 Fed. (2d) 1021).

HABEAS CORPUS

Provisions of the United States Code are not required to give this court jurisdiction on appeal in habeas corpus cases. That jurisdiction was conferred by the statute which created Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Costello v. Palmer (20 App. D. C. 210).

An order dismissing petition for a writ of habeas corpus by one in custody of United States marshal under a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum issued in a proceeding under §§ 794 and 795, R. S. D. C., was a final order and appealable to Court of Appeals where the habeas corpus proceeding was an independent suit, growing out of preceding cause, but having no necessary dependence or connection therewith. Costello v. Palmer (20 App. D. C. 210).

Appeal will lie from order awarding custody of child on habeas corpus. Nuckols v. Nuckols (38 App. D. C. 441), citing Goldsmith v. Valentine (35 App. D. C. 299).

HARMLESS ERROR

When law action was tried by consent without a jury, except for the paper required to consent to waive jury and as the defect is not jurisdictional and is not assigned for error or otherwise complained of, it may be disregarded. Equitable Trust Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. ((C. C. A. 2), 250 Fed. 327, cert. den. 246 U. S. 672, 62 L. Ed. 932, 38 Sup. Ct. 423).

INJUNCTIONS

Only such interlocutory orders granting injunctions "as affirmatively changed or affected possession of property" are appealable as matter of right. McCaul Co. v. Harr (51 App. D. C. 111, 276 Fed. 633), citing United States Elec. Lighting Co. v. Metropolitan Club (6 App. D. C. 536); Macfarland v. Washington, A. & Mt. V. R. Co. (18 App. D. C. 456); and Hayes v. Conger (36 App. D. C. 202); Trans-Atlantic Trust Co. v. Pagenstecher (53 App. D. C. 42, 287 Fed. 1019).

Appeal from decree of District Court granting a temporary injunction was premature. Mellon v. Mertz (58 App. D. C. 302, 30 Fed. (2d) 311).

Preliminary injunction restraining picketing is not appealable. New Negro Alliance v. Harry Kaufman (64 App. D. C. 362, 78 Fed. (2d) 415).

INTERLOCUTORY DECREES

Court of Appeals may review interlocutory orders of the District Court, as well as final judgments; but it is unnecessary to say that if the judgment reviewed was interlocutory, so is the judgment affirming it. Hartranft v. Mullowny (247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, 38 Sup. Ct. 518).

Neither an order overruling motion to vacate order of publication nor a decree pro confesso is appealable. Chappell v. O'Brien (22 App. D. C. 190).

Special appeal from interlocutory order allowed when it appeared that the trial of the issues framed would result in vexatious delay and costs to no purpose, should it be afterwards determined that trial court was without jurisdiction. Healey v. Maroney (34 App. D. C. 99).

This section requires a final order, or such an interlocutory order as is contemplated by the statute conferring general appellate jurisdiction. Mearns v. Sullivan (49 App. D. C. 179, 262 Fed. 633).

When order is interlocutory merely, no appeal lies as a matter of right, but may be filed by special leave of court. Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 239, 270 Fed. 361, 14 A. L. R. 769); Sykes v. Jenny Wren Co. (64 App. D. C. 379, 78 Fed. (2d) 729, 104 A. L. R. 864).

Appeal from interlocutory decree not changing possession of property is premature. Mellon v. Mertz (58 App. D. C. 302, 30 Fed. (2d) 311).

Decree referring sale of goods under chattel mortgage to auditor for final accounting, interlocutory order and not appealable. Fidelity Storage Co. v. Jaques (61 App. D. C. 337, 62 Fed. (2d) 876, cert. den. 289 U. S. 733, 77 L. Ed. 1481, 53 Sup. Ct. 594).

An interlocutory order that adjudicates no legal rights, but preserves the status quo is not appealable. Dunning v. Harrah (65 App. D. C. 92, 80 Fed. (2d) 535).

United States Court of Appeals may allow appeals from interlocutory orders of the District Court, but not from interlocutory orders of the Municipal Court. Serkowich v. Wardell (69 App. D. C. 389, 102 Fed. (2d) 253).

MANDAMUS

Use of mandamus to compelling entry of judgment according to mandate of Court of Appeals. Ex parte Mansfield (11 App. D. C. 558). See also Hartman v. Masters (46 App. D. C. 271).

PROBATE COURT

Order of Probate Court directing that a petition shall stand as a caveat is not appealable. Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

Appeal will not lie from order of Probate Court framing issues on caveat to will. Hutchins v. Hutchins (40 App. D. C. 180), distinguishing National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Sweeny (3 App. D. C. 401); Dugan v. Northcutt (7 App. D. C. 351); National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Heiberger (19 App. D. C. 506).

SCOPE OF REVIEW

Ordinarily the scope of review of the decree of the District Court would be limited to the assignments of error but as the decree was entered under a mandate of the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court would have jurisdiction to consider on its own motion whether its mandate has been complied with. Continental Ins. Co. v. Reading Co. (259 U. S. 156, 66 L. Ed. 871, 42 Sup. Ct. 540).

TRADE-MARKS

Both the applicant for cancelation of trade-mark and the registrant opposing it are given the right of appeal to the Court of Appeals for the District. United States ex rel. Baldwin v. Robertson (265 U. S. 168, 68 L. Ed. 962, 44 Sup. Ct. 508).

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT

Alien property custodian and treasurer could appeal from a judgment of the District Court in an action under § 9 of the Trading With the Enemy Act. United States v. Securities Corp. General (55 App. D. C. 256, 4 Fed. (2d) 619).

WRITS OF PROHIBITION

When exercise of power is unlawful and there is no other adequate remedy, the Appellate Court will order the writ of prohibition to issue to prohibit further proceedings in the court below. In re Macfarland (30 App. D. C. 365), app. dism. (215 U. S. 614, 54 L. Ed. 349, 50 Sup. Ct. 402).

A writ of prohibition will not lie to prohibit collection of judgment of Municipal Court on an undertaking to stay execution, although such judgment was for more than $1,000. Bailey v. Walker (55 App. D. C. 74, 2 Fed. (2d) 123).

Nothing contained in any Act of Congress shall be construed to empower the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to allow an appeal from any interlocutory order entered in any criminal action or proceeding or to entertain any such appeal heretofore or hereafter allowed or taken. (July 3, 1926, 44 Stat. 831, ch. 755.)

STATUTORY REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEALS FROM MUNICIPAL COURT

United States Court of Appeals for the District may allow appeals from interlocutory orders of the District, but not from interlocutory orders of the Municipal Court. Serkowich v. Wardells (69 App. D. C. 389, 102 Fed. (2d) 253).

If, upon the trial of any cause in the police court, an exception be taken by or on behalf of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any defendant to any ruling or instruction of the court, upon matter of law, the same shall be reduced to writing and stated in a bill of exceptions, with so much of the evidence as may be material to the question or questions raised, which said bill of exceptions shall be settled and signed by the judge within such time as may be prescribed by rules and regulations which shall be made by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for the transaction of business to be brought before it under this section, and for the time and method of the entry of appeals and for giving notice of writs of error thereto from the police court of the District of Columbia; and if, upon presentation to any justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia of a petition which, in the case of a defendant, shall be verified, setting forth the matter or matters so excepted to, such justice shall be of opinion that the same ought to be reviewed, he may allow a writ of error in the cause, which shall issue out of the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, addressed to the judge of the police court, who shall forthwith send up the information filed in the cause and a transcript of the record therein, certified under the seal of said court, to said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for review and such action as the law may require, which record shall be filed in said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia within such time as may be prescribed by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, as hereinbefore provided. Any party desiring the benefit of the provisions of this section shall give notice in open court of his or its intention to apply for a writ of error upon such exceptions and thereupon proceedings therein shall be stayed for ten days: Provided, That the defendant seeking an appeal shall then and there enter into recognizance, with sufficient surety to be approved by the judge of the police court, conditioned that in the event of a denial of his application for a writ of error he will, within five days next after the expiration of said ten days appear in said police court and abide by and perform its judgment, and that in the event of the granting of such writ of error he will appear in said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and prosecute the writ of error and abide by and perform its judgment in the premises. Upon failure of any defendant to enter into the recognizance provided for in this section the sentence of the police court shall stand and be executed; otherwise execution shall be stayed pending proceedings upon his application for a writ of error and until final disposition thereof by the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 2, 1897, 29 Stat. 607, ch. 360; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1225, ch. 854, § 227.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Appellate Court ought not to entertain affidavits contradicting or explaining the recitals in the record certified from the police court. "The certified record imports verity." Talty v. District of Columbia (20 App. D. C. 489).

Upon the perfecting of an appeal the court below was ousted of its jurisdiction. Pringle v. Superintendent of Washington Asylum & Jail (55 App. D. C. 99, 2 Fed. (2d) 317).

CERTIORARI

Court of Appeals refused to issue certiorari to review a refusal of a justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia to allow a writ of error to the police court of the District, as, under U. S. C., title 28, § 347, it had no jurisdiction. Ferguson v. District of Columbia (270 U. S. 633, 70 L. Ed. 771, 46 Sup. Ct. 355).

All the power that the Appellate Court can exercise over convictions in the police court is strictly of an appellate character, by writ of error, when questions arising in the course of the trial are regularly presented and reserved by bill of exceptions and not by original common-law writ of certiorari. Sullivan v. District of Columbia (19 App. D. C. 210).

FINAL ORDER

Order of police court denying return of liquor seized under a warrant which was later dismissed was a final order. Dickhart v. United States (57 App. D. C. 5, 16 Fed. (2d) 345).

INTERVENER

Party permitted to intervene in original proceedings in police court became a party to the proceeding and was entitled to carry appeal to court of appeals. Automobile Brokerage Corp. v. United States (59 App. D. C. 243, 39 Fed. (2d) 288).

NOTICE OF WRITS OF ERROR

"The proper time to give notice of intention to apply to this court for a writ of error in these cases tried in the police court is when the first exception is taken. * * * But it will not be necessary to repeat the notice with every exception that is taken." Tubins v. District of Columbia (21 App. D. C. 267).

RIGHT OF APPEAL

At common law there was no review of criminal cases as of right. District of Columbia v. Clawans (300 U. S. 617, 81 L. Ed. 843, 57 Sup. Ct. 660), affg. (66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

Due process does not comprehend the right of appeal. District of Columbia v. Clawans (300 U. S. 617, 81 L. Ed. 843, 57 Sup. Ct. 660, affg. 66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

Fact that party is not entitled to an appeal as matter of right is not to be considered in determining whether one charged with a petty offense is entitled to a trial by jury. District of Columbia v. Clawans (300 U. S. 617, 81 L. Ed. 843, 57 Sup. Ct. 660, affg. 66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

WRITS OF ERROR

Writ of error will not lie to review order denying motion to quash an information. Capital Trac. Co. v. United States (34 App. D. C. 591).

Writs of error to the police court are not granted to review formal defects in pleading merely. Jefferson v. District of Columbia (40 App. D. C. 381).

Any party aggrieved by any final judgment of the municipal court may seek a review thereof by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia by petition under oath setting forth concisely but clearly and distinctly the nature of the proceeding in said court, the trial and judgment therein, and the particular ruling or instruction upon matter of law to which exception has been taken, said petition to be presented to any justice of the said Court of Appeals within ten days after the entry of such judgment and with such notice to the opposite party as may be required by rules of said Court of Appeals. If the justice shall be of opinion that such judgment ought to be reviewed a writ of error shall be issued from the said Court of Appeals to the Municipal Court which shall send to the said Court of Appeals, within such time as may be prescribed by that court, a transcript of the record in the case sought to be reviewed; and the said Court of Appeals shall review said record and affirm, reverse, or modify the judgment in accordance with law. Execution of such judgment shall be stayed if the party seeking the review shall within twenty days after the entry of the judgment file in the clerk's office of the Municipal Court an undertaking with surety and penal amount approved by a judge of the court, to abide by and pay the judgment and the costs of the review if such judgment shall not be reversed; and, when the defendant in an action to recover possession of real estate seeks such review, the undertaking shall also provide for the payment of all intervening damages to the property sought to be recovered and compensation for its use and occupation from the date of the judgment to the date of the satisfaction thereof if the judgment is not reversed; and in all such undertakings the principal and surety shall submit to the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court and consent to the entry of judgment against them in that court in respect of their undertaking. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Findings may not be challenged on appeal, evidence having been introduced after motion for favorable findings. Breuninger v. Lightbown (60 App. D. C. 297, 53 Fed. (2d) 551).

By the 1921 act, appeals from the Municipal Court to the Supreme Court were abolished, the authority to issue the statutory writ of certiorari denied, and review by the Court of Appeals through writ of error provided. United States ex rel. Eure v. Borden (65 App. D. C. 84, 80 Fed. (2d) 527).

COST BOND

Cost bond should not be required for writ of error to municipal court. George v. Capital Trac. Co. (54 App. D. C. 144, 295 Fed. 965).

PARTY AGGRIEVED

Administrator may appeal as a "party aggrieved." Webb v. Lohnes (68 App. D. C. 310, 96 Fed. (2d) 582).

If, upon the trial of any cause in the juvenile court, an exception be taken by or on behalf of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any defendant, to any ruling or instruction of the court upon matter of law, the same shall be reduced to writing and stated in a bill of exceptions, with so much of the evidence as may be material to the question or questions raised, which said bill of exceptions shall be settled and signed by the judge within such time as may be prescribed by rules and regulations which shall be made by the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for the transaction of business to be brought before it under this section, and for the time and method for the entry of appeals and for giving notice of writs of error thereto from the said juvenile court; and if upon presentation to any justice of the said Court of Appeals of a petition which, in the case of a defendant, shall be verified, setting forth the matter or matters so excepted to, such justice shall be of opinion that the same ought to be reviewed, he may allow a writ of error in the cause, which shall issue out of the said Court of Appeals addressed to the said juvenile court, which shall forthwith send up the information filed in the cause and a transcript of the record therein, certified under the seal of his said court, to said Court of Appeals for review and such action as the law may require, which record shall be filed in said Court of Appeals within such time as may be prescribed by the Court of Appeals as hereinbefore provided. Any party desiring the benefit of the provisions of this section shall give notice in open court of his, her, or its intention to apply for a writ of error upon such exceptions, and thereupon proceedings therein shall be stayed for ten days: Provided, That the defendant seeking an appeal shall there and then enter into recognizance, with sufficient surety, to be approved by the judge of the juvenile court, conditioned that in the event of a denial of his application for a writ of error he will, within five days next after the expiration of said ten days, appear in said juvenile court and abide by and perform its judgment, and that in the event of the granting of such writ of error he will appear in said Court of Appeals and prosecute the writ of error and abide by and perform its judgment in the premises. Upon failure of any defendant to enter into the recognizance provided for in this section the sentence of the juvenile court shall stand and be executed; otherwise execution shall be stayed pending proceedings upon his or her application for a writ of error and until final disposition thereof by the said Court of Appeals. (Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 77, ch. 960, § 22.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ANCESTRAL PROPERTY

EVIDENCE

To establish pedigree there must be some competent evidence of relationship between himself and declarants. Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122).

A widow shall be entitled to dower in lands held by equitable as well as legal title in the husband at any time during the coverture, whether held by him at the time of his death or not, but such right of dower shall not operate to the prejudice of any claim for the purchase money of such lands or other lien on the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1158.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Appellant was entitled to a decree declaring a deed of trust to be without legal effect or operation to bar her of her right to dower in the premises therein mentioned and described; and her right and title to dower should, in all respects, be and remain as if said appellant had never joined in said deed; and she was entitled to an assignment of dower, and to an account for rents and profits for the time they have been wrongfully withheld from her. Follansbee v. Follansbee (1 App. D. C. 326).

When dower was not specifically assigned, the widow of the former owner and mother of the children would not be a proper party. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Taylor (6 App. D. C. 259).

Inchoate right of dower could not be broader than the estate of the husband upon which it depended. Sis v. Boarman (11 App. D. C. 116).

A widow being in possession of the only piece of property in which her dower could be assigned, her right thereto ought to confer upon her such continuing right of possession as to bar ejectment by the heirs at law, whose duty it was to make the proper assignment. Wilkes v. Wilkes (18 App. D. C. 90).

COMMON LAW RULE

At common law the wife had no dower in an equity of redemption. Follansbee v. Follansbee (1 App. D. C. 326).

The common law rule that a widow is not entitled to dower in lands to which the husband has a remainder in fee if the remainderman predecease the life tenant is not modified by 1901 Code, § 1158 (this section). Talty v. Talty (40 App. D. C. 587).

"Prior to 1896, there was no statute giving a wife dower in the equitable estate of her husband, and she was not entitled to any under the common law." Wag-gaman v. Dulany (48 App. D. C. 14).

EQUITABLE LIEN

Equitable lien held superior to dower right. Wag-gaman v. Dulany (48 App. D. C. 14), distinguishing Berl v. Dulany (42 App. D. C. 121).

REFUSAL TO RELEASE DOWER

Equity would not at instance of vendee decree specific performance of a contract for the sale of land when the wife of the vendor refused to relinquish her right of dower to the vendor. Barbour v. Hickey (2 App. D. C. 207, 24 L. R. A. 763).

Where wife of vendor is entitled to dower in the lands, conveyance of good title can not be made without her consent, and where she refuses to release her dower, equity will not enforce specific performance of husband's contract to sell. Reilly v. Cullinane (53 App. D. C. 17, 287 Fed. 994).

If a wife willingly leave her husband, and go away, and continue with her advouterer, she shall be barred forever of action to demand her dower, that she ought to have of her husband's lands, if she be convict thereupon, except that her husband willingly, and without coercion reconcile her, and suffer her to dwell with him; in which case she shall be restored to her action. (13 Edw. I, ch. 34, § 4, 1285; Kilty's Rept., p. 213; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 138; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 36, § 165.)

Where any married woman is a lunatic or insane, and has been so found upon inquisition, and the said finding remains in force, or where any married woman has been absent or unheard of for seven years, the husband of such lunatic or insane or absent person may grant and convey by his separate deed, whether the same be absolute or by way of lease or mortgage, as fully as if he were unmarried, any real estate which he may have acquired since the finding of such inquisition or since the beginning of such absence. given and assured after marriage, for term of her life, or otherwise in jointer, and the said wife after that fortune to overlive her said husband, in whose time the said jointer was made or assured unto her, that then the same wife so overliving shall and may at her liberty, after the death of her said husband, refuse to have and take the lands and tenements so to her given, appointed, or assured during the coverture, for term of her life, or otherwise in jointer, and thereupon to have, ask, demand, and take her dower by writ of dower, or otherwise, according to the common law, of and in all such lands, tenements, and hereditaments as her husband was and stood seized of any state of inheritance at any time during the coverture. (27 Henry 8, ch. 10, § 9, 1535; Kilty's Rept., p. 231; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 297; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 40, § 175.)

Whereas divers persons have purchased, or have estate made and conveyed of and in divers lands, tenements, and hereditaments unto them and to their wives, and to the heirs of the husband, or to the husband, and to the wife, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, or to the heirs of one of their bodies begotten, or to the husband, and to the wife for term of their lives, or for term of life of the said wife; or where any such estate, or purchase of any lands, tenements, hereditaments, hath been, or hereafter shall be made to any husband, and to his wife, in manner and form above expressed, or to any other person or persons, and to their heirs and assigns, to the use and behoof of the said husband and wife, or to the use of the wife, as is before rehearsed, for the jointer of the wife; that then in every such case, every woman married, having such jointer made, or hereafter to be made, shall not claim, nor have title to have any dower of the residue of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, that at any time were her said husbands, by whom she hath any such jointer, nor shall demand nor claim her dower of and against them that have the lands and inheritances of her said husband; but if she have no such jointer, then she shall be admitted and enabled to pursue, have, and demand her dower by writ of dower, after the due course and order of the common laws. (27 Henry 8, ch. 10, § 6, 1535; Kilty's Rept., p. 231; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 296; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 39, § 173.)

§ 18-207 [14: 34]. Dower not to be defeated by default or fraudulent judgment against husband—Fraudulent assignment by guardian of heir.

In case where the husband, being impleaded for land, giveth up the land demanded unto his adversary by covin; after the death of the husband, the justices shall award the wife her dower, if it be demanded. In case the husband loseth the land by default, if the wife, after the death of her husband, demandeth her dower, and if it be alledged, that her husband lost the land, by judgment, and it be found that it was by default, the tenant must answer; then it behoveth the tenant to answer further, and to shew that he had right, and hath in the aforesaid land, according to the form of the writ that the tenant before purchased against the husband. And if he can shew that the husband of such wife had no right in the lands, nor any other but he that holdeth them, the tenant shall go quit, and the wife shall recover nothing of her dower; which thing if he can not shew, the wife shall recover her dower. Where it chanceth that a woman not having right to demand dower, the heir being within age, doth purchase a writ of dower against a gardian, and the gardian endoweth the woman by favour, or maketh default, or by collusion defendeth the plea so faintly, whereby the woman is awarded her dower in prejudice of the heir; it is provided, that the heir, when he cometh to full age, shall have an action to demand the seisin of his ancestor against such a woman, like as he should have against any other deforceor; yet so, that the woman shall have her exception saved against the demandant, to shew that she had right to her dower, which if she can shew, she shall go quit and retain her dower, and the heir shall be grievously amerced, according to the discretion of the justices; and if not, the heir shall recover his demand, &c. In like manner the woman shall be aided, if the heir or any other do implead her for her dower, or if she lose her dower by default, in which case the default shall not be so prejudicial to her, but that she shall recover her dower, if she have right thereto. (13 Edw. 1, ch. 4, 1285; Kilty's Rept., p. 212; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 106; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 37, § 169.)

§ 18-208 [14:35]. Assignment by guardian.

A writ of admeasurement of dower shall be granted to a gardian; neither shall the heir, when he cometh to full age, be barred by the suit of such a gardian, that sueth against the tenant in dower feignedly, and by collusion, but that he may admeasure the dower after, as it ought to be admeasured by the law. (13 Edw. 1, ch. 7, 1285; Kilty's Rept., p. 212; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 111; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 38, § 170.)

If any woman be lawfully expelled or evicted from her jointer, or from any part thereof, without any fraud or covin, by lawful entry, action, or by discontinuance of her husband, then every such woman shall be endowed of as much of the residue of her husband's tenements or hereditaments, whereof she was before dowable, as the same lands and tenements so evicted and expelled shall amount or extend unto. (27 Henry 8, ch. 10, § 7, 1535; Kilty's Rept., p. 231; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 296; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 39, § 173.)

§ 18-210 [14:37]. Devise in lieu of dower.

Every devise of land or of any estate therein, or bequest of personal estate to the wife of the testator, shall be construed to be intended in bar of her dower in lands or share of the personal estate, respectively, unless it be otherwise expressed in the will. (Mar. 3, 1901. 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1172.)

§ 18-211 [14:38]. Renunciation of devises and bequests—Form—Limitation—Interest to be taken by widow or widower upon such renunciation.

A widow shall be barred of her right of dower in the land and share in the personal estate by any such devise or bequest unless within six months after administration may be granted on her husband's estate she shall file in the probate court a written renunciation to the following effect: "I, A. B., widow of ———, late of ———, deceased, do hereby renounce and quit all claim to any devise or bequest made to me by the last will of my husband exhibited and proved according to law; and I elect to take in lieu thereof my dower and legal share of the estate of my said husband." If, during said period of six months, a suit should be instituted to construe the will of her husband, the period of six months for the filing of such renunciation shall commence to run from the date when such suit shall be finally determined, by appeal or otherwise.

By renouncing all claim to any and all devises and bequests, made to her by the will of her husband, she shall be entitled, in addition to her dower, to the distributive share of his personal property, which she would have taken had he died intestate, and, except in cases of valid antenuptial or postnuptial agreements, this provision for the wife shall apply with the effect (without formal renunciation) to cases where the husband has made no devise or bequest to his wife.

By renouncing, within the period above prescribed, all claim to any and all devises or bequests, made to him by the will of his wife, the husband shall be entitled to the distributive share in her personal property which he would have taken had she died intestate, and, except in cases of valid antenuptial or postnuptial agreements, this provision for the husband shall apply with like effect (without formal renunciation) to cases where the wife has made no devise or bequest to her husband. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1173; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment added the last sentence in the first paragraph, deleted, after the words "shall be entitled" in the second paragraph, the words "To one third part of the personal estate of her husband which shall remain after payment of his just debts and claims against him, and no more," and added, after the words "shall be entitled" aforesaid, the rest of the section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACCEPTANCE OF TERMS OF WILL

A widow may not defeat the general purpose of the will by a sale of the property and a division of its proceeds four years after she has elected, by acquiescence and by conduct, to take the provision the will makes for her. Evans v. Evans (60 App. D. C. 371, 55 Fed. (2d) 533).

When widow was aware of her rights within the six-months' period, and did not so renounce them, for the reason that she accepted an annuity instead of her right of dower, she could not make an election later for the purpose of getting refund of income tax. Semmes v. United States ((Ct. Cls.), 6 Fed. Supp. 119).

RENUNCIATION REQUIRED

A widow must file a renunciation of her rights under the will in order to take under the law; inadequate provisions under the will do not relieve her of this duty. Cahill v. Eberly (59 App. D. C. 228, 38 Fed. (2d) 539).

Mere oral declarations privately made by the widow can not take the place of a written renunciation. Cahill v. Eberly (59 App. D. C. 228, 38 Fed. (2d) 539).

§ 18-212 [14: 39]. Devise of both realty and personalty as bar.

If the will of the husband devise and bequeath a part of both real and personal estate to the wife, she shall renounce the whole or be otherwise barred of her right to both real and personal estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1174.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See § 18-214 and notes.

§ 18-213 [14: 40]. Devise of either realty or personalty as bar.

If the will devise only a part of the real estate or bequeath only a part of the personal estate, the devise or bequest shall bar her of only the real or personal estate, as the case may require: Provided, nevertheless, That if the devise of either real or personal estate, or of both, shall be expressly in lieu of her legal share of one or both she shall accordingly be barred, unless she renounce as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1175.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See § 18-214 and notes.

§ 18-214 [14: 41]. Not barred when nothing passed by the devise.

If, in effect, nothing shall pass by such devise she shall not be thereby barred, whether she shall or shall not renounce as aforesaid, it being the intent hereof that a widow accepting or abiding by a devise in lieu of her legal right shall be considered a purchaser with a fair consideration. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1176.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION OF TERMS

"An examination of section 1176 (this section) and the four sections immediately preceding it shows that devises and bequests were used interchangeably in those sections. * * * Section 1176 (this section) therefore applies equally to devises and bequests." Jordan v. American Security & Trust Co. (38 App. D. C. 391).

VALUE OF DEVISE

Where a will, bequeathing $10 to the wife of the testator, falsely states that he has previously satisfactorily provided for her out of his estate, the widow need not file a renunciation of the bequest, and she is entitled to one-half rather than one-third of the personality. Jordan v. American Security & Trust Co. (38 App. D. C. 391).

As the statutes require the widow to file a renunciation of her rights under the will, this section does not relieve her of that obligation even though the value does not equal the value of her rights under the law. Cahill v. Eberly (59 App. D. C. 228, 38 Fed. (2d) 539).

§ 18-215 [14: 42]. Estate by the curtesy.

On the death of any married woman owning real estate in fee simple and intestate thereof, if there has been a child born of the marriage capable of inheriting said property, the husband surviving her shall be entitled to an estate by the curtesy therein, whether the wife's estate be legal or equitable and whether the wife's seizin be in deed or in law only. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1159.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Estate by the curtesy is not exempt from liability for the debts of the tenant by the curtesy. Uhler v. Adams (1 App. D. C. 392).

When married woman, who has had issue by her husband, dies without disposing of her real estate by deed or will, the surviving husband is entitled at common law to his tenancy by curtesy. Uhler v. Adams (1 App. D. C. 392).

When remainder in fee after a life estate is limited to several as tenants in common, and one of them is a married woman, and the precedent estate terminated during the marriage, the husband's right of curtesy will attach on death of the wife. Rhodes v. Robie (9 App. D. C. 305).

A feme covert can devise the real estate acquired from her husband, free from any tenancy by curtesy in the husband. Zeust v. Staffan (16 App. D. C. 141).

ATTACHING OF ESTATE

Upon death of married woman leaving issue, and intestate, the husband's initiate estate as tenant by the curtesy becomes consummate, "which entitled him to claim the possession at her death, and to maintain an action therefor, to the exclusion of her heirs at law during his life." Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122), citing Frey v. Allen (9 App. D. C. 400).

EFFECT OF DEVISE

A married woman's devise of "all my property" carries the absolute estate freed of any right of the husband as tenant by the curtesy. Balster v. Cadick (29 App. D. C. 405).

Devise to husband held in lieu of curtesy. Gibson v. Gibson (53 App. D. C. 380, 292 Fed. 657).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EFFECT OF SOLVENCY

Where it is substantially stated in the bill that decedent's estate will be solvent, plaintiff's remedy may best be sought in the probate court rather than in court of equity. Street v. Stubblefield (57 App. D. C. 276, 20 Fed. (2d) 1017).

GIFTS CAUSA MORTIS

Money paid defendant by his brother shortly before the latter's death, at a time when his illness was expected to result in death at any time, was a valid gift causa mortis, where decedent was of sound mind at the time of the gift, the defendant cared for him during his last illness and paid the final expenses, and there was sufficient personalty remaining to satisfy the widow's claim. Railey v. Railey ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 121).

OPTION TO PURCHASE REAL ESTATE

Ninety-nine-year lease, with option to purchase, is personalty. Bean v. Reynolds (15 App. D. C. 125).

RENTS

If there is enough personalty to pay debts, the rents accruing after death of testator need not be used. Brosnan v. Fox (52 App. D. C. 143, 284 Fed. 923).

§ 18-302 [29: 162]. Discharge or bequest of debt or demand not valid against creditors—Included as asset.

The discharge or bequest, in a will, of any debt or demand of a testator against any executor named in a will, or against any other person, shall not be valid as against the creditors of the deceased, but shall be construed only as a specific bequest of such debt or demand, and the amount thereof shall be included in the inventory of the effects of the deceased and be assets for the payment of his debts, if necessary for that purpose, and, if not so necessary, shall be paid in the same manner and proportion as other specific legacies. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1240, ch. 854, § 318.)

§ 18-303 [29: 163]. Claims of testator against executor not discharged—Included as assets—Liability of surety.

The naming of any person as executor in a will shall not operate as a discharge or bequest of any just claim which the testator had against such executor; but such claim shall be included among the credits and effects of the deceased in the inventory, and the executor shall be liable for the same, as for so much money in his hands, at the time such debt or demand becomes due; and he shall apply and distribute the same, in the payment of debts and legacies and among the next of kin, as part of the personal estate of the deceased: Provided, That in such cases the sureties of the executor shall not be liable if the claim against the executor would have been uncollectible if some other person had been executor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1240, ch. 854, § 319; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 529, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1902 added the proviso.

§ 18-304 [29: 164]. Failure of executor to include claims of testator against executor in inventory—Remedy.

On the failure of the executor to give in such claim in the list of debts due the deceased, any person interested in the administration may allege the same by petition to said probate court, and the said court, with consent of the parties, may decide on the same, or it may be referred by the parties, with the court's approval; or at the instance of either party the court may direct an issue to be tried by a jury; and if said claim shall in any of such proceedings be decided to be a just claim of the decedent against the executor, said executor shall be charged with the amount thereof as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1240, ch. 854, § 320.)

§ 18-305 [29: 165]. Debt due by administrator or collector.

In like manner it shall be the duty of every administrator and collector to give in a claim against himself, and on his giving it, or failure so to do, there shall be the same proceeding as above described with regard to an executor; and the same rule shall apply to his sureties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1240, ch. 854, § 321; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 529, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 563, ch. 153.)

This section properly construed does not give an unconstitutional preference to local creditors over nonresident creditors. Duehay v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co. (70 App. D. C. 245, 105 Fed. (2d) 768).

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1247, ch. 854, § 357.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION

The meaning of this section is to be deduced from the language of its heading as well as from the language of the body thereof. Clawans v. Sheetz (67 App. D. C. 366, 92 Fed. (2d) 517).

The phrase "To be noticed" and the words "To discharge" must be read together to determine the meaning of the statute. Clawans v. Sheetz (67 App. D. C. 366, 92 Fed. (2d) 517).

own risk) unless the same be first passed by the probate court, or unless the said claim shall be proved according to the following rules: (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1243, ch. 854, § 330.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISPUTED CLAIMS

"Under section 330 of the code (this section) the approval of a claim properly proved relieves the executor or administrator from liability if he elects to pay it; but, by section 342 (§ 18-516) he may contest it at law, and in such action the approval of the probate court is deprived of even evidentiary value * * *. It is settled in this District that the probate court is without jurisdiction to compel an executor or administrator to pay a claim asserted against a decedent's estate." Miniggio v. Hutchins (43 App. D. C. 117), citing Cook v. Speare (13 App. D. C. 446); Richardson v. Daggett (24 App. D. C. 440).

LIABILITY OF EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR

This section was designed to relieve the executor or administrator from liability if he should elect to pay claims passed upon by the court, or properly proved. Clawans v. Sheetz (67 App. D. C. 366, 92 Fed. (2d) 517).

SUIT

There is nothing in this section which prevents suit on a claim which has neither been exhibited to the executor legally authenticated nor passed by the probate court. Clawans v. Sheetz (67 App. D. C. 366, 92 Fed. (2d) 517).

§ 18-504 [29:194]. Judgment or decree—Voucher or proof of.

The voucher or proof of a judgment or decree shall be a short copy thereof under seal, attested by the clerk of the court where it was obtained, who shall certify that the said judgment or decree hath not been satisfied. There shall likewise be a certificate of some person authorized to administer an oath, indorsed on or annexed to a statement of the debt due on such judgment or decree, that the creditor or his agent since the death of the deceased hath taken before him the following oath, to wit: "That the creditor hath not received any part of the sum for which the judgment or decree was passed except such part (if any) as is credited"; and if the creditor on the judgment or decree be an assignee of the person who obtained it, the oath shall go on and say further, "and that to the best of his knowledge or belief no other person hath received any parcel of the said sum except such part (if any) as is credited," and an assignee shall also produce the assignment under the hand of the assignor; and if there be more than one assignment, each assignment shall be produced under the hand of the party assigning. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1243, ch. 854, § 331.)

§ 18-505 [29:195]. Bond, note, check, protested bill of exchange—Original or copy of instrument to constitute voucher.

§ 18-507 [29: 197]. Commercial papers—Proof.

In case of a bill of exchange or other commercial paper, the protest or other things which would be required (if the deceased were alive) shall be necessary to justify an executor or administrator in making payment or distribution. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1243, ch. 854, § 334.)

The proof of a claim for rent in arrear, so as to render the same a preferred claim, shall be the proofs and vouchers for rent aforesaid, and proof that the claim is such that an attachment therefor might be levied on said deceased's goods and chattels in the hands of the administrator, but the preference given for rent is not to impair the landlord's right of attachment if he thinks proper to exercise it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1243, ch. 854, § 335.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1243, ch. 854, § 336.)

Sale of property to make distribution, §§ 18-718, 18-719.

No executor or administrator shall sell any property of his decedent without an order of the probate court authorizing such sale; and any such sale made without a previous order authorizing it shall be void and pass no title to the purchaser. If any executor or administrator shall sell, pledge, or dispose of any property without such previous order, his letters may be revoked and an administrator appointed, whose duty it shall be immediately to recover possession of said property, and such removed executor or administrator may be proceeded against by attachment; but where there are two or more executors or administrators, and a sale, pledge, or disposition of property has been made without the consent of all, the revocation shall only extend to the person or persons so offending, and the remaining executors or administrators shall have power to discharge the duties of their office and institute proceedings for the recovery of the property and attachment as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1240, ch. 854, § 323.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW

"At common law an executor or administrator had absolute power of disposal over all personal property coming into his hands, including choses in action, and such sales protected purchasers, except where fraud appeared." Phoenix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Harris (45 App. D. C. 474).

CONSTRUCTION

"Owing to this rule of the common law, statutes providing for the granting of decrees of court as to sales generally are construed to be for the protection of the administrator and not as a limitation of his power." Phoenix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Harris (45 App. D. C. 474).

"The provisions of section 323 (this section) of our code were intended to apply merely to local executors and administrators dealing with property within this jurisdiction. The section declares, * * *, his letters may be revoked, clearly indicating, we think, that the prohibition was not intended to extend to contracts made by executors and administrators of other jurisdictions. In other words, this statute was addressed to the constituent elements or validity of a local contract by executors and administrators, rather than to the procedure to be followed in establishing all contracts by executors and administrators, wherever made." Phoenix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Harris (45 App. D. C. 474).

Section 18-602 shall not be construed to apply to any case where an executor shall be authorized by will of his testator to make sale of any property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1241, ch. 854, § 324.)

§ 18-604 [29: 234]. Sale of real estate directed in will—Procedure.

In all cases in which a testator has directed his real estate to be sold for the payment of his debts or legacies, the executor may sell and convey the same, and shall account for the proceeds thereof to the probate court in the same manner that he is bound to account for the proceeds of personal estate; but such sale shall not be valid unless ratified by said court after notice given by publication according to the practice in equity. In case the executor shall refuse or decline to act, or shall die without executing the power vested in him, it shall be lawful for the court, on the application of any person interested, to appoint an administrator de bonis non with the will annexed to execute such power in the same manner in which the executor appointed by the will might have done. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1241, ch. 854, § 325.)

Where part of the executors named in any testament of any person so making or declaring any will of any lands, tenements, or other hereditaments to be sold by his executors, after the death of any such testator, do refuse to take upon him or them the administration and charge of the same testament and last will wherein they be so named to be executors, and the residue of the same executors do accept and take upon them the cure and charge of the same testament and last will; then all bargains and sales of such lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, so willed to be sold by the executors of any such testator, as well heretofore made, as hereafter to be made by him or them, only of the said executors that so doth accept, or that heretofore hath accepted and taken upon him or them any such cure or charge of administration of any such will or testament, shall be as good and as effectual in the law, as if all the residue of the same executors named in the said testament, so refusing the administration of the same testament, had joined with him or them in the making of the bargain and sale of such lands, tenements, or other hereditaments so willed to be sold by the executors of any such testators, which heretofore hath made or declared, or that hereafter shall make or declare any such will, of any such lands, tenements, or other hereditaments after his decease, to be sold by his executors. (21 Henry VIII, ch. 4, § 1, 1529; Kilty's Rept. p. 230; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 280; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 20, § 85.)

In all cases where two or more trustees shall be appointed by last will to execute a trust, or shall be empowered to sell, dispose of, or convey lands or other property devised to them jointly, upon the death of any one or more of them the survivor or survivors shall be held authorized to execute such trust or power; and if any one of such trustees shall in writing, signed by him and attested by a witness, relinquish or disclaim said trust or refuse to act under said will, and shall deliver such writing to the probate court of the District for record, the right of such trustee to act shall cease, and the remaining trustee or trustees appointed by said will shall be authorized to execute the trusts of said will and make all sales and execute all conveyances and other acts necessary for that purpose. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1241, ch. 854, § 326.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EFFECT OF DEATH

A trust charged upon the executors, as such, does not become extinct by the death of one of them, and if the executors were authorized to sell real estate, the survivor can sell it. Kennedy v. Mangan (51 App. D. C. 296, 278 Fed. 1009).

When will devised real property in trust for missing brother and if not heard from in seven years to have trustees sell, in such case the trustees had power to sell the property after seven years for the benefit of legatees, and equity would limit power to sell only if required by express terms of the will. Kennedy v. Mangan (51 App. D. C. 296, 278 Fed. 1009).

The probate court shall have plenary authority to administer also the real estate situated in the District of Columbia of decedents so far as may be necessary for the payment of debts and legacies, and to distribute among those entitled thereto any surplus proceeds of any sale of real estate made in the course of such administration, and the bonds of all executors and administrators shall be responsible for the proceeds of sale of all real estate sold by them under the order of the said justice for such purposes of administration: Provided, however, That no such sale shall be made unless the same be required for the purposes of paying debts and such legacies as are chargeable upon the real estate, nor until the auditor of the court shall have ascertained and reported such debts and legacies, the deficiency of personal assets, and the real estate necessary to be sold for the payment of debts and legacies; and such report shall be subject to exception. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 146; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "a deficiency of personal assets for such purposes" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "such debts and legacies, the deficiency of personal assets, and the real estate necessary to be sold for the payment of debts and legacies."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Prior to the enactment of the Code, the Supreme Court of this District had "jurisdiction and power to decree the sale of the real estate of a deceased debtor, whether the title be legal or equitable, for the payment of debts; and upon the allegation that the deceased was seized * * * and died indebted, there would be furnished a foundation for a decree of sale of such real estate." Duncanson v. Manson (3 App. D. C. 260, affd. 166 U. S. 533, 41 L. Ed. 1105, 17 Sup. Ct. 647).

COLLATERAL ATTACK

If the court had jurisdiction, the sale cannot be attacked collaterally. Duncanson v. Manson (3 App. D. C. 260, affd. 166 U. S. 533, 41 L. Ed. 1105, 17 Sup. Ct. 647).

DISTRIBUTION AFTER PAYMENT OF DEBTS

When the real estate of an intestate is sold in administration proceeding in the District of Columbia for the payment of his debts, there can be no distribution of any part of the proceeds until after payment of all of the estate's debts, and this provision is not limited to debts payable to residents of the District. Wiggins v. Mayer (57 App. D. C. 293, 22 Fed. (2d) 869).

PERSONAL PROPERTY MUST BE FOUND TO BE INSUFFICIENT

The statute contemplates a prior determination of the insufficiency of the personal property before an administrator can claim rents. Shields v. Shields (69 App. D. C. 331, 101 Fed. (2d) 255).

§ 18-608 [29: 238]. Bond to prevent sale of real estate.

An order for the sale of the real estate shall not be granted if any of the persons interested in the estate shall give bond to the United States, with security to be approved by said probate court, conditioned to pay all the debts or legacies, or both, as the case may be, that shall eventually be found due, and the costs of administration. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 147.)

If the said probate court shall be satisfied, upon a report of the auditor, that it is necessary to sell said real estate, or part thereof, it shall authorize the same, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the payment of the debts or legacies, or both, to be sold by the executor or administrator, on such terms as the court may direct. Any surplus of the proceeds of such sale, after payment of debts and legacies and costs of administration, shall be deemed real estate, and shall be distributed among the heirs or devisees as the right may appear. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 148.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EFFECT OF DIRECTIONS IN WILL

A conveyance of real estate to trustees with specific directions to sell as soon as possible, converted such property into personalty, by the doctrine of equitable conversion, and was therefore subject to federal estate tax. Tait v. Dante ((C. C. A. 4), 78 Fed. (2d) 303, cert. den. 296 U. S. 614, 80 L. Ed. 436, 56 Sup. Ct. 134).

§ 18-610 [29: 240]. Sale of property subject to dower.

Where there shall be a widow entitled to dower in the real estate of the decedent, the probate court, before authorizing a sale of said real estate, shall issue a commission to one or more suitable persons to set off and assign her dower out of such estate, and her dower shall be assigned to her; or, if the court shall find the widow's dower can not be set off without injury to the property, if she shall consent thereto by her answer to the petition, the real estate may be sold free of her dower, and she shall receive out of the proceeds a commutation of her dower according to the practice in equity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1215, ch. 854, § 149.)

If any person shall die having devised real estate to be sold for the payment of debts or other purposes without having appointed a trustee to sell or convey the property, or if the person so appointed shall neglect or refuse to execute the trust, or shall die before the execution of such trust, the equity court shall have authority, on the application of any person interested, to appoint a trustee to sell and convey said property and apply the proceeds of sale to the purposes intended. And in all cases where a trustee shall be appointed by last will and testament to execute any trust, and any person interested in the execution of such trust shall make it appear that it is necessary for the safety of those interested therein that the trustee should give bond and security for the due execution of the trust, the said court may order and direct that such bond be given by the trustee by a day named, and on failure of the trustee to give such bond, with security to be approved by the court as directed, the court may displace such trustee and appoint another in his stead, who shall give such bond; and such bond shall be given to the United States and may be sued on for the use of any person interested. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1204, ch. 854, § 94.)

When any person shall die leaving any real estate in possession, remainder, or reversion, and not leaving personal estate sufficient to pay his debts, the said equity court, on any suit instituted by any of his creditors, may decree that all the real estate left by such person, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be sold to pay his debts; and this section shall apply to cases where the heirs or devisees are residents or nonresidents, are of full age or infants, are of sound mind or non compos mentis, and also to cases where the deceased left no heirs or it is not known whether he left heirs or devisees or the heirs or devisees be unknown; and if there be no known heirs the attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia shall be notified of said suit and appear thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1204, ch. 854, § 96.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COLLATERAL ATTACK

If sale of real estate is made under a decree, an infant cannot successfully in later proceeding, collaterally attack the decree when he was present in person and did not object to appointment of guardian for him. Duncanson v. Manson (3 App. D. C. 260, affd. 166 U. S. 533, 41 L. Ed. 1105, 17 Sup. Ct. 647).

PARTIES

In a creditors' bill filed for purpose of subjecting real estate of a deceased person as assets to payment of his debts, the executor or administrator is a necessary party, but if there are no personal assets, and consequently no qualified executor or administrator, a creditors' bill may be maintained without executor or administrator. Plumb v. Bateman (2 App. D. C. 156).

PERSONAL ESTATE INSUFFICIENT

Allegation and proof of deficiency in personal assets is jurisdictional in proceedings under this section. Dahlgren v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (41 App. D. C. 201), citing Glenn v. Sothoron (4 App. D. C. 125).

In suit brought under this section by creditors of a decedent, a decree ordering the sale of decedent's real estate for payment of creditors' claims was affirmed, the personal estate being insufficient to pay them. West v. McLaughlin (57 App. D. C. 163, 18 Fed. (2d) 813).

Her estate then became entitled to her share, and her next of kin, her daughter, inherited her estate. Condon v. Mallan (58 App. D. C. 371, 30 Fed. (2d) 995).

Posthumous children of intestates shall take in the same manner as if they had been born before the decease of the intestate, but no other posthumous relation shall be considered as entitled to distribution in his or her own right. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1250, ch. 854, § 386.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"A child en ventre sa mere is deemed to be in esse for the purpose of taking a remainder, or any other estate or interest which is for his benefit, whether by descent, by devise, or under the statute of distribution." Craig v. Rowland (10 App. D. C. 402).

§ 18-715 [29: 295]. No distinction between whole and half-blood.

In the distribution of personal estate there shall be no distinction between the whole and half-blood. (June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329, § 386a.)

The illegitimate child or children of any female and the issue of any such illegitimate child or children shall be capable to take from their mother, or from each other, or from the descendants of each other, in like manner as if born in lawful wedlock. When an illegitimate child or children shall die leaving no descendants, or brothers or sisters, or the descendants of such brothers or sisters, then and in that case the mother of such illegitimate child or children, if living, shall be entitled as next of kin, and if the mother be dead the next of kin of the mother shall take in like manner as if such illegitimate child or children had been born in lawful wedlock. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1250, ch. 854, § 387.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION OF TERMS

"The mother of illegitimate children may be their next of kin, and illegitimate children of any female are next of kin to each other," and the phrase "next of kin" in section 1301 of the Code (§ 16-1201) is used in the same sense. Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

"It was evidently the intent of Congress in enacting this statute to remove the common-law disability of inheritance through the maternal line, and to that extent places illegitimates upon the same basis as legitimates. This amounted to a declaration of public policy." Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313).

§ 18-717 [29: 297]. Escheatment.

If there be no widow or relations of the intestate within the fifth degree, which shall be reckoned by counting down from the common ancestor to the more remote, the whole surplus shall belong to the District of Columbia, to be disbursed by the commissioners of the District for the benefit of the poor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 388.)

CONVERSION OF PROPERTY

Where, in 1879, one died without known heirs or next of kin and a sum of money was found on his person which the authorities turned over to the policemen's pension fund, an administrator appointed in 1886 could recover such fund in tort for conversion since there was no authority in law for turning the money over to the pension fund. Tucker v. Nebeker, 2 App. D. C. 326.

§ 18-718 [29: 298]. Distribution of specific property.

In case the surplus remaining in the administrator's hands after payment of all just debts exhibited and proved or notified and not barred, or after retaining for the same, shall consist of specific property or articles mentioned in the inventory or inventories, the administrator, if he can not satisfy the parties, may apply to the court to make distribution, and the court may appoint a day for making distribution and by summons call on the said parties to appear; and the said court may, at the appointed time, proceed to distribute. But if a majority in point of value shall neglect to appear, or appearing shall object to the distribution of the articles, or if the court shall deem a sale of the said articles or any part of them more advantageous, a sale shall be directed accordingly, and the rules herein laid down relative to a sale by order of the said court shall be observed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 389.)

§ 18-719 [29: 299]. Distribution of specific articles, how to be made.

Whenever a distribution of specific articles is to be made the probate court may appoint two disinterested persons, not in any way related to the parties concerned, to make such distribution among the persons entitled as to them shall seem meet and proper; or if, in their opinion, upon a view of such articles, no distribution among the persons entitled could be by them made which would operate equally, but a sale thereof would be more advantageous to such persons, they shall return to the probate court their opinion in writing, and the court shall thereupon order a sale of such articles, upon reasonable notice, and cause the proceeds of such sale to be equally distributed among the parties entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 390.)

§ 18-720 [29: 300]. Partial distribution.

When any person entitled, after payment of debts, shall be in want of subsistence or greatly straitened in his circumstances, and shall apply to the probate court by petition, and satisfy the court that he is in want of subsistence or greatly straitened in circumstances, and that it probably will not require more than one-half of the assets to discharge the debts, the court may direct the administrator to deliver to the petitioner any part of what the court shall suppose will be his distributive share, or any part of a legacy or bequest in money not exceeding one-third part, the said petitioner giving bond, with security approved by the court, to the administrator for returning the same or an equivalent, with interest, whenever so directed by the court; and the court shall have power to determine in a summary way on any such petition, after summons against such administrator duly returned "summoned" or "non est." (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 391.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"Section 391 (this section) authorizes the court to deliver any part of what the court shall suppose will be the distributive share," and the requirement of a bond is sufficient protection in the event that the beneficiary should subsequently be divested of her interest in the estate. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 122).

COLLECTORS

Collector may be authorized to make partial distribution under this section. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 122).

TRUSTEES

This section confers no jurisdiction on an equity court to order partial distribution of a fund administered by a trustee under its supervision. Hutchins v. Dante (40 App. D. C. 262).

§ 18-721 [29: 301]. Distribution of specific bequests.

And the court, in like manner, on any petition by a person in such circumstances to whom a specific legacy or bequest has been made, being satisfied that the assets, exclusive of all specific legacies, will not be nearly exhausted by debts, may direct the executor or administrator with the will annexed to deliver to the petitioner the said specific legacy or bequest on his giving bond as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 392.)

§ 18-722 [29: 302]. Bequest to female.

Where a bequest of personal property or money is made to a female and directed by the will to be paid on her attaining to full, mature, or to a lawful age, such female shall be entitled to receive and demand such personal property or money on her arriving at the age of eighteen years or being married. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 393.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Under a will directing the payment of income from an estate to a female "when she shall reach the age of eighteen years," she is entitled to receive it on attaining that age, and it should not be paid to her guardian. Perin v. Perin (41 W. L. R. 265).

This section provides an exception to the general rule under common law that infants, whether male or female, attain their majority at the age of 21 years. Jones v. Jones (63 App. D. C. 373, 72 Fed. (2d) 829, 95 A. L. R. 352).

§ 18-723 [29: 303]. Meeting of legatees or next of kin.

Any administrator shall be entitled to appoint a meeting of persons entitled to distributive shares or legacies or a residue, on some day by the court approved, and payment or distribution may be there made under the court's direction and control. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1251, ch. 854, § 394.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"Ordinarily it would be safer for an administrator to pursue the course pointed out by this latter section (this section), but there is no express command of the law that he should do so." Miller-Shoemaker Co. v. Sturgeon (31 App. D. C. 406).

"This provision merely gives expression to the well-settled rule that a legacy is payable in cash, unless some other form of payment is authorized by the person entitled. In the present case the distributee was a non-resident, and the executors, waiving their right to make payment here under the direction of the court, assumed the risk of sending the money by check to California. To absolve themselves from responsibility to the distributee, it must appear that he expressly or impliedly authorized them so to act, and, unless he did, in contemplation of law the money still is in their hands and they must respond to the order of the court" directing them to pay it. In this case the check was received and cashed by an imposter, and the executors were directed to pay the legatee his distributive share. Moore v. Moore (47 App. D. C. 23).

Settlement of administrator's first and final accounts was not to be given the effect of an adjudication of distributee's rights. Claudy v. Duvall (55 App. D. C. 319, 5 Fed. (2d) 381).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

Any degree of importunity or undue influence which deprives the testator of his free agency, and which is such as he is too weak to resist, and in effect renders the instrument not his free and unconstrained act, is sufficient to and will invalidate the will or testament of the party. Barbour v. Moore (4 App. D. C. 535).

Declarations of testator and his relations with the parties are competent circumstances tending to throw light upon his state of mind and disposition. The only limitation is that it shall not be received as proof of the independent fact or the truth of the things declared, but as supplementary only to direct proof of the alleged fraud and undue influence. Manogue v. Herrell (13 App. D. C. 455).

Testimony plainly of a hearsay character, including the certificates of the physicians for the commitment of testator to insane asylum is inadmissible, especially when testimony of physicians themselves was not taken. Keely v. Moore (22 App. D. C. 9, affd. 196 U. S. 38, 49 L. Ed. 376, 25 Sup. Ct. 169).

In Federal courts a will is not set aside on evidence showing only suspicion or possibility of undue influence. Robinson v. Duvall (27 App. D. C. 535, affd. 207 U. S. 583, 52 L. Ed. 351, 28 Sup. Ct. 260).

It was proper to submit question to jury to determine testamentary capacity of testatrix, a woman of about eighty-two years, when she executed will during a decline of her physical and mental condition. Morgan v. Adams (29 App. D. C. 198, app. dism. 211 U. S. 627, 53 L. Ed. 362, 29 Sup. Ct. 213).

Trial court did not err when it excluded evidence which tended to show a delusion affecting person more than thirty years before the making of the will and codicils. Turner v. American Security & Trust Co. (29 App. D. C. 460, affd. 213 U. S. 257, 53 L. Ed. 788, 29 Sup. Ct. 420).

INCORPORATION OF DOCUMENT

Testator may so construct disposition of his property as to have recourse to some paper or document in order to explain his intention and to apply provisions of his will to the subject matter thereof. This doctrine of incorporation by reference must clearly identify the instrument to which will refers and must be in existence at the date of the will. Vestry of St. John's Parish v. Bostwick (8 App. D. C. 452).

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS

Proceedings for the probate of wills are statutory and are substantially in rem. The proceeding is upon the will itself and to determine its status. The judgment runs against no person, but is, simply, that the instrument before the court is, or is not, the will of the testator. Cruit v. Owen (21 App. D. C. 378).

SOUND AND DISPOSING MIND

Fact to be found by the jury is not that the testator was demented at the particular time or that he was victim of insane delusions, but whether from any one of these conditions that he was not of sound and disposing mind and of capacity to make a valid deed or contract. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hetberger (19 App. D. C. 506).

If person of sound mind executes a will, and the same is his voluntary act, the law presumes knowledge on his part of its contents and such presumption also applies to illiterates. Lipphard v. Humphrey (28 App. D. C. 355, affd. 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 28 Sup. Ct. 561).

An insane delusion exists when a person conceives the existence of something fanciful and extravagant, something having no foundation in reason or fact, and is dominated and controlled by such imagination, and therefore acts as he would not otherwise have acted. Riddle v. Gibson (29 App. D. C. 237).

If one acts under a delusion superinduced by false testimony, of the falsity of which he has no knowledge, it cannot be said that he is the victim of an insane delusion. Morgan v. Morgan (30 App. D. C. 436, 13 Ann. Cas. 1037).

The test is whether the testator, at the time of executing the paper purporting to be his will, was capable of making a valid deed or contract. Lewis v. American Security & Trust Co. (53 App. D. C. 258, 289 Fed. 916); Thompson v. Smith (70 App. D. C. 65, 103 Fed. (2d) 936).

STATUS AS MARRIED WOMAN

Will made by married woman while separated from husband, from whom she is later divorced, was not revoked although she subsequently remarried. Chapman v. Dismer (14 App. D. C. 446).

No nuncupative will made after Jan. 1, 1902, shall be valid in the District; but any soldier being in actual military service, or mariner being at sea, may dispose of his movables, wages, and personal estate by word of mouth: Provided, That such disposition shall be proved by at least two witnesses who were present at the making thereof and were requested by the testator to bear witness that such was his last will, nor unless such will were made in the time of the last sickness of the deceased, and the substance thereof reduced to writing within ten days after the making thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1634.)

§ 19-103 [29: 23]. Form of will—Witnesses—Alteration—Revocation.

All wills and testaments shall be in writing and signed by the testator, or by some other person in his presence and by his express directions, and shall be attested and subscribed in the presence of the said testator by at least two credible witnesses, or else they shall be utterly void and of no effect; and, moreover, no devise or bequest, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same by the testator himself or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all devises and bequests shall remain and continue in force until the same be burned, canceled, torn, or obliterated by the testator or by his direction in the manner aforesaid, or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will, testament, or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator signed in the presence of at least two witnesses attesting the same, any former law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1433, ch. 854, § 1626.)

Bostwick* (8 App. D. C. 452) incorporation by reference; Chapman v. Dismar (14 App. D. C. 446); Cruit v. Owen (21 App. D. C. 378).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ALTERATION

Where a testator properly executed a will on two sheets of paper, and subsequently attempted to alter the will by substituting another sheet for the first, which was discarded, without notifying witnesses, or signing in the presence of witnesses, it is not entitled to probate. Henry v. Fraser (58 App. D. C. 260, 29 Fed. (2d) 633, 62 A. L. R. 1364).

FORMALITIES

The re-execution of a will requires the same formalities as required for its original execution. Notes v. Doyle (32 App. D. C. 413).

Unless the formalities prescribed are complied with, the instrument is void. Survivors of Seventh Georgia Regiment v. Larner (55 App. D. C. 156, 3 Fed. (2d) 201).

Execution of will—qualification of witnesses—interest. Peters v. Peters (64 App. D. C. 331, 78 Fed. (2d) 215).

REVOCATION—WHAT CONSTITUTES

A conveyance of the title subsequently declared void does not operate as a revocation of a previous will. McGowan v. Elroy (28 App. D. C. 188).

Subsequent marriage of testatrix and birth of issue does not revoke will. Morris v. Foster (51 App. D. C. 238, 278 Fed. 321).

WHAT LAW GOVERNS

All wills, in their very nature, are ambulatory and revocable during the life of the testator; and, in respect to personal estate, they speak only from and have effect upon the death of the testator; and to say that a will shall have effect and be declared valid in respect to a prior law, which has been repealed and given place to a different rule as a substitute, is to declare valid a testamentary paper without existing law to support it. Colonna v. Alton (23 App. D. C. 296).

WITNESSING

Attesting witnesses need not know the contents of the document; "they may attest it without the presence of each other; they, or any of them, need not see the testator sign the will, provided he acknowledge the signature to each of the witnesses; and they need not even know that the document they have witnessed is a will." Notes v. Doyle (32 App. D. C. 413).

It is not necessary that testator should sign his will in the presence of witnesses, but that he shall, before witnesses sign, indicate that the document is his will and that he has signed it. Bullock v. Morehouse (57 App. D. C. 231, 19 Fed. (2d) 705).

§ 19-104 [29: 24]. Devises to attesting witnesses void.

If any person shall attest the execution of any will or codicil to whom any beneficial devise, legacy, estate, interest, gift, or appointment of or affecting any real or personal estate, other than and except charges on lands, tenements or hereditaments for payment of any debt or debts, shall be thereby given or made, such devise, legacy, estate, interest, gift, or appointment, shall, so far only as concerns such person attesting the execution of such will or codicil, or any person claiming under him, be utterly null and void; and such person shall be admitted as a witness to the execution of such will or codicil; notwithstanding such devise, legacy, estate, interest, gift or appointment mentioned in such will or codicil. (25 Geo. II, ch. 6, § 1, 1752; Kilty's Rep., p. 253; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 781; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 557, § 5.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

§ 19-105 [29: 25]. Attesting devisee not to retain nor demand any property under will or codicil.

No person to whom any beneficial estate, interest, gift, or appointment shall be given or made, which is null and void under section 19-104, and who shall have been examined as a witness concerning the execution of such will or codicil, shall, after he shall have been so examined, demand or take possession of or receive any profits or benefit of or from any such estate, interest, gift, or appointment so given or made to him in or by any such will or codicil; or demand, receive, or accept from any person or persons whatsoever, any such legacy or bequest, or any satisfaction or compensation for the same, in any manner, or under any colour or pretence whatsoever. (25 Geo. II, ch. 6, § 7, 1752; Kilty's Rep., p. 253; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 783; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 558, § 7.)

§ 19-106 [29: 26]. Attestation by creditor valid.

In case, by any will or codicil already made or hereafter to be made, any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, are or shall be charged with any debt or debts; and any creditor whose debt is so charged, hath attested or shall attest the execution of such will or codicil, every such creditor, notwithstanding such charge, shall be admitted as a witness to the execution of such will or codicil. (25 Geo. II, ch. 6, § 2, 1752; Kilty's Rep., p. 253; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 782; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 558, § 6.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1433, ch. 854, § 1627.)

§ 19-109 [29: 29]. Advancement as satisfaction of legacy.

A provision for or advancement to any person shall be deemed a satisfaction, in whole or in part of a devise or bequest to such person contained in a previous will if it would be so deemed in case the devisee or legatee were the child of the testator; and, whether he be a child or not, it shall be so deemed in all cases in which it shall appear from parol or other evidence to be so intended. PARENT AS DEBTOR

Where parent, who is a debtor to his child, makes an advancement to such child, it is presumed to be a satisfaction pro tanto of the debt. Glover v. Patten (165 U. S. 394, 41 L. Ed. 760, 17 Sup. Ct. 411, affg. 1 App. D. C. 466).

If a devisee or legatee die before the testator, leaving issue who survive the testator, such issue shall take the estate devised or bequeathed as the devisee or legatee would have done if he had survived the testator, unless a different disposition be made or required by the will. Unless a contrary intention appear by the will, such property as shall be comprised in any devise or bequest in such will which shall fail or be void or otherwise incapable of taking effect shall be deemed included in the residuary devise or bequest, if any, contained in such will. § 19-111 [29: 31]. Opening will before delivery to probate court.

It shall be lawful for any person in whose possession or custody a will or codicil shall be after the death of the testator or testatrix, to open and read the same in the presence of any near relatives of the deceased, who may conveniently have notice thereof, and of other persons, and immediately thereafter to deliver such will or codicil to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, holding a special term as a probate court, or to the register of wills, until due proceedings may be had for proving the same, or until it be demanded by an executor or other person authorized to demand it, for the purpose of having it proved according to law. EQUITABLE ESTATE

Devise of equitable estate remaining in grantor, after he has created a naked power in one to convey an estate to another upon the performance of a condition. Mayer v. American Security & Trust Co. (33 App. D. C. 391, affd. 222 U. S. 295, 56 L. Ed. 206, 32 Sup. Ct. 95).

§ 19-202 [29: 42]. Bequests for religious purposes.

No devise or bequest of lands, or goods, or chattels to any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or to any religious sect, order, or denomination, or to or for the support, use, or benefit of or in trust for any minister, public teacher, or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order, or denomination, shall be valid unless the same shall be made at least one calendar month before the death of the testator. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1635.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SECTARIAN INSTITUTIONS

Georgetown College held not to be a sectarian institution, so that bequest made to it less than one calendar month before testator's death was not void. Speer v. Colbert (200 U. S. 130, 50 L. Ed. 403, 26 Sup. Ct. 201, affg. 24 App. D. C. 187).

§ 19-203 [29: 43]. General devise of all property.

Every devise and bequest purporting to be of all real or personal property, or both, belonging to the testator shall be construed to include also all property of either or both kinds, respectively, over which he has a general power of appointment, unless the contrary intention shall appear in the will or codicil containing such devise or bequest. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1633; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 545, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1902 deleted a phrase, "and the legal title of all such property which he holds in trust," following the word "appointment."

§ 19-204 [29: 44]. Devise of land to include leaseholds.

A devise of the land of a testator, or of his land in any place, or in the occupation of a person named or otherwise described in a general manner, shall be construed to include his leasehold estates or any of them to which such descriptions shall extend, as well as freehold estates, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1632.)

§ 19-205 [29: 45]. After-acquired real estate.

Any will executed after January 17, 1887, and before the first day of January 1902, devising real estate, from which it shall appear that it was the intention of the testator to devise property acquired after the execution of the will, shall be deemed, taken, and held to operate as a valid devise of all such property; and any will executed after January

1, 1902, which shall by words of general import devise all the estate or all the real estate of the testator shall be deemed, taken, and held to operate as a valid devise of any real estate acquired by said testator after the execution of such will, unless it shall appear therefrom that it was not the intention of the testator to devise such after-acquired property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1433, ch. 854, § 1628; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 545, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the first part of the section ending with the words "January 1, 1902."

NOTES TO DECISIONS—

INTENTION

Although a testator may dispose by will of after-purchased lands, it is nevertheless necessary that his intention to make such disposition should clearly appear upon the face of the will. Bradford v. Matthews (9 App. D. C. 438).

Under act of June 30, 1902, a will is made to operate and take effect upon all real estate of the testator owned by him at the time of his death, unless it shall appear from the will that it was not the intention of the testator to devise such after-acquired property. Crenshaw v. McCormick (19 App. D. C. 494).

PASSAGE BY RESIDUARY CLAUSE

Any will containing a general residuary clause, or general devise of all of the testator's real property, sufficient under the old law to pass all real estate possessed at the time of its execution, would pass all after-acquired real estate as well. Taylor v. Leesnitzer (37 App. D. C. 356), overruling McAleer v. Schneider (2 App. D. C. 461).

§ 19-301 [29: 51]. Citation—Notice by publication—Unknown heirs at law and next of kin.

Upon the filing of a petition for probate of a will a citation shall be issued to all persons who would be entitled to or interested in the estate of the testator in case such will had not been executed to appear in said court on a day named, not earlier than ten days, exclusive of Sundays, after the filing of said petition, and show cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. If said citation shall appear from the return thereof to have been served upon all said persons at least five days before the day named as aforesaid, the said court shall proceed, if no caveat be filed, to take the proofs of the execution of said will. But if any of the parties interested, as aforesaid, as heirs, next of kin, or otherwise, shall be returned "Not to be found," the said court shall cause not less than thirty days' notice of the application of such probate to be published once in each of three successive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in said District, and may order such other publication as the case may require, and shall cause a copy of such publication to be mailed to the last known post-office address of each of the parties so returned not to be found.

In all cases where it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that all or any of the next of kin or heirs at law of the deceased are unknown, such unknown next of kin or heirs at law may be proceeded against and described in the publication of notice hereinbefore provided for as "the unknown next of kin," or "the unknown heirs at law," as the case may be, of the deceased, and by such publication of such notice under such designation such unknown next of kin and heirs at law shall be as effectually bound and concluded as if known and their names were specifically set forth in said order of publication.

In case any will shall have been admitted to probate prior to June 30, 1902, upon publication against unknown heirs or next of kin, any person interested may file a petition for further probate of such will, alleging that the heirs at law or next of kin of the deceased, or some of them, as the case may be, are unknown, and upon satisfactory showing being made to the court publication of notice may be made against the unknown next of kin or heirs at law of the deceased; and upon such publication being made, as required by the court, a decree may be made confirming such previous probate, and such decree so made shall be as effectual as if the said heirs at law or next of kin were named in the order of publication. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1211, ch. 854, sec. 130; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the following: "If the parties in interest, or any of them, be unknown, upon statement of that fact in the petition under oath, they may be described therein, and in the notice of publication, as the unknown heirs and next of kin of the decedent, with like effect as if known and specifically named in the petition, notice and proceedings," and inserted the last two paragraphs.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JURISDICTION OF PROBATE COURT

Probate court has been clothed with full and complete jurisdiction to take proof of wills of either personal or real estate, and to admit the same to probate and record, and Congress, having established this special court for this special purpose, intended its jurisdiction to be exclusive. Gracie v. American Security & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

VOLUNTARY APPEARANCE

Where a petition alleged widower as only next of kin, upon whom service was had, and he appeared, filed a caveat, and the will was sustained, and thereafter publication was had for unknown heirs, and the widower moved to vacate the verdict on the ground that court was without jurisdiction because of failure to publish before framing the issues, jurisdiction attached to any person who voluntarily appeared. Lewis v. Luckett (32 App. D. C. 188, aff'd. 221, U. S. 554, 55 L. Ed. 851, 31 Sup. Ct. 632), citing Dugan v. Northcutt (7 App. D. C. 351).

WAIVER OF CITATION

Citation may be waived (see § 19-304) and such waiver of citation does not estop the filing of a caveat. Bowen v. Hownstein (39 App. D. C. 585).

§ 19-302 [29: 52]. Who may appear.

Any person, although not cited, who may be interested in sustaining or defeating the will may appear and support or oppose the application to admit the same to probate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1212, ch. 854, § 133.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUFFICIENCY OF INTEREST

"Any interest, however slight, is sufficient to entitle a party to oppose a testamentary paper, and for like reason, such interest entitles a party to insist upon probate." Vestry of St. John's Parish v. Bostwick (8 App. D. C. 452).

§ 19-303 [29: 53]. Guardian ad litem for infant or non compos.

Whenever it shall appear that any party interested as aforesaid is under age, or non compos, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem to represent said party at the hearing of the application to admit the will to probate, and with authority to file a caveat, as he may be advised, in behalf of said party. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1212, ch. 854, § 138.)

§ 19-304 [29: 54]. Waiver of notice—Proof of execution.

If all parties interested adversely to the will shall waive the notice aforesaid and consent that the will be admitted to probate and record, it may be so admitted to probate and record without the proceedings directed as aforesaid: Provided, That in no case shall any will or testament be admitted to probate and record save upon formal proof of its proper execution. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1212, ch. 854, § 135.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JURISDICTION OF PROBATE COURT

Probate court has exclusive jurisdiction to take proof of wills and to admit the same to probate and record. Gracie v. American Security & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

PROOF

Admission by caveator of formal execution of will does not dispense with necessity for proof thereof. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Heiberger (19 App. D. C. 506).

WAIVER OF CITATION

Waiver of citation does not preclude subsequent filing of caveat. Bowen v. Hownstein (39 App. D. C. 585), but does bring party within jurisdiction of court. Pardon v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 69).

§ 19-305 [29: 55]. Proof of will—Production of witnesses.

On the day appointed as aforesaid, or such subsequent day as the court may appoint, due proof of such publication and mailing being made, the court shall proceed to take proof of the will. All the witnesses to such will who are within the District and competent to testify must be produced and examined, or the absence of any of them satisfactorily accounted for. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1211, ch. 854, § 131.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ILLITERATE TESTATORS

The same rule applies in cases of illiterate testators. Lipphard v. Humphrey (28 App. D. C. 355, affd. 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 28 Sup. Ct. 561).

PRODUCTION OF WITNESSES

"In all cases the subscribing witnesses, if living and within the jurisdiction, must be called to prove the fact of execution; and if it appears from their evidence that the will was formally executed and the testator competent, it must be admitted to probate." Lipphard v. Humphrey (28 App. D. C. 355, affd. 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 28 Sup. Ct. 561).

WITNESS DEAD

"When any of the witnesses to a will has died, proof of his signature is sufficient prima facie proof of attestation of the will by him." Keely v. Moore (22 App. D. C. 9, affd. 196 U. S. 38, 49 L. Ed. 376, 25 Sup. Ct. 169).

§ 19-306 [29: 56]. Proof of will—Register of wills may take testimony—Witnesses beyond District of Columbia.

In case the will contains a devise of real estate, and any attesting witness thereto residing in the District is unable, from sickness, age, or other cause, to attend court, the register of wills may, with such will, attend upon said witness and take his testimony. If the testimony of resident attesting witnesses or witness to such will shall have been taken, and any other such witness to said will shall reside out of the District or be temporarily absent therefrom, but within the United States, it shall be sufficient to prove the signature of such witnesses so out of the District.

If the sole witnesses to such will shall be out of said District as aforesaid, or if one or more should be within the United States and one or more be in some foreign country, then it shall be sufficient to take the testimony of any one or all within the United States, as the court may determine, and to prove the signatures of those whose testimony is not required to be taken.

If all such witnesses shall be out of the United States, then it will be sufficient to take the testimony of such of them as the court may require, and to prove the signature or signatures of the others.

The testimony of such witnesses out of the District to be taken hereunder shall be under a commission issued by the court to one or more competent persons, and in such case the original will or codicil shall accompany the commission and be exhibited to the witnesses.

No notice need be given of the time and place of taking such testimony, unless in a case in which probate is opposed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1211, ch. 854, § 132.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEPOSITIONS

Depositions can be substituted for oral testimony only by statutory authority. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

EVIDENCE

Declarations of testatrix made after execution of her will showing that she made a different disposition of her property are inadmissible, especially when there is no tendency to show want of mental capacity. Lipphard v. Humphrey, (28 App. D. C. 355, affd. 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 28 Sup. Ct. 561).

NONRESIDENT WITNESS

"Section 132 of the Code (this section) specifically provides that, if the testimony of the resident witness is taken and any other witness resides out of the District, it shall be sufficient to prove the signature of such nonresident witness, and that the will shall thereupon be admitted to probate." Scott v. Herrell (31 App. D. C. 45).

TESTIMONY OF WITNESS IN FOREIGN COUNTRY

D. C. 1901, § 1058 (31 Stat. 1354, ch. 854 (§ 14-201)) expressly provides that to take the testimony of a witness in a foreign country, letters rogatory shall issue, addressed to some court of record therein, accompanied by the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories propounded to the witness. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

§ 19-307 [29: 57]. Caveat—Will not to be probated while issues pending.

If, upon or prior to the hearing of the application to admit the will to probate, any party in interest shall file a caveat in opposition, duly verified, and setting forth facts inconsistent with the validity of the will, the said will shall not be admitted to probate until the issues raised by said caveat shall be determined, as hereinafter directed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1212, ch. 854, § 136.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BURDEN OF PROOF

Under a caveat to a will challenging the mental capacity of the testator, whether before or after the will has been admitted to probate, the burden of proof on the issue whether the testator was of sound and disposing mind and capable of executing a valid deed or contract, is upon the caveator. Brosnan v. Brosnan (263 U. S. 345, 68 L. Ed. 332, 44 Sup. Ct. 117).

EQUITABLE REMEDIES

"Equity furnishes the only complete remedy in the exceptional class of cases * * * where the complex relief sought consists in setting aside a deed and will embracing the same property and the same parties, enjoining the beneficiaries * * * and declaring them trustees * * * with a general order for an accounting. This is true, even though there be * * * an adequate statutory remedy (this section and § 19-309)." Karrick v. Landon (41 App. D. C. 416).

§ 19-308 [29: 58]. Admission to probate.

If, upon hearing the proofs submitted, the court shall be of opinion that the will was duly executed and the testator was competent to execute the same, and no caveat shall be filed against the admission of the same to probate, the court shall decree that the said will be admitted to probate and record. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1212, ch. 854, § 134.)

§ 19-309 [29: 59]. Caveat—When to be filed.

If, upon the hearing of the application to admit a will to probate, the court shall decree that the same be admitted to probate, any person in interest may file a caveat to said will and pray that the probate thereof may be revoked at any time within three months after such decree, if it be a will of personal property, and as far as it is a will of personal property; and if it be a will of real estate, and as far as it is such will of real estate, any person interested actually served with process or personally appearing in such proceedings may file such caveat within one year after such decree; any person interested who at said time was returned "Not to be found" and was proceeded against by publication may file such caveat within two years after such decree; and any person interested who at the time of said decree is within the age of twenty-one years may file such caveat within one year after he becomes of age. NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEARANCE

Signing of waiver constitutes appearance, but, by leave of court, same may be withdrawn. Fardon v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 69).

Signing of waiver brings one within one-year limitation, notwithstanding fact that there was a subsequent order of publication. Fardon v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 69).

ESTOPPEL TO FILE

Quaere: Whether receipt of legacy under will works an estoppel to file a caveat and effect of offer to return the same. Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

RIGHT TO FILE

"The object of the section is to extend to the persons coming within its description a certain period within which to contest a will that has been regularly admitted to probate. As to them the probate is not a finality until the expiration of the prescribed periods. Until then the right to the caveat is absolute." Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

Waiver and consent does not deprive any person of right to file a caveat. Fardon v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 69), citing Bowen v. Howenstein (39 App. D. C. 585).

SUFFICIENCY OF INTEREST

The interest which a person must possess to enable him to assail the validity of a will is such that, had the testator died intestate, he would have been entitled to a distributive share in the estate. Angell v. Groff (42 App. D. C. 193).

Petition for caveat of will must show petitioner to be "next of kin," but also "person in interest." Naylor v. Mealy (62 App. D. C. 321, 67 Fed. (2d) 693).

To be a person interested, a beneficiary under a prior will must show that, except for the effect of the later will, if valid, to revoke the earlier one, the latter remained the last will and testament of the testator until his death. Werner v. Frederick (68 App. D. C. 158, 94 Fed. (2d) 627).

TIME FOR FILING

When the caveat was not filed until more than three months after the order of probate, the allegations of fraud, practiced in procuring the waiver of citation and service, were evidently made to excuse their failure to proceed within statutory period, and when further delayed for year and day, it was of no effect. Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

When person was legally alive for more than two years after the probate of his father's will, he was barred from caveating the will, and his heirs, having no rights which they could assert during his lifetime, are likewise barred. Angell v. Groff (42 App. D. C. 193).

§ 19-310 [29: 60]. No prior will to be probated pending issues.

While issues raised by a caveat are pending, either for trial or on appeal, no prior will shall be admitted to probate. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 557, ch. 153, § 137a.)

§ 19-311 [29: 61]. Plenary proceedings.

The court may, in all cases of controversy therein, direct a plenary proceeding to be had, by bill or petition, to which there shall be answer under oath, which may be compelled by the usual process, and all the depositions shall be taken down in writing and filed; or, if either party shall require it, the court shall direct an issue to be made up to be tried by a jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1213, ch. 854, § 139.)

§ 19-312 [29: 62]. Trial of issues as to wills—Trial by jury—Notice—Service to absent parties not essential for jurisdiction—Judgment.

Whenever any caveat shall be filed, issues shall be framed under the direction of the court for trial by jury: Provided, That in all cases in which all persons interested are sui juris and before the court the issues may be tried and determined by the court, without a jury, upon the written consent of all such parties. If they are to be tried by a jury, they shall be triable in said probate court by petit jurors drawn for service in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia; and at least ten days prior to the time of trial all of the heirs at law or next of kin of the decedent, or both together, as the case may require, and all persons claiming under the will in question, or any other instrument on file purporting to be a will of the decedent, shall be each served with a copy of said issues and a notification of the time and place of the trial thereof. If any one of them be an infant or of unsound mind he shall have a guardian ad litem appointed for him by the court before such trial shall proceed. If, as to any party in interest, the notification shall be returned "not to be found," the court shall assign a new day for such trial, and shall order publication, at least twice a week for a period of not less than four weeks, of the substance of the issues and of the date fixed for the trial thereof in some newspaper of general circulation in the District, and may order such further publication as the case may require. And the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may from time to time prescribe and revise rules and regulations for service personally upon such party outside of the District of Columbia of a copy of such issues and notification. Personal service on absent parties shall not be essential to the jurisdiction of the court. The proceeding for impaneling a jury for the trial of said issues shall be the same as if they were being tried in the Circuit Court. In all cases in which such issues shall be tried the verdict of the jury and the judgment of the court thereupon shall, subject to proceedings in error and to such revision as the common law provides, be res judicata as to all persons; nor shall the validity of such judgment be impeached or examined collaterally. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1213, ch. 854, § 140; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 557, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "a copy of the issues and notification of trial" and substituted therefor the words "the substance of the issues and of the date fixed for trial thereof."

The 1920 amendment provided for service in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and struck out a sentence following the sentence ending "of the court" and three sentences at the end of the section, all of which were procedural as to juries.

BURDEN OF PROOF

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMPENSATION ALTHOUGH DISQUALIFIED

Where petitioners failed to bring the disqualification of the administrator to the attention of the probate court until administration was almost completed, such administrator will be allowed reasonable commissions and compensation to date of appointment and qualification of his successor, including expenses and reasonable attorney's fees, and costs of the proceeding will be taxed against petitioners. In re Allen's Estate ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 243).

DISQUALIFICATION OR REMOVAL

An order removing a disqualified administrator is a final appealable order. Perry v. Wilson (60 App. D. C. 109, 48 Fed. (2d) 1021).

Petitioners whose knowledge of the disqualification of administrator existed at the time of his appointment are reprimanded by the court for failure to disclose it at that time. In re Allen's Estate ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 243).

Conviction of conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act is sufficient under this act to disqualify and cause removal of an administrator. In re Allen's Estate ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 243).

§ 20-102 [29: 72]. Persons between 18 and 21 years of age.

In case letters testamentary or of administration shall be granted to any person above eighteen but under twenty-one years of age, the bond executed by him for the faithful performance of his duties shall be as binding as if he were of full age. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1236, ch. 854, § 294.)

§ 20-103 [29: 73]. Administrator with the will annexed—Preference.

In case any will admitted to probate shall not appoint an executor, or the executor therein appointed shall have died or renounced the executorship, or shall be incompetent to serve, administration shall be granted with the will annexed to the person who would have been entitled to administration in case of the intestacy of the deceased testator: Provided, however, That if there be a residuary legatee named in such will, he shall be preferred to all, except a widow. And the condition of the bond of the administrator so appointed and the oath to be taken by him and his duties and liabilities shall be the same if he had been appointed executor in the will and had received letters testamentary. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1236, ch. 854, § 298.)

Whenever any person shall apply to the probate court for letters testamentary or of administration, he shall set forth, under oath, as fully as possible, all the personal and real estate left by the decedent and the amount of his debts as far as can be ascertained; and the penalty of the bond required of him, except in the cases provided for in sections 20-203, 20-302, 20-303, shall be sufficient to secure the proper application of all the personal estate of the testator or intestate; and when it shall become necessary to sell the real estate of the decedent, in part or in whole, the executor or administrator shall give such additional bond, with approved security, as shall be directed by the court, to secure the proper application of the proceeds arising from such sale or sales. And whenever an executor is empowered by the will to make sale of the real estate of the testator, for any purpose, he shall account for said proceeds in said court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1237, ch. 854, § 299.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPOINTMENT OF BROTHER OR MOTHER

Where decedent's father was also his administrator, the appointment, at father's death, of brother as administrator, to exclusion of divorced mother, was proper. Haviland v. Harriss (60 App. D. C. 255, 50 Fed. (2d) 1069).

§ 20-106 [29: 76]. Will proved after letters granted—Letters revoked—Administrator's liability—Pending actions—Accounting—Prior distribution—Will declared invalid after distribution—Liability.

If administration be granted, and a will disposing of the estate of the deceased shall afterwards be proved according to law, and letters testamentary shall have issued thereon, the same shall be considered a revocation of the letters of administration. But the administrator shall not be held to answer for any acts done by him according to law, in good faith, and in ignorance of such will and before any actual or implied revocation of his letters; and the executor obtaining letters shall be authorized to prosecute any actions at law or in equity commenced by the administrator and obtain judgment in his own name, and likewise to defend any suit commenced against the administrator; and said executor shall have the benefit of all judgments obtained by the administrator and be bound by all judgments obtained against him to the extent of assets received by said executor, unless such judgments were obtained by fraud. And it shall be the duty of said administrator to account for and deliver to the executor without delay all goods, chattels, and personal estate and proceeds of any realty sold in his possession, belonging to the deceased, in default of which his bond may be put in suit by the executor or administrator cum testamento annexo.

And if distribution of the estate, or any part thereof, shall have been lawfully made by the administrator, the distributee or distributees, and their personal representatives, and not the administrator so distributing the estate, shall be answerable for the property so distributed, or its value, to the person or persons thereto entitled.

And if any will be hereafter adjudged invalid in any action begun after distribution of the estate, or any part thereof, lawfully made by the executor or executrix, in good faith and without knowledge on his or her part of the invalidity of such will, and without notice that such action was intended, the distributee or distributees of the property, and their personal representatives, and not such executor or executrix, shall be answerable for the property, or its value, to the person or persons thereto entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1235, ch. 854, § 290; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 528, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment changed the first part of the second sentence of the first paragraph before the semicolon which formerly read: "But all acts done by the administrator according to law, before any actual or implied revocation of his letters, shall be valid and effectual," and added the last two paragraphs of the section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EFFECT OF LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Letters of administration granted on a petition setting out the existence of a will and averring that no proceedings had been taken for its probate and seeking no adjudication as to the will, and the order being silent on that point, is not an adjudication that decedent died intestate. Morris v. Foster (51 App. D. C. 238, 278 Fed. 321). A subsequent probate of the will and granting of letters testamentary revoke the letters of administration. Morris v. Foster (51 App. D. C. 238, 278 Fed. 321), citing In re Coit (3 App. D. C. 246).

§ 20-107 [29: 77]. Removal of co-executor, co-administrator, or co-collector for negligence or misconduct—Complaint—Recovery of loss or damage.

If any joint executor, administrator, or collector shall apprehend that he is likely to suffer by the negligence or misconduct in the administration or the improper use or misapplication of the assets of the estate by any co-executor, co-administrator, or co-collector, he may make complaint to said court; and if said complaint shall be adjudged well founded, the court shall have authority, in its discretion, to revoke the powers and authority of the executor, administrator, or collector so complained of and to compel the delivery and surrender to the remaining executor, administrator, or collector of the assets and all books, papers, and evidences of debt of the estate that may be in the possession or control of the person so dismissed from the administration; and the remaining executors, administrators, or collectors shall be entitled to recover, in an action on the case, for any loss or damage they may suffer through the executor, administrator, or collector whose powers shall have been revoked as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 854, § 125.)

§ 20-108 [29: 78]. Additional bond—Failure to provide—Revocation—Delivery of assets.

Whenever the probate court shall be satisfied that the bond already given by an executor or administrator is insufficient, the said executor or administrator may be required to file an additional bond, and on his failure to do so his letters may be revoked. And upon the revocation of letters testamentary or of administration under this provision, the executor or administrator whose letters are so revoked shall forthwith deliver to any substituted executor or administrator all the assets of his testator or intestate in his possession or under his control. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1236, ch. 854, § 296.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PETITION FOR ADDITIONAL BOND

Court has power, upon petition of attorney who has contract with executrix for payment of a fee, but no lien on proceeds of judgment, alleging insolvency of executrix and her intention to remove the fund from the jurisdiction on its receipt, to require the executrix to give additional bond, or revoke her letters and thus prevent collection of judgment by her. Parish v. McGowan (39 App. D. C. 184, revd. on other grounds, 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. Ed. 955, 35 Sup. Ct. 543). See also Cropper v. McLane (6 App. D. C. 119, dism. 163 U. S. 682, 41 L. Ed. 316, 16 Sup. If any surety of an executor or administrator shall apprehend himself to be in danger of suffering from the suretyship, he may apply to the probate court, and the said court may call upon the party to give counter security, to be approved by the court; and if the party so called on shall not, within a fixed reasonable time, give counter security, the court may order the property remaining in the hands of such executor or administrator to be delivered up to such surety, and the court may enforce the delivery by proper process; and an inventory of the property delivered to such surety shall be returned without delay, and the property contained in such inventory shall be by the said surety sold, distributed, and delivered up, as the case may require, under the immediate order of the court, as if such surety were executor or administrator; but inasmuch as it would be inconvenient to creditors and others interested in the estate, if there should be a double administration, the executor or administrator shall go on to discharge his trust, unless the court revoke his letters for some just cause, as hereinbefore directed, and he shall be answerable for the property in the same manner as if it were not on his default as aforesaid delivered to the surety; and he shall be entitled to sue the said surety and recover damages in case he shall suffer from the misconduct of such surety, in diminishing any part of the property, without obtaining an allowance for the same from the court; and the said surety shall bring into court, to be deposited with the register of wills, the money arising from the sale of any property as aforesaid, to be applied according to the meaning of this code. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTIES OF EXECUTOR

Under a bequest of the income of a fund to a life tenant, with remainder over, it is the duty of the executor to invest the fund, pay the income to the person entitled for life, and preserve the principal for the remainderman. Payne v. Robinson (26 App. D. C. 283).

STATUS OF EXECUTOR

"The executor does not cease to be executor because the period of administration, so called, may be passed. He is still executor as long as he has anything under the will to execute." Marfield v. McCurdy (25 App. D. C. 342).

"The principal difference between an executor during the period of administration and an executor after the lapse of the period of administration is that the former is responsible to the probate court for the faithful execution of his trust, the latter to a court of equity." Marfield v. McCurdy (25 App. D. C. 342).

§ 20-116 [29: 86]. Continuing decedent's business—Verified petition—Affidavits—Contents—Accounting—Debts of business as expenses of estate.

The probate court may, in its discretion, authorize any fiduciary, accountable to it, to continue the business of a decedent for a period not exceeding twelve months after decedent's death. No order shall be entered so authorizing a fiduciary until he shall have filed a petition under oath, supported by the affidavits of two reputable persons familiar with the decedent's business, setting forth the appraised value of the business, whether the decedent conducted it at a profit or loss and the approximate amount thereof, and the estimated amount of the expenses per month necessary to be incurred in order to continue the business. Any fiduciary who is given such authorization shall file monthly statements showing all receipts and disbursements, debts contracted and obligations incurred, and the profit or loss; and the court, in its discretion, may order the discontinuance of the business at any time.

Debts contracted and obligations incurred by the fiduciary in so continuing the business of the decedent shall be deemed to be an expense of administration of the estate. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 556, ch. 153, § 123a.)

Every bond executed by an executor or administrator shall be recorded in the office of the register of wills; and any person conceiving himself to be interested in the administration of the estate shall be entitled to have or demand a copy of such bond, under the hand and seal of the register of wills, on which an action may be maintained, in the name of the United States, for the use of the party interested, and judgment may be recovered in such action for the damage actually sustained. And an administrator appointed in the place of an executor or administrator who has resigned, been removed, or whose letters have been revoked, may in like manner maintain an action against the executor or former administrator and his sureties, on his administration bond, for all loss and damage to the estate resulting from this breach of duty. No creditor shall be entitled to maintain an action on a testamentary or administration bond for any claim against a testator or intestate until, when practicable, an action has been commenced against the executor or administrator of the deceased and a summons issued therein has been returned "Not to be found," or a writ of fieri facias or of attachment, issued on a judgment against such executor or administrator, has been returned "nulla bona," or until such apparent insolvency of the executor or administrator or insufficiency of his effects as in the judgment of the court before which such action may be tried shall show the said creditor to be without remedy except by such action on the executor's or administrator's bond. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1236, ch. 854, § 297; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 529, ch. 1329.)

If said executor shall not have been present at the probate of the will, but shall be within the District, a summons may be issued to him, either at the instance of any person interested or ex officio by the register of wills, requiring him to appear and file his bond as required by law within twenty days after service of said summons; and if he be not found in said District, notice shall be given to him by publication to appear within thirty days after the first publication of said notice, and on his failure to appear and give his bond and qualify by taking the prescribed oath, as aforesaid, administration may be granted as if no executor had been named in the will. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1233, ch. 854, § 267.)

If there be more than one executor named in a will, there may be the same proceeding with respect to each of them as if he were the sole executor, and any circumstances under which letters of administration may be granted on failure of a sole-named executor shall authorize the granting of letters testamentary to one or more of the executors on failure of one or more of the others; and any circumstances under which letters of administration may be granted on failure of a sole-named executor shall authorize the granting of such letters of administration on failure of all the executors named to appear and qualify as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1233, ch. 854, § 268.)

If any executor named in a will shall file or transmit to the probate court an attested renunciation of his executorship, there shall be the same proceeding with respect to granting letters testamentary or of administration as if the party so renouncing had not been named in the will. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Probate court has authority, in case of the contest of a will, to appoint a collector of the personal estate, under sec. 304 of the 1901 Code (31 Stat. 1237, ch. 854 (§ 20-401)), and his powers, when so appointed, are those in general of a temporary administrator. Hutchins v. Dante (40 App. D. C. 262).

Duty of executors and trustees in respect to the payment of income is merely ministerial, and the collector, acting as administrator, may, under the court's direction, temporarily perform that duty. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 122).

Under secs. 306-308 of the 1901 Code (31 Stat. 1238, ch. 854 (§§ 20-403 to 20-405)), collectors may bring suits, but there is no expression permitting suits to be brought against them. Berry & Whitmore Co. v. Dante (43 App. D. C. 110).

Attorneys rendering services to the estate may recover fees from collector when such services were requested by collector in his representative capacity. Brandenburg v. Dante (49 App. D. C. 141, 261 Fed. 1021).

POWERS OF COLLECTOR

Collector has no power under this section (as amended) to prosecute appeal from order disbarring his decedent from practice of law. Metzger v. O'Donoghue (53 App. D. C. 107, 288 Fed. 461).

§ 20-404 [29: 154]. When powers to cease.

On the granting of letters testamentary or of administration the power of any such collector shall cease, and it shall be his duty to deliver, on demand, all the property and money of the decedent in his hands, except as before excepted, to the person obtaining such letters, and the executor or administrator may be permitted to prosecute any suit commenced by said collector as if the same had been begun by said executor or administrator, and may also defend any suit brought against said collector by any creditor of the deceased. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1238, ch. 854, § 307; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 562, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment added the last phrase.

§ 20-405 [29: 155]. Liability of collector for refusing to deliver estate.

If the said collector shall neglect or refuse to deliver over the property and estate to the executor or administrator, the court may, by citation and attachment, compel him to do so, and the executor or administrator may also proceed, by civil action, to recover the value of the assets from him and his sureties by action on his bond. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1238, ch. 854, § 308; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 562, ch. 153.)

RIGHT TO SUE

Congress was careful to use words that in no way abridged the right to pursue such a remedy of one in whose favor the remedy was inferentially recognized in the preceding sections. Brandenburg v. Danie (49 App. D. C. 141, 261 Fed. 1021).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JURISDICTION OF SUIT

"An executor or administrator cannot be sued in another jurisdiction than that which the administration of the estate is depending, for an accounting, or for acts involving the administration of the estate, or the assets thereof in his hands as such executor or administrator." Johns v. Herbert (2 App. D. C. 485).

If, however, he becomes a trustee of the property, after the estate should be closed, "he is amenable to suit in the courts of any jurisdiction within which he may be found." Johns v. Herbert (2 App. D. C. 485).

"An administrator or executor cannot sue or be sued in his representative capacity in any other jurisdiction than the one of his appointment, except where it is permitted by the laws of the jurisdiction in which the suit is sought to be maintained." Bryan v. Curtis (30 App. D. C. 234), citing Plumb v. Bateman (2 App. D. C. 156).

The right conferred by section 329 of the 1901 code (§ 20-505) does not imply "that suit can be maintained in the courts of the District against such administrator or executor." Bryan v. Curtis (30 App. D. C. 234, cited with approval in Ryan v. McAdoo, 46 App. D. C. 117).

Section 1 of the Municipal Court Act (41 Stat. 1310), this section, and section 328 of the 1901 code (§ 20-502) are in pari materia, and must be construed together. The municipal court has no jurisdiction over suits against executors or administrators. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

SALE BY EXECUTOR

When will directs the executor to sell the real estate of testator, the legal title vests in him and he has the power to convey, and also authority to enforce specific performance of contract for the sale. Griffith v. Stewart (31 App. D. C. 29, affd. 217 U. S. 323, 54 L. Ed. 782, 30 Sup. Ct. 528, 19 Ann. Cas. 639).

§ 20-502 [29: 252]. Judgments against executors or administrator—Amount of damages—When assessed.

If the verdict of the jury in any suit against an executor or administrator be against such executor or administrator, or if he shall be willing to confess judgment, and the debt or damages which the deceased (if he or she were alive) ought to pay be ascertained by verdict, or confession, or otherwise, the court shall thereupon assess the sum which the executor or administrator ought to pay, regard being had to the amount of assets in his hands and the debts due to other persons; and if it shall appear to the court that there are assets to discharge all just claims against the deceased, the judgment shall be for the whole debt or damages found by the jury, or confessed, or otherwise ascertained, and costs; and if it shall appear to the court that there are not assets to discharge all such just claims, the judgment shall be for such sum only as bears a just proportion to the amount of the debt or damages and costs, regard being had to the amount of all the just claims and of the assets—that is to say, as the amount of all the said claims shall be to the assets, so shall the amount of the said debt or damages and costs be to the sum required, for which judgment is to be given.

And in no case shall the court proceed to assess as aforesaid and to pass such judgment against an executor or administrator until the time limited by law or by the court for the executor or administrator to pass his account shall have expired: Provided, That the said executor or administrator shall make oath (or affirmation, as the case may require) that he hath not assets to discharge all such just claims; and the account settled by the probate court, in which the debt or damages sued for ought to be stated, shall be evidence to show the amount of assets and claims; and the court shall have power, when the real debt or damages are ascertained, to refer the matter to an auditor to ascertain the sum for which judgment shall be given; and in case the judgment shall be for a sum inferior to the real debt or damage and costs, it shall go on and say "that the plaintiff be entitled to such further sum as the court shall hereafter assess on discovery of further assets in the hands of the defendant"; and the court, at any time afterwards, when applied to by the plaintiff, on three days' notice to the defendant or his attorney, may assess and give judgment for such further proportionable sum as the plaintiff shall appear entitled to, regard being had as aforesaid to the amount of the debt and other claims; and on any judgment passed as aforesaid a fieri facias may issue against the defendant, and either his own goods or the goods of the deceased may be thereupon taken and sold, and it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator to discharge said judgment or put it on a footing with other just claims, and on failure his administration bond may be put in suit by the plaintiff. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1242, ch. 854, § 328.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JURISDICTION OF SUIT

Section 1 of the Municipal Court Act (§ 11-703) and sections 327 and 328 of the 1901 Code (§§ 20-501, 20-502) are in pari materia, and must be construed together. Cases covered by said sections 327 and 328 are to be treated as exceptions to those coming within the purview of section 1. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

§ 20-503 [29: 253]. Concealment of assets by strangers.

If an executor, administrator, or collector shall believe that any person conceals any part of his decedent's estate, he may file a petition in said court alleging such concealment, and the court may compel an answer thereto on oath; and if satisfied, upon an examination of the whole case, that the party charged has concealed any part of the estate of the deceased, the court may order the delivery thereof to the executor, administrator, or collector, and may enforce obedience to such order in the same manner in which orders of said court may be enforced. DETERMINATION OF OWNERSHIP

On petition of creditor, court is without jurisdiction to order fund in possession of third person (who claims an interest therein) paid into the registry of the court. Cook v. Speare (13 App. D. C. 446).

Purpose of section is to furnish prompt remedy for discovery of assets and their reduction to possession when discovered. "But we are unable to find a further intention to confer upon the probate court jurisdiction to determine the question of the actual ownership of such property" as between executor and rival claimant. Richardson v. Daggett (24 App. D. C. 440).

§ 20-504 [29: 254]. Concealment by executor or administrator.

If any person interested in any decedent's estate shall by petition allege that the executor, administrator, or collector has concealed or has in his hands and has omitted to return in the inventory or list of debts any part of his decedent's assets, and the court shall finally adjudge and decree in favor of the allegations of the petition, in whole or in part, it shall order an additional inventory or list of debts, as the case may be, to be returned by the executor, administrator, or collector, and appraisement to be made accordingly, to comprehend the assets omitted, and the court may compel obedience to said order, and, if the same is not complied with, revoke the letters testamentary or of administration or of collection and order the bond of the executor, administrator, or collector to be put in suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 854, § 124.)

RIGHT TO HEARING

Petition charging executor with concealing assets is a pleading only and not evidence; and executor is entitled to his day in court—in other words, to a trial upon the evidence. Brosnan v. Brosnan (53 App. D. C. 149, 289 Fed. 547, citing Williams v. Williams 24 App. D. C. 214); Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

§ 20-505 [29: 255]. Foreign executors and administrators—Suits by.

It shall be lawful for any person or persons to whom letters testamentary or of administration have been granted by the proper authority in any of the United States or the territories thereof to maintain any suit or action and to prosecute and recover any claim in the District in the same manner as if the letters testamentary or of administration had been granted to such person or persons by the proper authority in the said District; and the letters testamentary or of administration, or a copy thereof certified under the seal of the authority granting the same, shall be sufficient evidence to prove the granting thereof, and that the person or persons, as the case may be, hath or have administration: Provided, nevertheless, That the probate court of the District shall have the power, upon the petition of anyone interested, to require from such person or persons the security required by law in like cases from a resident administrator or executor, or the said court may grant auxiliary or ancillary letters, as the case may require, to the same or other persons. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1242, ch. 854, § 329.)

PARTIES IN SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE

Such an executor may maintain specific performance without joining heirs. Griffith v. Stewart (31 App. D. C. 29, affd. 217 U. S. 323, 54 L. Ed. 782, 30 Sup. Ct. 528, 19 Ann. Cas. 639).

WHAT LAW GOVERNS

"Letters of administration obtained in the jurisdiction of the domicile of the decedent prevail over letters of administration de bonis non granted in this District, and the statute confers upon such foreign administrator the right 'to recover from any individual within the District of Columbia effects or money belonging to the testator or intestate, and that letters testamentary or of administration obtained in either of the States or Territories of this Union give a right to the person having them to receive or give discharges for assets, without suit, which may be in the hands of any person in the District of Columbia.' Kane v. Paul (14 Pet. (39 U. S.) 33, 10 L. Ed. 341)." Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313).

A suit filed by a Maryland executor for specific performance of a contract to buy realty located in Maryland must be governed by the law of that state. Griffith v. Stewart

Local administrator, however, may maintain action for death by wrongful act over the objection of the defendant where "the foreign executor did not attempt to bring this suit, and is not here complaining because it was brought by appellee. In such a situation, we think, he may be presumed to have waived any right conferred upon him by the local statute, and that such waiver may be taken advantage of by the real party in interest." Southern R. Co. v. Hawkins (35 App. D. C. 313). See Western Union Tel. Co. v. Lipscomb (22 App. D. C. 104).

Under this section, the domiciliary administrator of a Michigan decedent's estate might have the estate in the District of Columbia administered by the probate court, or might apply for the appointment of an ancillary administrator. Wiggins v. Mayer (57 App. D. C. 293, 22 Fed. (2d) 869).

While authorizing a domiciliary administratrix to sue in the courts of the District of Columbia, this section limits the purposes of such suits and, by implication, limits exercise of the power to situations in which no ancillary administration has been granted in the District. Duehay v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co. (70 App. D. C. 245, 105 Fed. (2d) 768).

Nothing contained in this section reveals an intention on the part of Congress to abandon the well-established principle of law which governs ancillary administrations. Duehay v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co. (70 App. D. C. 245, 105 Fed. (2d) 768).

§ 20-506 [29: 256]. Suits on bonds against heirs.

No creditor by a bond which purports to bind the heirs of the obligor shall be entitled to sue the heirs at common law in respect of assets descended to them, but debts by specialty and by simple contract, without distinction, shall be payable primarily out of the personal estate, and, if that be insufficient, shall be payable equally and without preference out of the proceeds of the real estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1247, ch. 854, § 360.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

"WITHOUT THE DISTRICT" DEFINED

To be "without the District of Columbia continuously for two years or longer" must be held to mean to be uninterruptedly and physically beyond the confines of the District, and not merely to establish residence outside of the District. De Ruiz v. De Ruiz (66 App. D. C. 370, 88 Fed. (2d) 752).

§ 20-702 [29: 305]. Warrant to United States marshal—Fees of marshal.

The court may thereupon issue a warrant directed to the United States marshal in and for the District of Columbia, commanding him to take possession of the property named in said schedule and hold it subject to the order of the court and make return of said warrant as soon as may be, with a statement of his actions thereon and a schedule of the property so taken. The marshal shall post a copy of the warrant upon each parcel of land named in the schedule and cause so much of the warrant as relates to land to be recorded with the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia. He shall receive such fees for serving the warrant as the court allows, but not more than those established by law for similar service upon a writ of attachment. If the petition is dismissed, said fees and the cost of publishing and serving the notice hereinafter provided shall be paid by the petitioner; but if a receiver is appointed, they shall be paid by the receiver and allowed in his account. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 111, ch. 46, § 2.)

§ 20-703 [29: 306]. Notice of hearing to absentee and interested parties.

Upon the return of such warrant, the court may issue a notice reciting the substance of the petition, the warrant, and the marshal's return, which shall be addressed to such absentee and to all persons who claim of record an interest in said property, or who are known to petitioner to claim an interest in said property, and to all whom it may concern, citing them to appear at a time and place named and show cause why a receiver of the property named in the marshal's schedule should not be appointed and said property held and disposed of under the provisions of sections 20-701 to 20-714. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 111, ch. 46, § 3.)

§ 20-704 [29: 307]. Time of hearing—Publication and posting of notice.

The return day of said notice shall be not less than thirty nor more than sixty days after its date unless otherwise ordered by the court. The court shall order said notice to be published not less than once in each of three successive weeks in one or more newspapers within the District of Columbia, and a copy to be posted in a conspicuous place and upon each parcel of land named in the marshal's schedule, and a copy to be mailed to the last known address of such absentee. The court may order other and further notice to be given within or without the District of Columbia. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 4.)

§ 20-705 [29: 308]. Appointment of receiver—Bond—Finding of date of disappearance.

The absentee or any person who claims an interest in any of the property may appear and show cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The court may, after hearing, dismiss the petition and order the property in possession of the marshal to be returned to the person entitled thereto, or it may appoint a receiver of the property which is in the possession of the marshal and named in his schedule. If a receiver is appointed, the court shall find and record the date of the disappearance or absconding of the absentee; and such receiver shall give bond to said court in such sum and with such condition as the court orders, with a corporate surety thereon approved by the court. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 5.)

§ 20-706 [29: 309]. Transfer of property to receiver—Schedule of property.

After the approval of such bond the court may order the marshal to transfer and deliver to such receiver the possession of the property under the aforesaid warrant, and the receiver shall file in said court a schedule of the property received by him. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 6.)

§ 20-707 [29: 310]. Receiver may take possession of additional property of and debts due absentee—Appointment of receiver.

Such receiver upon petition filed by him may be authorized and directed by the court to take possession of any additional property within the District of Columbia which belongs to such absentee and to demand and collect all debts due such absentee from any person within the District of Columbia, and hold the same as if it had been transferred and delivered to him by the marshal. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 7.)

If such absentee has left no corporeal property within the District of Columbia, but there are debts and obligations due or owing to him from persons within the District of Columbia, a petition may be filed as provided in section 20-701, stating the nature and amount of such debts and obligations, so far as known, and praying that a receiver thereof may be appointed. The court may thereupon issue a notice as above provided, without issuing a warrant, and may, upon the return of said notice and after a summary hearing, dismiss the petition or appoint a receiver and authorize and direct him to demand and collect the debts and obligations specified in said petition. The receiver shall give bond as provided in section 20-705, and shall hold the proceeds of such debts and obligations and all property received by him, and distribute the same as hereinafter provided. The court may confer upon the receiver such further authority as may be conferred under section 20-707. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 8.)

§ 20-709 [29: 312]. Care, custody, sale of property.

The court may make orders for the care, custody, leasing, and investing of all property and its proceeds in the possession of the receiver. After the appointment of a receiver, upon his petition and after notice, the court may order all or part of said property, including the rights of the absentee in land, to be mortgaged, or sold at public or private sale, to supply money for payments authorized by sections 20-701 to 20-714 or for reinvestment approved by the court. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 112, ch. 46, § 9.)

The court may order said property or its proceeds acquired by mortgage, lease, or sale to be applied in payment of charges incurred or that may be incurred in the support and maintenance of the absentee's wife and minor children, and to the discharge of such debts and claims for alimony as may be proved against said absentee. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 10.)

§ 20-711 [29: 314]. Receiver may adjust claims of or against estate.

The court may authorize the receiver to adjust by arbitration or compromise any demand in favor of or against the estate of such absentee. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 11.)

§ 20-712 [29: 315]. Compensation of receiver—Interest of absentee in property to cease after fourteen years.

The receiver shall be allowed such compensation and disbursements as the court orders, to be paid out of said property or proceeds. If within fourteen years after the date of the disappearance and absconding as found and recorded by the court, such absentee appears, or an administrator, executor, assignee in insolvency, or trustee in bankruptcy of such absentee is appointed, such receiver shall account for, deliver, and pay over to him the remainder of said property. If such absentee does not appear and claim said property within such fourteen years, all his right, title, and interest in said property, real or personal, or the proceeds thereof shall cease, and no action shall be brought by him on account thereof. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 12.)

§ 20-713 [29: 316]. Distribution after fourteen years as if absentee had died intestate.

If at the expiration of such fourteen years said property has not been accounted for, delivered, or paid over under the provisions of section 20-712, the court shall order the distribution of the remainder to the persons to whom, and in the shares and proportions in which, it would have been distributed if such absentee had died intestate within the District of Columbia on the day fourteen years after the date of the disappearance or absconding as found and recorded by the court. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 13.)

§ 20-714 [29: 317]. Time for distribution and accounting when receiver not appointed within 13 years.

If such receiver is not appointed within thirteen years after the date found by the court under section 20-705, the time limited for accounting for, or fixed for distributing, said property or its proceeds, or for barring actions relative thereto, shall be one year after the date of the appointment of the receiver instead of the fourteen years provided in sections 20-712, 20-713; except that the time limited for accounting for, or fixed for distributing, any additional property or its proceeds within the District of Columbia coming into the possession of such receiver during such one year period, or for barring actions relative thereto, shall be one year after the date possession is taken by such receiver. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 14.)

Nothing contained in sections 20-701 to 20-714 shall be construed as repealing or modifying sections 14-501 or 14-502. (Apr. 8, 1935, 49 Stat. 113, ch. 46, § 15.)

§ 21-106 [15:35]. Bond required from parents of child entitled to property.

When any infant whose father or mother may be living shall, by gift, or otherwise, be entitled to any property, the probate court may require the father or mother, as guardian, to give bond and security to account for the property, and on his or her failure or refusal so to do may appoint another person guardian, who shall give bond as in other cases. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1215, ch. 854, § 152.)

On application of any friend of an infant entitled to real or personal estate, or in the exercise of its own discretion, the court may enjoin any parent or husband or testamentary guardian of such infant from interfering with said infant's estate without being appointed and giving bond as guardian of such estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1369, ch. 854, § 1129.)

In case of the death of either parent from whom his or her minor children shall inherit or take by devise or bequest, such parent may by deed or last will and testament appoint a guardian of the property of the children, subject to the approval of the proper court of the District of Columbia: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be held to limit or affect the power of a court of equity to appoint some other person guardian of such children when it shall be made to appear to said court that the welfare of said children requires it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1369, ch. 854, § 1123.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section and section 21-101 were originally section 1123 of 1901 Code and probably should be read together.

COMPILER'S NOTE

The word "hereinafter" refers to the remainder of the sections of chapter 31 of the 1901 act, they being §§ 1129-1142. These sections appear in this code as §§ 21-107, 21-111, 21-114 to 21-116, 21-119, 21-120, 21-123 to 21-128, and 21-130.

§ 21-113 [15: 42]. Election of guardian by ward.

Every orphan or other infant to whom the probate court is authorized to appoint a guardian shall be entitled, on arriving at the age of fourteen years, notwithstanding any appointment of guardian before made by the court, to elect a guardian for himself; but such guardian must be approved by the court and shall be required to give bond as in other cases, and be subject to the control of the court as other guardians are. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1215, ch. 854, § 155.)

his final account and turn over his ward's estate to her husband, agreeably to the order and directions of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1140.)

Whenever an infant or lunatic residing without the District is entitled to a property in the District or to maintain any action therein, a general guardian or committee of his estate, appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction in the state or territory where said infant or lunatic resides, or any person at the request of said guardian or committee, may apply to the court by petition for ancillary letters as such guardian or committee. Said petition must be under oath and be accompanied with duly certified copies of so much of the record and proceedings as shows the appointment of such guardian or committee and that he has given a sufficient bond to account for all property and money that may come into his hands by virtue of the authority hereby conferred. The court may thereupon issue to such guardian or committee ancillary letters as such guardian or committee, without citation, or may cite such persons as it may think proper to show cause why the said application should be refused; and the said court shall require from such person or persons the security required by law in like cases from a resident guardian or committee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1141; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1905, 33 Stat. 1006, ch. 1441.)

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1901 was amended by act of 1902 by adding to the caption the words "or lunatic" and by inserting after the word "copies" in the second sentence the words "of so much"; also by striking out the word "showing" in the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the words "as shows."

The 1905 amendment added the provisions as to committees, and added that part of the last sentence following the semicolon.

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

§ 21-118 [15: 47]. Bond.

The court shall require of guardians so appointed (as provided in section 21-109), and of testamentary guardians, unless it be otherwise directed by the will appointing them, bond, with sufficient security, conditioned for the due discharge of their duties. The condition of the above obligation is such that if the above bounden ———, as guardian to ———, shall faithfully account to the court, as required by law, for the management of the property and estate of the infant under his care, and shall also deliver up said property agreeably to the order of the court or the directions of law, and shall in all respects perform the duty of guardian to the said ——— according to law, then the above obligation shall cease; it shall otherwise remain in full force and virtue. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1370, ch. 854, § 1131.)

The court may at any time require any guardian to give bond or additional bond, when the interests of the infant require it, and on his failure or refusal so to do may revoke his appointment and appoint another guardian in his place, and require the estate of the infant to be forthwith delivered to the newly appointed guardian, and may direct him to bring suit upon the bond of his predecessor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1215, ch. 854, § 153.)

If any surety of a guardian shall by petition set forth that he apprehends himself to be in danger of loss in consequence of his suretyship, and shall pray the court that he may be relieved, the court, after summoning the guardian to answer said petition, may require him to give counter security to indemnify his original surety or to deliver his ward's estate into the hands of the surety or of some other person; in either of which cases the court shall require sufficient security to be given by the person into whose hands said estate shall be delivered, and make such other order as may seem just. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1215, ch. 854, § 154.)

If any surety of a guardian, setting forth by petition that he apprehends himself to be in danger of suffering by said suretyship, shall pray to be relieved, the court, after service of a summons on the guardian to answer the petition, may order him to give counter security for the indemnity of the original surety, or to deliver the ward's estate into the hands of the surety or of some other person; in either of which cases the person into whose hands the ward's estate shall be delivered shall be required to give sufficient security for the proper management and application of the same, and such further order may be passed for the relief of the petitioner as may seem just. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1138.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIMITATION OF COMPENSATION

Limitation of compensation of committee of insane person to five per cent. of amount received and disbursed precludes allowance of additional fees. Hines v. Paregol (64 App. D. C. 306, 77 Fed. (2d) 953).

Committee who has wisely and judiciously preserved the estate of a lunatic should not be denied reasonable compensation merely because he had preserved the estate instead of expending it. In re Gallen ((D. C.-D. C.), 18 Fed. Supp. 683).

§ 21-127 [15:56]. Allowances made before bond was given.

Any allowance which may be made to a guardian for the clothing, support, maintenance, education, or other expenses incurred for the ward or his estate, before said guardian shall have given bond or been appointed, shall have the same effect and operation in law as if the same had been made subsequently to the appointment of said guardian and his giving bond. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1137.)

§ 21-128 [15:57]. Sale of realty.

Whenever any guardian shall think that the interests of his ward will be promoted by a sale of his real estate for the purpose of reinvesting the proceeds in other property or securities, he may make application therefor to the probate court, and such proceedings shall be had thereupon as directed in sections 21-201 to 21-213. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1136.)

§ 21-129 [15:58]. When guardianship ceases.

The natural guardianship or the appointive guardianship of the person aforesaid shall cease, in the case of a male infant when he is twenty-one years of age, and in the case of a female infant when she is eighteen years of age or marries. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1369, ch. 854, § 1126.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MAJORITY OF FEMALE INFANTS

There is no statute in force in the District of Columbia which clearly provides that female infants shall as a general rule attain their majority at the age of 18 years; exceptions to the common-law rule have been provided by statute, but these recognize the continued existence of the general rule of the common law. Jones v. Jones (63 App. D. C. 373, 72 Fed. (2d) 829, 95 A. L. R. 352).

MARRIAGE OF INFANT

A 13-year-old girl, legally married, was committed to the Board of Children's Guardians two years later as destitute and homeless, and later committed to the Reform School as incorrigible. The court held she was not entitled to release on habeas corpus, on the ground of her marriage. Richardson v. Browning (57 App. D. C. 186, 18 Fed. (2d) 1008).

§ 21-130 [15: 59]. Final account.

On the arrival of any ward at the age of twenty-one years the guardian shall exhibit a final account of his trust to the court, and shall deliver up, agreeably to the court's order, to the ward all the property of said ward in his hands, including bonds and other securities, and on his failure so to do his bond may be put in suit in the name of the United States for the use of the party interested, and he may be attached, as herein elsewhere provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1371, ch. 854, § 1139.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The words "as herein elsewhere provided" presumably refer to chapter 31 of the 1901 act from which this section is derived. This chapter is contained in this code as §§ 21-101 to 21-103, 21-107, 21-108, 21-110 to 21-112, 21-114 to 21-116, 21-119, 21-120, 21-123 to 21-130.

Wherever it shall appear, upon the petition of the infant by next friend or of the guardian of an infant, and the appearance and answer of such infant by guardian to be appointed by the court, and proof by depositions of one or more disinterested witnesses, that a sale of the principal of the infant's estate, or of some part thereof, whether real or personal, is necessary for his maintenance or education, regard being had to his condition and prospects in life, the probate court may decree such sale on such terms as to it may seem proper. There is hereby established a Commission on Mental Health (hereinafter referred to as the commission), which shall examine alleged insane persons, inquire into the affairs of such persons, and the affairs of those persons legally liable as hereinafter provided for the support of said alleged insane persons, and make reports and recommendations to the court as to the necessity of treatment, the commitment, and payment of the expense of maintenance and treatment of such insane persons. The said commission shall be drawn from a panel of nine bona-fide residents of the District of Columbia who have resided in said District for a continuous period of at least three years immediately preceding their appointment, who shall be appointed by the Judges of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

Eight members of said panel shall be physicians who have been practicing medicine in the District of Columbia, and who have had not less than five years' experience in the diagnosis and treatment of mental diseases, none of whom is financially interested in the hospital in which the alleged insane person is to be confined, and the ninth member shall be a member of the bar of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia who has been engaged in the general active practice of law in the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years prior to his appointment. Each physician member of the panel shall be assigned by the Chief Justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to active service on the commission for three months in each calendar year, and the Chief Justice may change such assignments at any time at his discretion. The two physician members on active service and the lawyer member shall constitute the commission for the purposes of this section. The members to whom any case is referred shall continue to act in respect to that case until its final disposition, unless the court shall otherwise order. Physician members of the commission may practice their profession during their tenure of office. The lawyer member of the commission shall be chairman thereof, and it shall be his duty, and he shall have authority to direct the proceedings and hearings in such a manner as to insure dependable ascertainment of the facts, by relevant, competent, and material evidence, and so as to insure a fair and lawful conduct and disposition of the case. The lawyer member shall devote his entire time to the work of the commission. The judges shall also appoint an alternate lawyer member of the commission, who shall have the same qualifications as that member, and who may be designated by the Chief Justice to act as a member of the commission in absence of the lawyer member; for such service the alternate shall receive for each day of actual service the same compensation as fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., tit. 5, ch. 13), for the lawyer member of the commission. Original appointments of physicians shall be two each for one, two, three, and four years, respectively, the lawyer member to be appointed for four years. Thereafter appointments shall be for four years each. The salaries of the members of the commission and of employees shall be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., tit. 5, ch. 13). The commissioners shall include in their annual estimates such amounts as may be required for the salaries and expenses herein authorized.

The said commission shall act in all respects under the direction of the equity court. The court may compel, by subpoena, the appearance of alleged insane persons before the commission for examination, and may compel the attendance of witnesses before the commission. If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the commission that the appearance before it of any alleged insane person is prevented by reason of the mental or physical condition of such person, the commission may, in its discretion, examine such person at the hospital in which such person may be confined, or, with the consent of the relatives, or of the person with whom such person may reside, at the residence of the alleged insane person.

The court may in its discretion appoint an attorney or guardian ad litem to represent the alleged insane person at any hearing before the commission or before the court, or before the court and jury, and shall allow the attorney or guardian ad litem so appointed a reasonable fee for his services. Such fees may be charged against the estate or property, if any, of the alleged insane person, or taxed as costs against the petitioner in the proceedings, or, in the case of an indigent person, charged against the funds of the commission, as the court, in its discretion may direct.

The office and records of the sanitary officer, District of Columbia, are hereby transferred from the Metropolitan Police Department to the commission and the sanitary officer shall be secretary of the commission. Suitable quarters shall be provided for the commission by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. (June 8, 1938, 52 Stat. 625, ch. 326, § 2; Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1299, ch. 620, § 16.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 1 of title 16 of the 1929 code provided as follows: "All writs de lunatico inquirendo shall issue from the equity court, and a justice holding said court shall preside at all inquisitions of lunacy, and may impanel a jury from among the petit jurors in attendance in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISION UNDER FORMER LAW

The United States District Court is not shown to have lost jurisdiction over either the subject matter of the criminal prosecution or the person of petitioner, by reason of the proceedings to determine his sanity, or those connected therewith or consequent thereon (D. C. 1901 Edit. § 927 (§ 24-301 herein). Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

Upon the filing with the court of a verified petition as provided in section 21-310, accompanied by the affidavits of two or more responsible residents of the District of Columbia setting forth that they believe the person therein named to be insane or of unsound mind, the length of time they have known such person, that they believe such person to be incapable of managing his own affairs, and that such person is not fit to be at large or go unrestrained, and that if such person be permitted to remain at liberty the rights of persons and property will be jeopardized or the preservation of public peace imperiled or the commission of crime rendered probable, and that such person is a fit subject for treatment by reason of his or her mental condition, the court, or any judge thereof in vacation, may, in its or his discretion, issue an attachment for the immediate apprehension and detention, for preliminary examination, of such person in Gallinger Municipal Hospital and, unless found by the staff of Gallinger Municipal Hospital to be of sound mind, in Saint Elizabeths Hospital for a period not exceeding thirty days. Any person so apprehended and detained shall be given an examination within five days of his admission into Gallinger Municipal Hospital by the staff of Gallinger Municipal Hospital. The superintendent of Gallinger Municipal Hospital may transfer such person to Saint Elizabeths Hospital at any time within thirty days after his apprehension and detention, and shall report the fact of such transfer to the Commission on Mental Health as established by section 21-308, and hereinafter referred to as the Commission. The superintendent of Saint Elizabeths Hospital is hereby authorized to receive and detain persons so transferred, at the expense of the District of Columbia.

~ If any person while a patient in Gallinger Municipal Hospital being observed for his or her mental condition can not be cared for or treated adequately in said hospital or if such person be in need of treatment which can not be given properly in said hospital, then the superintendent of Gallinger Municipal Hospital may effect the transfer and temporary commitment of such person to Saint Elizabeths Hospital by executing a petition as provided by section 21-310, accompanied by the certificate of the chief psychiatrist of Gallinger Municipal Hospital setting forth that said patient is of unsound mind, can not be cared for or treated adequately in Gallinger Municipal Hospital, should not be allowed to remain at liberty and go unrestrained, and that said patient is a fit subject for treatment in Saint Elizabeths Hospital on account of his mental condition. The superintendent of Saint Elizabeths Hospital is authorized to receive and detain any patient so transferred from Gallinger Municipal Hospital at the expense of the District of Columbia pending his formal commitment or other order of the court.

Persons arrested under the provisions of sections 21-326 to 21-331 shall be detained in Gallinger Municipal Hospital pending the filing of a petition as provided in section 21-310. Such petition shall be filed within forty-eight hours after such person shall have been admitted into Gallinger Municipal Hospital, or, if such forty-eight-hour period shall expire on a Sunday or legal holiday, then not later than noon of the next succeeding day which is not a Sunday or legal holiday. The court, or any judge thereof in vacation, may, upon being satisfied of the sufficiency of the petition, sign an order authorizing the continued detention of said person in Gallinger Municipal Hospital and, unless found by the staff of Gallinger Municipal Hospital to be of sound mind, in Saint Elizabeths Hospital for a period not exceeding thirty days from the time of his apprehension and detention. If such petition be not filed, and such order of court obtained within the aforementioned period, the person shall be discharged forthwith. If said staff shall find that such person is of unsound mind and suitable for treatment by reason of mental illness, the superintendent of said hospital may immediately transfer such person to Saint Elizabeths Hospital, and shall report the fact of such transfer to the Commission. The superintendent of Saint Elizabeths Hospital is hereby authorized to receive and detain persons so transferred, at the expense of the District of Columbia.

If as a result of examination, the staff of Gallinger Municipal Hospital shall find that any person detained in Gallinger Municipal Hospital pursuant to the provisions of this section is of sound mind, he shall be discharged forthwith by said Gallinger Municipal Hospital, and the petition, if any, shall be dismissed.

Any petition filed in the equity court for a writ de lunatico inquirendo or for an order of commitment of any alleged insane person, shall be referred by the court to the Commission for report and recommendation within such time as the court may designate, not exceeding seven days, which time may be extended by the court for good cause shown, and in such event the period of temporary commitment in Saint Elizabeths Hospital may be extended by the court for such additional time as the court shall deem necessary. The Commission shall examine the alleged insane person and any other person, including any suggested by the alleged insane person, his relatives, friends, or representatives, whose testimony may be relevant, competent, and material upon the issue of insanity; and the Commission shall afford opportunity for hearing to any alleged insane person, his relatives, friends, or representatives. At all hearings the alleged insane person shall have the right to be represented by counsel.

The Commission is hereby authorized to conduct its examination and hearings of cases elsewhere than at the offices of said Commission in its discretion, according to the circumstances of the case.

If in the determination of the Commission he be found not to be sane, then it shall be the duty of the Commission to apply to the court for a date for a hearing. In all cases before said hearing, the said Commission shall cause to be served personally upon the patient a written notice of the time and place of final hearing at least five days before the date fixed. Five days' notice of the time and place of the hearing shall in all cases be mailed to or served upon the applicant, but in case the applicant is not the husband, wife, or nearest relative, the notice shall be mailed to or served upon the husband, wife, or nearest relative, if possible. The notice shall contain a statement that if the patient desires to oppose the application for a final order of commitment, he may appear personally or by attorney at the time and place fixed for the hearing. Proof of service shall be made at the hearing. The court may in its discretion appoint an attorney or guardian ad litem to represent the alleged insane person at any hearing before the court, or before the court and jury, and shall allow the attorney or guardian ad litem so appointed a reasonable fee for his services. Such fees may be charged against the estate or property, if any, of the alleged insane person.

If a demand is made for a jury trial, the superintendent of Gallinger Municipal Hospital or Saint Elizabeths Hospital shall see that the patient has been given opportunity to appear personally or by attorney at the hearing and assist him in communicating with his friends, relatives, or attorney. If the superintendent shall certify that in his opinion it would be prejudicial to the health of the patient or unsafe to produce the patient at the inquiry, then such patient shall not be required to be produced.

Proof of service of the required notices shall be made at the hearing. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1294, ch. 620, § 2.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

As enacted, the beginning of this section read: "Upon the filing with the court of a verified petition as provided in section 1 of the act approved June 8, 1938." It referred to D. C. Code, 1929 edit., Supp. V, title 16, § 41, which has now been superseded by § 1 of ch. 620 of the act of August 9, 1939 (53 Stat. 1293), which appears in this code as § 21-310.

§ 21-312 [16: 60]. Report to be served—Demand for jury trial—Trial.

Upon the receipt of the report and recommendation of the commission, a copy shall be served personally upon the alleged insane person, his guardian ad litem, or his attorney, if he has one, together with notice that he has five days within which to demand a jury trial. A demand for hearing by the court, or a demand for jury trial for the purpose of determining the sanity or insanity of the alleged insane person may be made by the said alleged insane person or by anyone in his behalf, or a jury trial may be ordered by the court upon its own motion. If demand be made for a jury trial, or such trial be ordered by the court on its own motion, the case shall be calendared for trial not more than ten days after demand for hearing by the court for a jury trial, unless the time is extended by the court. The commission, or any of the members thereof, shall be competent and compellable witnesses at any trial or hearing of an alleged insane person. In any case in which a commitment at public expense, in whole or in part, is sought, the corporation counsel or one of his assistants shall represent the petitioner unless said petitioner shall be represented by counsel of his or her own choice. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1296, ch. 620, § 3.)

The jury to be used in lunacy inquisitions in those cases where a jury trial shall be demanded or ordered shall be empaneled, upon order of the court, from the jurors in attendance upon other branches of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, who shall perform such services in addition to and as part of their duties in said court. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1296, ch. 620, § 4.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section may supersede § 21-307, in part.

§ 21-314 [16: 62]. Procedure if no jury trial demanded.

If no demand be made for a jury trial, the judge holding court shall determine the sanity or insanity of said alleged insane person, but such judge may, in his discretion, require other proofs, in addition to the petition and report of the commission, or such judge may order the temporary commitment of said alleged insane person for observation or treatment for an additional period of not more than thirty days. The judge may, in his discretion, dismiss the petition notwithstanding the recommendation of the commission. If the judge be satisfied that the alleged insane person is of sound mind, he shall forthwith discharge such person and dismiss the petition. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1296, ch. 620, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The statute as a whole makes clear that a proceeding in equity is contemplated for initial determination of insanity, and not the writ of habeas corpus. Barry v. Hall (68 App. D. C. 350, 98 Fed. (2d) 222).

If the judge be satisfied that the alleged insane person is insane, or if a jury shall so find, the judge may commit the insane person as he in his discretion shall find to be for the best interests of the public and of the insane person. In case of a temporary commitment, the court may make additional temporary commitments upon further examination by, and recommendation of, the commission.

The judge may commit the insane person to the custody of the Veterans' Administration for care and treatment in a Veterans' Administration facility, if there has been filed with the court or the Commission on Mental Health, acting under the direction of the court, a certificate executed by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, or his duly authorized representative, showing said insane person to be entitled to such care and treatment, and that facilities therefor are available. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1296, ch. 620, § 6.)

Recommendations of the commission must be made by the unanimous recommendation of the three members acting upon the case. If the three members of the commission be unable to agree upon the recommendation to be made in any case, they shall immediately file with the court a report setting forth the fact that they are unable to agree on the case, and in that event the court shall hear and determine the case, unless the alleged insane person, or someone in his behalf, shall demand a jury trial, in which event the case shall be heard and determined by the court and a jury.

If the commission shall agree upon a recommendation, it shall file with the court a report setting forth its findings of fact and conclusions of law and its recommendation based thereon which recommendation shall be in one of the following forms:

(A) That the person is of sound mind and should be discharged forthwith and the petition dismissed.

(C) That the person is of unsound mind and (1) should be committed to Saint Elizabeths Hospital, or any other hospital provided by section 21-329, (a) at public expense, or (b) at the expense of those persons who are required by law, or who will agree to pay for the maintenance and treatment of said insane person, or (c) that the relatives of said insane person, mentioned in section 21-321 are able to pay a specified sum per month toward the support and maintenance of said insane person; (2) is harmless and may safely be committed to the care of his relatives or friends (naming them) who are willing to accept the custody, care, and maintenance of said insane person under conditions specified by the commission; (3) should be committed to the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs for care and treatment in a Veterans' Administration facility: Provided, That there shall be filed with the court or commission a certificate executed by said administrator or his duly authorized representative, showing said person is entitled to such care and treatment and that facilities therefor are available. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1297, ch. 620, § 7.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDIGENT INSANE

In contemplation of the law, the public health service is a friend of the indigent insane. Barry v. Hall (68 App. D. C. 350, 98 Fed. (2d) 222).

§ 21-317 [16: 65]. Transfer of nonresident insane—Confinement of residents—Custody of harmless insane.

If an insane person be found by the commission, subject to the review of the court, not to be a resident of the District of Columbia, he may be committed by the court to Saint Elizabeths Hospital as a District of Columbia patient until such time as his residence shall have been ascertained. Upon the ascertainment of such insane person's residence in some other jurisdiction, he shall be transferred to the state of such residence. The expense of transferring such patient, including the traveling expenses of necessary attendants to insure his safe transfer, shall be borne by the District of Columbia only if the patient be indigent.

Any insane person found by the commission to have been a resident of the District of Columbia for more than one year prior to the filing of the petition, and any person found within the District of Columbia whose residence can not be ascertained, who is not in confinement on a criminal charge, may be committed by the court to, and confined in, said Saint Elizabeths Hospital, or any other hospital in said District, which, in the judgment of the commission of said District, is properly constructed and equipped for the reception and care of such persons, and the official in charge of which, for the time being, is willing to receive such persons.

"Resident of the District of Columbia," as used in this section, means a person who has maintained his principal place of abode in the District of Columbia for more than one year prior to the filing of the petition provided for in section 21-310.

If it appears that a person found to be insane is harmless and his or her relatives or committee of his or her person are willing and able properly to care for such insane person at some place or institution other than Saint Elizabeths Hospital, the judge may order that such insane person be placed in the care and custody of such relatives or such committee upon their entering into an undertaking to provide for such insane person as the court may direct. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1297, ch. 620, § 8.)

The father, mother, husband, wife, and adult children of an insane person, if of sufficient ability, and the committee or guardian of his or her person and estate, if his or her estate is sufficient for the purpose, shall pay the cost to the District of Columbia of his or her maintenance, including treatment in Saint Elizabeths Hospital or in any other hospital to which the insane person may be committed. It shall be the further duty of said commission, to examine under oath, the father, mother, husband, wife, adult children, and committee, if any, of any alleged insane person whenever such relatives live within the District of Columbia, and to ascertain the ability of such relatives or committee, if any, to maintain or contribute toward the maintenance of such alleged insane person: Provided, That in no case shall said relatives or committee be required to pay more than the actual cost to the District of Columbia of maintenance of such alleged insane person.

If any person hereinabove made liable for the maintenance of an insane person shall fail so to provide or pay for such maintenance, the court shall issue to such person a citation to show cause why he should not be adjudged to pay a portion or all of the expenses of maintenance of such patient. The citation shall be served at least ten days before the hearing thereon. If, upon such hearing, it shall appear to the court that the insane person has not sufficient estate out of which his maintenance may properly be fully met and that he has relatives of the degrees hereinabove mentioned who are parties to the proceedings, and who are able to contribute thereto, the court may make an order requiring payment by such relatives of such sum or sums as it may find they are reasonably able to pay and as may be necessary to provide for the maintenance of such insane person. Said order shall require the payment of such sums to the Board of Public Welfare annually, semiannually, or quarterly as the court may direct. It shall be the duty of the board to collect the said sums due under this section, and to turn the same into the treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia. Any such order may be enforced against any property of the insane person or of the person liable or undertaking to maintain him in the same way as if it were an order for temporary alimony in a divorce case. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1298, ch. 620, § 9.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIABILITY FOR EXPENSES OF INCOMPETENT

The question of a husband's liability for the maintenance of an insane wife in a public institution, "when it shall arise in the future, will be settled" under the act of June 8, 1938, ch. 326, since superseded by the above section insofar as this annotation is concerned. Fitzhugh v. District of Columbia (71 App. D. C. 290, 109 Fed. (2d) 837).

§ 21-319 [16:15]. Insane persons having property—Inquiry by board—Charge for care.

Whenever it appears in the case of any insane person whose insanity commenced while he was a resident of the District of Columbia that he is able to defray a portion, but not the whole of the expenses of his support and treatment in Saint Elizabeths Hospital, the board of visitors of the hospital is authorized to inquire into the facts of the case; and if it appears to the board, upon such inquiry, that such insane person has property and no family, or has more property than is required for the support of his family, then, as a condition upon which such insane person, admitted or to be admitted upon the order of the Secretary of the Interior, shall receive or continue to receive the benefits of the hospital, there shall be paid to the superintendent from the income, property, or estate of such insane person such portion of his expenses in the hospital as a majority of the board shall determine to be just and reasonable, under all the circumstances. (R. S. § 4849; July 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 309, ch. 209, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The 1916 act changed the name of the Government Hospital for the Insane to Saint Elizabeths Hospital.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The effect of the 1905 act requiring the committee or trustee of an incompetent to reimburse the District for care and expenses up to time of appointment of committee was to prevent the running of the statute of limitations. Fitzhugh v. District of Columbia (71 App. D. C. 290, 109 Fed. (2d) 837).

appear before the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for a hearing to determine the sanity and right to restoration to the status of a person of sound mind of said insane person by filing a petition therefor with the court upon a form to be provided by the commission for that purpose. It shall be the duty of the commission to make an examination of the records of Saint Elizabeths Hospital of the insane person as may be necessary to determine such questions, and if necessary have the person examined by the members of the staff of Saint Elizabeths Hospital and to make a report and recommendation to the court. In the event the commission shall find from the records and examination that the said person is of sound mind and shall recommend to the court the restoration of said person to the status of a person of sound mind such recommendation shall be sufficient to authorize the court to enter an order declaring such person to be restored to his or her former legal status as a person of sound mind. In the event the commission shall find such person to be of unsound mind, it shall report that finding to the court. Upon the filing by the commission of a report finding such person to be of unsound mind, the insane person shall have the right to a hearing by the court or by the court and a jury. For the purpose of making the examination and observations required by this section, the commission shall have the right to examine the records and to interrogate the physicians and attendants at Saint Elizabeths Hospital or any other hospital in which such patient shall have been confined, who have had the insane person under their care, and the commission may recommend to the court the temporary recommitment of such person for said purpose. At such trial by the court or by the court and jury, an adjudication shall be made as to whether the person is of sound mind or is still of unsound mind. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1298, ch. 620, § 10.)

The court in its discretion may require the petitioner to file an undertaking with surety to be approved by the court in such amount as the court may deem proper, conditioned to save harmless the respondent by reason of costs incurred, including attorneys' fees, if any, and damages suffered by the respondent as a result of any such action. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1299, ch. 620, § 12.)

(Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1299, ch. 620, § 14.)

§ 21-325 [16: 72]. Existing remedies preserved.

Nothing contained in sections 21-310 to 21-318, 21-320 to 21-325 shall deprive the alleged insane person of the benefit of existing remedies to secure his release or to prove his sanity, or of any other legal remedies he may have. (Aug. 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1299, ch. 620, § 15.)

§ 21-328 [16: 33]. Temporary detention of alleged insane persons.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to place in Saint Elizabeths Hospital in said District, and the superintendent of said hospital is authorized to receive, upon the written request of the said commissioners, for a period of time not exceeding thirty days, indigent persons alleged to be insane or of unsound mind, residents of or found within the District of Columbia, and alleged insane persons of homicidal or otherwise dangerous tendencies, residents of or found within the said District, so apprehended and detained as provided in sections 21-326, 21-327, pending the formal commitment of such persons to said hospital as provided by law, or their transportation to their homes when their places of residence are ascertained by the proper officials charged by law with that duty. (Apr. 27, 1904, 33 Stat. 317, ch. 1618, § 3; July 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 309, ch. 209, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The 1916 act changed the name of the Government Hospital for the Insane to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETIONARY POWERS OF COMMISSIONERS

In sanity proceedings the Commissioners exercise a discretion which the law vests in them and they are not liable in damages even though they make a mistake. Brown v. Rudolph (58 App. D. C. 116, 25 Fed. (2d) 540).

§ 21-329 [16: 34]. Temporary commitment of persons to other hospital, or detention in police station—Discharge of person certified not insane.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia may authorize the temporary commitment of any of the insane persons or persons of unsound mind mentioned in sections 21-326 to 21-328, and apprehended and detained as provided in sections 21-326, 21-327 (for a period of time not exceeding thirty days) in any other hospital in said District which, in the judgment of the health officer of said District, is properly constructed and equipped for the reception and care of such persons, and the official in charge of which, for the time being, is willing to receive such persons pending the temporary commitment or the formal commitment of such persons, as provided by law, to Saint Elizabeths Hospital or to any other hospital or insane asylum; or any such alleged insane person or person of unsound mind apprehended under sections 21-326, 21-327 may be detained in any police station or house of detention in said District pending the completion of arrangements for his or her temporary detention in Saint Elizabeths Hospital or any other hospital or insane asylum; and such persons may be detained in any police station or house of detention in said District until formally committed to Saint Elizabeths Hospital or any other hospital or asylum, in the manner provided by law, in case he or she can not be provided for by the said Saint Elizabeths Hospital and no arrangement can be made for his or her temporary detention in any other hospital or asylum: Provided, however, That if, pending the formal commitment of such alleged insane person or person of unsound mind to Saint Elizabeths Hospital or to any other hospital or asylum, the superintendent of said Saint Elizabeths Hospital, in the case of the commitment of a person to said hospital under the provisions of sections 21-326 to 21-331, or if two or more physicians in regular attendance at any other hospital or asylum where any person is committed under the provisions of sections 21-326 to 21-331, or if two or more surgeons of the police and fire departments, in the case of any person detained at any police station house or house of detention under the provisions of sections 21-326 to 21-331, shall certify in writing to the commissioners of the District of Columbia that such person is not insane or that he or she has recovered his or her reason, the official in charge of Saint Elizabeths Hospital, or the hospital or asylum in which such person is confined, or the major and superintendent of said Metropolitan police, if such person be confined in a police station house or in a house of detention, shall discharge such alleged insane person or person of unsound mind forthwith and immediately report such action to the commissioners of the District of Columbia. (Apr. 27, 1904, 33 Stat. 317, ch. 1618, § 4; July 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 309, ch. 209.)

AMENDMENT

The 1916 act changed the name of the Government Hospital for the Insane to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

§ 21-330 [16: 35]. Certificate by physician as to sanity or insanity—Qualifications of physician.

For the purposes of sections 21-326 to 21-331, no certificate as to the sanity or the insanity of any person shall be valid which has been issued (a) by a physician who has not been regularly licensed to practice medicine in the District of Columbia, unless he be a commissioned surgeon of the United States Army, Navy, or Public Health Service; or (b) by a physician who is not a permanent resident of the District of Columbia; or (c) by a physician who has not been actively engaged in the practice of his profession for at least three years; or (d) by a physician who is related by blood or by marriage to the person whose mental condition is in question. Nor shall any certificate alleging the insanity of any person be valid which has been issued by a physician who is financially interested in the hospital or asylum in which the alleged insane person is to be confined, or who is professionally or officially connected therewith. (Apr. 27, 1904, 33 Stat. 318, ch. 1618, § 5; Aug. 14, 1912, 37 Stat. 309, ch. 288, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1912 changed the name of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service to the Public Health Service.

§ 21-331 [16: 36]. Making false affidavit or certificate—Penalty.

Any person who makes an affidavit, as required by sections 21-326 or 21-327, by which he or she secures or attempts to secure the apprehension, detention, or restraint of any other person in the District of Columbia without probable cause for believing such person to be insane or of unsound mind, or any physician who knowingly makes any false certificate as to the sanity or insanity of any other person shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both. (Apr. 27, 1904, 33 Stat. 318, ch. 1618, § 6.)

§ 21-332 [16: 37]. Discharge of patients on bond.

If any person will give bond with sufficient security, to be approved by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or by any judge thereof in vacation, payable to the United States, with condition to restrain and take care of any independent or indigent insane person not charged with a breach of the peace, whether in the hospital or not, until the insane person is restored to sanity, such court or judge thereof may deliver such insane person to the party giving such bond. (R. S., § 4856.)

§ 21-333 [16: 38]. Insane persons not to be confined in jail.

No insane person not charged with any breach of the peace shall ever be confined in the United States jail in the District of Columbia. (R. S., § 4857.)

21-401. Appointment of committee—Petition—Petitioners—Determination—Jury—Bond—Powers—Duties—Discharge.

§ 21-401 [19:141]. Appointment of committee—Petition—Petitioners—Determination—Jury—Bond—Powers—Duties—Discharge.

Whenever any person residing in said District, and owning any estate, real or personal, situate therein, is unfit from the habitual use of intoxicating liquors, or from the habitual use of opium, cocaine, or any similar substance, or any compound or derivative thereof, to properly manage or control the same, the equity court, on the petition of any creditor or relative of such person, or if there be no creditor or relative, upon the petition of any person living in said District, and upon summons being regularly served upon such person so alleged to be unfit to manage or control his property as aforesaid, commanding him to appear and answer such petition, may order a jury to be summoned to ascertain whether such person be an habitual drunkard or addicted to the habitual use of opium, cocaine, or any similar substance or any compound or derivative thereof and unfit from any of these causes to manage and control his property, and if the jury shall find that such person is an habitual drunkard or an habitual user of opium, cocaine, or any similar substance or any compound or derivative thereof and unfit to manage or control his property, such finding, when confirmed by the court, shall be entered of record in said cause, and it shall be the duty of the court thereupon to appoint some fit person to be committee of the person so declared unfit to manage or control his property as aforesaid.

Such committee before entering upon the discharge of his duties shall execute a bond, with surety, to be approved by the said court or one of the justices thereof, to the United States in a penalty equal to the amount of the personal property and the yearly rents to be derived from the real estate of such person, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such committee; and he shall have control of the said estate, real and personal, with power to collect all debts due said drunkard, and to adjust and settle all accounts owing by him, and to sue and be sued in his representative capacity. He shall apply the annual income of the estate of such habitual drunkard to the support of said person, and the maintenance of his family and education of his children; and shall in all other respects perform the same duties and have the same rights as pertain to committees of lunatics and idiots.

When any person for whom a committee has been appointed under the provisions of this section shall become competent to manage his property on account of reformation in his habits, he may apply to said court to have said committee discharged and the care and control of his property restored to him; and if it shall appear by the verdict of a jury summoned therefor, or by affidavits, or other evidence to the satisfaction of the court, that said applicant is a fit person to have the care or control of his property, an order shall be entered restoring such person to all the rights and privileges enjoyed before said committee was appointed. And as to the property of any person for whom a committee has been so appointed the court shall have the same powers that are herein given to it in respect of the property of infants. (June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 524, ch. 1329, § 115f.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

UNFITNESS TO MANAGE PROPERTY

Finding of unfitness to manage property in a proceeding under this section is conclusive of condition on date of rendition; "it is not so as of a date prior thereto, but at the same time it has the tendency to raise some inference that the helpless condition must have existed for some space of time." Knott v. Giles (27 App. D. C. 581).

§ 22-101 [6: 1]. "Writing" and "paper" defined.

Except where such a construction would be unreasonable, the words "writing" and "paper," wherever mentioned in this title, are to be taken to include instruments wholly in writing or wholly printed, or partly printed and partly in writing. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1336, ch. 854, § 904.)

§ 22-102 [6: 2]. "Anything of value" defined.

The words "anything of value," wherever they occur in this title, shall be held to include not only things possessing intrinsic value, but bank notes and other forms of paper money, and commercial paper and other writings which represent value. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1336, ch. 854, § 905.)

§ 22-103 [6: 3]. Attempts to commit crime.

Whoever shall attempt to commit any crime, which attempt is not otherwise made punishable by this title, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 906.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ASSAULT NOT ATTEMPT

One who assaults a female under 16 years of age, with intent to carnally know her, is punishable under 1901 Code, § 803 (§ 22-501) and not 1901 Code, § 906 (§ 22-103), Sanselo v. United States (44 App. D. C. 508).

§ 22-104 [6: 4]. Second conviction.

Every person upon his second conviction of any criminal offense punishable by fine or imprisonment or both may be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding fifty per centum greater, and to suffer imprisonment for a period not more than one half longer than the maximum fine and imprisonment for the first offense. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 907.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTACK ON FORMER INDICTMENT

When defendant appeared and pleaded to an information for petit larceny, and was tried in the police court without objection, he admits the validity of the information, and, if convicted, can not afterwards, when indicted for petit larceny as a second offense, deny the legal sufficiency of the information as not being sworn to, or claim that his first arrest was illegal. Latney v. United States (18 App. D. C. 265).

§ 22-105 [6: 5]. Persons advising, inciting, or conniving at criminal offense to be charged as principals.

In prosecutions for any criminal offense all persons advising, inciting, or conniving at the offense, or aiding or abetting the principal offender, shall be charged as principals and not as accessories, the intent of this section being that as to all accessories before the fact the law heretofore applicable in cases of misdemeanor only shall apply to all crimes, whatever the punishment may be. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 908.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACCESSORY BEFORE THE FACT

Under this section a person shown to be an accessory before the fact is chargeable and criminally responsible as a principal. Williams v. United States (55 App. D. C. 239, 4 Fed. (2d) 432).

ACCOMPLICE

In cases of carnal knowledge, the prosecutrix is not an accomplice of the defendant. "An accomplice is one who is associated with another, or others, in the commission of a crime. Liability to indictment, under ordinary conditions, is a reasonable test of the legal relation of the party to the crime and its perpetrator." Yeager v. United States (16 App. D. C. 356).

Woman upon whom a miscarriage is produced in violation of 1901 Code, § 809 (§ 22-201) is not an accomplice of the person who produces it. Thompson v. United States (30 App. D. C. 352).

"Persons engaged in wagering contests are not accomplices." Paylor v. United States (42 App. D. C. 428, cert. den. 235 U. S. 704, 59 L. Ed. 434, 35 Sup. Ct. 209).

The giver of a bribe is an accomplice of the person bribed. Egan v. United States (52 App. D. C. 384, 287 Fed. 958).

"Anyone knowingly and voluntarily co-operating with, aiding, assisting, advising, or encouraging another in the commission of a crime is an accomplice; and this is true, regardless of the degree of his guilt." Egan v. United States (52 App. D. C. 384, 287 Fed. 958). Tomlinson v. United States (68 App. D. C. 106, 93 Fed. (2d) 652).

AID AND ABET

Without determining whether each of defendants was then displaying a placard in front of embassy, all are guilty under provisions of the local law making it an offense to aid and abet in a violation of a law. Frend v. United States (69 App. D. C. 281, 100 Fed. (2d) 691).

CHARGED AS PRINCIPAL

"One who procures, commands, advises, instigates, or incites the commission of an offense, though not personally present at its commission, is, by the common law, an accessory before the fact. * * * The section of the code above quoted (§ 22-105) makes all such persons principals. And it is not essential that any specific time or mode of committing the offense shall have been advised or commanded, or, if so, that it shall have been committed in the particular way instigated. * * * Nor is it necessary that there shall have been any direct communication between the actual perpetrator and the accessory, who, under the code, is now a principal." Marey v. United States (30 App. D. C. 63).

Indictment charging that A, B, and C made an assault on X with a brick held in the hand of B is not defective as charging A and C with an impossible act. "The defendants were charged as principals. They were acting together and the act of one was the act of each. The question is set at rest by section 908 of the code (this section)." Polen v. United States (41 App. D. C. 4).

In an indictment charging defendants with engaging in unlawful prize fight, for which appellant charged an admission fee, the appellant was rightly indicted as a principal. Dane v. United States (57 App. D. C. 161, 18 Fed. (2d) 811).

INSTRUCTIONS TO JURY

In action against two defendants for murder a requested instruction was properly refused which stated that "If no force of arms was contemplated, then defendant was not liable for the consequences of the shot by the codefendant," for the testimony and instruction must show that before the crime has been done he honestly and in good faith withdraws and tries to get away and does not take any part in the offense. Marcus v. United States (66 App. D. C. 298, 86 Fed. (2d) 854).

LENDOR OF AUTOMOBILE

"If the owner of a dangerous instrumentality like an automobile knowingly puts that instrumentality in the immediate control of a careless and reckless driver, sits by his side, and permits him without protest so carelessly and negligently to operate the car as to cause the death of another, he is as much responsible as the man at the wheel." Story v. United States (57 App. D. C. 3, 16 Fed. (2d) 342, 53 A. L. R. 246).

PRESENCE AT COMMISSION

When defendant was not present when the actual conversion took place, he was a mere artificial principal and not an actual one; that is, he was subject to the same punishment as though he actually had assisted in the final act of larceny. But that does not prevent his prosecution for the distinct offense of receiving stolen goods. Weisberg v. United States (49 App. D. C. 28, 258 Fed. 284).

TESTIMONY OF ACCOMPLICE

There may be a conviction on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, "provided the jury is admonished by the court that the testimony of an accomplice 'ought to be received with suspicion, and with the very greatest care and caution.'" Egan v. United States (52 App. D. C. 384, 287 Fed. 958).

§ 22-106 [6:6]. Accessories after the fact.

Whoever shall be convicted of being an accessory after the fact to any crime punishable by death shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than twenty years. Whoever shall be convicted of being accessory after the fact to any crime punishable by imprisonment shall be punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both, as the case may be, not more than one-half the maximum fine or imprisonment, or both, to which the principal offender may be subjected. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 909.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 22-105.

§ 22-107 [6:7]. Punishment for offenses not covered by provisions of code.

Whoever shall be convicted of any criminal offense not covered by the provisions of any section of this code, or of any general law of the United States not locally inapplicable in the District of Columbia, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 910.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"This section obviously was enacted to cover offenses not embraced in any other section of the District Code or of any general law of the United States not locally inapplicable. It was enacted out of abundant caution, and to cover any offense for which no other provision had been made. * * * A prosecution under this section, when the facts show that the offense is covered by some specific statute, is clearly unauthorized. In other words, this section was intended to supplement, and not supersede or modify, specific statutory provisions." Fletcher v. United States (42 App. D. C. 53).

CONSPIRACY

Defendant convicted of common-law conspiracy was properly sentenced under this section. No overt act being charged, the indictment was not under § 37 of the federal penal code, and the rule that there are no common-law offenses against the United States is not applicable in the District of Columbia. Harrison v. Moyer ((D. C.-Ga.), 224 Fed. 224).

DISORDERLY HOUSE

Offense of keeping a disorderly house being punishable under this section of the Code by imprisonment, its prosecution is exclusively within jurisdiction of the District Court, and a conviction therefor in the police court is void. Palmer v. Lenovitz (35 App. D. C. 303).

Any person who by the commission outside of the District of Columbia of any act which, if committed within the District of Columbia, would be a criminal offense under the laws of said District, thereby obtains any property or other thing of value, and is afterwards found with any such property or other such thing of value in his possession in said District, or who brings any such property or other such thing of value into said District, shall, upon conviction, be punished in the same manner as if said act had been committed wholly within said District. (Dec. 21, 1911, 37 Stat. 45, ch. 2, § 836a.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

STOLEN GOODS

District Court for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction of case involving conspiracy to bring stolen stock into the District, as such court is a District Court of the United States. Arnstein v. United States (54 App. D. C. 199, 296 Fed. 946).

§ 22-109 [6: 296]. Prosecutions.

All prosecutions for violations of any of the provisions of sections 22-1107 to 22-1110, 22-1112 to 22-1114, 22-1117, 22-1118, 22-2701, 22-3110 to 22-3113, 22-3301 shall be conducted in the name of and for the benefit of the District of Columbia, and in the same manner as provided by law for the prosecution of offenses against the laws and ordinances of the said District. Any person convicted of any violation of any of the provisions of sections 22-1107 to 22-1110, 22-1112 to 22-1114, 22-1117, 22-1118, 22-2701, 22-3110 to 22-3113, 22-3301, and who shall fail to pay the fine or penalty imposed, or to give security where the same is required, shall be committed to the workhouse of the District of Columbia for a term not exceeding six months for each and every offense. (July 29, 1892, 27 Stat. 325, ch. 320, § 18.)

Whoever, with intent to procure the miscarriage of any woman, prescribes or administers to her any medicine, drug, or substance whatever, or with like intent uses any instrument or means, unless when necessary to preserve her life or health and under the direction of a competent licensed practitioner of medicine, shall be imprisoned for not more than five years; or if the woman or her child dies in consequence of such act, by imprisonment for not less than three nor more than twenty years. NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTEMPT SUFFICIENT

Crime as denounced by the statute and charged by the indictment does not necessarily contemplate an actual miscarriage by the woman, but is complete when an attempt to procure a miscarriage by such means is made, regardless of whether it results in an actual miscarriage of the pregnant woman or not. Crichton v. United States (67 App. D. C. 300, 92 Fed. (2d) 224).

EVIDENCE

It was not error to admit evidence concerning three treatments by defendant when only one was charged in the indictment, as the three treatments, taken together, and their joint result, constituted the crime with which the defendant was charged. Harrod v. United States (58 App. D. C. 254, 29 Fed. (2d) 454).

Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction. Harrod v. United States (58 App. D. C. 254, 29 Fed. (2d) 454); Hart v. United States (70 App. D. C. 269, 105 Fed. (2d) 792).

SENTENCE

Where defendant was indicted on two charges and plead guilty to both, and the court inadvertently pronounced the sentences to run concurrently, the court had power to amend the sentences to run consecutively where defendant was still in the custody of the officers of the court. Rowley v. Welch (72 App. D. C. 351, 114 Fed. (2d) 499).

WOMAN NOT ACCOMPLICE

"This section applies to the person or persons committing the act which produces the miscarriage, and not to the person upon whom it is committed, notwithstanding it may be done with her knowledge and consent. Not being liable to indictment thereunder, she is not an accomplice in the legal sense." Mazey v. United States (30 App. D. C. 63); Thompson v. United States (30 App. D. C. 352).

Chapter 3.—ADULTERY

22-301. Definition and penalty.

§ 22-301 [6: 175]. Definition and penalty.

Whoever commits adultery in the District shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both; and when the act is committed between a married woman and a man who is unmarried both parties to such act shall be deemed guilty of adultery; and when such act is committed between a married man and a woman who is unmarried, the man only shall be deemed guilty of adultery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1332, ch. 854, § 874.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Two charges of adultery with the same person may be joined under R. S., § 1024 (U. S. C., title 18, § 557). Klein-dienst v. United States (48 App. D. C. 190).

LAW APPLICABLE

One convicted of adultery should be sentenced under this section and not under section 316 of the Penal Code (U. S. C., title 18, § 516). Kleindienst v. United States (48 App. D. C. 190).

On an indictment for adultery, which under the District Code is a misdemeanor and under the Federal Penal Code a felony, the accused on his conviction should be sentenced under the former and not the latter. O'Brien v. United States (69 App. D. C. 135, 99 Fed. (2d) 368).

PROOF

When indictment charges two specific acts of adultery, and the proof shows "repeated offenses of adultery" extending over a period of more than a year, it is error to refuse to require the government to specify, at the close of its case, the specific acts for which the government asks a conviction. Kleindienst v. United States (48 App. D. C. 190).

UNMARRIED WOMAN

If committed by her while unmarried, the act would not have been indictable; but such act would have been indictable if committed by her while married. O'Neil v. O'Neil (55 App. D. C. 40, 299 Fed. 914).

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

ON APPEAL

Errors in trial of charge of arson require reversal. Parlton v. United States (64 App. D. C. 169, 75 Fed. (2d) 772).

PART OWNER

One burning a dwelling-house occupied in part by him and in part by another, with intent to defraud an insurance company, is guilty of arson. Posey v. United States (26 App. D. C. 302).

TENANT

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 821.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1327, ch. 854, § 848; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 629, ch. 599.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1937 substituted $50 for $35 where it occurs.

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 22-401.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

Quaere: Whether prosecution can be in the name of the District of Columbia, if value of property is more than $35, not decided by appellate court, but it did say, it is very doubtful under Code of 1929, title 6, § 351 (§ 23-101) which provides that prosecutions of "all penal regulations, where the maximum punishment is a fine only or imprisonment not exceeding one year, shall be conducted in the name of the District of Columbia, and by the city solicitor or his assistants." Nation v. District of Columbia (34 App. D. C. 453).

Indictment or information must allege value of property injured. Nation v. District of Columbia (34 App. D. C. 453).

SUPERSEDEENCE

Insofar as § 22-3112 may have applied to movable property, it has been superseded by this section. Nation v. District of Columbia (34 App. D. C. 453).

§ 22-404 [6: 54]. Malicious burning of fences, woods, crops.

Whoever shall maliciously burn or set fire to any fences, woods, stacks of hay, grain, or straw, or growing crops, the property, in whole or in part, of another, shall be imprisoned for not more than thirty days or be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or both. NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

In an indictment for assault with intent to kill "it is not required that in the indictment it should be alleged and set forth with what means or instrument the killing was attempted to be perpetrated." Davis v. United States (16 App. D. C. 442). Otherwise, if attempt was by poisoning or drowning. Coratola v. United States (24 App. D. C. 229).

INTENT TO RAPE

Assault on a female under the age of 16 years, with intent to carnally know her, is punishable under this section as an assault with intent to rape. Sanselo v. United States (44 App. D. C. 508).

ON APPEAL

The rule in criminal as in civil cases is that a basis for an assignment of error must be laid in the trial court, but the court will sometimes in the exercise of a sound discretion notice error in a criminal case where the question was not properly raised at the trial. Miller v. United States (57 App. D. C. 228, 19 Fed. (2d) 702).

SUBMISSION OR RESISTANCE

An assault may be committed upon a child irrespective of whether there is submission or resistance thereto. Beausoliel v. United States (71 App. D. C. 111, 107 Fed. (2d) 292).

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

"DANGEROUS WEAPON"

Lye is a "dangerous weapon" within meaning of statute. Tatum v. United States (71 App. D. C. 393, 110 Fed. (2d) 555).

INJURY SUFFERED

Threat or danger of physical suffering or injury in the ordinary sense is not necessary. The injury suffered by the innocent victim may be the fear, shame, humiliation, and mental anguish caused by the assault. Neither is it necessary that such a victim should be aware of the nature of the act or of the danger. Beausoliel v. United States (71 App. D. C. 111, 107 Fed. (2d) 292).

SENTENCES

Consecutive penitentiary sentences on four counts, and concurrent sentence on fifth count does not violate the Indeterminate Sentence law. United States ex rel. Bracey v. Hill ((C. C. A. 3), 77 Fed. (2d) 970).

As maximum sentence imposed on each count was ten years and as none exceeded the maximum of ten years fixed by the statute, and as the minimum sentence on each count was two years and none exceeded one-fifth of the maximum of ten years fixed by the statute, the sentences are, therefore, in accord with the Indeterminate Sentence and Parole Act. Bracey v. Zerbst ((C. C. A. 10), 93 Fed. (2d) 8).

§ 22-503 [6: 28]. Assault with intent to commit any other offense.

Whoever assaults another with intent to commit any other offense which may be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary shall be imprisoned not more than five years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1322, ch. 854, § 805.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

"It is not necessary to the charge of a joint assault by several persons that they be specifically charged as acting 'together and with each other.'" Polen v. United States (41 App. D. C. 4).

INDIRECT FORCE

Application of force, or threat of application thereof, in an assault may be made indirectly as well as directly. Beausoliel v. United States (71 App. D. C. 111, 107 Fed. (2d) 292).

SENTENCES

When sentences imposed were ten years and eight years, respectively, on the first two indictments, and five years on the assault charge, the sentences to run consecutively in the order named, but since the first sentence of ten years has not expired, the application for habeas corpus was premature, as validity of other two sentences is not properly raised. Johnson v. Aderhold ((C. C. A. 5), 73 Fed. (2d) 102).

§ 22-504 [6: 29]. Assault or threatened assault in a menacing manner.

Whoever unlawfully assaults, or threatens another in a menacing manner, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or be imprisoned not more than twelve months, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1322, ch. 854, § 806.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ARRESTING OFFICER'S LIABILITY

If the officer has reason to believe that the person he is about to arrest is a desperate character and acts accordingly, the officer is not to be convicted of assault because it subsequently develops that he was mistaken. Barrett v. United States (62 App. D. C. 25, 64 Fed. (2d) 148).

INDIRECT FORCE

Application of force, or threat of application thereof, in an assault may be made indirectly as well as directly. Beausoliel v. United States (71 App. D. C. 111, 107 Fed. (2d) 292).

§ 22-505 [6: 30]. Assault on member of police force.

If any person, without justifiable and excusable cause, shall use personal violence upon any member of the police force, when in the discharge of his duty, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by imprisonment in the District jail or penitentiary not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars. Chapter 6.—BIGAMY

Sec.

22-601. Definition and penalty.

§ 22-601 [6: 171]. Definition and penalty.

Whoever, having a husband or wife living, marries another shall be deemed guilty of bigamy, and on conviction thereof shall suffer imprisonment for not less than two nor more than seven years: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any person whose husband or wife has been continually absent for five successive years next before such marriage without being known to such person to be living within that time, or whose marriage to said living husband or wife shall have been dissolved by a valid decree of a competent court, or shall have been pronounced void by a valid decree of a competent court on the ground of the nullity of the marriage contract. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1331, ch. 854, § 870.)

22-703. Obstructing justice.

22-704. Corrupt influence—Officials.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1330, ch. 854, § 861.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

Although the act of asking, accepting, or receiving, in violation of § 117 of the Criminal Code may each constitute a separate offense, it is not duplicitous to charge them all in a single count. Egan v. United States (52 App. D. C. 384, 287 Fed. 958).

JAIL GUARD

Affirmance of conviction of bribery of jail guard to falsify records to establish alibi. Siegal v. United States (61 App. D. C. 282, 61 Fed. (2d) 923, cert. den. 288 U. S. 602, 77 L. Ed. 978, 53 Sup. Ct. 386).

Defendant was a person acting in an official function, exercising by delegation a part of the official authority possessed by the superintendent of the jail. If he had corruptly accepted the money, he would have been guilty of accepting a bribe to influence his official conduct. Siegal v. United States (61 App. D. C. 282, 61 Fed. (2d) 923, cert. den. 288 U. S. 602, 77 L. Ed. 978, 53 Sup. Ct. 386).

(July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 591, ch. 1352.)

Whoever corruptly, by threats or force, endeavors to influence, intimidate, or impede any juror, witness, or officer in any court in the District in the discharge of his duties, or, by threats or force, in any other way obstructs or impedes or endeavors to obstruct or impede the due administration of justice therein, shall be fined not more than two hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than three years, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1330, ch. 854, § 862.)

may by law come or be brought before him in his official capacity, or to cause him to execute any of the powers in him vested, or to perform any duties of him required, with partiality or favor, or otherwise than is required by law, or in consideration that such officer being authorized in the line of his duty to contract for any advertising or for the furnishing of any labor or material, shall directly or indirectly arrange to receive or shall receive, or shall withhold from the parties so contracted with, any portion of the contract price, whether that price be fixed by law or by agreement, or in consideration that such officer has nominated or appointed any person to any office or exercised any power in him vested, or performed any duty of him required, with partiality or favor, or otherwise contrary to law; and whosoever, being such an officer, shall receive any such money, bribe, present, or reward, promise, contract, obligation, or security, with intent or for the purpose or consideration aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of bribery and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not less than six months nor more than five years.

United States* (71 App. D. C. 111, 107 Fed. (2d) 292).

COMMON LAW

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1095, ch. 847, § 4.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section may have been partly superseded by sections 22-903 to 22-906.

§ 22-903 [6: 271]. Wilful neglect or refusal to support wife or minor child—Punishment—Order of allowance — Recognizance — Trial under original charge.

Any person in the District of Columbia who shall, without just cause, desert or wilfully neglect or refuse to provide for the support and maintenance of his wife in destitute or necessitous circumstances, or any person who shall, without just excuse, desert or wilfully neglect or refuse to provide for the support and maintenance of his or her minor children under the age of sixteen years in destitute or necessitous circumstances, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment in the workhouse of the District of Columbia for not more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and should a fine be imposed it may be directed by the court to be paid in whole or in part to the wife or to the guardian or custodian of the minor child or children: Provided, That before the trial, with the consent of the defendant, or after conviction, instead of imposing the punishment hereinbefore provided, or in addition thereto, the court in its discretion, having regard to the circumstances and to the financial ability or earning capacity of the defendant, shall have the power to make an order, which shall be subject to change by it from time to time as circumstances may require, directing the defendant to pay a certain sum weekly for the space of one year to the wife, or to the guardian or custodian of the minor child or children, or to an organization or individual approved by the court as trustee, and to release the defendant from custody on probation for the space of one year upon his or her entering into a recognizance, with or without sureties, in such sum as the court may direct. The condition of the recognizance shall be such that if the defendant shall make his or her personal appearance in court whenever ordered to do so within the year, and shall further comply with the terms of the order and of any subsequent modification thereof, then the recognizance shall be void, otherwise of full force and effect.

If the court be satisfied by information and due proof, under oath, that at any time during the year the defendant has violated the terms of such order, it may forthwith proceed with the trial of the defendant under the original charge, or sentence him under the original conviction, or enforce the original sentence, as the case may be. In case of forfeiture of a recognizance and enforcement thereof by execution, the sum recovered may, in the discretion of the court, be paid in whole or in part to the wife, or to the guardian or custodian of the minor child or children. The juvenile court is hereby given concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in all cases arising under this section. (Mar. 23, 1906, 34 Stat. 86, ch. 1131, § 1; June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 136, ch. 171, § 8; June 10, 1926, 44 Stat. 716, ch. 528.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1912 act added the last sentence.

The act of 1926 deleted the words "at hard labor" following the words "workhouse of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

The provisions for punishment under the act not being severable, the act is unconstitutional. United States v. Moreland (258 U. S. 433, 66 L. Ed. 700, 42 Sup. Ct. 368, 24 A. L. R. 992).

DOMICILE

Under this statute a husband domiciled in another state is not chargeable under this act with refusal to support child. United States ex rel. Smith v. Mathues ((D. C.-Pa.), 284 Fed. 368).

In proceeding against person indicted under this statute, and who is found in another district, technical objections to indictment are for the court where the indictment is lodged. In re Parker ((D. C.-Cal.), 299 Fed. 1006).

Person indicted under this statute may be removed from another district, since a violation of the act is in fact a crime against the United States. Parker v. United States ((C. C. A. 9), 3 Fed. (2d) 903).

NONRESIDENT

Where indictment did not describe the accused as a "person in the District of Columbia," and evidence showed he was not a resident of District of Columbia, denial of a motion for warrant of removal to District of Columbia was proper. United States ex rel. Smith v. Mathues ((D. C.-Pa.), 284 Fed. 368).

PRESENTMENT OR INDICTMENT

Fact that prisoner receives maximum sentence under this statute, without having been presented or indicted by grand jury, does not of itself render said sentence void. United States v. Moreland (258 U. S. 433, 66 L. Ed. 700, 42 Sup. Ct. 368, 24 A. L. R. 992).

SENTENCE

The test of infamy is not the sentence imposed but rather that which may be imposed under the statute. United States v. Moreland (258 U. S. 433, 66 L. Ed. 700, 42 Sup. Ct. 368, 24 A. L. R. 992).

Court has no jurisdiction to impose a sentence involving hard labor where there has been no indictment or presentment by a grand jury. Moreland v. United States (51 App. D. C. 118, 276 Fed. 640, affd. 258 U. S. 433, 66 L. Ed. 700, 42 Sup. Ct. 368, 24 A. L. R. 992).

WITNESS

Wife is competent witness in proceedings for removal under R. S., § 1014. Parker v. United States ((C. C. A. 9), 3 Fed. (2d) 903, affg. 299 Fed. 1006).

No other evidence shall be required to prove marriage of such husband and wife, or that such person is the lawful father or mother of such child or children, than is or shall be required to prove such facts in a civil action. In all prosecutions under sections 22-903 to 22-905, any provisions of law in force on March 23, 1906, prohibiting the disclosure of confidential communications between husband and wife shall not apply, and both husband and wife shall be competent and compellable witnesses to testify to any and all relevant matters, including the fact of such marriage and the parentage of such child or children. Proof of the desertion of such wife, child, or children in destitute or necessitous circumstances, or of neglect to furnish such wife, child, or children necessary and proper food, clothing, or shelter is prima facie evidence that such desertion or neglect is wilful. (Mar. 23, 1906, 34 Stat. 87, ch. 1131, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

WITNESS

State rule as to competency of witnesses does not apply in view of this section. In re Parker ((D. C.-Cal.), 299 Fed. 1006, affd. 3 Fed. (2d) 903).

§ 22-905 [6: 273]. Weekly payments by superintendent of workhouse for each day's confinement.

It shall be the duty of the superintendent in charge of the workhouse of the District of Columbia in which any person is confined on account of a sentence under sections 22-903 to 22-905 to pay, out of any funds available, over to the wife, or to the guardian or custodian of his or her minor child or children, or to an organization or individual approved by the court as trustee, at the end of each week, for the support of such wife, child, or children, a sum equal to 50 cents for each day of the sentence served by said person so confined. (Mar. 23, 1906, 34 Stat. 87, ch. 1131, § 3; June 10, 1926, 44 Stat. 716, ch. 528.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1926 amended the last sentence by substituting the words "each day of the sentence served" for the words "each day's hard labor performed."

§ 22-906 [6: 274]. Collections by clerk of court to be deposited with collector of taxes and covered into Treasury.

All moneys paid by order of the juvenile court under sections 22-903 to 22-905 which are collected and disbursed by the clerk of said court, shall be deposited weekly by said clerk with the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia and covered into the Treasury to the credit of the appropriated trust fund account denominated Miscellaneous Trust Fund Deposits, District of Columbia, and all expenditures therefrom shall be made and accounted for in the manner required by law for other expenditures of the government of the District of Columbia, and the said expenditures shall be made weekly on pay-rolls approved and certified by the juvenile court. (May 18, 1910, 36 Stat. 403, ch. 248.)

unmarried woman, aboard a ship en route to a foreign country, does not bring such act within the punishment of the courts of the United States. Ex parte Isojoki ((D. C.-Cal.), 222 Fed. 151).

If any owner or possessor of a fierce or dangerous dog shall permit the same to go at large, knowing said dog to be fierce or dangerous, to the danger or annoyance of the inhabitants, he shall upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars; and if such animal shall attack or bite any person, the owner or possessor thereof shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and in addition to such punishment the court shall adjudge and order that such animal be forthwith delivered to the poundmaster, and said poundmaster is hereby authorized and directed to kill such animal so delivered to him.

If any owner or possessor of a female dog shall permit her to go at large in the District of Columbia while in heat he shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars. (June 19, 1878, 20 Stat. 174, ch. 323, § 9; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 547, ch. 1332.)

AMENDMENT

NOTES TO DECISIONS

KNOWLEDGE OF OWNER

Amendment of 1902 did not modify judicial interpretation of earlier act that owner was not liable for conduct of dog unless he had or was charged with knowledge of its vicious propensities. Bardwell v. Petty (52 App. D. C. 310, 286 Fed. 772).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AGENCY

An agent who converts funds delivered to him on the false representation that they are needed in the principal's business is guilty of embezzlement. Woodward v. United States (38 App. D. C. 323).

"It is immaterial whether he receives possession of the property from a third person or from his master; for in either case the property is under his care, and if he converts it he is guilty of embezzlement." Henry v. United States (50 App. D. C. 366, 273 Fed. 330, cert. den. 257 U. S. 640, 66 L. Ed. 411, 42 Sup. Ct. 51).

Preexisting agency was not necessary. "If the agency came into existence contemporaneously with the delivery of the certificates, that would be enough." Henry v. United States (50 App. D. C. 366, 273 Fed. 330, cert. den. 257 U. S. 640, 66 L. Ed. 411, 42 Sup. Ct. 51).

ATTORNEY

Assignment of claim to an attorney for the purpose of collection, and to cover his fee for collection does not create the relation of debtor and creditor, so as to defeat a charge of embezzlement. Patterson v. United States (39 App. D. C. 84, cert. den. 226 U. S. 609, 57 L. Ed. 380, 33 Sup. Ct. 114).

BROKER

Broker who converts stock certificates delivered to him for sale is guilty of embezzlement. Henry v. United States (50 App. D. C. 366, 273 Fed. 330), cert. den. 257 U. S. 640, 66 L. Ed. 411, 42 Sup. Ct. 51).

CLASSES OF ACTS

This section "describes two classes of acts, either one of which constitutes embezzlement: The first being the wrongful conversion to his own use, by the accused, of property which has come into his possession by virtue of his employment, and the second being the fraudulent taking, making way with, or secreting with intent to convert, such property to his own use." Gassenheimer v. United States (26 App. D. C. 432).

Offense of embezzlement is single, which the statute says may be committed by either of two methods or ways, and count which charges that the embezzlement was committed by means of both methods is not bad for duplicity. Proof of either means in the commission of the offense will sustain a conviction. O'Brien v. United States (27 App. D. C. 263).

DEFINITION

"Generally speaking, it (embezzlement) may be defined as the fraudulent conversion of another's property by one to whom it has been intrusted, with the intent of depriving the owner thereof." Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112), citing Masters v. United States (42 App. D. C. 350), Fulton v. United States (45 App. D. C. 27).

EVIDENCE

Defendant's reputation for honesty and integrity is admissible. Masters v. United States (42 App. D. C. 350).

Evidence by defendant of his financial standing is incompetent. Masters v. United States (42 App. D. C. 350).

It is competent for the government to prove the financial condition of the guardian at or immediately prior to an alleged offense, but evidence of other similar offenses is inadmissible unless there is some connection between the acts shown and one which accused is charged. Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112).

The fact that defendant hypothecated stock and received $4,000 therefor is not proof that the stock was worth more than $35. Henry v. United States (49 App. D. C. 207, 263 Fed. 459).

Actual value of stock may be proved by the testimony of persons familiar with the affairs of the company, its assets, and the dividend-earning capacity of the stock, and by individual sales of stock at or near the date when the conversion occurred. Actual value thus established furnishes a proper basis upon which the jury may make a finding. Henry v. United States (49 App. D. C. 207, 263 Fed. 459).

"Evidence of an intent at the time of the conversion to restore the embezzled money is not admissible. Henry v. United States (50 App. D. C. 366, 273 Fed. 330, cert. den. 257 U. S. 640, 66 L. Ed. 411, 42 Sup. Ct. 51).

FALSE PRETENSES

Indictment charging that accused had procured a check from woman to invest money with him upon false representation that he had contract with third party, and when such relationship was that of borrower and lender and not principal and agent it sufficiently charged the crime of obtaining value by false pretenses and not embezzlement. Davis v. United States (37 App. D. C. 126).

FORGERY

An employee, who, without authority, indorses his employer's name on a check payable to the latter's order, and cashes it, is guilty of forgery and not embezzlement. Dowling v. United States (41 App. D. C. 11).

When defendant acting as bookkeeper, salesman, and collector and authorized to indorse the name of the company on the checks, he is guilty of forgery and not embezzlement when he indorsed his own name and appropriated the money. Yeager v. United States (59 App. D. C. 11, 32 Fed. (2d) 402).

INDICTMENT

It is not necessary to allege the "particular way or means by which the conversion was effected." Gassenheimer v. United States (26 App. D. C. 432).

A general verdict of guilty on an indictment charging embezzlement and false pretenses will be set aside as inconsistent. Davis v. United States (37 App. D. C. 126).

In an indictment for wrongful conversion, it is not necessary to allege an intent to defraud. Patterson v. United States (39 App. D. C. 84, cert. den. 226 U. S. 609, 57 L. Ed. 380, 33 Sup. Ct. 114), citing Gassenheimer v. United States (26 App. D. C. 432), O'Brien v. United States (27 App. D. C. 263).

"The stealing or conversion of property belonging to different persons at the same time and place constitutes but a single offense and should be prosecuted as such." Henry v. United States (49 App. D. C. 207, 263 Fed. 459)

Under this section which describes two classes of acts, either one of which constitutes embezzlement, an indictment charging the commission of both of such acts is not bad for duplicity, and a conviction is warranted upon proof of the commission of either of the acts. Turner v. United States (57 App. D. C. 39, 16 Fed. (2d) 535)

INTENT

To wrongfully convert money is an act in its nature evil, and the statement of the act itself imports the evil intent. O'Brien v. United States (27 App. D. C. 263)

An agent converting funds of his principal delivered to him in the District of Columbia cannot be convicted of embezzlement if he formed the intent to convert outside of the District. Woodward v. United States (38 App. D. C. 323).

"The principle is that where a statute prohibits an act under certain circumstances, and a person commits the act not under a mistake of fact, a criminal intention is conclusively presumed." Patterson v. United States (39 App. D. C. 84, cert. den. 226 U. S. 609, 57 L. Ed. 380, 33 Sup. Ct. 114). Compare Masters v. United States (42 App. D. C. 350).

"Before there can be a conversion of the property of another there must be an intent on the part of the doer of the act to convert the property to his own use without the consent of the owner. But a wrongful conversion implies a conversion by the doer of the act without color of right, and with the evil intent of converting the property to his own use. The intent to wrongfully convert the property of another implies more than the intent to merely convert. It implies a mind at fault, an evil mind, capable of intentionally committing the offense here defined by the statute." Fulton v. United States (45 App. D. C. 27), quoting from Masters v. United States (42 App. D. C. 350)

LARCENY

Principal difference between larceny and embezzlement lies in the manner in which possession of the property is acquired. In larceny there is a trespass, accompanied by an intent to steal, while in embezzlement there is a fraudulent conversion of property the possession of which was lawfully acquired. In either case, except under special statutes, evil intent must be shown. Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112).

To sustain a conviction of grand larceny "it must be alleged and proved that the value of the property embezzled is over $35.00." Henry v. United States (49 App. D. C. 207, 263 Fed. 459).

Bookkeeper of hotel is mere employee and when he absconded with envelopes it constituted larceny, and not embezzlement. Chanock v. United States (50 App. D. C. 54, 267 Fed. 612, 11 A. L. R. 799).

PROMISSORY NOTE

A promissory note may be the subject of embezzlement. Reeves v. United States (56 App. D. C. 376, 15 Fed. (2d) 734).

RAILROAD CONDUCTOR

A railroad conductor who collects and subsequently sells tickets is guilty of embezzlement. Gassenheimer v. United States (26 App. D. C. 432).

"UNDER HIS CARE"

Phrase "under his care" will cover property merely in his custody, and therefore, under such a statute, it is immaterial whether he receives possession of the property from a third person or from his master; for in either case the property is under his care and if he converts it he is guilty of embezzlement. Henry v. United States (50 App. D. C. 366, 273 Fed. 330).

§ 22-1203 [6: 77]. Embezzlement of note not delivered.

ter or employer of any such clerk, attorney, agent, officer, or servant, but not delivered or issued as a valid instrument, shall be deemed an offense within the meaning of section 22-1202. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1325, ch. 854, § 835.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

"AT LABOR"

A sentence under this section containing the words "at labor" will be modified by striking out such words as surplusage. Fields v. United States (27 App. D. C. 433, cert. den. 205 U. S. 292, 51 L. Ed. 807, 27 Sup. Ct. 543).

COMMINGLING

Mere commingling of trust funds with personal funds "affords no sufficient basis for a presumption of evil intent." Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112)

EVIDENCE

In proving such intent "it is competent for the government to prove the financial condition of the accused at or immediately prior to the alleged offense." Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112).

Evidence of similar offenses is admissible to show a course of conduct or a general scheme, but there must be some possible connection between the acts shown and the one on account of which the defendant is being tried. Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112).

INDICTMENT

Indictment is sufficient which charges with precision and certainty that the defendant was appointed a receiver by order of court; that by virtue of said appointment he came into possession of a certain sum of money, alleged to be the property of the association and that on a certain date, he unlawfully and fraudulently converted and appropriated the same to his own use, and did then and there embezzle the same. Fields v. United States (27 App. D. C. 433, cert. den. 205 U. S. 292, 51 L. Ed. 807, 27 Sup. Ct. 543).

INTENT TO DEFRAUD

"Intent to defraud is an essential element of the crime denounced by section 841 (this section)." Ambrose v. United States (45 App. D. C. 112).

RECEIVER APPOINTED PRIOR TO EFFECTIVE DATE

This section "comprehends property that may have passed into the defendant's possession as receiver before the time that it went into effect, when embezzled thereafter." Fields v. United States (27 App. D. C. 433, cert. den. 205 U. S. 292, 51 L. Ed. 807, 27 Sup. Ct. 543).

The taking and carrying away of the property of another in the District of Columbia without right to do so shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars, or imprisonment for a term not to exceed six months, or both. (Apr. 21, 1906, 34 Stat. 127, ch. 1647.)

Chapter 13.—FALSE PRETENSES—FALSE PERSONATION

Sec.

- 22-1301. False pretenses.
- 22-1302. Recordation of deed, contract, or conveyance with intent to extort money.
- 22-1303. False personation before court, officers, notaries.
- 22-1304. Falsely impersonating public officer or minister.
- 22-1305. False personation of inspector of departments of District of Columbia.
- 22-1306. False personation of police officer.
- 22-1307. Wearing or using insignia of certain organizations.
- 22-1308. False certificate of acknowledgment.

§ 22-1301 [6: 85]. False pretenses.

Whoever, by any false pretense, with intent to defraud, obtains from any person anything of value, or procures the execution and delivery of any instrument of writing or conveyance of real or personal property, or the signature of any person, as maker, indorser, or guarantor, to or upon any bond, bill, receipt, promissory note, draft, or check, or any other evidence of indebtedness, and whoever fraudulently sells, barter, or disposes of any bond, bill, receipt, promissory note, draft, or check, or other evidence of indebtedness, for value, knowing the same to be worthless, or knowing the signature of the maker, indorser, or guarantor thereof to have been obtained by any false pretense, shall, if the value of the property or the sum or value of the money or property so obtained, procured, sold, bartered, or disposed of is $50 or upward, be imprisoned not less than one year nor more than three years; or, if less than that sum, shall be fined not more than $200 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both. Any person who obtains any lodging, food, or accommodation at an inn, boarding-house, or lodging-house, without paying therefor, with intent to defraud the proprietor or manager thereof, or who obtains credit at such an inn, boarding-house, or lodging-house by the use of any false pretense, or who, after obtaining credit or accommodation at such an inn, boarding-house, or lodging-house, absconds or surreptitiously removes his baggage therefrom without paying for his food, accommodation, or lodging, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof in the police court of the District of Columbia be fined not more than $100 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both, in the discretion of said court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1326, ch. 854, § 842; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 628, ch. 599.)

Act of 1902 amended act of 1901 by changing penalty from six months to one year.

Act of 1937 is re-enactment with amendatory changes as given above.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"The elements of the offense are a false pretense or false representation by the defendant or some one acting for and instigated by him, knowledge by the defendant as to the falsity, reliance on the pretense or representation by the person defrauded, intent to defraud, and an actual defrauding." Robinson v. United States (42 App. D. C. 186).

AMENDMENT

This section was intended to repeal those provisions of existing acts requiring the imposition of a definite, as distinguished from an indeterminate, sentence, and possibly also to effect pro tanto repeal of the minimum penalty provisions of such existing acts as themselves stipulate a minimum penalty in excess of one-fifth of a stipulated maximum penalty. Anderson v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 174, 85 Fed. (2d) 673).

"ANYTHING OF VALUE"

A promissory note is a thing of value within the meaning of the statute. It is not necessary that false pretense should be the sole inducement for parting with the property; it is sufficient "if it had a preponderating influence sufficient to turn the scale, although other considerations operated upon the mind of the party." Partridge v. United States (39 App. D. C. 571, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 622).

Cited to the point that this section made the obtaining of anything of value by means of false pretenses a crime. Biddle v. United States ((C. C. A. 9), 156 Fed. 759).

CRIME AGAINST UNITED STATES

False pretense is a crime against the United States, and persons conspiring to commit it may be punished under U. S. R. S. § 5440 (U. S. C., title 18, § 88). Geist v. United States (26 App. D. C. 594).

EMBEZZLEMENT

"Verdict under embezzlement counts negatives one essential fact in the crime of procuring money by false pretenses, namely, the divesting of the title originally." Davis v. United States (37 App. D. C. 126).

EVIDENCE

Where the question is one of guilty knowledge, or fraudulent intent "it has always been deemed allowable, as well in criminal as in civil cases, to introduce evidence of other acts and doings of the party, of a kindred character, in order to illustrate or establish his intent or motive in the particular act directly in judgment." Partridge v. United States (39 App. D. C. 571, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 622).

"It is for the jury to determine whether each of those elements has been established by the evidence, and the court is not authorized to invade the province of the jury by telling them that if certain facts are proved the intent to defraud is made out." Robinson v. United States (42 App. D. C. 186).

FACT REPRESENTED FALSELY

In order to constitute the crime of obtaining money under false pretenses, the alleged false representation must be of some past or existing fact. Biddle v. United States ((C. C. A. 9), 156 Fed. 759).

INDICTMENT

Abusive words conveying the meaning that plaintiff had, by trick or artifice, obtained entrance into a theater, do not charge the indictable offense of false pretenses. Friedlander v. Rapley (38 App. D. C. 208).

INTENT TO DEFRAUD

Jury may impute an intent to defraud, where the evidence shows that one has obtained something of value from another by means of false representations, knowingly made with intent to induce the action taken by the other, by introducing evidence tending to show that he believed the other was receiving something of substantial value. Robinson v. United States (42 App. D. C. 186).

When indictment plainly describes numerous false representations of present and past facts, and it charges that their falsity was known to defendant, that they were made with the intention of defrauding and that one believed them and acted upon them by paying money, it adequately charged a public offense. Randle v. United States (72 App. D. C. 368, 113 Fed. (2d) 945).

MERE OPINION OR EXPECTATION

"False pretense or representation * * * must relate to some subsisting fact, past or present. A statement as to the future by way of opinion or expectation as to what can be accomplished does not constitute false pretense." Engle v. United States (48 App. D. C. 466).

ON APPEAL

Conviction of obtaining money by false pretenses affirmed. Moffatt v. United States (60 App. D. C. 35, 46 Fed. (2d) 616); Howe v. United States (61 App. D. C. 8, 56 Fed. (2d) 305).

PRESENT OR PAST FACTS

That false representations of present or past facts become effective only by being coupled with a false promise does not take a case out of the operation of the statute. Randle v. United States (72 App. D. C. 368, 113 Fed. (2d) 945).

In indictment for obtaining money by false pretenses, the misrepresentations must relate to present or past facts, as distinguished from something to take place in the future. Randle v. United States (72 App. D. C. 368, 113 Fed. (2d) 945).

RELIANCE ON PRETENSE

Statement by defendant that prosecuting witness should not rely on representations but should satisfy himself by observation and inquiry, is not sufficient to relieve of criminal liability for false representation theretofore made unless it appears that prosecuting witness accepted withdrawal of representations and assumed to act entirely on his own judgment. Partridge v. United States (39 App. D. C. 571, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 622).

REPRESENTATION—TO WHOM MADE

False representation must be made to the person defrauded. Foster v. Goldsoll (48 App. D. C. 505).

SCHEMES TO DEFRAUD

In prosecution for obtaining money under false pretenses, when evidence plainly shows a planned fraud, there was no error in the use of the phrase "schemes to defraud." Randle v. United States (72 App. D. C. 368, 113 Fed. (2d) 945).

While the word scheme does not itself occur in the statute, the language of the statute is broad enough to cover a scheme to defraud. Randle v. United States (72 App. D. C. 368, 113 Fed. (2d) 945).

WORTHLESS CHECK

It is no defense in fraudulent check cases that defendant subsequently reimbursed the prosecuting witness, nor that defendant at time of transaction intended to repay the money. Clagett v. United States (53 App. D. C. 134, 289 Fed. 532).

It is a violation of the statute and no defense for the defendant to obtain money from the prosecuting witness upon the faith of the worthless check, whether the check was to serve as security for a concurrent loan or was to be presented to the bank for payment in ordinary course. Clagett v. United States (53 App. D. C. 134, 289 Fed. 532).

Whoever having no title or color of title to the land affected shall maliciously cause to be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia any deed, contract, or other instrument purporting to convey or to relate to any land in said

District with intent to extort money or anything of value from any person owning such land, or having any interest therein, shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than two years, or both. (June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329, § 845a.)

§ 22-1303 [6: 132]. False personation before court, officers, notaries.

Whoever falsely personates another person before any court of record or judge thereof, or clerk of court, or any officer in the District authorized to administer oaths or take the acknowledgment of deeds or other instruments or to grant marriage licenses, with intent to defraud, shall be imprisoned for not less than one year nor more than five years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1330, ch. 854, § 859; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 2.)

AMENDMENTS

Under act of 1909, the court known as "justice of the peace" was changed to "the municipal court of the District of Columbia."

Act of 1921 authorized the municipal court as court of record.

Whoever falsely represents himself to be a judge of the municipal court, notary public, police officer, or other public officer, or a minister qualified to celebrate marriage, and attempts to perform the duty or exercise the authority pertaining to any such office or character, or having been duly appointed to any of such offices shall knowingly attempt to act as any such officers after his appointment or commission has expired or he has been dismissed from such office, shall suffer imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one year nor more than three years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1330, ch. 854, § 860; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1909 changed "justice of the peace" to "judge of the municipal court."

It shall be unlawful for any person in the District of Columbia to falsely represent himself or herself as being an inspector of the health department of said District, or an inspector of any department of the District government; and any person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction in the police court of said District shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for the first offense, and for each subsequent offense by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the jail of the District not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Mar. 2, 1897, 29 Stat. 619, ch. 364.)

It shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment in the District jail or penitentiary not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, for any person, not a member of the police force, to falsely represent himself as being such member, with a fraudulent design. (R. S., D. C., § 433.)

§ 22-1307 [6:300]. Wearing or using insignia of certain organizations.

Whoever, in the District of Columbia, not being a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, or the Grand Army of the Republic, of the Sons of Veterans, of the Woman's Relief Corps, of the Union Veteran's Union, of the Union Veteran Legion, of the United Spanish War Veterans, of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and not entitled under the rules of the order to wear the same, wilfully wears or uses the insignia, distinctive ribbon, or badge of membership, rosette, or button thereof, or who uses or wears the same to obtain aid or assistance thereby, shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (Mar. 15, 1906, 34 Stat. 62, ch. 949.)

Any officer authorized to take the proof or acknowledgment of an instrument which, by law, may be recorded, who wilfully certifies falsely that the instrument was acknowledged by any party thereto, or who wilfully certifies falsely as to any other material matter in such acknowledgment, shall be imprisoned for not less than one year nor more than ten years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1327, ch. 854, § 845.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1326, ch. 854, § 843.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AGENT

The use by an agent of the signature of his principal for an unauthorized purpose constitutes forgery. Yeager v. United States (59 App. D. C. 11, 32 Fed. (2d) 402).

ALTERATION

Question for the jury is not merely whether defendant honestly believed he had authority to alter notes, but whether he had reasonable grounds for so believing. Towles v. United States (19 App. D. C. 471).

COMMON LAW

Forgery, at common law, is the false making or materially altering with intent to defraud, of any writing which, if genuine, might apparently be of legal efficacy or the foundation of a legal liability. Milton v. United States (71 App. D. C. 394, 110 Fed. (2d) 556).

At common law, forgery and uttering were different substantive crimes. Reid v. Aderhold ((C. C. A. 5), 65 Fed. (2d) 110).

EMBEZZLEMENT

Where one employed as bookkeeper, salesman, and collector of an electric company, with authority to indorse checks in the name of the company and deposit them in the bank, cashed the checks instead and appropriated the money to his own use, the offense of which he was guilty was forgery, and conviction for embezzlement must be reversed. Yeager v. United States (59 App. D. C. 11, 32 Fed. (2d) 402).

HABEAS CORPUS

Habeas corpus for release of one convicted of forgery. Reid v. Aderhold ((C. C. A. 5), 65 Fed. (2d) 110, cert. den. 290 U. S. 676, 78 L. Ed. 584, 54 Sup. Ct. 104).

INDICTMENT

"It matters not that at common law the charge of falsely making an instrument was held to include the offense of falsely altering it, since they are disjunctively named in the statute as distinct ways in which the crime of forging may be committed. Forgery is a statutory, not a common-law crime in this District, and the offense must be charged as defined in the statute, irrespective of common-law rules of pleading." Frisby v. United States (38 App. D. C. 22, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 96). See, however, Read v. United States (55 App. D. C. 43, 299 Fed. 918) wherein it is said, "The offense thus denounced is complete even though the instrument never is uttered. When it is uttered, another and distinct offense is committed, and a second uttering, of course, constitutes still another offense. In Frisby v. United States (38 App. D. C. 22, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 96) the question was not directly involved and the Burton case (202 U. S. 344, 50 L. Ed. 1057, 26 Sup. Ct. 688) was not brought to our attention."

"The statute defines two distinct criminal acts, either of which constitutes the crime of forgery. The making of a false instrument with intent to defraud is forgery. The uttering of a forged instrument with intent to defraud is forgery. But where the instrument is both forged and uttered by the same person, * * * there is only the single crime of forgery committed." Frisby v. United States (38 App. D. C. 22, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 96). See Frisby v. United States (35 App. D. C. 513). See also Simon v. United States (37 App. D. C. 280) holding that both acts may be charged in the indictment, or the pleader may elect to charge but one.

Indictment for uttering need not set forth the particular acts claimed to constitute such uttering. Fuller v. United States (53 App. D. C. 88, 288 Fed. 442).

Indictment charging defendant with possession and knowingly uttering and publishing a forged security, states a single offense. Price v. United States (53 App. D. C. 164, 289 Fed. 562).

Indictment need not allege the persons or corporations intended to be defrauded, but requires nothing more than a general intent to defraud. Read v. United States (55 App. D. C. 43, 299 Fed. 918).

INTENT

Elements of offense: "There must be a false making or other alteration of some instrument in writing; there must be a fraudulent intent; and the instrument must be apparently capable of effecting a fraud * * *. Intent in forgery will not be presumed from the mere making of a false instrument. It must be gathered from some affirmative act, or from the existence of circumstances from which criminal intent may be inferred." Dowling v. United States (41 App. D. C. 11), quoting from Frisby v. United States (38 App. D. C. 22, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 96). See § 22-1202.

It is not essential that "anyone shall be actually defrauded, or that the accused shall have the intent to defraud any particular person. All that is required in that respect is that there be an intent to defraud someone." Easterday v. United States (53 App. D. C. 387, 292 Fed. 664); Read v. United States (55 App. D. C. 43, 299 Fed. 918); Milton v. United States (71 App. D. C. 394, 110 Fed. (2d) 556).

INSTRUMENT

It is enough if the forged instrument be apparently sufficient to support a legal claim and thus to effect a fraud. Milton v. United States (71 App. D. C. 394, 110 Fed. (2d) 556).

§ 22-1402 [6: 298]. Forging or imitating brands or packaging of goods.

Whoever wilfully forges or counterfeits or makes use of any imitation calculated to deceive the public, though with colorable difference or deviation therefrom, of the private brand, wrapper, label, trademark, bottle, or package usually affixed or used by any person to or with the goods, wares, merchandise, preparation, or mixture of such person, with intent to pass off any work, goods, manufacture, compound, preparation, or mixture as the manufacture or production of such person which is not really such, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1333, ch. 854, § 879.)

§ 22-1403 [6: 68]. Stealing, destroying, mutilating, secreting, or withholding will.

Whoever, during the life of a testator or after his death, shall, for a fraudulent purpose, take and carry away a will, codicil, or other testamentary instrument, or destroy, mutilate, or secrete the same, whether it relates to personal or real property, shall suffer imprisonment for not more than five years.

If any person in whose possession or custody a will or codicil shall be after the death of a testator or testatrix shall wilfully neglect to deliver the same to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, holding a special term as a probate court, or to the register of wills, or to some executor named in the will, for the space of three calendar months after the death of testator or testatrix shall be known to him, the person thus offending shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1324, ch. 854, § 830; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1902 added the second paragraph.

§ 22-1404 [6: 69]. Secreting or converting property, documents, or assets of decedent's estate.

Whosoever wilfully and fraudulently makes away with, secretes, or converts to his own use any property, documents, or assets of any kind or nature belonging to the estate of a deceased person shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $2,000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 830a.)

§ 22-1405 [6: 70]. Taking away or concealing writings.

Whoever, with intent to defraud or injure another person, shall take away or conceal any writing whereby the estate or right of such other person shall or may be defeated, injured, or altered shall suffer imprisonment for not more than seven years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1326, ch. 854, § 840.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

Averments of indictment were sufficient when they clearly set forth the defendant's relation to the building association; that certain books of record were required to be kept, and that six carefully described books of record were kept; and that the defendant, on a day named, "unlawfully, wilfully, and with an intent to defraud and injure the said association, and the said stockholders and members thereof, did take away and conceal said books hereinbefore in this indictment particularly described, said books then and there being the writing, records, and property of said association, stockholders, and members." Miller v. United States (41 App. D. C. 52, cert. den. 291 U. S. 755, 58 L. Ed. 468, 34 Sup. Ct. 323).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES

One of the essential elements of a lottery is the awarding of a prize by chance, but the exact method adopted for the application of chance to the distribution of prizes is immaterial. Forte v. United States (65 App. D. C. 355, 83 Fed. (2d) 612, 105 A. L. R. 300).

EVIDENCE

In prosecution under this section, the credibility of the testimony of officers as to evidences of guilt found in defendant's automobile, is for the judge and the trial court's finding in disputed evidence will be upheld. Coupe v. United States (72 App. D. C. 86, 113 Fed. (2d) 145).

In prosecution under this section a page from a notebook found on the person of the accused was properly admitted in evidence, over the objection of the accused that it was a memorandum of a bet on a horse race, although it may tend, incidentally, to prove another distinct offense. Shettel v. United States (72 App. D. C. 250, 113 Fed. (2d) 34).

Intercepted interstate and local messages pertaining to gambling are not admissible when received by person not authorized by the sender. United States v. Plisco ((D. C.-D. C.), 22 Fed. Supp. 242).

INDICTMENT

Where an indictment under this section contains two counts, one for misdemeanor and one for felony, defendant's objection that the conviction on the misdemeanor count was invalid is immaterial in view of the fact that the sentences for each were to be served concurrently and the longer sentence was based on a valid count. Coupe v. United States (72 App. D. C. 86, 113 Fed. (2d) 145).

NUMBERS GAME

"Numbers game" is lottery when the player merely guesses that the result of mathematical calculations, based upon the prices paid at a certain track, will be a certain number. Forte v. United States (65 App. D. C. 355, 83 Fed. (2d) 612, 105 A. L. R. 300).

Conviction of violating and of conspiracy to violate the lottery law was sustained where evidence showed that defendants had been engaged in operation of the "numbers" game. Smith v. United States (72 App. D. C. 187, 112 Fed. (2d) 217).

§ 22-1502 [6: 151a]. Possession of lottery or policy tickets.

If any person shall within the District have in his possession, knowingly, any ticket, certificate, bill, slip, token, paper, writing, or other device used, or to be used, or adapted, devised, or designed for the purpose of playing, carrying on, or conducting any lottery, or the game or device commonly known as policy lottery or policy, he shall be fined upon conviction of each said offense not more than $500 or be imprisoned for not more than six months, or both. If any person shall knowingly permit, on any premises under his control in the District, the sale of any chance or ticket in or share of a ticket in any lottery or policy lottery, or shall knowingly permit any lottery or policy lottery, or policy shop on such premises, he shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not more than one year, or both. NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Nelson v. United States (28 App. D. C. 32); Swan v. United States (54 App. D. C. 100, 295 Fed. 921); citing Miller v. United States (6 App. D. C. 6), wherein it is said: "Any games, devices, or contrivances set up or kept for the purpose of gaming, or any gambling device, so set up and kept, adapted, devised, and designed for the purpose of playing any game of chance for money or property, and to which the public may resort to bid or wager money, is a gaming table within the meaning of the statute. The definition of a gaming table under the statute does not involve the ordinary mechanical definition of a table, but depends for its statutory meaning upon the means or contrivances adopted for playing the game."

"Two offenses are created by section 865 (§ 22-1504). One is the setting up or keeping of a gaming table or device; the other is the keeping of a house, vessel, or place for the purpose of gaming." Wade v. United States (33 App. D. C. 29, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 347, 17 Ann. Cas. 707).

CLAW MACHINE

"Claw machine" used for the purpose of obtaining articles, by mere chance, was a "gambling device." Boosalis v. Crawford (69 App. D. C. 141, 99 Fed. (2d) 374).

GAMING TABLE

Section 865 of the code (this section) made it a crime to set up or keep any gaming table, or any house, vessel, or place, on land or water, for the purpose of gaming or gambling, under the penalty of imprisonment for a term of not more than five years. Kelleher v. United States (59 App. D. C. 107, 35 Fed. (2d) 877).

Indictments charge that appellants set up and kept a gambling table for the purpose of betting and wagering on the results of horse races, contrary to this section. This charges an offense against the laws of the United States. Nuckols v. United States (69 App. D. C. 120, 99 Fed. (2d) 353).

INDICTMENT

Indictment in either case of maintaining table or place in which gaming was done need not allege proof of passing money; but if it is drawn in almost the language of the statute, and charges both the place and table defendants were conducting, that is sufficient. Beard v. United States (65 App. D. C. 231, 82 Fed. (2d) 837).

OFFENSE A FELONY

This section, by prescribing a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment, made the offense a felony. No warrant for arrest was necessary where defendant was apprehended in the act of violating the statute. Zerega v. United States (59 App. D. C. 67, 32 Fed. (2d) 963).

ON APPEAL

Conviction on five counts of keeping gaming table and a place for gambling on horse races was affirmed. Brown v. United States (59 App. D. C. 57, 32 Fed. (2d) 953).

When one was convicted for operating gaming table he could not afterwards dispute the verdict, for a question of fact or of law distinctly put in issue and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction cannot afterwards be disputed between the same parties. Beard v. Sanford ((C. C. A. 5), 99 Fed. (2d) 750).

When appellant was convicted on two counts, first, by setting up gaming table, and, second, keeping a place for gaming, but as he did not raise the question of double jeopardy on the trial or on the appeal from conviction, effect of his failure to do so was to waive the question for all time. Beard v. Sanford ((C. C. A. 5), 105 Fed. (2d) 141).

PLACE FOR GAMING

It is not necessary that one charged with the crime of maintaining a gambling place should have been in permanent possession of the place or a lessee or keeper, but that it is sufficient if he is in charge of the place at the time the offense occurs. Donald v. United States (70 App. D. C. 14, 102 Fed. (2d) 618).

§ 22-1505 [6: 154]. Permitting gaming table or device to be set up.

Whoever in the District knowingly permits any gaming table, bank, or device to be set up or used for the purpose of gaming in any house, building, vessel, shed, booth, shelter, lot, or other premises to him belonging or by him occupied, or of which at the time he has possession or control, shall be punished by imprisonment in the jail for not more than one year or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1331, ch. 854, § 866.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section provided that whoever knowingly permitted any gaming table, bank, or device to be set up or used for the purpose of gaming in any house, building, vessel, shed, booth, shelter, lot, or other premises belonging to or occupied by him, or under his possession or control, should be punished by imprisonment in the jail for not more than one year or by a fine not exceeding $500, or both. Kelleher v. United States (59 App. D. C. 107, 35 Fed. (2d) 877).

PROOF

An indictment charging an offense under this section cannot be sustained by proof of a violation of section 865 (§ 22-1504). "In order to warrant a conviction under section 866 (this section) it is necessary that a defendant shall knowingly permit a gambling device to be set up or used for the purpose of gaming upon premises owned or occupied by him, or of which at the time of the commission of the offense he had possession or control." Nelson v. United States (28 App. D. C. 32).

§ 22-1506 [6: 155]. Three-card monte and confidence games.

Whoever shall in the District deal, play, or practice, or be in any manner accessory to the dealing or practicing, of the confidence game or swindle known as three-card monte, or of any such game, play, or practice, or any other confidence game, play, or practice, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars and by imprisonment for not more than

Nothing in sections 22-1625 to 22-1627 shall prevent the sale at any time of Hungarian partridges, English, ring-necked, Mongolian or Chinese pheasants, when the same shall have been raised in captivity, or the sale of birds mentioned in said sections alive, for propagating purposes, under such regulations and requirements as shall be prescribed by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. Chapter 17.—HARBOR REGULATIONS

Sec.

22-1701. Harbor regulations—Authority vested in commissioners to make—Federal approval if affecting navigable waters—Parks and waterfront—Penalty.

22-1702. Throwing or depositing matter in Potomac River.

22-1703. Deposits of deleterious matter in Rock Creek or Potomac River.

§ 22-1701 [6: 304]. Harbor regulations—Authority vested in Commissioners to make—Federal approval if affecting navigable waters—Parks and water-front—Penalty.

Every vessel coming to anchor in the Potomac River between the junction of the Washington and Georgetown Channels of said river and the extension of the south line of P Street southwest, in the city of Washington, shall anchor as near the flats in said river as possible, so that the channel of said river will not be obstructed; and if such vessel is to remain over twelve hours it shall be moored with both anchors, so as to give room for passing vessels and so as not to swing and obstruct said channel.

Every vessel coming to anchor in any other portion of the navigable waters in the District of Columbia shall also be so moored under the direction of the harbor master, or the pilot of the police boat acting in the harbor master's absence, as not to obstruct the channel, and be secured with an anchor at bow and stern as to keep the long axis of the vessel parallel with that of the channel and prevent it from swinging so as to obstruct the free passage of the channel by other vessels.

No vessel shall be permitted to anchor in the Washington Channel of the Potomac River between a point one thousand feet south of the south line of P Street and the north line of K Street south extended, each point to be designated by a white buoy; and all vessels coming to anchor above the north line of K Street south aforesaid shall come to anchor as near the flats as possible and so that the channel will not be obstructed; and all vessels coming to anchor shall be so moored by the use of both anchors as to prevent obstruction of the channel within four hundred feet of the nearest wharf, the said anchorage to continue only twenty-four hours unless otherwise ordered or directed by the harbor master.

The captain or owner of any sunken vessel or other structure in any dock or at the end of any wharf in the District of Columbia, shall raise and remove the same in five days. Any vessel at the end of wharves or in docks shall, when required by the harbor master, haul either way to accommodate vessels going in or coming out from such wharves or docks. They shall not occupy regular steamers' or sailing packets' berths without permission from the recognized occupants of such wharves and dock, and they are required to rig in all fore-and-aft spars, have boats hoisted up under the bow, and davits turned up, as the harbor master may direct. Vessels when not engaged in loading or discharging cargo shall give place to such vessels as are ready to receive or deliver freights; and if the captain or person in charge of any vessel refuse to move said vessel when notified by the occupant of the wharf at which she is lying, the harbor master shall order him to haul to some other berth or into the stream. The powers and authority herein conferred upon the harbor master may, in his absence or temporary disability, be exercised by the pilot of the harbor police boat. Any person refusing to obey the instructions of the harbor master, or, in case of his absence or temporary disability, the said pilot of the harbor police boat, or any person failing to comply with any of the provisions of this section, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby vested with authority to make harbor regulations for the entire water-front of the city within the District of Columbia, to alter and amend the same from time to time as they may find necessary: Provided, That whenever these regulations affect navigable waters, channels, and anchorage areas or other interests of the United States, such regulations shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War: And provided further, That whenever said regulations affect the water-front within the District of Columbia under the jurisdiction of the Director of the National Park Service, or affect the interests and rights of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, such regulations shall be subject to prior approval of the respective agencies. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1335, ch. 854, § 895; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329; Feb. 8, 1904, 33 Stat. 11, ch. 152; June 15, 1934, 48 Stat. 963, ch. 536.)

AMENDMENTS

The first sentence of this section has not been changed by subsequent amendments. The remainder of the section is a composite of the credits cited in the history line.

The 1904 act added the second sentence of the first paragraph, and provided that the provision in the third paragraph requiring "any captain or owner of or anyone in charge of any barge, sand scow, or any vessel that may sink in said canals, shall raise and remove the same in five days" shall be applicable to the captain or owner of any sunken vessel or other structure in any dock or at the end of any wharf in the District of Columbia.

The 1934 act vested the Commissioners of the District of Columbia with authority to make harbor regulations for the entire water-front of the city within the District, subject to the approval of the Secretary of War whenever they affect navigable waters, channels, anchorage areas, or other interests of the United States, and when the regulations affect the water-front within the District which is under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service or the National Park and Planning Commission, they shall be subject to approval of those agencies.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE ACT

Under the Indeterminate Sentence Act the trial court could impose a term of imprisonment of 15 years, or less, as a maximum, i. e., not more than one-fifth of the 15 years. Anderson v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 174, 85 Fed. (2d) 673).

INDICTMENT

There is no variance where the indictment alleges that building entered was occupied by A and the proof shows occupancy by B, with the consent of A. Cady v. United States (54 App. D. C. 10, 293 Fed. 829).

INTENT

Unlawful entry with intent to commit an offense constitutes the crime, hence, the actual commission of the other offense is not necessary. Lee v. United States (37 App. D. C. 442).

Evidence, that lock on garage had been pulled, that defendants were in the garage that morning and when questioned by a witness at that time refused to make a response and drove away, was sufficient to sustain conviction of feloniously entering with intent to commit larceny. Cady v. United States (54 App. D. C. 10, 293 Fed. 829).

JOINDER

Counts of housebreaking and of larceny committed after the entry may be joined, and the court does not err in refusing to require the government to elect between them. Lee v. United States (37 App. D. C. 442).

This section shall be held to have been violated if either the seizing, confining, inveigling, enticing, decoying, kidnaping, abducting, concealing, carrying away, holding, or detaining occurs in the District of Columbia. If two or more individuals enter into any agreement or conspiracy to do any act or acts which would constitute a violation of the provisions of this section, and one or more of such individuals do any act to effect the object of such agreement or conspiracy, each such individual shall be deemed to have violated the provisions of this section. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1322, ch. 854, § 812; Feb. 18, 1933, 47 Stat. 858, ch. 103.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMPARING EMBEZZLEMENT

To constitute larceny the property must be unlawfully taken from the possession of another, with the fraudulent intent to convert the same to his own use. He who takes without the consent of the owner commits a trespass. The offense of embezzlement consists in the wrongful conversion of the property which has been entrusted to the possession of another. He commits no trespass or wrong in acquiring the possession, but a breach of trust in converting the property to his own use. Rohde v. United States (34 App. D. C. 249).

Treasurer of unincorporated association who converts funds coming into his possession as such treasurer is guilty of embezzlement and not larceny. Rohde v. United States (34 App. D. C. 249).

Embezzlement is where any agent, attorney, clerk, or servant wrongfully converts to his own use anything of value which shall come into his possession or under his care by virtue of his employment, but his possession for a special limited purpose may not destroy legal possession of the owner, and therefore his subsequent conversion of the article would be larceny. Talbert v. United States (42 App. D. C. 1).

Driver of transfer truck who converts property while hauling it from a freight depot is guilty of larceny and not embezzlement. Weisberg v. United States (49 App. D. C. 28, 258 Fed. 284), citing Talbert v. United States (42 App. D. C. 1).

A bookkeeper and clerk in a hotel, to whom a guest delivers property for safe-keeping, and who subsequently abstracts them from the hotel safe, is guilty of larceny and not embezzlement. Chanock v. United States (50 App. D. C. 54, 267 Fed. 612, 11 A. L. R. 799).

FORCE AND VIOLENCE

Larceny consists in "a wrongful and fraudulent taking" and it does not exclude the idea of force and violence, or of fraud accompanied by force, nor does it imply that the taking must be secret. Williams v. United States (3 App. D. C. 335).

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE ACT

Person having been sentenced for two to four years for grand larceny, served 25 months and was then resentenced to serve 15 months on grounds that the prior sentences were void because the Indeterminate Sentence Act did not apply to such actions; held, however, that sentence does not run as of date of the original sentences. De Benque v. United States (66 App. D. C. 36, 85 Fed. (2d) 202, 106 A. L. R. 839).

INDICTMENT

It is sufficient in the indictment to describe the property by the generic name of the class to which it belongs. Nordlinger v. United States (24 App. D. C. 406, 70 L. R. A. 227).

INTENT

Unlawful taking is not sufficient, it must be coupled with the intent to steal. Ryan v. United States (26 App. D. C. 74, 6 Ann. Cas. 633).

Drunkenness no defense unless "so drunk as to be incapable of forming the intent to steal; that is to say, incapable of consciousness that he is committing a crime, incapable of discriminating between right and wrong." Ryan v. United States (26 App. D. C. 74, 6 Ann. Cas. 633).

Where possession is secured by fraud, trick, or artifice the criminal intent must exist at the time the article is received. Talbert v. United States (42 App. D. C. 1). See also Woodward v. United States (38 App. D. C. 323); Miller v. United States (41 App. D. C. 52, cert. den. 231 U. S. 755, 58 L. Ed. 468, 34 Sup. Ct. 323).

Where possession of jewelry is secured by a salesman for the purpose of exhibiting the same to a prospective purchaser, and he subsequently converts it to his own use, the offense is larceny, and it is immaterial when the intent to convert was formed. Talbert v. United States (42 App. D. C. 1).

INTOXICATION AS DEFENSE

One who steals while intoxicated may nevertheless be convicted if he converts the property after complete return to consciousness. Ryan v. United States (26 App. D. C. 74, 6 Ann. Cas. 633).

LIABILITY OF ARRESTING OFFICER

Arrest of one without warrant on strong suspicion of stealing a pocketbook containing $30, precluded maintenance of action for false arrest, since the officers could not know the amount of money it contained. Maghan v. Jerome (67 App. D. C. 9, 88 Fed. (2d) 1001).

LOCUS OF CONVERSION

The fact that one who, while intoxicated, stole an automobile and converted the same beyond the District of Columbia does not prevent a prosecution here, when the original taking was in the District. Ryan v. United States (26 App. D. C. 74, 6 Ann. Cas. 633).

Indictment for larceny will not lie against one who steals property in another state and brings it into the District. Brown v. United States (35 App. D. C. 548, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 388), citing Davis v. United States (18 App. D. C. 468).

PRIOR ACQUITTAL—TEST

On plea of prior acquittal, the test of the identity of offenses that has commonly been applied in such cases is whether the facts necessary to conviction under the second indictment would have been sufficient, if proved, to warrant a conviction under the first. Nordlinger v. United States (24 App. D. C. 406, 70 L. R. A. 227).

PROOF

Where indictment alleges ownership in A B R, and the proof shows A P R, the variance is not prejudicial. Jones v. United States (53 App. D. C. 138, 289 Fed. 536). See also Williams v. United States (3 App. D. C. 335).

UNEXPLAINED POSSESSION OF STOLEN PROPERTY

"The unexplained exclusive possession of stolen property, shortly after the commission of a larceny, may satisfy the jury and warrant a verdict of guilty" of larceny. Tractenberg v. United States (53 App. D. C. 396, 293 Fed. 476).

§ 22-2202 [6: 61]. Petit larceny—Order of restitution.

Whoever shall feloniously take and carry away any property of value of less than $50, including things savoring of the realty, shall be fined not more than $200 or be imprisoned for not more than one year, or both. And in all convictions for larceny, either grand or petit, the trial justice may, in his sound discretion, order restitution to be made of the value of the money or property shown to have been stolen by the defendant and made way with or otherwise disposed of and not recovered. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1324, ch. 854, § 827; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 628, ch. 599.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment added the second sentence to this section.

The 1937 act changed the value of the property taken from $35 to $50.

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 22-2201.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OFFENSE IS MISDEMEANOR

Stealing of less than $35 is a misdemeanor and an officer may not arrest for a misdemeanor without a warrant unless it is committed in his presence or within his view. Maghan v. Jerome (67 App. D. C. 9, 88 Fed. (2d) 1001).

§ 22-2203 [6: 98]. Larceny after trust.

That if any person entrusted with the possession of anything of value, including things savoring of the realty, for the purpose of applying the same for the use and benefit of the owner or person, so delivering it, shall fraudulently convert the same to his own use he shall, where the value of the thing so converted is $50 or more, be punished by imprisonment for not less than one nor more than ten years, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or both; and where the value of the thing so converted is less than $50 he shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than $500 or both: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall be construed to alter or repeal any section contained in this chapter. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 851b, as added Mar. 3, 1913, 37 Stat. 727, ch. 108; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 629, ch. 599.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1937 struck out § 851b as it was added to the 1901 code and inserted a new section in lieu thereof, changing the value from $35 to $50.

COMPARING EMBEZZLEMENT

FRAUD OR TRICK

This section has no bearing on larceny by fraud or trick. Talbert v. United States (42 App. D. C. 1).

USE AND BENEFIT

"Under the provisions of this section, the possession of property must be intrusted 'for the purpose of applying the same for the use and benefit' of the person so intrusting it; that is, the person to whom intrusted must be clothed with some actual dominion and control over the property for the purpose named. Otherwise, he is a mere temporary custodian, and, if he wrongfully appropriates the property he is guilty of larceny, and not of the crime denounced by this section." *Atkinson v. § 22-2204 [6: 62]. Unauthorized use of vehicles.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACCOMPLICE IN LARCENY

Hence one who advises, incites, or connives at the offense of larceny but is not present at the taking (although chargeable as a principal under 1901 code, § 908 [§ 22-105]) may be convicted of receiving stolen property when he subsequently purchases it from the thief. Weisberg v. United States (49 App. D. C. 28, 258 Fed. 284).

COMPARING LARCENY

"Under the prevailing modern rule the crime of receiving stolen goods is a substantive offense, separate and distinct from the larceny itself." Weisberg v. United States (49 App. D. C. 28, 258 Fed. 284).

EVIDENCE

Admissibility of evidence of other offenses is not subject to the qualification that the goods must have been received by the accused from the same person. Witters v. United States (70 App. D. C. 316, 106 Fed. (2d) 837).

KNOWLEDGE

Jury were properly instructed that defendant's knowledge that goods were stolen must be proved as a separate substantive fact. Baer v. United States (54 App. D. C. 24, 293 Fed. 843).

Whoever shall embezzle, steal, or purloin any money, property, or writing, the property of the District of Columbia, shall suffer imprisonment for not exceeding five years, or be fined not more than five thousand dollars, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1324, ch. 854, § 831.)

Chapter 23.—LIBEL—BLACKMAIL

Sec.

- 22-2301. Libel.
- 22-2302. Libel—Publication—Sufficiency.
- 22-2303. Libel—Justification.
- 22-2304. False charges of unchastity.
- 22-2305. Blackmail.

Whoever publishes a libel shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 815.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW

This section provides the punishment for libel, defining publication and justification but not libel itself. Common-law libel is thus meant. Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATION

A scurrilous letter, addressed to the District Commissioners, charging certain of their subordinate officers with malfeasance in office, copies of which were sent to such officials, is not privileged, especially when no foundation for the charge appears. Raymond v. United States (25 App. D. C. 555, cert. den. 200 U. S. 619, 50 L. Ed. 623, 26 Sup. Ct. 755).

SENTENCE

One convicted under this section, and sentenced to 5 years' imprisonment at hard labor is not thereby subjected to "cruel or unusual punishment." Raymond v. United States (25 App. D. C. 555, cert. den. 200 U. S. 619, 50 L. Ed. 623, 26 Sup. Ct. 755).

§ 22-2302 [6: 39]. Libel—Publication—Sufficiency.

To knowingly send or deliver any libelous communication to the party libeled is a sufficient publication to subject the person sending or delivering the same to punishment as provided in section 22-2301. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 816.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT

Indictment is clearly inconsistent with an inference that the asserted libel was a privileged communication or an act done in the performance of a legal duty, because of the allegation in the indictment that the libelous words charged were not only false, scandalous, malicious, and defamatory, but were uttered with the unlawful and malicious intention to vilify, defame, scandalize, and disgrace the subject of the publication. Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

§ 22-2303 [6: 40]. Libel—Justification.

Any publication of a libel shall be justified if it appear that the matter charged as libelous was true and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 817.)

§ 22-2304 [6: 41]. False charges of unchastity.

Whoever wrongfully accuses any woman of unchastity shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, and shall also be liable to a civil action for damages by the party injured. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 818.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 22-2301. Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSPIRACY

In action for damages under this section, an alleged conspiracy or combination is not one of the elements of the cause of action, as it is not created by the conspiracy, but by the wrongful acts done by the defendants to the injury of the plaintiff. Ewald v. Lane (70 App. D. C. 89, 104 Fed. (2d) 222).

CRIME AGAINST UNITED STATES

One who "wrongfully accuses a woman of unchastity commits a crime against the United States. And * * * an indictment for a conspiracy to commit * * * such an offense" charges an offense under said section 37 of the Federal Penal Code. Fletcher v. United States (42 App. D. C. 53, cert. den. 235 U. S. 706, 59 L. Ed. 434, 35 Sup. Ct. 233) (conspiracy to falsely accuse a woman of adultery in a divorce proceeding).

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATION

Statement by physician to unmarried woman in the presence of a third party (who is there at the latter's request) that she is pregnant is privileged, in the absence of malice. Brice v. Curtis (38 App. D. C. 304).

§ 22-2305 [6: 42]. Blackmail.

Whoever verbally or in writing accuses or threatens to accuse any person of a crime or of any conduct which, if true, would tend to disgrace such other person, or in any way subject him to the ridicule or contempt of society, or threatens to expose or publish any of his infirmities or failings, with intent to extort from such other person anything of value or any pecuniary advantage whatever, or to compel the person accused or threatened to do or to refrain from doing any act, and whoever with such intent publishes any such accusation against any other person shall be imprisoned for not more than five years or be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1323, ch. 854, § 819.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AFFIDAVIT—PROBABLE CAUSE

When creditor, with intent to extort money, had accused debtor with conduct which, if true, would tend to subject him to the contempt of society, said debtor had probable cause for swearing out the affidavit under § 819 of the code (this section). Slater v. Taylor (31 App. D. C. 100, 18 L. R. A. (N. S.) 77).

COLLECTION AGENCY

No recovery can be had against a collection agency when they alleged that person's credit standing would be jeopardized if debt were not paid, as this does not violate the blackmail statute. Clark v. Associated Retail Credit Men (70 App. D. C. 183, 105 Fed. (2d) 62).

Chapter 24.—MURDER—MANSLAUGHTER

Sec.

- 22-2401. Murder in first degree—Purposeful killing—Killing while perpetrating certain crimes.
- 22-2402. Murder in first degree—Placing obstructions upon or displacement of railroad.
- 22-2403. Murder in second degree.
- 22-2404. Punishment for murder in first and second degrees.
- 22-2405. Punishment for manslaughter.

§ 22-2401 [6: 21]. Murder in the first degree—Purposeful killing—Killing while perpetrating certain crimes.

Whoever, being of sound memory and discretion, kills another purposely, either of deliberate and premeditated malice or by means of poison, or in perpetrating or attempting to perpetrate any offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, or without purpose so to do kills another in perpetrating or in attempting to perpetrate any arson, as defined in section 22-401 or 22-402 of this Code, rape, mayhem, robbery, or kidnapping, or in perpetrating or in attempting to perpetrate any housebreaking while armed with or using a dangerous weapon, is guilty of murder in the first degree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 798; June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 339, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1940 enlarged the crime of murder in the first degree by adding those provisions commencing "or without purpose so to do."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AFTER ASSAULT

"A conviction for an assault and battery is no bar to a subsequent indictment for manslaughter, or murder, in case the person assaulted dies within a year and a day." Hopkins v. United States (4 App. D. C. 430).

Failure of deceased to secure proper medical attention after assault no defense to charge of homicide. Hopkins v. United States (4 App. D. C. 430).

ARRAIGNMENT

Arraignment consists of three parts: (1) Calling the defendant by name and commanding him to hold up his hand, that his identification may be certain; (2) reading to him the indictment; (3) taking his plea. Johnson v. United States (38 App. D. C. 347, affd. 225 U. S. 405, 56 L. Ed. 1142, 32 Sup. Ct. 748).

COMPARING COMMON LAW

"The definition of murder in section 798 of the 1901 code (this section) is the common-law definition of the crime." Hamilton v. United States (26 App. D. C. 382); Bishop v. United States (71 App. D. C. 132, 107 Fed. (2d) 297).

CONFESSIONS

The drunken condition of accused when making a confession, unless such drunkenness goes to the extent of mania, does not affect the admissibility of such confession in evidence. Bell v. United States (60 App. D. C. 76, 47 Fed. (2d) 438, 74 A. L. R. 1098).

While it is the general rule that a confession to be admissible must relate to the offense charged, it is equally true that it may include other offenses when there can be no separation of the relevant and irrelevant parts. Robinson v. United States (61 App. D. C. 370, 63 Fed. (2d) 147, cert. den. 289 U. S. 749, 77 L. Ed. 1494, 53 Sup. Ct. 697).

Where the evidence showed that one charged with murder in the first degree had made confession of his crime after being in custody but eleven hours, without fear or compulsion, the voluntariness of his confession was for the jury. McAfee v. United States (72 App. D. C. 60, 111 Fed. (2d) 199).

CONVICTION OF LESSER OFFENSE

Where defendant is guilty of murder or nothing, it is not error to refuse to charge as to manslaughter. Horton v. United States (15 App. D. C. 310).

When, in homicide case, the only defense is insanity, but there is no evidence to reduce the crime from murder to manslaughter, it was not error for the trial court to state to the jury that the evidence will not justify a verdict of manslaughter. Horton v. United States (15 App. D. C. 310).

Where several strong men join in a criminal attack upon a defenseless man, knock him down, and, when he attempts to escape, pursue him and then with augmented numbers continue the assault, and one of the conspirators, while his confederates are beating their victim, plunges a knife into him, they should all be charged with manslaughter, even though they did not contemplate the use of the knife, for the conspirators must be presumed to know that great force and violence probably will result. Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239).

To reduce homicide from murder to manslaughter, defendant must not only show that he acted under the influence of passion but "in addition that there was a sufficient cause of provocation for his passion." Jackson v. United States (48 App. D. C. 272).

Law presumes that defendant, while attempting to perpetuate a robbery, foresaw and intended whatever consequences might naturally result from such an encounter, and the law, not as a matter of fact, but as a conclusion of legal reasoning and experience, considers this state of mind to be implied malice, the homicide would not be manslaughter which is an unlawful killing without malice, but murder either in first or second degree. Marcus v. United States (66 App. D. C. 298, 86 Fed. (2d) 854).

EVIDENCE

To make one criminal act evidence of another, there must be a connection to show that he who committed the one must have done the other, and the admissibility of such evidence is a judicial question. Burge v. United States (26 App. D. C. 524).

Evidence received tending to show defendant and wife quarreled and fought, sufficiently established the corpus delicti to justify receiving testimony of defendant's statements. Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008).

INDICTMENT

Statute of 1 Hen. V, ch. 5 (1413), requiring indictment to set forth "estate, or degree, or mystery of defendant and the town or county, etc., of which he was conversant," is not in force in this District. Lanckton v. United States (18 App. D. C. 348).

An indictment charging the commission of murder in a house situated in the District is not defective because it does not particularly describe the location of the house. Lanckton v. United States (18 App. D. C. 348).

It is not necessary to charge in the indictment that accused was of sound mind and discretion. Hill v. United States (22 App. D. C. 395).

Indictment for murder is not defective for want of an express allegation of an intent to kill. Hamilton v. United States (26 App. D. C. 382), citing Hill v. United States (22 App. D. C. 395).

An indictment for murder which alleges that defendant did "choke, suffocate and strangle" of which the person died, is sufficient even though there is no allegation that the choking was "mortal." Hamilton v. United States (26 App. D. C. 382).

Requirement of copy of indictment and list of jurors and witnesses is mandatory. Aldridge v. United States (60 App. D. C. 45, 47 Fed. (2d) 407, revd. on other grounds 283 U. S. 308, 75 L. Ed. 1054, 51 Sup. Ct. 470, 73 A. L. R. 1203).

INSTRUCTIONS TO JURY

Charge to jury was proper which stated that the defendant might be found guilty of murder or manslaughter, or acquitted altogether if he killed deceased in the reasonable apprehension of danger to his own life, and it was not error for the trial court to exclude testimony to show vicious and dangerous character of deceased. Travers v. United States (6 App. D. C. 450).

Instructions, that insanity was induced by operation of strong drink upon a mind rendered unsound by an injury, or that he was incapable of forming a specific intent to kill so as to reduce the crime to manslaughter, are not sufficient when the evidence does not support such instructions and where the jury is informed by other instructions that they must find that he had sufficient mental capacity to distinguish right from wrong at time of act, beyond a reasonable doubt. Snell v. United States (16 App. D. C. 501).

A requested instruction of self-defense is defective which fails to state what the defendant was in imminent danger of. Jackson v. United States (48 App. D. C. 272).

INTENT

Defendant is guilty of murder if the deceased, in seeking to escape the violent assault of accused had a well-grounded belief that he would take her life or inflict serious injury, and so believing inadvertently fell into a canal and was drowned, and it is not necessary to show by the prosecution nor that the jury shall believe that the defendant had the malicious intent to do bodily harm. Norman v. United States (20 App. D. C. 494).

"A deliberate intent to take life is declared to be an essential element of murder in the first degree, and this, of course, must be shown as a fact." Sabens v. United States (40 App. D. C. 440); Jordon v. United States (66 App. D. C. 309, 87 Fed. (2d) 64).

INTOXICATION

"Voluntary intoxication is neither an excuse nor a palliation for crime." Lanckton v. United States (18 App. D. C. 348).

Although defendant forms a deliberate and premeditated intent to kill while sober, and then voluntarily becomes drunk, he cannot be convicted of murder in the first degree, if at the time of the commission of the offense he was too drunk to deliberate and premeditate. Sabens v. United States (40 App. D. C. 440).

A charge given by the court of its own motion was proper to the effect that voluntary intoxication was generally not a justification for crime and that it is only considered when evidence tends to show condition of mind which rendered him incapable of forming an intent. Smith v. United States (50 App. D. C. 208, 269 Fed. 860).

Under this section, evidence of intoxication may be shown for purpose of proving lack of capacity to deliberate or premeditate; and under conflicting evidence, the question is for the jury. McAfee v. United States (72 App. D. C. 60, 111 Fed. (2d) 199).

JURY

What is reasonable adequate provocation is generally for the jury. Jackson v. United States (48 App. D. C. 272). See on provocation, Grant v. United States (28 App. D. C. 169).

"It is in the discretion of the court to permit the jury to separate in a homicide case, and his action in that respect will not be reviewed unless it appear affirmatively that prejudice resulted to the defendant." McHenry v. United States (51 App. D. C. 119, 276 Fed. 761, 34 A. L. R. 1109).

MALICE

However sudden the killing may be, if the means used, or the manner of doing it, or other external circumstances attending it, indicate a sedate and deliberate mind and formed design to kill, it will be upon express malice. Travers v. United States (6 App. D. C. 450).

"Implied malice constitutes murder in the second degree." Sabens v. United States (40 App. D. C. 440).

A heavy palling, with sharp, protruding nails, is a deadly weapon, from the use of which malice must be presumed. Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239), citing Hopkins v. United States (4 App. D. C. 430 [use of brickbat]).

A homicide committed purposely and with deliberate and premeditated malice is murder in the first degree. "Malice aforethought" may be shown expressly, or may be "implied" from the commission of the act itself. Bishop v. United States (71 App. D. C. 132, 107 Fed. (2d) 297).

MEANS OF COMMISSION

"The proof of the means of commission of a homicide need not conform strictly to the averment of such means in the indictment. If the means of death proved agree in substance with that charged, it is sufficient." Hamilton v. United States (26 App. D. C. 382).

MENTAL CAPACITY

Mental dullness, weakness, or incapacity does not excuse from the consequences of crime, unless the evidence proves that defendant was at the time of the commission of the act so mentally impaired that he could not distinguish between right and wrong. Travers v. United States (6 App. D. C. 450).

Law does not recognize the doctrine of emotional insanity. Taylor v. United States (7 App. D. C. 27).

Refusal of the trial justice to admit in evidence an exemplification of the record of the Georgia State Sanitarium, showing the mental condition, treatment, and incarceration of certain relatives of the defendant, was proper. Snell v. United States (16 App. D. C. 501).

Where jury were fully informed that before they could find the accused guilty of the crime charged, insanity or unsoundness of mind being set up as a defense, they were required to find that the accused had sufficient capacity to distinguish between right and wrong, at the time of and with respect to the act which was the subject of inquiry, beyond a reasonable doubt. Snell v. United States (16 App. D. C. 501).

MOTIVE

Government is not required to prove motive, but jury may consider absence of such proof as a circumstance in defendant's favor. Lanckton v. United States (18 App. D. C. 348).

Motive may be proved, because it "may be very important in determining whether or not the accused was actuated by deliberate, premeditated malice." McHenry v. United States (51 App. D. C. 119, 276 Fed. 761, 34 A. L. R. 1109). See also Lomax v. United States (37 App. D. C. 414), following McUin v. United States (17 App. D. C. 323).

ON APPEAL

In a homicidal case "it is the duty of an appellate court to correct any error prejudicial to the defendant, even though not properly raised in the trial court." Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239). See Burge v. United States (26 App. D. C. 524).

PUNISHABLE BY IMPRISONMENT IN THE PENITENTIARY

"The words 'punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary' do not mean an offense that can be punished only by such imprisonment, but include such as may be so punished." United States v. Evans (28 App. D. C. 264).

PURPOSELY

Quaere: Whether it is necessary to charge in indictment for first-degree murder that the killing was "purposely" done. As to this point the court did not decide but stated that it is a safe rule, in criminal pleading, to follow the language of the statute, where there is any uncertainty in respect of its meaning. United States v. Evans (28 App. D. C. 269).

Proof of purpose in murder prosecution need not be direct; it may be inferred from the circumstances attending the killing. Jordon v. United States (66 App. D. C. 309, 87 Fed. (2d) 64).

Prosecution required to show purpose to kill in murder prosecution. Jordon v. United States (66 App. D. C. 309, 87 Fed. (2d) 64).

SELF-DEFENSE

To justify application of the law of self-defense, the defendant must show clearly that he was attacked, and that he had good reason to believe that he was in imminent peril of his life or of great bodily harm. Hopkins v. United States (4 App. D. C. 430).

Accidental homicide and homicide in self-defense are wholly irreconcilable. Fearson v. United States (10 App. D. C. 536).

Court properly charged the jury that they should consider the words and acts of the deceased and any threats against the accused at the time of the killing. Wallace v. United States (18 App. D. C. 152).

Stabbing of a woman is not justifiable as self-defense in absence of anything to show that defendant suffered pain, or was apprehensive of bodily harm so serious as to suggest the use of a deadly weapon. Grant v. United States (28 App. D. C. 169).

Before one can be permitted to take life under the apprehension that he is in danger of life or serious bodily harm from the violence of another, it must appear that he had a reasonable right to believe, from all the facts and circumstances presented to his mind, that he was in such danger. Sacriani v. United States (38 App. D. C. 371).

In homicidal cases, where the defense is self-defense, the majority of the courts hold "that it is proper to give incidents or specific acts of violence within the knowledge of the witness or coming under his observation." From this view Shepherd, C. J., dissents, holding testimony should be confined to reputation of deceased for cruelty and violence. Marshall v. United States (45 App. D. C. 373). See on threats by accused, Lomax v. United States (37 App. D. C. 414).

A charge to the jury that it must appear that there was no reasonable occasion for the defendant to escape from the conflict was error, as the true test is whether circumstances presented to the mind of the defendant were such that would have produced upon the mind of any reasonable, prudent person, the reasonable belief that the deceased was about to kill him or do him serious bodily harm. Marshall v. United States (45 App. D. C. 373).

A charge is sufficient which states that "if a man reasonably believes that he is in immediate danger of death or grievous bodily harm from his assailant, he may stand his ground, and if he kills him he has not exceeded the bounds of lawful self-defense." Price v. United States (51 App. D. C. 106, 276 Fed. 628).

VERDICT

In District of Columbia a jury may not qualify a verdict of murder in the first degree by adding thereto "without capital punishment." Johnson v. United States (38 App. D. C. 347, affd. 225 U. S. 405, 56 L. Ed. 1142, 32 Sup. Ct. 748).

WHILE ATTEMPTING ROBBERY

Homicide committed while attempting robbery is first-degree murder. United States v. Evans (28 App. D. C. 264).

WHILE HOUSE BREAKING

This section defined murder in the first degree as purposely killing a human being either with deliberate or premeditated malice, or by poison, or in perpetrating or attempting to perpetrate any offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. Housebreaking being so punishable, one who commits a homicide while engaged in that offense may be charged with first degree murder. Monroe v. United States (56 App. D. C. 80, 10 Fed. (2d) 645).

Whoever maliciously places an obstruction upon a railroad or street railroad, or displaces or injures anything appertaining thereto, or does any other act with intent to endanger the passage of any locomotive or car, and thereby occasions the death of another, is guilty of murder in the first degree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 799.)

§ 22-2403 [6: 23]. Murder in second degree.

Whoever with malice aforethought, except as provided in sections 22-2401, 22-2402, kills another, is guilty of murder in the second degree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 800; June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 339.)

AMENDMENT

This section was re-enacted in the act of 1940.

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 22-2401.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACCIDENT—PURPOSE LACKING

If defendant did not have purpose to kill or if pistol went off accidentally, he would be guilty of murder in the second degree. Marcus v. United States (66 App. D. C. 298, 86 Fed. (2d) 854).

Instruction to jury was correct to the effect that if in perpetrating the crime the killing was not done purposely but by accident or otherwise, appellant was not guilty of murder in the first degree. Jordon v. United States (66 App. D. C. 309, 87 Fed. (2d) 64).

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE ACT

Indeterminate Sentence Act is inapplicable to second degree murder and the existing statute providing a penalty of imprisonment for life or for not less than 20 years remains in effect, and definite term of 20 years is a valid sentence. Anderson v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 174, 85 Fed. (2d) 673).

MALICE

Where a homicide directly resulted from excessive speed of the driver of an automobile carrying contraband liquor, after being told to stop by arresting officers, the illegal transportation was an offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, and constitutes the malice essential to murder in the second degree. Lee v. United States (72 App. D. C. 147, 112 Fed. (2d) 46).

SUPERSEDENCE

Provisions of the Criminal Code as to murder and manslaughter do not supersede or repeal the Code of the District of Columbia. Johnson v. United States (225 U. S. 405, 56 L. Ed. 1142, 32 Sup. Ct. 748, affg. 38 App. D. C. 347).

INVOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER

United States* (57 App. D. C. 3, 16 Fed. (2d) 342, 53 A. L. R. 246).

JURY

Deliberations of the jury should be confined to the charge in the indictment, and if defendant was not charged generally with negligence but with specific acts of negligence, namely, unlawful speeding and reckless driving, and if the death was not caused by those acts or one of them, he was entitled to a verdict of not guilty. Sinclair v. United States (49 App. D. C. 351, 265 Fed. 991).

Chapter 25.—PERJURY

Sec.

22-2501. Perjury—Subornation of perjury.

Every person who, having taken an oath or affirmation before a competent tribunal, officer, or person, in any case in which the law authorized such oath or affirmation to be administered, that he will testify, declare, depose, or certify truly, or that any written testimony, declaration, deposition, or certificate by him subscribed is true, wilfully and contrary to such oath or affirmation states or subscribes any material matter which he does not believe to be true, shall be guilty of perjury; and any person convicted of perjury or subornation of perjury shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than two nor more than ten years. Any such false testimony, declaration, deposition, or certificate given in a judicial proceeding elsewhere, shall also be perjury within the meaning of this section. NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Falsity of sworn statement and that the accused actually remembered the facts which he had formerly sworn to may be proved by circumstantial evidence and the only issue in such a case is whether it meets the test of proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Behrie v. United States (69 App. D. C. 304, 100 Fed. (2d) 714).

CIVIL SERVICE

Under civil-service regulations, false statements as to whether one had previously been employed by the Government, and whether he resigned or was discharged, was perjury within section R. S. § 5392 (U. S. C., title 18, § 231). Johnson v. United States (26 App. D. C. 128).

CONSPIRACY—DIVORCE

Crime of conspiracy to commit perjury under § 37 United States Penal Code of March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1088, ch. 321, U. S. Comp. Stat. Supp. 1911, p. 1588), relating to offenses against United States, and D. C. 1901, § 858 (this section) (31 Stat. 1329, ch. 854), denouncing perjury offenses, is charged by indictment alleging pending divorce suit in Supreme Court of District of Columbia, but such indictment does not come within meaning of the Code of 1901, § 910 (§ 22-107) which provides for punishment of offenses not covered by District Code or any law inapplicable to District of Columbia by United States. Fletcher v. United States (42 App. D. C. 53, cert. den. 235 U. S. 706, 59 L. Ed. 434, 35 Sup. Ct. 283).

CRIME AGAINST UNITED STATES

A crime against United States is committed by any person who violates either § 818 (§ 22-2304) or this section of the District Code. Arnstein v. United States (54 App. D. C. 199, 296 Fed. 946).

FEDERAL PENAL CODE

Had Congress intended that the perjury statute in the Federal Penal Code should have effect in the District of Columbia, it would have said so in clear language. Carpenter v. United States (69 App. D. C. 306, 100 Fed. (2d) 716).

ISSUE

Question is not whether appellant made the statement voluntarily or involuntarily or whether the statement made was true or false, for it was not the truth or falsity of what he said which was involved, but simply the fact of his having said it. O'Brien v. United States (69 App. D. C. 135, 99 Fed. (2d) 368).

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Under the statute defining perjury, generally, or by requirements of the statute which defines it in terms of false swearing by an applicant for a marriage license, the ultimate test of materiality in either case is whether such statements have a natural tendency to influence the clerk in his investigation of the facts, in the exercise of his official discretion, and in the administration of the law. Robinson v. United States (72 App. D. C. 254, 114 Fed. (2d) 475).

The remaining sections of this act, as amended, are compiled herein as §§ 24-401 to 24-410.

AMENDMENT

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTEMPTS

PROOF

Question was whether defendant had passed in the saws, and it was not necessary for the government to show that there had been no sawing in the morning but only that appellant had given the saws to the prisoner. Hale v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 67 Fed. (2d) 673).

SENTENCE

Person sentenced under this act is subject to authority of Attorney General, and can be confined in penitentiary outside of the District. Beard v. Sanford ((C. C. A. 5), 99 Fed. (2d) 750).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PLACE OF ACTION

An information that does not charge that defendant acted in any such place as provided in the statute charges no crime. Williams v. United States (71 App. D. C. 377, 110 Fed. (2d) 554).

PROOF

That defendant "asked him if he wanted a date" did not necessarily include prostitution. Williams v. United States (71 App. D. C. 377, 110 Fed. (2d) 554).

TRIAL BY JURY

Refusal to grant motion for trial by jury, defendant being charged with soliciting prostitution, was error. Blackburn v. United States (66 App. D. C. 15, 84 Fed. (2d) 269).

The act of prostitution was not an offense indictable at common law, so as to entitle a person accused thereof to a trial by jury under the Constitution of the United States. Bailey v. United States (69 App. D. C. 25, 98 Fed. (2d) 306).

The court may impose conditions upon any person found guilty under the aforesaid sections 22-2701, 22-2702 and so long as such person shall comply therewith to the satisfaction of the court the imposition or execution of sentence may be suspended for such period as the court may direct; and the court may at or before the expiration of such period remand such sentence or cause it to be executed. Conditions thus imposed by the court may include submission to medical and mental examination, diagnosis and treatment by proper public health and welfare authorities, and such other terms and conditions as the court may deem best for the protection of the community and the punishment, control, and rehabilitation of the defendant. The health officer of the District of Columbia, the Women's Bureau of the Police Department, the Board of Public Welfare, and the probation officers of the court are authorized and directed to perform such duties as may be directed by the court in effectuating compliance with the conditions so imposed upon any defendant. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Intent of this act was "to enjoin and abate houses of lewdness, assignation, and prostitution" as therein defined, but to subject owners or lessees to the provisions of the act only when guilty knowledge was brought home to them. Holmes v. United States (50 App. D. C. 147, 269 Fed. 489, 12 A. L. R. 427).

§ 22-2714 [6:185]. Abatement of nuisance under section 22-2713 by injunction—Temporary injunction—Effect of injunction.

Whenever a nuisance is kept, maintained, or exists as defined in sections 22-2710 to 22-2718 the attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia, or the Attorney-General of the United States, or any citizen of the District of Columbia, may maintain an action in equity in the name of the United States of America, upon the relation of such attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia, the Attorney-General of the United States, or citizen, to perpetually enjoin said nuisance, the person or persons conducting or maintaining the same, and the owner or agent of the building or ground upon which said nuisance exists. In such action the court, or a judge in vacation, shall, upon the presentation of a petition therefor alleging that the nuisance complained of exists, allow a temporary writ of injunction, without bond, if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court or judge by evidence in the form of affidavits, depositions, oral testimony, or otherwise, as the complainant may elect, unless the court or judge by previous order shall have directed the form and manner in which it shall be presented. Three days' notice, in writing, shall be given the defendant of the hearing of the application, and if then continued at his instance the writ as prayed shall be granted as a matter of course. When an injunction has been granted it shall be binding on the defendant throughout the District of Columbia, and any violation of the provisions of injunction herein provided shall be a contempt as hereinafter provided. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 280, ch. 16, § 2.)

§ 22-2715 [6:186]. Abatement of nuisance under section 22-2713—Trial—Dismissal of complaint—Prosecution to judgment—Costs.

The action when brought shall be triable at the first term of court, after due and timely service of the notice has been given, and in such action evidence of the general reputation of the place shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the existence of said nuisance. If the complaint is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed, except upon a sworn statement made by the complainant and his attorney, setting forth the reasons why the action should be dismissed, and the dismissal approved by the attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia or the Attorney-General of the United States of America in writing or in open court. If the court is of the opinion that the action ought not to be dismissed, it may direct the attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia to prosecute said action to judgment; and if the action is continued more than one term of court, any citizen of the District of Columbia, or the attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia, may be substituted for the complaining party and prosecute said action to judgment. If the action is brought by a citizen, and the court finds there was no reasonable ground or cause for said action, the costs may be taxed to such citizen. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 281, ch. 16, § 3.)

In case of the violation of any injunction granted under the provisions of section 22-2714, the court, or, in vacation, a judge thereof, may summarily try and punish the offender. The proceedings shall be commenced by filing with the clerk of the court an information, under oath, setting out the alleged facts constituting such violation, upon which the court or judge shall cause a warrant to issue, under which the defendant shall be arrested. The trial may be had upon affidavits, or either party may at any stage of the proceedings demand the production and oral examination of the witnesses. A party found guilty of contempt, under the provisions of this section, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000 or by imprisonment in the District jail not less than three nor more than six months or by both fine and imprisonment. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 281, ch. 16, § 4.)

§ 22-2717 [6: 188]. Order of abatement—Sale of property—Entry of closed premises punishable as contempt.

If any person shall break and enter or use a building, erection, or place so directed to be closed he shall be punished as for contempt, as provided in section 22-2716. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 281, ch. 16, § 5.)

§ 22-2718 [6: 189]. Disposition of proceeds of sale.

The proceeds of the sale of the personal property, as provided in section 22-2717, shall be applied in the payment of the costs of the action and abatement, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the defendant. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 281, ch. 16, § 6.)

§ 22-2719 [6: 190]. Bond for abatement—Order for delivery of premises—Effect of release.

If the owner appears and pays all costs of the proceeding and files a bond, with sureties to be approved by the clerk, in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court or, in vacation, by the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia, conditioned that he will immediately abate said nuisance and prevent the same from being established or kept within a period of one year thereafter, the court, or, in vacation, the judge, may, if satisfied of his good faith, order the premises closed under the order of abatement to be delivered to said owner and said order of abatement canceled so far as the same may relate to said property; and if the proceeding be an action in equity and said bond be given and costs therein paid before judgment and order of abatement, the action shall be thereby abated as to said building only. The release of the property under the provisions of this section shall not release it from judgment, lien, penalty, or liability to which it may be subject by law. (Feb. 7, 1914, 38 Stat. 281, ch. 16, § 7.)

§ 22-2720 [6: 191]. Tax for maintaining such nuisance.

Whenever a permanent injunction issues against any person for maintaining a nuisance as herein defined, or against any owner or agent of the building kept or used for the purpose prohibited by sections 22-2713 to 22-2721, there shall be assessed against said building and the ground upon which the same is located and against the person or persons maintaining said nuisance, and the owner or agent of said premises, a tax of $300. The assessment of said tax shall be made by the assessor of the District of Columbia and shall be made within three months from the date of the granting of the permanent injunction. In case the assessor fails or neglects to make said assessment the same shall be made by the chief of police, and a return of said assessment shall be made to the collector of taxes. Said tax shall be a perpetual lien upon all property, both personal and real, used for the purpose of maintaining said nuisance, and the payment of said tax shall not relieve the person or building from any other penalties provided by law. The provisions of the law relating to the collection and distribution of taxes upon personal and real property shall govern in the collection and distribution of the tax herein prescribed in so far as the same are applicable and not in conflict with the provisions of said sections. § 22-2722 [6: 193]. Keeping bawdy or disorderly houses.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMPARING COMMON LAW

What may not have been an infamous crime at common law, may, by statute, be made such. In determining whether a crime is infamous, we must look to the penalty the law imposes, and though the crime of keeping a disorderly house may not have been an infamous crime at common law, it is within the power of Congress to impose a penalty that will make it such in the District of Columbia Palmer v. Lenovitz (35 App. D. C. 303).

Chapter 28.—RAPE

Sec.

22-2801. Definition and penalty.

§ 22-2801 [6: 32]. Definition and penalty.

Whoever has carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will, or carnally knows and abuses a female child under sixteen years of age, shall be imprisoned for not more than thirty years: Provided, That in any case of rape the jury may add to their verdict, if it be guilty, the words "with the death penalty," in which case the punishment shall be death by electrocution: Provided further, That if the jury fail to agree as to the punishment the verdict of guilty shall be received and the punishment shall be imprisonment as provided in this section. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1322, ch. 854, § 808; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 808; Jan. 30, 1925, 43 Stat. 798, ch. 115, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the words "for not less than five nor" which appeared in the 1901 act following the word "imprisoned;" the 1901 act contained the word "hanging" where the word "electrocution" now appears, the amendment being in conformity with the section of the 1925 act.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

Where prosecuting witness is under age of consent her reputation for unchastity is inadmissible. Her reputation for truth and veracity may be attacked, as in the case of any other witness. Sacks v. United States (41 App. D. C. 34). See also Kidwell v. United States (38 App. D. C. 566); Monalokos v. United States (41 App. D. C. 19).

Prosecuting witness in cases of rape may testify as to whether or not she made complaint, when and to whom, although the details of the disclosure are not admissible except on cross-examination or to confirm her testimony after it is impeached, or unless a part of the res gestae. Harris v. United States (50 App. D. C. 139, 269 Fed. 481), citing Snowden v. United States (2 App. D. C. 89). See also Lyles v. United States (20 App. D. C. 559); Roney v. United States (43 App. D. C. 533).

In prosecutions for statutory rape testimony of similar acts prior to the offense charged in the indictment is admissible. Weaver v. United States (55 App. D. C. 26, 299 Fed. 893).

On charge of carnal knowledge, evidence of subsequent marriage of parties is admissible. Weaver v. United States (55 App. D. C. 26, 299 Fed. 893).

MENTAL CAPACITY

After conviction of rape, a sanity inquisition was denied when it did not occur to either his counsel or to the court that he was mentally irresponsible; and that during his examination and cross-examination, it did not "suggest, in the slightest degree, that defendant was not fully and entirely responsible from a mental standpoint." Jackson v. United States (58 App. D. C. 125, 25 Fed. (2d) 549).

RES GESTAE

In prosecution for rape of child about five years old, the statements of the child made to her grandmother on the same day of crime was admissible as part of the res gestae. Snowden v. United States (2 App. D. C. 89).

TRIAL PROCEDURE

"In all cases (of rape) the court must have the verdict of the jury upon which to base its judgment," and there is, therefore, no error in refusing to accept a plea of guilty. Green v. United States (40 App. D. C. 426).

Order of proof and conduct of trial in trial for rape is within court's discretion. Mears v. United States (60 App. D. C. 387, 55 Fed. (2d) 745).

UNDER AGE OF CONSENT

When a child under the age of consent has been defiled, the law conclusively presumes force on the part of her seducer, and the question of consent is immaterial. Yeager v. United States (16 App. D. C. 356).

Carnal knowledge of child under age specified is rape. Sanselo v. United States (44 App. D. C. 508).

Chapter 29.—ROBBERY

Sec.

22-2901. Robbery.

22-2902. Attempt to commit robbery.

§ 22-2901 [6: 34]. Robbery.

Whoever by force or violence, whether against resistance or by sudden or stealthy seizure or snatching, or by putting in fear, shall take from the person or immediate actual possession of another anything of value, is guilty of robbery, and any person convicted thereof shall suffer imprisonment for not less than six months nor more than fifteen years. NOTES TO DECISIONS

"FORCE AND VIOLENCE"

Intent of this section is to denounce pocket picking and the like, together with common-law robbery, under the single general name of "robbery." It is true that the provision for "sudden and stealthy seizure or snatching" is preceded by the phrase "by force and violence"; but the requirement for force is satisfied within the sense of the statute by an actual physical taking of the property from the person of another even without his knowledge and consent, and though the property be unattached to his person. Turner v. United States (57 App. D. C. 39, 16 Fed. (2d) 535).

INDICTMENT

Indictment, containing a single count, charged, in part, the commission of the offense "by force and violence, and against resistance, and by putting in fear, and by sudden and stealthy seizure and snatching." This was a proper and sufficient charge to support the conviction. Tomlinson v. United States (68 App. D. C. 106, 93 Fed. (2d) 652, 114 A. L. R. 1315).

SENTENCE

Application for habeas corpus was premature when it challenged the validity of consecutive sentences as the first sentence of robbery had not expired. Johnson v. Aderhold ((C. C. A. 5), 73 Fed. (2d) 102).

What is maximum sentence for robbery. McDonald v. Johnston ((C. C. A. 9), 86 Fed. (2d) 329).

§ 22-2902 [6: 35]. Attempt to commit robbery.

Whoever attempts to commit robbery, as defined in section 22-2901, by an overt act, shall be imprisoned for not more than three years or be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1322, ch. 854, § 811.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Possession of fire arm, additional penalty, §§ 22-3201, 22-3202.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE ACT

Sentence fixing a maximum of twelve years conformed with the act of July 15, 1932, as did the minimum period of three years, being for a minimum period "not exceeding one-fifth of the maximum period fixed by law." McDonald v. Johnston ((C. C. A. 9), 86 Fed. (2d) 329).

INDICTMENT

Under this section robbery includes taking by force or violence, whether against resistance or by sudden or stealthy seizure or snatching, or by putting in fear, and to charge a taking "by force and violence, and by sudden and stealthy seizure, and against resistance, and by putting in fear" did not constitute a misjoinder of actions in a single count. Turner v. United States (57 App. D. C. 39, 16 Fed. (2d) 535).

INFAMOUS CRIME

Robbery is an infamous crime, and must be prosecuted by indictment. United States v. Evans (28 App. D. C. 264).

Chapter 30.—SEDUCTION

Sec.

22-3001. Seduction.

22-3002. Seduction by teacher.

§ 22-3001 [6: 172]. Seduction.

If any person shall seduce and carnally know any female of previous chaste character, between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years, out of wedlock, such seduction and carnal knowledge shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and the offender, being convicted thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or fined not exceeding two hundred dollars or may be punished by both such fine and imprisonment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1332, ch. 854, § 873.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CHASTITY

Virginity is the test of chastity. Bray v. United States (39 App. D. C. 600).

EVIDENCE

Subsequent misconduct of prosecutrix with others is inadmissible "unless, perhaps, when improper relations with others follow closely upon the commission of the offense by the accused, and are preceded by proof of circumstances tending to show that the prosecutrix had not been previously chaste." Bray v. United States (39 App. D. C. 600).

PROMISE OF MARRIAGE

"The object of the statute is to protect the chaste virgin against betrayal from an honest belief in the betrayer's protestations of love and affection, or an existing promise of marriage, or a present unqualified promise of marriage as an inducement for the commission of the act," but does not cover a promise of marriage contingent upon pregnancy resulting from the intercourse. Hamilton v. United States (41 App. D. C. 359).

SUBSEQUENT MARRIAGE

Subsequent marriage of the parties is no bar to prosecution. Bray v. United States (39 App. D. C. 600).

§ 22-3002 [6: 173]. Seduction by teacher.

Any male person, over twenty-one years of age, who is superintendent, tutor, or teacher in any public or private school, seminary, or other institution, or instructor of any female in any branch of instruction, who has sexual intercourse with any female under twenty-one years of age and not under sixteen years of age, with her consent, while under his instruction during the term of his engagement as superintendent, tutor, or teacher, shall be imprisoned for not less than one year nor more than ten. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1331, ch. 854, § 871; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 535, ch. 1329.)

United States* (68 App. D. C. 106, 93 Fed. (2d) 652, 114 A. L. R. 1315).

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

"The defendant had a right to carry the revolver, loaded or unloaded, from the place of purchase to his home; and whether he had it on his person at the time of his arrest, for that purpose only, or for some unlawful purpose as well, was a question of fact, which should have been submitted to the jury." Bell v. United States (49 App. D. C. 367, 265 Fed. 1007).

D. C. 1929, title 6, § 114, permitted the carrying of a dangerous or deadly weapon from the place of purchase to the purchaser's dwelling or place of business, especially when person was conducting himself in a quiet, peaceable, and orderly manner. Bolt v. United States (55 App. D. C. 120, 2 Fed. (2d) 922).

CONCEALED ABOUT HIS PERSON

"The words 'concealed about his person,' as used in the statute, were intended to mean and do mean concealed in such proximity to the person as to be convenient of access and within reach." Brown v. United States (58 App. D. C. 311, 30 Fed. (2d) 474).

Every person known to be a pickpocket, thief, burglar, or confidence operator, either by his own confession or by his having been convicted in the District of Columbia or elsewhere of either of such offenses, and having no visible or lawful means of support, when found loitering around in any building, park, highway, street, avenue, alley, or reservation, steamboat landing, railroad depot, station, banking institution, broker's office, place of amusement, room, store, shop, public place, or car or omnibus or other vehicle, or at any public gathering or assembly.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DOES NOT WORK

Under act of March 3, 1909, 35 Stat. 711 (this section), defining vagrant as person leading idle, immoral, profligate life, without property to support himself, and who is able to work and does not work, mere profligacy, immorality, or guilt of another offense is not sufficient to sustain conviction; a necessary element is that defendant, although able, did not work. Lewis v. District of Columbia (51 App. D. C. 221, 277 Fed. 620).

NO PROPERTY

Under act of March 3, 1909, 35 Stat. 711 (this section), defining vagrant as person leading idle, immoral, profligate life, without property to support himself and who is able to work and does not work, woman with $1,000 in the bank cannot be convicted as a vagrant even though such money is proceeds of prostitution. Rose v. District of Columbia (51 App. D. C. 222, 277 Fed. 621).

§ 23-104 [6: 354]. Abandonment of prosecution—Enlargement of time for taking action.

If any person charged with a criminal offense shall have been committed or held to bail to await the action of the grand jury, and within nine months thereafter the grand jury shall not have taken action on the case, either by ignoring the charge or by returning an indictment into the proper court, the prosecution of such charge shall be deemed to have been abandoned and the accused shall be set free or his bail discharged, as the case may be: Provided, however, That the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia holding a special term as a criminal court, or, in vacation, any justice of said court, upon good cause shown in writing, and, when practicable, upon due notice to the accused, may from time to time enlarge the time for the taking action in such case by the grand jury. NOTES TO DECISIONS

INDICTMENT AFTER 9-MONTH PERIOD

By this section prosecution of the offense is not finally barred so that accused may not be held to answer upon an indictment found after the 9-month period within which the grand jury may act has elapsed. The general statute of limitations has not been repealed or modified. United States v. Cadarr (197 U. S. 475, 49 L. Ed. 842, 25 Sup. Ct. 487, revg. 24 App. D. C. 143, followed in Arnstein v. United States (54 App. D. C. 199, 296 Fed. 946).

RELEASE OF PRISONERS

This is not a statute of limitations. "The result of the failure to prosecute has reference solely to the right in the pending prosecution to be freed, if imprisoned, or released from bail, if under bond." United States v. Cadarr (197 U. S. 475, 49 L. Ed. 842, 25 Sup. Ct. 487), revg. (24 App. D. C. 143).

§ 23-105 [6: 355]. Appeals by United States and District of Columbia.

In all criminal prosecutions the United States or the District of Columbia, as the case may be, shall have the same right of appeal that is given to the defendant, including the right to a bill of exceptions: Provided, That if on such appeal it shall be found that there was error in the rulings of the court during a trial, a verdict in favor of the defendant shall not be set aside. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1341, ch. 854, § 935.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL BY UNITED STATES

United States may appeal cases and it need not be taken directly to the Supreme Court. United States v. Burroughs (62 App. D. C. 163, 65 Fed. (2d) 796).

JURISDICTION OF COURT OF APPEALS

The appellate jurisdiction of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in criminal cases is not affected by the act of 1907. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. Ct. 574).

ORDER QUASHING INDICTMENT

Government may appeal from order quashing indictment and discharging defendant without day. Cadarr v. United States (24 App. D. C. 143, revd. on other grounds 197 U. S. 475, 49 L. Ed. 842, 25 Sup. Ct. 487).

ORDER SUSTAINING DEMURRER

Government may appeal from order sustaining demurrer to indictment for violation of 1901 code, § 869a et seq. (§ 22-1509). United States v. Cella (37 App. D. C. 423, cert. den. 233 U. S. 728, 56 L. Ed. 633, 32 Sup. Ct. 526), citing United States v. Cadarr (24 App. D. C. 143, revd. 197 U. S. 475, 49 L. Ed. 842, 25 Sup. Ct. 487; Evans v. United States (30 App. D. C. 58, cert. quashed 213 U. S. 297, 53 L. Ed. 803, 29 Sup. Ct. 507).

VERDICTS OF NOT GUILTY

This section does not authorize an appeal by the government from a verdict of not guilty in a criminal case, because only the determination of a moot question is involved, which is not a judicial function and cannot be required by Congress of a federal court. United States v. Evans (30 App. D. C. 58, cert. quashed 213 U. S. 297, 53 L. Ed. 803, 29 Sup. Ct. 507), citing United States v. Ainsworth (3 App. D. C. 483), and distinguishing District of Columbia v. Lynham (16 App. D. C. 85); District of Columbia v. Garrison (25 App. D. C. 563); District of Columbia v. Gant (28 App. D. C. 186).

Court of appeals has no power to review, by writ of error, a judgment of not guilty rendered by the police court. District of Columbia v. Burns (32 App. D. C. 203).

This section provided that in criminal prosecutions the United States or the District should have the same right of appeal as the defendant had, including a bill of exceptions, but provided that if there was error in the rulings of the court during the trial, a verdict for defendant should not be set aside. District of Columbia v. Kendall (57 App. D. C. 271, 20 Fed. (2d) 287).

§ 23-106 [6: 356]. Bail—Deposit—Forfeiture.

Whenever a person charged with crime is held to bail the court shall have power to allow a deposit with the clerk of such court of money in the amount of the bail instead of requiring a bond or recognizance, and in case of default to declare such deposit forfeited to the United States or the District of Columbia as the case may be. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1341, ch. 854, § 938.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Other provisions concerning bail, § 11-606 and notes.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL FROM CONVICTION FOR CONTEMPT

Pending an appeal from an order refusing to discharge defendant on habeas corpus from conviction for contempt, defendant is entitled to bail. In re Moss (23 App. D. C. 474).

In all trials for capital offenses the accused and the United States shall each be entitled to twenty peremptory challenges. In trials for offenses punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary the accused and the United States shall each be entitled to ten peremptory challenges. In all other cases, civil as well as criminal, in which the plaintiff is the United States or the District of Columbia, each party shall be entitled to three peremptory challenges; and if there are several defendants, they shall be treated as one person in the allowance of such challenges. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1338, ch. 854, § 918; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 536, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is affected by § 11-1421 insofar as alternate jurors are concerned.

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the words "or the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CASES CONSOLIDATED FOR TRIAL

When cases are consolidated for trial under U. S. R. S. § 1024, defendant is entitled, in cases of felony, to 10 peremptory challenges only. Miller v. United States (38 App. D. C. 361).

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

There is nothing in the Constitution which requires the Congress to grant peremptory challenges to defendants in criminal cases, and regulations are left to common law or enactments of Congress. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177).

While accused has a constitutional right to a speedy trial by an impartial jury, it does not follow that the rejection of qualified persons for insufficient cause would deprive appellant of that right. It is significant in this respect that although appellant was entitled to ten peremptory challenges he had not used any of them. Shettel v. United States (72 App. D. C. 250, 113 Fed. (2d) 34).

JOINT DEFENDANTS

Five defendants jointly indicted for conspiracy are entitled to only 10 peremptory challenges to be shared between them. Lorenz v. United States (24 App. D. C. 337, cert. den. 196 U. S. 640, 49 L. Ed. 631, 25 Sup. Ct. 796).

RIGHT TO NEW PANEL

Defendant charged with adultery is entitled to a new jury panel when it appears that 12 members of the current panel acted as jurors in another case involving the keeping of a disorderly house, in which case it was shown that the defendant frequented that house for immoral purposes. Kleindienst v. United States (48 App. D. C. 190).

A failure to exhaust the peremptory challenges and to examine the jurors on the voir dire is no waiver of defendant's right to a new panel when such right exists. Kleindienst v. United States (48 App. D. C. 190).

§ 23-108 [6: 367]. Cause of challenge not available to set aside verdict—Exception.

No verdict shall be set aside for any cause which might be alleged as ground for challenge of a juror before the jury are sworn, except when the objection to the juror is that he had a bias against the defendant such as would have disqualified him, and such disqualification was not known to or suspected by the defendant or his counsel before the juror was sworn. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1338, ch. 854, § 919.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NEW TRIAL DENIED

This section "gives no new right to the defendant, and adds nothing to the discretionary powers which the courts have always exercised in such cases. If not declaratory merely of a long-existing rule of practice, it would seem rather a limitation, than otherwise, of the ordinary discretionary power of the courts to grant new trials." Paolucci v. United States (30 App. D. C. 217, cert. den. 208 U. S. 617, 52 L. Ed. 646, 28 Sup. Ct. 568).

A challenge to the jury panel because it contains names of women, made for first time on motion for new trial, will not be reviewed. Nelson v. United States (60 App. D. C. 323, 53 Fed. (2d) 935).

In any criminal trial the justice trying the case may allow such number of witnesses on behalf of the defendant as may appear to be necessary, the fees of such witnesses to be paid in the same manner as the fees of the witnesses for the government: Provided, That the defendant makes application under oath before the trial, or, in cases of manifest necessity, during the trial, setting forth that he is not possessed of sufficient means and is actually unable to pay the fees of such witnesses, and setting forth also the names of such witnesses and what he expects to prove by them, in order that the court may be advised whether or not the testimony be material to the issue. § 23-110 [6: 369]. Discharging joint defendant during trial in order to be witness—Bar to another prosecution.

When two or more persons are jointly indicted the court may, before a defendant has gone into his defense, direct any such defendant to be discharged, that he may be a witness for the United States. An accused party may also, when there is not sufficient evidence to put him upon his defense, be discharged by the court, or, if not discharged by the court, shall be entitled to the immediate verdict of the jury for the purpose of giving evidence for the other parties accused with him; and such order of discharge in either case, equally with the verdict of acquittal, shall be a bar to another prosecution for the same offense. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1339, ch. 854, § 921.)

If a material witness for the defendant resides beyond the District of Columbia, or is sick or infirm, or about to leave the District, the defendant may apply in writing to the court for a commission to examine such witness upon interrogatories thereto annexed when the deposition is to be taken beyond the District of Columbia, and orally in other cases, and the court may grant the same and pass an order stating for what length of time notice shall be given to the district attorney before said witness shall be examined. At or before the time fixed in said notice, when the examination is upon written interrogatories, the district attorney may file cross-interrogatories; but if he fail to do so the clerk shall file the following:

First. Are all your statements in the foregoing answers made from your own personal knowledge? And if not, show what is stated upon information and give its source.

Second. State everything you know in addition to what is stated in your above answers concerning this case favorable to either the United States or the defendant.

For good cause shown the court may order in any case that the examination be conducted orally. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1339, ch. 854, § 922; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

§ 23-112 [6: 371]. Commission to take depositions—Issuance and return.

The commission shall issue from the clerk's office, the examination of the witnesses shall be made and certified, and the return thereof made in the same manner as in civil cases, and unimportant irregularities or errors in the proceedings under said commission shall not cause the deposition to be excluded where no substantial prejudice can be wrought to the government by such irregularities or errors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1339, ch. 854, § 923.)

§ 23-113 [6: 372]. Sentence—Postponement for appeal.

If a new trial be not granted nor the judgment arrested the court may pronounce sentence upon the party convicted; but the execution of such sentence shall be postponed for a sufficient time to enable the defendant to prosecute an appeal, on the application of the defendant, if he shall give notice of his intention to appeal from the judgment to the court of appeals. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1339, ch. 854, § 924.)

§ 23-114 [6: 373]. Time of execution of sentence of death.

In case of a sentence of death, the time fixed for the execution of the sentence shall not be considered an essential part of the sentence, and if it be not executed at the time therein appointed, by reason of the pendency of an appeal or for other cause, the court may appoint another day for carrying the same into execution. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 926.)

§ 23-201 [6: 361]. Offenses that may be joined.

An indictment for larceny may contain a count for obtaining the same property by false pretenses, a count for embezzlement thereof, and a count for receiving or concealing the same property, knowing it to be stolen or embezzled, or any of such counts, and the jury may convict of any of such offenses, and may find any or all of the persons indicted guilty of any of said offenses. NOTES TO DECISIONS

FALSE PRETENSES AND EMBEZZLEMENT

A general verdict of guilty on an indictment containing counts for false pretenses and embezzlement is inconsistent, and the rule "to the effect that in a criminal case a general judgment * * * of guilty on each count, cannot be reversed on error if any count is good and is sufficient to support the judgment does not apply." Davis v. United States (37 App. D. C. 126). See also Fulton v. United States (45 App. D. C. 27) and cases there cited.

LARCENY AND EMBEZZLEMENT

It is not error to refuse to require the government to elect between larceny and embezzlement counts where the same evidence is relied on to support both counts. Means v. United States (62 App. D. C. 118, 65 Fed. (2d) 206).

§ 23-202 [6: 362]. Description of money—Sufficiency of proof.

In every indictment, except for forgery, in which it is necessary to make an averment as to any money or bank bill or notes, United States Treasury notes, postal and fractional currency, or other bills, bonds, or notes, issued by lawful authority and intended to pass and circulate as money, it shall be sufficient to describe such money, bills, notes, currency, or bonds simply as money, without specifying any particular coin, note, bill, or bond; and such allegation shall be sustained by proof that the accused has stolen or embezzled any amount of coin, or any such note, bill, currency, or bond, although the particular amount or species of such coin, note, bill, currency, or bond be not proved. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1338, ch. 854, § 916.)

§ 23-203 [6: 363]. Indictment for intent to defraud—Sufficiency—Proof.

In an indictment in which it is necessary to allege an intent to defraud, it shall be sufficient to allege that the party accused did the act complained of with intent to defraud, without alleging an intent to defraud any particular person or body corporate; and on the trial of such an indictment it shall not be necessary to prove an intent to defraud any particular person, but it shall be sufficient to prove a general intent to defraud. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1338, ch. 854, § 917.)

§ 23-204 [6: 364]. Indictment for perjury—Sufficiency.

In every information or indictment to be prosecuted against any person for wilful and corrupt perjury, it shall be sufficient to set forth the substance of the offence charged upon the defendant, and by what court, or before whom the oath was taken (averring such court, or person or persons, to have a competent authority to administer the same) together with the proper averment or averments to falsify the matter or matters wherein the perjury or perjuries is or are assigned; without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration, or any part of any record or proceeding either in law or equity, other than as aforesaid; and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court, or person or persons before whom the perjury was committed; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. (23 Geo. II, ch. 11, § 1; Kilty's Rept. p. 252; Alex. Brit. Stat. 766.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1. It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

§ 23-205 [6: 365]. Indictment for subornation of perjury—Sufficiency.

In every information or indictment for subornation of perjury, or for corrupt bargaining or contracting with others to commit wilful and corrupt perjury, it shall be sufficient to set forth the substance of the offence charged upon the defendant, without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration, or any part of any record or proceeding either in law or equity, and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court, or person or persons before whom the perjury was committed, or was agreed or promised to be committed; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. These are therefore to command you to enter (here describe the place) and there diligently search for the said articles, goods, or chattels in the said affidavit described, and that you bring the same, or any part thereof, found on said search and also the body of _____ before the police court, or United States commissioner, as the case may be, to be dealt with and disposed of according to law." (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1337, ch. 854, § 911; Apr. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 199, ch. 72, § 3.)

ESPIONAGE ACT

There is nothing in the Espionage Act which makes it inapplicable in the District of Columbia and search warrant may be issued where property is used as means of committing felony. Nuckols v. United States (69 App. D. C. 120, 99 Fed. (2d) 353).

PROBABLE CAUSE

"Probable cause" exists for a search warrant if affiant has reasonable grounds at the time of his affidavit and the issuance of the warrant for the belief that the law was being violated on the premises to be searched, and if the apparent facts set out in the affidavit are such that a reasonably discreet and prudent man would be led to believe there was a commission of the offense charged *Herson v. Chapter 4.—FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE

Sec.

- 23-401. Extradition.
- 23-402. When associate justice may act.
- 23-403. Detention of fugitives from justice—Warrants for apprehension.
- 23-404. Bail—When allowed.
- 23-405. Commitment when bond not given—Forfeiture of bond.
- 23-406. Discharge of prisoner if not demanded by return day—Future commitment.
- 23-407. Major and superintendent of police to give notice of apprehension.
- 23-408. Period of detention.
- 23-409. Voluntary return—Bond for appearance in demanding state.
- 23-410. Removal proceedings and returns to foreign countries not repealed.

In all cases where the laws of the United States provide that fugitives from justice shall be delivered up, the Chief Justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall cause to be apprehended and delivered up such fugitive from justice who shall be found within the District, in the same manner and under the same regulations as the executive authorities of the several States are required to do by the provisions of sections 5278 and 5279, title 66, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, "Extradition" (U. S. C., title 18, §§ 662, 663), and all executive and judicial officers are required to obey the lawful precepts or other process issued for that purpose, and to aid and assist in such delivery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 930.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ARREST IN DIFFERENT STATE

Defendant indicted in State of Pennsylvania for obtaining money under false pretenses, arrested in District of Columbia upon warrant issued under this section on requisition of Governor of Pennsylvania, was remanded to custody of the agent of the State of Pennsylvania. Barrett v. Bigger (57 App. D. C. 81, 17 Fed. (2d) 669).

BURDEN OF PROOF

If the extradition papers make out a prima facie case, the burden of proving absence from the State is on petitioner. Levy v. Splain (50 App. D. C. 31, 267 Fed. 333). See also Ellison v. Splain (49 App. D. C. 99, 261 Fed. 247).

DETENTION OF ACCUSED PERSON

"An accused person may be held a reasonable time to await the preparation and transmission of extradition papers from the demanding State." Stallings v. Splain (49 App. D. C. 38, 258 Fed. 510).

DUTIES OF CHIEF JUSTICE

This section expressly confers upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court (District Court of the United States) of the District authority to act in requisition proceedings. Hill v. Dorsey (57 App. D. C. 305, 22 Fed. (2d) 1003).

Chief Justice acts in extradition matters in an executive capacity. Reed v. Colpoys (69 App. D. C. 163, 99 Fed. (2d) 396).

EVIDENCE OF GUILT

To justify commitment for extradition there must be evidence to prove guilt of the accused. Foster v. Goldsoll

FINDING OF TRIAL JUDGE

If evidence is conflicting as to presence of defendant in demanding state, the finding of the trial judge will not be disturbed on appeal. Jackson v. Snyder (54 App. D. C. 23, 293 Fed. 842).

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

"To be a fugitive from justice, in the sense of the act of Congress regulating the subject under consideration, it is not necessary that the party charged should have left the state in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, after an indictment found, or for the purpose of avoiding a prosecution anticipated or begun, but simply that, having within a State committed that which by its laws constitutes a crime, when he is sought to be subjected to its criminal process to answer for his offense he has left its jurisdiction and is found within the territory of another." DePoilly v. Palmer (28 App. D. C. 324), quoting with approval from Roberts v. Reilly (116 U. S. 80, 29 L. Ed. 544, 6 Sup. Ct. 291), and citing Hayes v. Palmer (21 App. D. C. 450).

If petitioner offers proof showing with precision that he left the demanding state before the commission of the alleged crime "it would then devolve upon the person detaining him 'to show that he was a fugitive from justice by producing evidence that he was in the state at the time charged in the indictment, or to prove that said date had been erroneously charged and could be carried back to the necessary time.'" Levy v. Splain (50 App. D. C. 31, 267 Fed. 333), citing Hayes v. Palmer (21 App. D. C. 450).

HABEAS CORPUS

On habeas corpus, where there is no claim that the extradition papers are not regular on their face, there is but one question open for investigation, namely, whether petitioner was in demanding state at the time the crime charged was committed. Levy v. Splain (50 App. D. C. 31, 267 Fed. 333); Watts v. Splain (51 App. D. C. 129, 277 Fed. 335).

When indictment charged conspiracy on a certain day without a continuando, the accused in extradition proceeding should be discharged on habeas corpus when he proved he was not in the state when the offense was charged to have been committed. Levy v. Splain (50 App. D. C. 31, 267 Fed. 333).

INDICTMENT

"It is only in cases when it is apparent that the indictment does not charge an offense at all, that another court will pass on it." Wheeler v. Palmer (42 App. D. C. 395).

Indictment need only show that accused was substantially charged with a crime under the law of the demanding state. The legal sufficiency of the indictment as a pleading must be tested in the courts of the demanding state. Webster v. Splain (45 App. D. C. 567), distinguishing Hard v. Splain (45 App. D. C. 1). See also Wheeler v. Palmer (42 App. D. C. 395), citing Lamar v. Splain (42 App. D. C. 300). See also Farr v. Palmer (24 App. D. C. 234); DePoilly v. Palmer (28 App. D. C. 324); Goodale v. Splain (42 App. D. C. 235).

Formal defects in indictment will not prevent removal of petitioners to another district for trial but "if indictment were a mere information, or upon inspection, set forth no crime against United States, or a wholly different crime from that alleged as the basis for proceedings, or if such crime be charged to have been committed in another district from that to which the extradition is sought, the commissioner could not properly consider it as ground for removal." Whitaker v. Hitt (52 App. D. C. 149, 235 Fed. 797, 27 A. L. R. 951).

SHERIFF'S APPLICATION

It is immaterial when sheriff used the wrong gender of prisoner in application to the governor for a requisition on the authorities of the District of Columbia. John v. Splain (50 App. D. C. 201, 269 Fed. 717).

§ 23-402 [6: 378]. When associate justice may act.

Any associate justice of said court shall have like power, in case of the illness, absence, or other disability of the chief justice, or when any such application shall be certified to him by the chief justice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 931.)

Whenever any person shall be found within the District of Columbia charged with any offense committed in any state, territory, or other possession of the United States, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the governor of such state, territory, or possession, any judge of the police court of the District of Columbia, may, upon complaint on oath or affirmation of any credible witness, setting forth the offense, that such person is a fugitive from justice, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the police court, to answer such complaint. (Apr. 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 440, ch. 398, § 1.)

This section is in U. S. C., Title 18, § 669.

If, upon the examination of the person charged, it shall appear to the judge of the police court that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the Chief Justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, he shall, if not charged with murder in the first degree, be required to give bond or other obligation, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum, to appear before said judge of the police court at a future date, allowing thirty days to obtain a requisition from the governor of the state, territory, or possession of the United States from which said person is a fugitive, he to abide the order of such judge of the police court in the premises. Upon the expiration of the term fixed for such probation, the probation officer shall report that fact to the court, with a statement of the conduct of the probationer while on probation, and the court may thereupon discharge the probationer from further supervision, or may extend the probation, as shall seem advisable. At any time during the probationary term the court may modify the terms and conditions of the order of probation, or may terminate such probation, when in the opinion of the court the ends of justice shall require, and when the probation is so terminated the court shall enter an order discharging the probationer from serving the imposed penalty; or the court may revoke the order of probation and cause the rearrest of the probationer and impose a sentence and require him to serve the sentence or pay the fine originally imposed, or both, as the case may be, and the time of probation shall not be taken into account to diminish the time for which he was originally sentenced. (June 25, 1910, 36 Stat. 865, ch. 433, § 4.)

§ 24-105 [6: 428]. Quarters for probation officers—Payment of expenses.

The chief probation officer of each court shall be entitled, for himself and his assistants, to a room in the building occupied by that court, and all necessary stationery and supplies for the transaction of the business of his office, and all the probation officers except volunteer officers shall be entitled to their necessary expenses in performing the duties of their office, under the direction of the court, the amount of the expense for such stationery, supplies, and expenses to be fixed and allowed by the court upon proper vouchers submitted to it by the probation officers, and accounts duly verified by their oath. (June 25, 1910, 36 Stat. 865, ch. 433, § 5; Mar. 4, 1919, 40 Stat. 1325, ch. 122; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265.)

AMENDMENT

The 1910 act contained an additional clause which read, "and for the purpose of this act there is hereby appropriated the sum of five thousand dollars, one-half to be paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated and the other half out of the revenues of the District of Columbia." The 1919 amendment raised this amount stated in said clause to $8,000. The 1923 act is the Classification Act of 1923 (U. S. C., title 5, § 673).

§ 24-201 [6: 451]. Creation of Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole—Duties generally—Rules and regulations—Expenses.

There shall be established in the District of Columbia a Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole for the penal institutions for said District, to consist of three members, residents of said District, to be appointed by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, none of which members shall be officially connected with the prison administration in any other capacity; of the three members first appointed after July 15, 1932, one shall be appointed for three years, one for five years, and one for seven years; thereafter all appointments, except such as may be made for the remainder of unexpired terms, shall be for the term of seven years. It shall be the duty of the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole to examine into the physical, mental, and moral records of the prisoners committed to the penal institutions of the District; receive reports of wardens and other officials, including the psychiatrist; recommend the treatment which, in their opinion, is most conducive to the prisoners' reformation; and provide for a system of determining the proper time of release and the rehabilitation of the ex-prisoner in the community. The board shall adopt rules and regulations for its procedure, subject to the approval of the commissioners of District of Columbia. NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This act does not violate the Fifth Amendment, and is not invalid as a delegation of judicial power to the executive branch of the Government. Sims v. Rives, (66 App. D. C. 24, 84 Fed. (2d) 871, cert. den. 298 U. S. 682, 80 L. Ed. 1402, 56 Sup. Ct. 960); Tomlin v. United States (66 App. D. C. 32, 84 Fed. (2d) 879).

PAROLE BOARD

Authority of the new board and the system of parole which it was to supervise were confined to the penal institutions in the District of Columbia, and only persons therein confined were to be affected. Aderhold v. Lee ((C. C. A. 5), 68 Fed. (2d) 824).

Board pronouncing final judgment was vested by statute with full jurisdiction to determine the question at issue; at which the prisoner was accorded a fair hearing, to which he made no objection; and in which his only complaint is that he was not brought before the board upon a proper warrant. Jarman v. United States ((C. C. A. 4), 92 Fed. (2d) 309).

REMOVAL OF PRISONER FROM DISTRICT

Prisoner sentenced after creation of special parole board for the District could, after federal board was given equal authority over those in District, be removed to penitentiary outside of the District. MacAboy v. Klecka ((D. C. Md.), 22 Fed. Supp. 960).

SENTENCE

Sentence imposed under this act for violation of Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, held valid. Sims v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 24, 84 Fed. (2d) 871, cert. den. 298 U. S. 682, 80 L. Ed. 1402, 56 Sup. Ct. 960).

§ 24-202 [6: 452]. Executive secretary, parole officers and employees—Appointment and duties—Salaries and expenses.

The Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole shall, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, appoint an executive secretary, and parole officers, one of whom may be designated as the chief parole officer, and other employees, in such number as shall be appropriated therefor by Congress from time to time. It shall be the duty of such officers, subject to the discretion and control of said Board, to perform such duties and exercise such authority as the Board may direct. The salaries of said executive secretary, parole officers, and other employees shall be fixed in accordance with the Personnel Classification Act of 1923, as amended. Appropriations are hereby authorized for the payment of the salaries of said executive secretary, said parole officers, and other employees, the actual and necessary traveling expenses of the members of the Board, said executive secretary, and said parole officers, and all other necessary expenses incurred in the administration of sections 24-201 to 24-210. Until appropriations as herein authorized are made therefor, all said salaries and expenses shall continue to be paid out of the appropriations for the penal institutions as now authorized by law. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 697, ch. 492, § 2; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The Classification Act of 1923 is 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265 and U. S. C., Title 5, ch. 13.

AMENDMENT

Prior to the amendment of 1940 this section provided for the appointment of parole officers only, one of whom was to act as the clerk of the board. Salaries and necessary traveling expenses were to be paid out of the appropriation of the penal institution to which assigned and other necessary expenses were to be paid out of the appropriation for the penal institution from which prisoners were paroled.

§ 24-203 [6: 453]. Imposition of indeterminate sentences authorized—Life and death sentences.

In imposing sentence on a person convicted in the District of Columbia of a felony, the justice or judge of the court imposing such sentence shall sentence the person for a maximum period not exceeding the maximum fixed by law, and for a minimum period not exceeding one-third of the maximum sentence imposed, and any person so convicted and sentenced may be released on parole as herein provided at any time after having served the minimum sentence. Where the maximum sentence imposed is life imprisonment, a minimum sentence shall be imposed which shall not exceed fifteen years' imprisonment. Nothing in sections 24-201 to 24-210 shall abrogate the power of the justice or judge to sentence the convicted prisoner to the death penalty as now [June 6, 1940] or hereafter may be provided by law. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 697, ch. 492, § 3; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 2 (a).)

COMPILER'S NOTES

Section 2 (b) of the act of 1940 provided that such act should include the penalty, sentence, or forfeiture for felonies committed prior thereto.

FELONIES COMMITTED PRIOR TO JUNE 6, 1940

Section 9 of the act of June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, provides as follows: "(a) Where a justice or a judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia has imposed or shall impose a life sentence on a prisoner convicted of a felony committed before this amendatory act takes effect such prisoner shall be eligible to parole under the provisions of said act approved July 15, 1932, as amended, after having served fifteen years of his life sentence.

"(b) Where a justice or judge of the District Court of the United States has imposed or shall impose a sentence for a definite term of imprisonment on a prisoner convicted of a felony committed before this amendatory act takes effect, such prisoner shall be eligible to parole under the provisions of said act approved July 15, 1932, as amended, after having served one-third of the sentence imposed."

AMENDMENT

Prior to the 1940 amendment the minimum period was "not exceeding one-fifth of the maximum period fixed by law." The act of 1940 also reworded and changed the order of the second and third sentences, the principal change being that previous to the amendment a person given a life sentence was eligible to parole "after having served fifteen years of his life's sentence."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION OF STATUTE

This act is applicable to persons convicted in the District of Columbia of offenses defined in the general laws of the United States. Sims v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 24, 84 Fed. (2d) 871, cert. den. 298 U. S. 682, 80 L. Ed. 1402, 56 Sup. Ct. 960).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

The Indeterminate Sentence Act applies to convictions in the District for offenses defined in the general laws of the United States, and thus applied is constitutionally valid. Farnsworth v. Zerbst ((C. C. A. 5), 98 Fed. (2d) 541).

CRIME COMMITTED BEFORE PASSAGE OF ACT

Indeterminate Sentence Act held not applicable where crime of grand larceny was committed before passage of that act. De Benque v. United States (66 App. D. C. 36, 85 Fed. (2d) 202, 106 A. L. R. 839, cert. den. 298 U. S. 681, 80 L. Ed. 1402, 56 Sup. Ct. 960, reh. den. 299 U. S. 620, 81 L. Ed. 457, 57 Sup. Ct. 6).

MEANING OF INDETERMINATE SENTENCE

An indeterminate sentence is one for the maximum period imposed by the court, subject to termination by the Parole Board at any time after service of the minimum period. Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

SECOND-DEGREE MURDER

Indeterminate Sentence Act is inapplicable to second-degree murder and the existing statute providing a penalty of imprisonment for life or for not less than 20 years remains in effect. Anderson v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 174, 85 Fed. (2d) 673).

SENTENCES

Where the first sentences imposed under Indeterminate Sentence law were void, since the said statute was by its own terms inapplicable, the passing of the term did not deprive the court of power to resentence. De Benque v. United States (66 App. D. C. 36, 85 Fed. (2d) 202), 106 A. L. R. 839.

This provision brings the described sentences, although not indeterminate ones, within the new scheme by treating one-fifth thereof as the equivalent of the minimum in an indeterminate sentence and may include prisoners sentenced before the date of the act if imprisoned in the institutions under the jurisdiction of the board, but it does not extend the board's jurisdiction to prisoners in other institutions nor require their return to the District although convicted there before the act was passed. Aderhold v. Lee ((C. C. A. 5), 68 Fed. (2d) 824).

As maximum sentence on each count was 3 years, and as it did not exceed the maximum of 10 years fixed by law, and when minimum sentence on each of four counts was 2 years, the sentence therefore did not exceed one-fifth of the maximum period fixed by law of 10 years and was not in violation of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole law. United States ex rel. Bracey v. Hill ((C. C. A. 3), 77 Fed. (2d) 970); Bracey v. Zerbst ((C. C. A. 10), 93 Fed. (2d) 8).

Sentence fixing a maximum of 12 years conformed with the act, as did the minimum period of 3 years, being for a minimum period not exceeding one-fifth of the maximum period fixed by law. McDonald v. Johnston ((C. C. A. 9), 86 Fed. (2d) 329).

§ 24-204 [6: 454]. Parole authorized—Conditions—Custody—Reports.

Whenever, within the limitations of section 24-203, it shall appear to the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole, from the reports of the prisoner's work and conduct which may be received in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed, and from the study and examination made by the board itself, that any prisoner serving an indeterminate sentence is fitted by his training for release, that there is a reasonable probability that such a prisoner will live and remain at liberty without violating the law, and in the opinion of the board such release is not incompatible with the welfare of society, said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole may, in its discretion, authorize the release of such prisoner on parole, and he shall be allowed to go on parole, outside of said prison, and in the discretion of the board to return to his home, or to such other place as the board may indicate, upon such terms and conditions, including personal reports from said paroled prisoner, as said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole shall prescribe, and to remain, while on parole, in the legal custody and under the control of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized representative until the expiration of the maximum of the term or terms specified in his sentence, without regard to good-time allowance, and the said board shall in every parole fix the limits of the residence of such person paroled: Provided, however, That the conditions prescribed and the residential limits may be thereafter changed or modified as the board in its judgment may determine. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 697, ch. 492, § 4; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1940 inserted the words "or to such other place as the board may indicate," after the words "return to his home;" substituted the Attorney General or his representative in place of superintendent of the institution as the party to have control of the paroled prisoner; substituted "without regard to the good-time allowance" for "less such good-time allowance as is, or may hereafter be, provided by law," and substituted the proviso clause for "which limits, however, may be thereafter changed in the discretion of the board."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION OF BOARD

A prisoner may be released from imprisonment before he has served the maximum period of his sentence, less lawful good-time allowance, only in the discretion of the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole. De Benque v. United States (66 App. D. C. 36, 85 Fed. (2d) 202), 106 A. L. R. 839.

PRISONERS CONFINED OUTSIDE DISTRICT

Same privileges of parole are accorded to prisoners sentenced in the District of Columbia and committed to penal institutions outside of the District as to those sentenced and confined within the District. Bracey v. Hill, ((D. C.-Pa.), 11 Fed. Supp. 148).

§ 24-205 [6: 455]. Violation of parole—Warrant—Arrest—Return to confinement.

If said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole, or any member thereof, shall have reliable information that a prisoner has violated his parole, said board, or any member thereof, at any time within the term or terms of the prisoner's sentence, may issue a warrant to any officer hereinafter authorized to execute the same for the retaking of such prisoner. Any officer of the District of Columbia penal institutions, any officer of the Metropolitan Police Department of the District of Columbia, or any federal officer authorized to serve criminal process within the United States to whom such warrant shall be delivered is authorized and required to execute such warrant by taking such prisoner and returning or removing him to the penal institution of the District of Columbia from which he was paroled or to such penal or correctional institution as may be designated by the Attorney General of the United States. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 698, ch. 492, § 5; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

Prior to the 1940 amendment the second sentence of this section provided for the execution of the warrant by any officer of the penal institution from which the prisoner was paroled or by any Federal officer authorized to serve criminal process and provided for such execution by "taking such prisoner and returning him to said penal institution."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CRIME COMMITTED WHILE ON PAROLE

Petition for writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that petitioner's confinement after expiration of his sentence was illegal, was denied where petitioner had committed a crime while on parole, and the judge imposing the second sentence had no power to make it and the unexpired portion of the first sentence run concurrently. Hammer v. Huff (71 App. D. C. 246, 110 Fed. (2d) 113).

JAIL SENTENCE WHILE ON PROBATION

When probationer was actually serving a jail sentence while on probation with respect to another sentence, even in jail, he was subject to the conditions of the probation and by its terms he was to refrain from violation of law. Burns v. United States (287 U. S. 216, 77 L. Ed. 266, 53 Sup. Ct. 154).

PARTIES INTERESTED

Defendant who had not been paroled or retaken on warrant was not in a position to challenge the validity of this section under the Fourth Amendment. Sims v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 24, 84 Fed. (2d) 871, cert. den. 298 U. S. 682, 80 L. Ed. 1402, 56 Sup. Ct. 960).

§ 24-206 [6: 456]. Revocation of parole after retaking—Hearing—New parole.

At the next meeting of the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole held after the issuing of a warrant for the retaking of any paroled prisoner, said board shall be notified thereof, and if such prisoner shall have been returned to the institution, he shall be given an opportunity to appear before said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole, and the said board may then, or at any time in its discretion, revoke the order and terminate such parole or modify the terms and conditions thereof, and if such order of parole be revoked and the parole so terminated the said prisoner shall serve the remainder of the sentence originally imposed, the unexpired term of imprisonment of any such prisoner to begin to run from the date he is returned to the institution, and time the prisoner was out on parole shall not be taken into account to diminish the time for which he was sentenced: Provided, That the parole board, at its discretion, may afterwards grant a new parole to said prisoner, in the event said board should deem it advisable.

In the event said prisoner is removed to a penal or correctional institution designated by the Attorney General, the Board of Parole, created by sections 723a to 723c, Title 18, U. S. Code, shall have and exercise the same power and authority over such prisoner as the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole would have had such prisoner been returned to a penal institution of the District of Columbia, including the power to revoke his parole. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 698, ch. 492, § 6; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 5.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1940 added the last paragraph.

§ 24-207 [6: 457]. Repeal provision.

All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of sections 24-201 to 24-208 are hereby repealed: Provided, however, That for any felony committed before July 15, 1932, the penalty, sentence, or forfeiture provided by law for such felony at the time such felony was committed shall remain in full force and effect and shall be imposed, notwithstanding sections 24-201 to 24-208. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 698, ch. 492, § 7.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PRISONERS CONFINED OUTSIDE DISTRICT

Parole board under Indeterminate Sentence Act had no jurisdiction over prisoners convicted of murder in the District of Columbia, but confined in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. Aderhold v. Lee ((C. C. A. 5), 68 Fed. (2d) 824, revg. 5 Fed. Supp. 950, cert. den. 292 U. S. 633, 647, 78 L. Ed. 1486, 1498, 54 Sup. Ct. 718, 861).

REPEAL

This section was intended to repeal those provisions of existing acts requiring the imposition of a definite, as distinguished from an indeterminate, sentence. Anderson v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 174, 85 Fed. (2d) 673).

§ 24-208 [6: 458]. Powers of prior board transferred—Application of law to prisoners sentenced before parole law became effective.

Upon the appointment of the members of said board, the powers of the existing parole board on July 15, 1932, over prisoners confined in the penal institutions of the District of Columbia shall cease and determine and all the powers of said existing parole board under the authority of sections 714-723c, Title 18, U. S. Code, over said prisoners confined in the penal institutions of the District of Columbia shall be transferred to and vested in said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole: Provided, however, That in the case of any prisoner convicted of two or more crimes other than a felony, including violations of municipal regulations and ordinances and acts of Congress in the nature of municipal regulations and ordinances, when the aggregate of the sentences imposed is in excess of one year, said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole may parole said prisoner, under the provisions of sections 24-201 to 24-210, after said prisoner has served one-third of the aggregate sentence imposed. (July 15, 1932, 47 Stat. 698, ch. 492, § 9; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 7 (a).)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Subsection (b) of section 7 of the 1940 amendment provided as follows: "In the case of a prisoner convicted of misdemeanors committed prior to the effective date of this amendatory act [June 6, 1940], when the aggregate sentence imposed is in excess of one year, and in the case of a prisoner convicted of felony committed prior to the effective date of said act approved July 15, 1932, said Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole may parole said prisoner under the provisions of said act approved July 15, 1932, as amended, after said prisoner has served one-fifth of the sentence imposed."

AMENDMENT

The act of 1940 amended the proviso clause. Prior thereto the proviso clause contained provisions substantially the same as § 7 (b) of the 1940 act. See the Compiler's Note above.

§ 24-209 [6: 459]. Federal Parole Board—Authority over United States prisoners convicted in the District of Columbia and elsewhere.

The Board of Parole created by section 723a of Title 18, U. S. Code, shall have and exercise the same power and authority over prisoners convicted in the District of Columbia of crimes against the United States and now or hereafter confined in any United States penitentiary or prison (other than the penal institutions of the District of Columbia) as is vested in the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole over prisoners confined in the penal institutions of the District of Columbia. (July 15, 1932, ch. 492, § 10, as added, June 5, 1934, 48 Stat. 880, ch. 391.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The 1934 act purported to amend the 1932 act, cited to the text of the other sections of this chapter, by adding this section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

There is no doubt that Congress intended the act to be applicable to persons convicted in the District of Columbia of crimes against the general laws of the United States. Sims v. Rives (66 App. D. C. 24, 84 Fed. (2d) 871).

This section gives to the United States Board of Parole the same power and authority over prisoners convicted in the District of Columbia of crimes against the United States as is vested in the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole. Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

PRISONER CONFINED OUTSIDE DISTRICT

This act is not inconsistent with the authority of the Attorney General to transfer prisoners from the District of Columbia. Bracey v. Hill ((D. C.-Pa.), 11 Fed. Supp. 148).

The same privileges of parole are accorded prisoners sentenced in the District of Columbia and committed to penal institutions outside of the District as to those sentenced and confined within the District. Bracey v. Hill ((D. C.-Pa.), 11 Fed. Supp. 148).

This section removes the question whether a defendant, who was sentenced in the District of Columbia, could be committed to a penal institution outside of the District because of the deprivation of parole. Bracey v. Hill ((D. C.-Pa.), 11 Fed. Supp. 148).

One sentenced for violation of the laws of the District of Columbia, convicted and confined in District, could be confined outside the District, and such confinement does not violate any constitutional rights. MacAbo v. Klecka ((D. C.-Md.), 22 Fed. Supp. 960).

RELEASE OF PRISONERS NOT ON PAROLE

Neither this section nor §§ 24-201 to 24-208 have any bearing upon the release of prisoners other than on parole, and neither restricts in any way the power of the United States Board to supervise prisoners so released from institutions other than in the District under the provisions of section 4 of the act of June 29, 1932 (U. S. C., title 18, § 716b). Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

RELEASE OF PRISONERS ON PAROLE

This act constituted an extension of power in the United States Board over District of Columbia prisoners in that it permitted the board to release such prisoners on parole from non-District institutions after serving only one-fifth of their maximum terms. Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

UNITED STATES PRISONER

Prisoner sentenced for violation of the laws of the District of Columbia is a "United States prisoner" within the meaning of U. S. C., title 18, § 716b. MacAboy v. Klecka ((D. C.-Md.), 22 Fed. Supp. 960).

Chapter 3.—INSANE CRIMINALS

Sec.

24-301. Certification of insane criminals to Secretary of the Interior—Confinement—Expense—Right of appeal.

24-302. Commitment of persons becoming insane while serving sentence.

24-303. Restoration to sanity.

§ 24-301 [6: 374]. Certification of insane criminals to Secretary of the Interior—Confinement—Expense—Right of appeal.

When any person tried upon an indictment or information for an offense is acquitted on the sole ground that he was insane at the time of its commission, that fact shall be set forth by the jury in their verdict; and whenever a person is indicted or is charged by an information for an offense, and before trial or after a verdict of guilty, prima facie evidence is submitted to the court that the accused is then insane, the court may cause a jury to be impaneled from the jurors then in attendance on the court or, if the regular jurors have been discharged, may cause a sufficient number of jurors to be drawn to inquire into the insanity of the accused, and said inquiry shall be conducted in the presence and under the direction of the court. If the jury shall find the accused to be then insane, or if an accused person shall be acquitted by the jury solely on the ground of insanity, the court may certify the fact to the Secretary of the Interior, who may order such person to be confined in the hospital for the insane, and said person and his estate shall be charged with the expense of his support in the said hospital. The person whose sanity is in question shall be entitled to his bill of exceptions and an appeal as in other cases. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 927; Apr. 14, 1906, 34 Stat. 113, ch. 1624.)

AMENDMENT

The 1906 amendment inserted the words "or information" and the words "or is charged by an information."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL FROM COMMITMENT TO ST. ELIZABETHS

Appeal from commitment to St. Elizabeths Hospital under this section held moot in view of the fact that petitioner had been determined by a jury to be of sound mind and had been released from the hospital. Savage v. White (56 App. D. C. 365, 14 Fed. (2d) 352).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

"There can be no reasonable objection to the validity of the provision of this section. It makes ample provision for the inquiry which is conducted with due regard to the protection of the defendant." Wagner v. White (38 App. D. C. 554).

This section has been held constitutional and valid in a case where defendant had been convicted, but not sentenced. Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

DISCRETION OF COURT

"Whether a prima facie case has been made by the petitioner requiring submission of the issue (of insanity) to a jury is a question submitted to the sound discretion of the trial judge." Gonzales v. United States (40 App. D. C. 450).

Refusal of trial court to submit to a jury the question of defendant's mental responsibility was not an abuse of its discretion, where there had never been any suggestion that he should be restrained of his liberty because of insanity, and where at his trial it did not appear and was not suggested that he was not fully and entirely responsible from a mental standpoint. Jackson v. United States (58 App. D. C. 125, 25 Fed. (2d) 549).

RELEASE AFTER COMMITMENT

Insane person, found not guilty of homicide by reason of insanity, and committed to asylum, must prove sanity and that he is no longer a menace, to obtain release. Barry v. White (62 App. D. C. 69, 64 Fed. (2d) 707).

§ 24-302 [6: 375]. Commitment of persons becoming insane while serving sentence.

Any person becoming insane while undergoing a sentence of any court of the District of Columbia for crime may, in like manner, be committed to said hospital for the insane, by order of the Secretary of the Interior, to receive the same treatment as other patients during the continuance of his disorder. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 928.)

§ 24-303 [6: 376]. Restoration to sanity.

When any person confined in the hospital for the insane, charged with crime and subject to be tried therefor or undergoing sentence therefor, shall be restored to sanity the superintendent of the hospital shall give notice thereof to the justice holding the criminal court and deliver him to the court according to its proper precept. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1340, ch. 854, § 929.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HABEAS CORPUS

"But we find in this section nothing that precludes the right of the prisoner to have a judicial inquiry made into the fact of restoration to sanity," and he may apply for a habeas corpus in the event that the superintendent refuses to certify to his restoration to sanity. Wagner v. White (38 App. D. C. 554).

PRISONER CONVICTED BUT NOT SENTENCED

This section has been construed to include one convicted of crime but not yet sentenced. Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

When any person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months the court may direct that such imprisonment shall be either in the workhouse or in the jail. When any person is sentenced for a term longer than six months and not longer than one year such imprisonment shall be in the jail, and where the sentence is imprisonment for more than one year it shall be in the penitentiary. Cumulative sentences aggregating more than one year shall be deemed one sentence for the purposes of the foregoing provision. When the punishment of an offense may be imprisonment for more than one year the prosecution shall be in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. When the maximum punishment is a fine only or imprisonment for one year or less the prosecution may be in the police court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1341, ch. 854, § 934.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CUMULATIVE SENTENCES

Under this section cumulative sentences aggregating more than one year must be deemed one sentence for the purpose of determining the place of imprisonment. Kelleher v. United States (59 App. D. C. 107, 35 Fed. (2d) 877).

The purpose of the cumulative sentence provision was merely the adoption of a policy that District of Columbia prisoners sentenced for more than a year should serve time in a penitentiary rather than in the District jail, at least when the sentence was imposed by the district court. Brosius v. Botkin (72 App. D. C. 279, 114 Fed. (2d) 22).

Sentences for two separate offenses, each for a term from six months to a year, were properly served in a reformatory in Virginia. Brosius v. Botkin (72 App. D. C. 279, 114 Fed. (2d) 22).

FEDERAL CRIMES

Intention of Congress was that the trial judge should be invested with the power to designate the type of penal institution in which persons convicted of Federal crimes should be confined. Andreas v. Clark ((C. C. A. 9), 71 Fed. (2d) 908).

HARD LABOR

When defendant had been tried upon an information in the juvenile court of the District and sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for six months, the statute authorizing such punishment was unconstitutional, and juvenile court was without jurisdiction to try capital or other infamous crimes. United States v. Moreland (258 U. S. 433, 66 L. Ed. 700, 42 Sup. Ct. 368, 24 A. L. R. 992).

Police court will not sentence to imprisonment in any institution where hard labor is lawfully required of the prisoners therein because such a sentence would place the offense itself within the category of infamous crimes and thereby oust the court of its jurisdiction. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

IMPRISONMENT IN DEFAULT OF FINE

"The provision relating to cumulative sentences 'has no reference to a sentence to pay a pecuniary fine, followed by imprisonment in default of payment, but relates only to cases in which the punishment is to be imprisonment.'" Hartranft v. Mullowny (43 App. D. C. 44, writ of error dismissed. 247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, 38 Sup. Ct. 518).

PROBATION

District Court had no power to release defendant on probation after he had entered upon the execution of his sentence when he was committed to jail to await transportation to the final place of imprisonment. Moss v. United States ((C. C. A. 4), 72 Fed. (2d) 30).

SENTENCE BEFORE REPEAL OF EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

When person was committed to jail before Eighteenth Amendment and Prohibition Act were repealed, he was not entitled to discharge by habeas corpus on theory that each day in prison was a new and distinct offense. Rives v. O'Hearne (64 App. D. C. 48, 73 Fed. (2d) 984).

SUCCESSIVE IMPRISONMENTS

Sentences are not cumulative "merely because two imprisonments are made successive in point of time, if it happen that the prisoner convicted upon two separate informations receives two separate definite sentences for the two separate offenses." Harris v. Lang (27 App. D. C. 84). See also Harris v. Nixon (27 App. D. C. 94).

TERM EXCEEDING ONE YEAR

"Section 934 (this section) provides generally that where the sentence on any conviction is for a term exceeding one year the imprisonment shall be in the penitentiary, and applies to section 810 (§ 22-2901) as directly as if it had been incorporated therein." United States v. Evans (28 App. D. C. 264).

§ 24-402 [6: 402]. Sentence of prisoners to jail, reformatory, or penitentiary for more than one year—Jurisdiction of Commissioners over prisoners in reformatory—Transfer of prisoners from penitentiary to reformatory.

Whenever any person has been convicted of crime in any court in the District of Columbia and sentenced to imprisonment for more than one year by the court, the imprisonment during the term for which he may have been sentenced or during the residue of said term may be in some suitable jail or penitentiary or in the reformatory of the District of Columbia; and it shall be sufficient for the court to sentence the defendant to imprisonment in the penitentiary without specifying the particular prison or the reformatory of the District of Columbia and the imprisonment shall be in such penitentiary, jail, or the reformatory of the District of Columbia as the Attorney-General shall from time to time designate: Provided, That the commissioners of the District of Columbia are vested with jurisdiction over such male and female prisoners as may be designated by the Attorney-General for confinement in the reformatory of the District of Columbia from the time they are delivered into their custody or into the custody of their authorized superintendent, deputy, or deputies, and until such prisoners are released or discharged under due process of law: And provided further, That the residue of the term of imprisonment of any person who has prior to July 1, 1916, been convicted of crime in any court in the District of Columbia and sentenced to imprisonment for more than one year by the court may be in the reformatory of the District of Columbia instead of the penitentiary where such persons may be confined on July 1, 1916, and the Attorney-General, when so requested by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, is authorized to, and he shall, deliver into the custody of the superintendent of said reformatory or his deputy or deputies any such person confined in any penitentiary in pursuance of any judgment of conviction in and sentence by any court in the District of Columbia, and the commissioners of the District of Columbia are vested with jurisdiction over such prisoners from the time they are delivered into the custody of said superintendent or his duly authorized deputy or deputies, including the time when they are in transit between such penitentiary and the reformatory of the District of Columbia, and during the period they are in such reformatory or until they are released or discharged under due process of law. The Attorney-General shall pay the cost of the maintenance of said prisoners so transferred, said payment to be from appropriations for support of convicts, District of Columbia, in like manner as payments are made for the support of District convicts in federal penitentiaries. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as applying to the National Training School for Boys or the National Training School for Girls. (Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 711, ch. 433.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is a proviso clause in the appropriations act of September 1, 1916. The following words were also contained therein, "The provisions of this paragraph shall take effect on and after July first, nineteen hundred and sixteen."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

Act giving Attorney General power to designate places of confinement for Federal prisoners does not violate Fifth Amendment. Stewart v. Johnston ((C. C. A. 9), 97 Fed. (2d) 548).

FEDERAL INSTITUTIONS

This section implicitly recognizes the fact that District of Columbia prisoners may be incarcerated in Federal institutions. Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

Prisoner released on parole by Federal parole board as a matter of discretion but Congress adopted a new procedure of conditional release because it realized that society would be better served if prisoners were subjected to the same supervision as parolees. Story v. Rives (68 App. D. C. 325, 97 Fed. (2d) 182).

PENAL OR CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS

A sentence to serve a term in a penal institution could not be served in a correctional institution, except under authority given to the Attorney General to transfer prisoners. Wilson v. Aderhold ((C. C. A. 5), 84 Fed. (2d) 896).

PLACE OF IMPRISONMENT

Attorney General was duly authorized to designate the prison where a defendant was sentenced in the courts of the District of Columbia to imprisonment exceeding one year, and his designation was in proper form. (Decided under D. C. 1901, § 925). Myers v. Morgan ((C. C. A. 8), 224 Fed. 413).

Attorney General, under the broad powers conferred upon him, had authority to cause appellee to be placed and held in the Atlanta penitentiary under any general sentence of imprisonment for more than a year, the court could have imposed. Aderhold v. Edwards ((C. C. A. 5), 71 Fed. (2d) 297).

TRANSFER OF PRISONERS

Transfer of inmates of Atlanta penitentiary who are eligible to parole, to an institution in District of Columbia, can not be required by the courts. Aderhold v. Lee ((C. C. A. 5) 68 Fed. (2d) 824, cert. den. 292 U. S. 633, 78 L. Ed. 1486, 54 Sup. Ct. 718).

Attorney General has authority to change the place of confinement from a Federal penitentiary to a local jail, when it is proper to do so, in the exercise of his discretion, and it is not necessary that a prisoner be remanded to the trial court merely for the purpose of having the designation of the jail changed. Cox v. McConnell ((C. C. A. 5), 80 Fed. (2d) 258).

In imposing sentences, courts are restricted to specifying the type of institution in which the prisoner is to be confined and he is committed to the custody of the Attorney General, who designates the place of confinement, and the Attorney General may transfer any prisoner from one institution to another for any reason sufficient to himself. Zerbst v. Kidwell ((C. C. A. 5), 92 Fed. (2d) 756).

Section 753f of U. S. C., title 18, if it is in any respect inconsistent with this section (§ 24-402), is so only to the extent that it broadens the Attorney General's authority so that he may designate a place of confinement other than one of the District of Columbia. Beard v. Bennett (72 App. D. C. 269, 114 Fed. (2d) 578).

§ 24-403 [6: 403]. Transfer of prisoners from jail to workhouse.

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, the Attorney-General, and the superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail, when so requested by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, shall deliver into the custody of the superintendent or the authorized deputy or deputies of said superintendent of the workhouse, male and female prisoners sentenced to confinement in said jail for offenses against the common law or against statutes or ordinances relating to the District of Columbia, and, in the discretion of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and the Attorney-General, male and female prisoners serving sentence in said jail for offenses against the United States, for such work or services as may be necessary, in the discretion of the commissioners of said District, in connection with the construction, maintenance, and operation of said workhouse, or the prosecution of any other public work at said institution or in the District of Columbia: Provided, That, on the direction of said commissioners, male and female prisoners confined in any existing workhouse existing on March 2, 1911, or in the Washington Asylum and Jail of the District of Columbia shall be delivered into the custody of said superintendent or the authorized deputy or deputies of said superintendent aforesaid, to perform similar work or services to those hereinbefore required of male and female prisoners serving sentences in the District of Columbia Jail: Provided further, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby vested with jurisdiction over such male and female prisoners from the time they are so delivered into the custody of said superintendent or the duly authorized deputy or deputies of said superintendent, including the time when such prisoners are in transit between the District of Columbia and the site acquired for such workhouse, and during the period such prisoners are on such site or in the District of Columbia until they are released or discharged under due process of law. (Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1002, ch. 192.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EFFECT OF STATUTORY PROVISION

Provision of the statute authorizing transfer to the workhouse by direction of the commissioners was attached by law to the sentence, and had the same effect as if the court, under statutory authority, had expressed in the sentence that the convict might be transferred to the workhouse under order of the commissioners. Whittaker v. Brannan ((C. C. A. 4), 252 Fed. 556).

HABEAS CORPUS

District Court had jurisdiction to issue habeas corpus writ, for petitioner was committed by a court of the District to a jail of the District under the control of an official of the District who in turn was personally within the District and within the jurisdiction of the court. Sanders v. Allen (69 App. D. C. 307, 100 Fed. (2d) 717).

§ 24-404 [6: 404]. Commutation of fine.

In all cases in the District of Columbia where a defendant is sent to jail or to the workhouse in default of the payment of a fine he shall be released upon the payment of the balance of the fine due by him after crediting thereon as paid an amount equal to the proportion the time thus served by him in the jail or workhouse bears to the whole time he was to serve under the sentence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1341, ch. 854, § 936.)

§ 24-405 [6: 405]. Deduction for good conduct—Discharge.

All persons sentenced to and imprisoned in the jail or in the workhouse of the District of Columbia, and confined there for a term of one month or longer who conduct themselves so that no charge of misconduct shall be sustained against them shall have a deduction upon a sentence of not more than one year of five days for each month; upon a sentence of more than one year and less than three years, six days for each month; upon a sentence of not less than three years and less than five years, seven days for each month; upon a sentence of not less than five years and less than ten years, eight days for each month; and upon a sentence of ten years or more, ten days for each month, and shall be entitled to their discharge so much the earlier upon the certificate of the superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail for those confined in the jail, and upon the certificate of the superintendent of the workhouse for those confined in the workhouse, of their good conduct during their imprisonment. When a prisoner has two or more sentences the aggregate of his several sentences shall be the basis upon which his deduction shall be estimated. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1341, ch. 854, § 937; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 10.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1911 act combined as one institution, known as the Washington Asylum and Jail, the jail of the District of Columbia and the Washington Asylum, and created the position of Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail and vested in him the powers theretofore vested in and exercised by the warden of the former jail and the superintendent of the former Washington Asylum.

Prior to the 1940 amendment this section provided only for a deduction of five days each month; provided that the Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail should furnish the certificate for those confined in the workhouse; provided for the approval of the judge making the commitment; and required the judge to make a notation of such discharge on his docket. The 1940 amendment also added the last sentence.

The superintendent and all other employees of each of the institutions enumerated in section 24-409 shall be appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia upon nomination by the Board and shall be subject to discharge by the Commissioners upon recommendation of the Board. (Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, § 7.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

This section as compiled in the 1929 code, was a consolidation of the acts of March 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192 and March 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, § 6, without using the language of either act.

The act of March 16, 1926, by § 15, repealed all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith. This would repeal inconsistent provisions of the act of Mar. 2, 1911, but this act in 36 Stat. 1003 contained the following provision which is probably still in force, "Said superintendent shall give bond to the District of Columbia for faithful performance of the duties of his office, as are now (March 2, 1911) or may hereafter be prescribed, in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with surety or sureties to be approved by the commissioners."

The 1911 act also contains the following provision: "All the duties, discretion and powers now vested in and exercised by the warden of the jail of said District and the Superintendent of the present Washington Asylum are hereby transferred and vested in the superintendent herein provided for."

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 24-409.

§ 24-412 [6: 412]. Employment of prisoners.

Persons sentenced to imprisonment in the jail may be employed at such labor and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Board of Public Welfare and the proceeds thereof applied to defray the expenses of the trial and conviction of any such person. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1379, ch. 854, § 1192; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, § 6.)

AMENDMENT

The 1926 act provides that the Board of Public Welfare shall have complete and exclusive control and management of the Washington Asylum and Jail, and provides further, in § 15 thereof, for the repeal of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith. In accordance therewith, the words "Supreme Court of the District," as contained in the 1901 act, are deleted and the words "Board of Public Welfare" inserted in lieu thereof.

§ 24-413 [6: 413]. Commitment by marshal.

Nothing in sections 24-412, 24-415 shall be construed to impair or interfere with the authority of the marshal of the District to commit persons to the jail or to produce them in open court or before any judicial officer when thereto required. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1379, ch. 854, § 1193.)

§ 24-414 [6: 414]. Delivery of prisoners to marshal.

It shall be the duty of the superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail to receive such prisoners and to deliver them to the marshal or his duly authorized deputy, on the written request of either, for the purpose of taking them before any court or judicial officer, as provided in section 12-413. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1379, ch. 854, § 1194; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192.)

AMENDMENT

The word of the 1901 act, "warden," has been deleted and the words "superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail" inserted in lieu thereof by the 1911 act.

CROSS REFERENCE

See compiler's note to § 24-411.

§ 24-415 [6: 415]. Superintendent of Washington Asylum and Jail accountable for safe-keeping of prisoners.

The superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail shall be accountable for the safe-keeping of all prisoners legally committed thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1379, ch. 854, § 1191; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, § 6.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1901 act provided "The warden shall have exclusive supervision and control of the jail of the District and shall be accountable for the safe-keeping of all prisoners legally committed thereto, and shall have all the power and discharge all the duties legally exercised and discharged over said jail and prisoners prior to the twenty-ninth day of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, by the marshal of the District."

The first part of this 1901 section has been repealed by § 15 of the 1926 act, which act vested complete and exclusive management of the Washington Asylum and Jail in the Board of Public Welfare (see § 24-409). The duties provided have been transferred to the Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail by the 1911 act (see compiler's note to § 24-411).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPOINTMENT

Defendant is superintendent by virtue of an appointment from the Commissioners of the District, and under his direction and control are the jail building itself and all other buildings used in connection with it, including the hospital building, where the plaintiff was received. All the subordinates of the superintendent receive their appointments from the Commissioners themselves, and are not subject to discharge by the superintendent. Zinkhan v. District of Columbia (50 App. D. C. 312, 271 Fed. 542).

BOND

Office of warden was abolished and a new office created, viz the office of Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail, under appointment by the Commissioners of the District, and such officer's bond was required to be given to the District. Touching this bond there is no statutory provision that allows action thereon to be brought by a third party. District of Columbia v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (50 App. D. C. 309, 271 Fed. 383).

§ 24-416 [6: 416]. Annual report by Superintendent of Washington Asylum and Jail.

The superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail shall annually, in the month of November, make a detailed report to the Attorney-General. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1379, ch. 854, § 1197; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192.)

§ 24-417 [6: 417]. Superintendent required to execute judgments in capital cases—Failure of Congress to make specific appropriation not abolition of position or repeal of authority.

The Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail appointed by the commissioners of the District of Columbia is hereby directed, authorized, and required to execute the judgments of the law prior to March 4, 1923, pronounced and thereafter to be pronounced in the District of Columbia by the courts thereof in all capital cases, and the power prior to March 4, 1923, given to and now vested in such commissioners to appoint such superintendent and all appointments to the position of such superintendent made by such commissioners are hereby ratified and confirmed; and any failure on the part of Congress, either prior to or after March 4, 1923, to make a specific appropriation for the salary or compensation of such superintendent shall not be construed either as an abolition of such position of Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail or as a repeal of the power and authority of such commissioners to appoint such superintendent. (Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1533, ch. 292.)

§ 24-418 [6: 429]. Sale of products of workhouse and reformatory.

The commissioners are authorized, under such regulations as they may prescribe, to sell the surplus products of the workhouse and the reformatory. All moneys derived from such sales shall be paid into the treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and to the credit of the District of Columbia, in the same proportions as the appropriations for such institutions are paid from the treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia. All moneys received at the reformatory as income thereof from the sale of brooms to the various branches of the government of the District of Columbia shall remain available for the purchase of material for the manufacture of additional brooms to be similarly disposed of. (June 5, 1920, 41 Stat. 869, ch. 234; Feb. 28, 1923, 42 Stat. 1357, ch. 148.)

§ 24-419 [6: 430]. Workhouse—Reformatory—Superintendents and all other employees—Appointment—Discharge—Supervision of Board of Public Welfare.

The superintendents and all other employees now engaged on March 16, 1926, in the operation of the institutions enumerated in section 24-409 shall thereafter be subject to the supervision of the Board. Each superintendent shall have the management and control of the institution to which he is appointed and shall be subordinate to the director of public welfare. The superintendent and all other employees of each of the institutions enumerated in section 24-409 shall be appointed by the commissioners of the District of Columbia upon nomination by the board and shall be subject to discharge by the commissioners upon recommendation of the board. (Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, § 7.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section as compiled in the 1929 code, was a consolidation of the acts of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 786, ch. 385), and of March 16, 1926 (44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, §§ 6 and 7), without using the language of either act.

The act of March 16, 1926, by § 15, repealed all acts and parts of acts inconsistent therewith. This would repeal inconsistent provisions of the act of June 25, 1910, but this act in 36 Stat. 786 contained a sentence authorizing the Commissioners to "require bond from such superintendent for the faithful performance of his duties."

§ 24-420 [6: 431]. Grounds of jail increased.

The buildings and grounds adjoining the Washington Asylum in the District of Columbia, used prior to June 16, 1880, as a Naval and Army magazine are added to the grounds of the Washington Asylum and Jail and subjected to the control of the commissioners of the District of Columbia as part of the asylum until otherwise ordered. (June 16, 1880, 21 Stat. 270, ch. 235; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192.)

AMENDMENT

The 1911 act merged the asylum and jail into one institution.

§ 24-421 [6: 432]. Subsistence of prisoners—Payment by Attorney General.

There shall be allowed and paid by the Attorney-General for the subsistence of prisoners in the custody of any marshal of the United States and the Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail in the District of Columbia such sum as it reasonably and actually costs to subsist them. And it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General to prescribe such regulations for the government of the marshals and the Superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail in the District of Columbia in relation to their duties under this chapter as will enable him to determine the actual and reasonable expenses incurred. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1204; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1003, ch. 192; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 209, ch. 58, §§ 6 and 7.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1911 act merged the asylum and jail into one institution, the Washington Asylum and Jail.

The 1926 act provided for the appointment of the superintendent thereof (see § 24-411).

§ 24-422 [6: 433]. Maintenance of jail—Support of prisoners—Apportionment between United States and District of Columbia—Estimates to be submitted.

All expenses incurred for maintenance of the jail of the District of Columbia and for support of prisoners therein shall be paid out of the revenues of the District of Columbia, and estimates for such expenses shall each year be submitted in the annual estimates for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia. (Aug. 18, 1894, 28 Stat. 417, ch. 301; June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, the basis for various sections of the code which provide for 60% payment by the District of certain expenses, was repealed by the act of May 16, 1938 (52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8), adding title X to the act of August 17, 1937 (50 Stat. 673, ch. 690). This repealing act does not provide any substitute provision, and consequently the aforesaid sections are left without foundation in the statutes. The 1922 act, p. 671, contains a provision repealing all prior inconsistent acts, and, therefore, the prior acts which were the bases for these various sections no longer apply. The division of expenses between the District and the United States, if any, is apparently controlled by specific statutes or appropriation acts. If there is no division it would seem that the District would pay all expenses, if any, over and above the lump-sum appropriation as apportioned to the various agencies.

§ 24-423 [6: 434]. Cost of care of District of Columbia convicts charged against District—United States reimbursed—Miscellaneous receipts.

The United States shall be reimbursed, as herebefore, for the maintenance of District of Columbia inmates, and all sums paid by such District for such maintenance for the service of the fiscal year 1927 and subsequent fiscal years shall be covered into the treasury as "Miscellaneous receipts." (Apr. 29, 1926, 44 Stat. 347, ch. 195, title II.)

STATUTORY REFERENCE

This section is U. S. C., title 18, § 704a.

§ 24-424 [6: 435]. Cost of care of District of Columbia convicts charged against District—Accounts.

The cost of the care and custody of District of Columbia convicts in any federal penitentiary shall be charged against the District of Columbia in quarterly accounts to be rendered by the disbursing officer of said penitentiary; and the amount to be charged against the District of Columbia shall be ascertained by multiplying the average daily number of District of Columbia convicts confined in the penitentiary during the quarter by the per capita cost for all prisoners in such penitentiary for the same quarter but excluding expenses of construction or extraordinary repair of buildings. (Mar. 3, 1915, 38 Stat. 869, ch. 75, § 1.)

§ 24-425. Place of imprisonment—Designation by Attorney General—Transfer.

All prisoners convicted in the District of Columbia for any offense, including violations of municipal regulations and ordinances and Acts of Congress in the nature of municipal regulations and ordinances, shall be committed, for their terms of imprisonment, and to such types of institutions as the court may direct, to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized representative, who shall designate the places of confinements where the sentences of all such persons shall be served. The Attorney General may designate any available, suitable, and appropriate institutions, whether maintained by the District of Columbia Government, the federal government, or otherwise, or whether within or without the District of Columbia. The Attorney General is also authorized to order the transfer of any such person from one institution to another if, in his judgment, it shall be for the well-being of the prisoner or relieve overcrowding or unhealthful conditions in the institution where such prisoner is confined, or for other reasons. (July 15, 1932, ch. 492, § 11, as added June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. —, ch. 254, § 8.)
